Foreword

This book is about the descendants of Simon Stacy who lived in Virginia during the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries. The family was of English origin and the progenitor left a life of poverty in the English countryside for Virginia in 1667 to begin a five-year career as an indentured servant. Simon Stacy was an aggressive opportunity-seeker who earned his way to land ownership in the tumultuous days of the early colonial period. Every generation of his descendants migrated further into the wilderness of the American frontier in the pursuit of cheaper and more bountiful land. Along the way, they left their name on numerous villages and towns, geographic features and bodies of water in the American South, and wrote their stories into the histories of the United States as some of the first people to realize the American dream.

Despite preferring thinly populated rural locales, the Stacys seemed to have a knack for being present when history was being made. The clan's founder had been indentured to a gentleman planter who would later serve time in jail for stirring up insurrection in Virginia; Simon had also been present during one of Maryland's most turbulent periods and was briefly, and perhaps accidentally, caught up in a rebellion against the Lord Proprietor. Later in life he became a founder of Yorktown, Virginia, site of the final battle of the Revolution, and his grandchildren would be acquainted with the esteemed Lee, Marshall and Washington families of Virginia. Of particular note is the Stacy clan's dive into poverty during the mid-18th century that made them familiar faces in court; during their most difficult period they were an unruly lot that had the odd distinction of appearing in court with or sometimes against some of most important figures in colonial Virginia.

Though the family barely survived the hardships of the 17th century—having only two living males to carry on the name in 1720—they came back strong in the 18th, forming two distinct branches that quickly filled out with numerous shoots. The Stafford County branch, the larger of the two, lived in a hotbed of revolutionary sentiment in the Potomac River watershed and counted among their neighbors numerous founding fathers of the United States, including John Marshall, Richard Henry Lee, Daniel Morgan and George Washington. The York County branch seem to have largely vanished from history during the early 19th century, with a few descendants moving on to Kentucky and Tennessee. During the War for Independence, several members of both branches took up arms, most of them to fight for independence. Some, such as Simon Stacy Jr. of Sussex County, Virginia (1742–1778) gave their lives. In Part I, I attempt to tell their story, with some historical context so the reader might make sense of their decisions and have a better understanding of who they were and what they experienced.

In Part II, I chart the descendants of Simon Stacy down to the generation born around the year 1800, or roughly, the great-great grandchildren of the immigrant. I laid out the family to that point to focus solely on the colonial Stacys and dispel a number of common errors I have seen in various genealogies. The migration of the Virginia Stacys to Tennessee, Kentucky, South Carolina began in the years following the American Revolution, so it made sense to stop with this migrating generation since genealogists with better knowledge of individual lines can pick up easily enough after 1800.

The Stacy family is reasonably well documented during the colonial period, but confusion inevitably results from repetitive naming conventions, repeated migrations, and the scarcity of vital records. This has led to a proliferation of wildly conflicting theories, most of them poorly sourced and perpetuated without much analysis. Surprisingly, there has never been a book on this particular family to serve as a single, reliable resource for genealogists, and it's clear that one is badly needed. My goal with this book is to create a definitive resource for genealogists of the Stacy family of colonial Virginia that is impeccably sourced, useful, enlightening and an enjoyable read.

Along the way, I've sought to clear up confusion and dispel a number of erroneous theories and misidentifications. For example, some genealogists have combined four or five different John Stacys into a single person, even though one of them was from all the way up in Massachusetts. Others have mixed up relatives from entirely different family groups or mis-assigned their parents. Some even appear to have invented completely fictitious ancestors. Given the large number of Simon, Peter, George, John, Benjamin, Jesse, Shadrach and similarly named Stacys in the 18th and 19th centuries, confusion is virtually guaranteed. I've done my best to parse out these different individuals and explain my decisions for linking people the way they are in the notes for each.

Figuring out how the westward migration-era Stacys (c.1782–c.1850) are related to each other is a daunting, and somewhat speculative task given the scarcity of frontier records. Generally, I have gone with the assumption that Stacy men that appear in census or land records within the same county in Kentucky or Tennessee are related to each other, likely brothers if from the same generation and with only one male from the previous generation in the county. Often these men appear to be neighbors in census records, which supports this approach. Even considering relationships somewhat loosely, I ended up with a number of “orphaned” Stacys—those that appear in records that are almost certainly related to us but cannot be definitively linked into any particular family group. Rather than speculate too wildly about who they are, I've left some work for future researchers. Good luck!

While the Kentucky-Tennessee “Bluegrass” Stacys are confusing enough, the long-standing mystery surrounding the identity of Robert Stacy and George “Stacey” of South Carolina is even more vexing. Though Robert at least was reportedly from Virginia, their parentage has never been proven, with seemingly no baptism, marriage, military service, will or other records to shed light on their origin or the identities of their parents. This has led frustrated genealogists to confuse Robert with his well-documented cousin of the same name from York County. As I will illustrate, Robert and George are likely brothers, and this confusion evidently resulted from the early death of their father, George Stacy (c.1736–1767), and the remarriage of their mother to their landlord, Charles Littlejohn (c.1732–1824), and his subsequent migration to South Carolina. In Part II, I provide a number of proofs, including DNA evidence, to show that this was almost certainly the case.

Genealogists may find some family lines in Part II appear incomplete compared to other versions they may have encountered. My general philosophy in writing this book is that it is better to have incomplete than inaccurate information. To avoid perpetuating the inaccuracy of much of the research online, I constructed these genealogies exclusively with three types of sources:

1. Original documentation: microfilm or photographed copies of colonial documents that I have personally seen, including court records, family bibles, census records, tax lists, wills, probate records, land records, gravestones, burial records, etc.
2. Transcribed documentation: transcripts of original documents coming from general books or genealogy database sites, including Familysearch.org and Ancestry.com. These are occasionally subject to error but are generally reliable.
3. Historically reliable sources: Published family histories in actual books or major Stacy genealogy sites that are known to host original research and have reliable transcriptions of original documents as well as detailed notes on theories and explanations. Of particular note is www.combs-families.org

While I considered online genealogies as a starting point, no Ancestry.com family trees, websites, blogs, GEDCOMs, newsletters or other sources were used for this book unless I was able to re-source every fact independently. Information was not added unless I could verify the probability of any facts, claims or assumptions being accurate. Adhering rigidly to original or transcribed documentation is the only way to prevent errors from being perpetuated. There have been some cases where researchers have claimed to have access to a document such as a family bible that no one else has ever seen. I have generally taken a leap of faith and included facts or dates taken from these mystery sources, even if I haven't seen them or a proper transcript myself. Wherever relevant, I've noted the source in the genealogies. But if information was not evidently derived from an original source, it was not used to construct the facts, dates, names or relationships included in either the narratives or genealogies in this book. Unsourced information that may be of interest to the reader—such as speculation about maiden names by other researchers that I have not found an argument or origin for—will be mentioned in the notes of each entry in the genealogy. I have also included the research notes, explanations and theories of original researchers, particularly those from combs-families.org, wherever relevant.

Genealogists are usually familiar with the Gregorian/Julian calendar date change that occurred in 1752 in English-speaking countries. Prior to that date, the new year began on March 25. Many western European countries shifted the new year back to January 1 in the 16th century, prompting the use of “dual dates” to reduce inevitable confusion. Many documents and tombstones from the period include double dates such as “March 24, 1661/2.” For simplicity’s sake, I preserved throughout this book all pre-1752 dates as originally written. To translate to the modern calendar, add 11 days for any date, and an additional year for dates before March 25. So August 22, 1741 would become September 2, 1741 and February 5, 1751 would become February 16, 1752.

I cannot of course claim this work to be error free, only that it represents the best evidence I have gathered during more than twenty years of research. Colonial genealogy is notoriously difficult, due to the scarcity of surviving records, and many relationships can only be inferred from circumstantial evidence. In a sense, genealogy is a game of probability, where you are forced to deduce the likelihood of a theory’s accuracy from the available evidence; that deduction can often prove accurate, even if it is mathematically imprecise. Generally, if I believe there is enough evidence from original sources to convince an impartial jury that a theory is correct, it is formally included in the genealogy itself. Possible alternate, unproven or speculative theories are included within the notes of the genealogies. I invite every current and future Stacy genealogist to challenge my research, question my conclusions, and of course build upon it if it is found to be reliable.

Always remember that this isn’t merely a hobby. The genealogist is the historian of the common man, and it is the genealogist’s function to grant life to those pioneering souls whom the passing of centuries would have otherwise swept away into anonymity. Whether you are a researcher or just a reader, in discovering these long-dead souls you are, in a sense, bringing them back to life.

Every descendant of Simon Stacy is indebted to Barbara Stacy Mathews Worthington (often referred to in the notes here as “BSM”). One of the earliest genealogists of this family, Barbara ran a Stacy newsletter from at least the early 1990s and brought Simon Stacy genealogy online in 1997 with the Stacy Journal (www.otn.net/stacy). Most of the theories online about this family came from Barbara’s pioneering research. After citing her research for nearly twenty years, I decided to take a look back through her work and retrace her steps by referring back to the original documents. While I found the vast majority of it to be sound, there were also places I disagreed with her findings, and I have made changes accordingly. But most of her work was strong, logical, and stands the test of time.

Though the Stacy Journal only survived three years, much of Barbara’s work remains preserved on www.combs-families.org which as of publication has been up and running for more than twenty years. It preserved some very early Stacy research, and remains one of the most valuable resources on the Kentucky-Tennessee migrant Stacys and associated families such as Ashby and Combs.

A number of other genealogists have made important contributions to our understanding of the Stacy family over the last two decades, including Becky Madruga who pioneered Stacy DNA research and published the Stacy Family Newsletter in 2005–2008; Steve Stacey, the expert on the George Stacy Alabama lines; Temple Q. Simmons, who graciously had photographic enhancements on the Robert Stacy bible done; Bob Hill, the primary researcher for the Hill-Stacy family; John D. McMullen, who has done some excellent Robinson-Stacy research; Jenny Rasmusson, who has put together a tremendous body of work on Peter Stacy of Fayette County, Pennsylvania; and my dad, Keith Stacy, whose knowledge of the Gaffney, South Carolina Stacys is unrivaled. There are innumerable others. Where I have used their transcriptions and considered their theories, I have cited them throughout the genealogies in Part II.

Also providing invaluable resources are the Library of Virginia and the Library of the Daughters of the American Revolution in Washington D.C., in whose stacks I sat for quite a few hours tracking this family from county to county in colonial Virginia. And of course, the big three of internet genealogy: Ancestry.com, Familysearch.org and Findagrave.com, three of the best online databases known to man.

Chapter I: The English & Early American Stacys

The English family name Stacy is of Anglo-Norman origin, having been derived from the French given name Eustace, which was exported to England following the Norman Conquest of 1066. Eustace is derived from one of two Byzantine Greek words: Eustakios, meaning “fruitful” or more literally “full of grain” and Eustathios meaning “stable” or “steady.”

The earliest known bearers of the name in England were invaders from Northern France who had been granted land in the South of England; Eustace II, Count of Boulogne, who fought with William the Conqueror at the Battle of Hastings and was later immortalized in the Bayeux Tapestry; and the lesser-known Eustace, Sheriff of Huntingdon. Both were named in the Domesday Book as major landholders in and around Huntingdonshire.

Eustace II, Count of Boulogne (c.1020–c.1087)

Eustace accompanied Duke William to England in September 1066 during the latter's invasion of England. William had previously held the English king, Harold Godwinson, captive after he had been shipwrecked off the coast of Normandy, forcing him to swear an oath supporting his claim to the English throne. Godwin departed and was crowned following the death of his brother-in-law, Edward the Confessor, in January 1066. William quickly began assembling allies and supplies in a bid to overthrow Harold.

The armies of King Harold and William of Normandy met at Senlac Hill, Hastings, on October 14, 1066. At the height of the battle, William had fallen from his horse; according to an account by William of Poitiers, Eustace encouraged the Duke to flee as the men were faltering, thinking William dead. This prompted William to famously remove his visor to prove he was still living. Shortly thereafter, Eustace himself was struck so hard between the shoulders that he vomited blood and had to be carried away from the battle “more dead than alive.” The battle was commemorated in the famous Bayeux Tapestry. Some historians believe Eustace commissioned the piece for William, in part because Eustace is the only one of William's supporters named in the Tapestry who is not a blood relative.

Eustace was granted numerous lands by King William all over the south of England. In the Domesday book, Eustace was named lord or tenant in chief of dozens of English towns primarily in Essex, but with a number of fiefdoms in Somerset and the remainder scattered among other counties. The Domesday book indicates he was the tenth richest landholder in England in 1086.

His property was later confiscated following a revolt in September 1067, during which the ambitious Eustace assisted Kentishmen in an attempt to seize Dover Castle, Eustace having possibly been motivated by a desire to reclaim the valuable coastal lands formerly belonging to his late first wife. He was later reconciled to King William, and was back in control of his fiefs at his death in 1087. His son Eustace III inherited his titles and married a daughter of the king of Scotland; their daughter Matilda would become Queen Consort of England as wife of King Stephen during "the Anarchy"-- a civil war between Stephen and his cousin that ended with the death of his son, Eustace, in 1153. Eustace's son Godfrey of Bouillon led the First Crusade and conquered Jerusalem in 1099, leaving the throne to his younger brother, Baldwin I. Godfrey, who died in 1100, was named as one of the "Nine Worthies"-- men thought to best embody the ideals of chivalry in the Middle Ages--alongside Charlemagne, King Arthur, King David, Alexander the Great and Julius Caesar. He remains one of the most important figures of the middle ages and is even mentioned in The Divine Comedy as a saintly figure seen by Dante in Paradise. The descendants of Eustace II would rule Jerusalem until 1186.

While it is tempting to claim descent from so colorful and prominent a historical figure, no reliable connection between the Count of Boulogne and anyone named Stacy has ever been established, with nearly two centuries lapsing between the Count's death and the appearance of the Stacy surname in England. The Counts of Boulogne seem to have remained in France or Jerusalem following the Norman Conquest, leaving subordinates to govern their properties in England. It should also be noted that historical work on Eustace II, such as in Ancestral Roots of Certain American Colonists Who Came to America Before 1700 show extensive pedigrees but make no mention of any Stacy descendants.

Viscount Eustace de Lovetot, Sheriff of Huntingdon (d. after 1086)

The second Eustace in England is less well documented, although reports of his supposedly tyrannical behavior were recorded by medieval monks. Eustace, Sheriff of Huntingdon, also known as Eustace de Lovetot, was evidently a Viscount from Louvetot, Seine-Maritime, Normandy. He first appears as a major landowner of Huntingdon and Northampton in the Domesday Book (1086). There are indications in the Domesday Survey that he punished subordinate landowners by seizing their property and deeding it back to Anglo Saxons. The Domesday even shows Countess Judith of Lens, niece of William the Conqueror, complaining of his land seizures. Perhaps to atone for his alleged misdeeds, he (or a descendant of the same name) founded the Priory of St. Mary in the early 12th century and left the church well-funded.<sup>1</sup>

Eustace was succeeded by his son, William de Lovetot, Lord of Hallamshire, and the family remained prominent landholders in the vicinity until the main line died out by 1181. Around the year 1204 the property passed by marriage to Gerard de Furnival, whose descendants became the next Lords of Hallamshire. The Furnivals, who also originated in Normandy, had a coat of arms that were remarkably similar to arms later used by the Stacy family of Ballifield Hall in Handsworth, Yorkshire, which was part of Hallamshire. The primary difference in the Stacy arms was the addition of fleur de lis after 1520 following intermarriage with the Ely family. It is possible that the earliest Stacy progenitors in Yorkshire were descended from the Furnival-Lovetot family and ultimately named for the 11th century Sheriff of Huntingdon, but this remains unproven.

There may have been a second Eustace de Lovetot who, according to some accounts, founded the Church of St. Mary's in Huntingdon around 1140 and in the 1150s moved a priory of Black Canons, founded before 973 and dedicated to St. Mary, to a different part of the town of Huntingdon. This Eustace is probably too late to be the same man named in the Domesday Book nearly six decades earlier. He is not named in the official Lovetot genealogies, so there remains some confusion about his identity.<sup>2</sup>

While these examples represent the earliest and most prominent men named Eustace in England, there were probably hundreds of English Eustaces in the first two centuries after the Norman conquest. In the 12th century there appears in records Eustace, son of Geoffrey of the Duchy of Lancaster; Eustace, son of William Cade (1163–66 Lancaster); a Eustace in Gatesbury; Eustace de Witha (1163), Eustace, Bishop Elect of Ely (1198), among scores of others.<sup>3</sup>

Earliest Appearances of Stacey and Stacius

The name “Stacey” first appears not as a surname but as a place name in England in 1199, when the hundred of Barton Stacey was granted by King John to Rogo de Sacy (died before 1206) of Hampshire in southern England and afterwards remained in the possession of the lords of the manor of Barton Stacey. Rogo was a Norman from Saussay, near Rouen, France, who spent very little time in England and fought alongside King Richard in the Third Crusade in the 1190s. In this unusual case, “Stacey” seems to be a liberal interpretation of the French “Saussay.”<sup>4</sup>

“Stacius,” a Latinized form of Eustace, made several early appearances in the 12th and 13th centuries. The earliest example of the given name Stacius appeared in the Cartularium Monasterii, St. John the Baptist de Colecestria, Essex in 1147–1165; Stacius de Hant appears in the Pipe Rolls of Gloucester in 1186–1187; In 1285–86, Stacius, brother of Hamo de Kyngeswode, as well as a Stacius Mayheu were named in documents related to Canterbury Cathedral; Eustace the

The Surname Stacy

According to The Oxford Dictionary of Family Names in Britain and Ireland, the name “Stace” appeared in the lexicon as a pet form of Eustace, with “Stacy” being a diminutive of Stace. The connection is shown via the early bearer Staci de Gynes of London in 1292, who was still called “Eustace” as late as 1299. The “y” may have appeared due to a French tendency to accent the ending “e.”

These Stace/Stacy derivatives of Eustace began evolving into proper surnames in the mid-13th century after the advent of personal taxation. The earliest surviving record of the Stacy surname in the British National Archives is one William Staci who was named witness in a Rent Remission in Clapham, Sussex, dated September 29, 1266. Probably the same William Stacy later witnessed a document with someone named “Eustace the Miller,” also in Clapham. A Walter Stace was a witness in Totnes, Devonshire in 1269; A Robertum Staci was named in a document of September 15, 1270, in Eynsham, Oxfordshire and a William Stacy appears in a rent roll of Devonshire in 1275. The scarcity and geographic breadth among these earliest records suggests the surname likely had multiple points of origin among commoners or minor gentry in southern England.

By the 14th century, the appearance of the Stacy surname increases rapidly in records, as far west as Devonshire, as far north as Yorkshire and as far east as Essex. Most bearers of the name seem to be commoners, with a few named as gentlemen, clergymen, clerks, lawyers, and other minor landowners, with some branches enjoying connections to the Plantagenets: In 1381 a Richard Stacy, porter of the king's household, was mentioned in a petition to the king; A John Stacy (d.1395) was prebendary of Leighton-Buzzard, Bedfordshire and Cofferer of the Household to King Richard II, making him one of the king's closest advisors;<sup>6</sup> Another John Stacy was made archdeacon of Buckinghamshire in 1390; possibly the same man was called “Sir John Stacy,” indicating he had been knighted, around the same period in Lincolnshire.<sup>7</sup>

Other variants included Stace, Stacey, Stasy, Stacie, and the original Eustace, with variants Eustis and Eustice. The name also made an appearance in Ireland following the Norman invasion in the mid-12th century.

Notable Medieval Families

Given the geographic and economic diversity of bearers of the Stacy name from the 13th century on, it is unlikely the name had a singular, noble origin. There are however a handful of medieval Stacy clans of minor gentry who bore the name from at least the early 14th century.

It's worth noting the Oxford Dictionary of Surnames of England and Ireland does note that the name seems to be concentrated in the West Riding of Yorkshire. A county-level analysis of baptism records in England between 1538 and 1600 shows the greatest number of Stacy births occurring in Yorkshire, with Cambridgeshire and Huntingdonshire as very close runners-up. This cursory evidence seems to point at Ballifield Hall as perhaps the most significant, if not the oldest, origin point for the English Stacys.

Ballifield Hall, Handsworth Parish, Yorkshire

According to the book The Ely, Revell and Stacye Families, the family of Stacy or Stacey were minor gentry seated at Ballifield Hall, Parish of Handsworth, in the West Riding of Yorkshire bordering Derbyshire, certainly from about the year 1330 to the end of the 19th century. The Familiae Minorium Gentium, Vol. 40, notes Ballifield Stacys reported they had been in Handsworth since the Norman Conquest. A nearby branch called the Handsworth-Woodhouse Stacys also lived there from at least 1625. The book reports there were also several “obscure families” called Stacy in the area.

The Lord of Handsworth, Yorkshire in the Domesday Book was Richard of Sourdeval and the tenant in chief was Robert, Count of Mortain (half-brother of William the Conqueror). If the Stacys of Ballifield had the property as far back as the Norman Conquest, it may have come as an indirect inheritance from Richard of Sourdeval (c.1023–1090), who held part of the estates of Count Robert. The parish of Handsworth passed from the Sourdevals to the Paynels and eventually the Lovetot family, who may have consolidated the property with their Huntingdon inheritance from Eustace de Lovetot; around the year 1200, it ended up with the Furnivals. As described in The Ely, Revell and Stacye Families, there is some heraldic evidence that the Furnivals may have been progenitors to the Stacy and Eustace clans of Yorkshire:

The Arms of the Stacyses, as given in Burke's General Armory, are Azure, a fesse between three martlets, or charged with three fleurs de lis. These arms have never been recorded at the College of Arms, but that may also be stated of the arms of other ancient families in England. The earliest mention of Stacy arms omits the fleurs de lis and are somewhat similar to the early arms used by the ancient family of Furnival, Lords of Hallamshire, which included Ballifield. This family was descendants of the Viscount Eustachius of the Domesday period. These arms differed from those of Stacy only in the number of martlets and the use of the bend instead of the fesse, a common difference. There was also a family of Eustace, which used the same arms as the Furnivals. In Scotland, the Ross Herald, Joseph Stacie, bore arms: Azure, on a bend, or, between three owls as many thistles. These characters and colors also correspond with the English arms.

The Stacy arms featured three martlets, a restless bird that has useless feet and requires continuous flight, typically used on arms by a fourth son of a noble family, who had to make his own way in life. It may be a remembrance of the fact that someone in the Stacy family was a younger son who had to acquire the family's property by his own volition.

When exactly the Stacys came into possession of Ballifield is unclear. The original bearer of the surname in Yorkshire is unknown; History of the Stacy Family in England and Bucks County, Pennsylvania notes a post-mortem inquisition in Yorkshire for a Johis Stacy in the year 1293. Other clues suggest the family was in Yorkshire during the reign of Edward II (1307–1327). In the records of the Franciscans at Scarborough, Yorkshire, about fifty miles east of Ballifield, is an inscription in Latin, which translated, reads:

The most illustrious Lord and King Edward the Second and Reginald, called Molendinarius, were the families of the house of the Brothers Minor of Scarboroughe. Here are the tombs of the nobles who were buried in said

Church of the said Brothers. And the first called Reginaldi lies under the great altar in the middle choir, also the Lady Avicia Huthrede, also the Lady Matilda Stacy, also the Lady Agnes de Vesey, also Edward Stacy.

This inscription may record the earliest Yorkshire Stacys, though any connection to Ballifield can only be conjectured.

Yorkshire Arch. Journal, Vol. 12, mentions that in 1366 John Stacy de Balifield and John de Synderhill, were witnesses to a deed. Synderhill was a part of the Ballifield estate and held by the Stacys. This is the first evident mention of Ballifield, so it may have been recently established at the time. Very soon thereafter, Stacys begin appearing in Yorkshire records: In 1369 William Stacy, chaplain, was granted land in Yorkshire. In 1377 a Johannes (John) Stacy appeared in a poll tax in West Riding, Yorkshire, and a Robert Stacium appeared there in the poll tax of 1379.

The Ballifield Stacys played a significant role in the history and development of Quakerism in the 17th century. The book Quaker Studies, Vol. 8 No. 2 notes that Thomas (1619–1687), Robert (b. 1631) and Elizabeth Stacy of Ballifield were part of a small group of Yorkshire radical puritans who converted to Quakerism upon encountering George Fox in December 1651. Quaker meetings were held at Cinder Hill and Thomas Stacy's house beginning in 1654. As the movement grew in Yorkshire it was absorbed into the larger Balby Monthly Meeting by 1669. The Stacys were described as a “mainstay of the Meeting” at Balby.

Mahlon Stacy (1638–1704) a younger brother of Thomas, immigrated to New Jersey in 1678, where he established a Quaker settlement in West Jersey. He was a miller and a tanner and founder of the city of Trenton.

The family continued to inhabit Ballifield Hall until it was lost by a member who sold it to pay debts in the 19th century. It changed hands several times and was left to rot through the latter part of the 20th century. It was finally used to shelter the homeless briefly before being demolished around 2008.

Castle Bytham, Lincolnshire

The Stacys of Lincolnshire may have been an offshoot of the Yorkshire family. In Lincolnshire Pedigrees by Maddison, it is shown that the Stacys of Castle Bytham in Lincolnshire used the same coat of arms as those of Ballifield.

According to the Publications of the Harleian Society, Vol. 52, the Lincolnshire Stacy coat of arms was an “azure, on a fess argent between three birds or as many fleurs-de-lis sable.” They begin the pedigree with John Stacy, Reader of Gray's Inn (British legal association based in London), who was born in the early to mid-16th century and who had sons Alexander, Francis and Clement.

Beyond the published genealogies, the Stacys of Lincolnshire were present long before the 16th century. A William Stacy of Little Carleton, Lancashire, was granted the land at Gayton, Lincolnshire in 1379. Later, his probable son, “Sir John Stacy” of Gayton appears in land conveyance from his mother, “Katherine, wife of William Stacy” in 1398. This John may be the same “Sir John Stacy” who was executor of the will of William Pakington, Archdeacon of Canterbury, in 1389.<sup>8</sup> Pakington was chronicler, clerk and treasurer to Edward the Black Prince, oldest son and heir apparent of King Edward III. A John Stacy was also archdeacon of Buckinghamshire in 1390-91, though his relation, if any, is unknown.

There were other Stacys of minor gentry, including families in Tenterden, Kent, as well as a medieval Stace family of Suffolk. Thomas Stace was bailiff of Ipswich, Suffolk and worked to restore borough rights to local government after a seizure in 1285. He was also ancestor to the poet Geoffrey Chaucer, and his son, Geoffrey de Stace, may have been the poet's namesake.<sup>9</sup>

Early American Stacys

Several Stacys were among the first settlers of the new world.

Robert Stacy of Jamestown was a pioneer of Virginia, serving as a representative of Col. John Martin's plantation to the first General Assembly of Virginia in July 1619. This was the first representative legislature in the Americas; as such, he was one of the very first Americans ever called to serve in a legislative body, though he and another representative from "Martin's Brandon," Thomas Davis, were denied their seats due to a clause in Martin's land patent that exempted him from any laws passed by the Assembly.<sup>10</sup>

The identity or background of this Robert Stacy remains a mystery and no other records name him. He may have been related to a Thomas Stacy of Maidstone, Kent, England, an investor in the Virginia Company circa 1620.<sup>11</sup> This Robert may also be the "Master Stacie," identified by the famous Capt. John Smith as an early Jamestown settler who sought revenge against the Pasbehay Indians in 1610.

A George Stacy was among the first Englishmen to be transported to Virginia, in 1636. He does not appear to have left any descendants.

In 1656, Thomas Stacy of Colchester, Essex, England, was transported to Virginia, settling in Lancaster County where he is named in the records of Christ Church Parish. He died in North Carolina in 1697.<sup>12</sup>

A John Stacy appeared as a grand juror in the court records of York County, Virginia as early as 1657. Josias Stacy, a likely relative, appears there and in Warwick County from 1663 to his death in Charles Parish on May 27, 1691.

Simon Stacy, the clothier (c.1597–1644), founded the Massachusetts branch of the family. Born in Harwich, Essex, England, he immigrated to the Massachusetts Bay colony in 1637 or earlier; on March 2, 1637/8 he was named as “Good man Stace,” and assigned the use of the home lot adjoining that of William Warner. He had married Elizabeth Clerke in London on November 6, 1620 and with her had children Thomas, Elizabeth, Sarah, Susannah, Ann and Simon, all born in Bocking, Essex, England. Their last child, Mary, was born in Ipswich, Massachusetts in 1639. This Simon would be ancestor to Col. William Stacy (1734–1802), the Revolutionary War hero who fought during the siege of Boston and survived capture by loyalists and an attempt to burn him at the stake before being rescued by George Washington, who gave him a snuff box. He later became a pioneer of Ohio.<sup>13</sup>

The principal subject of this book is one Simon Stacy, who was born in the county of Wiltshire shortly before English Civil War and immigrated to Virginia as an indentured servant, founding a large family of Stacys who populated Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee and South Carolina by 1800. While no description of Simon survives, we can surmise from surviving documentation and the general facts of his life that he was focused, ambitious, and resourceful, and many of his descendants had the same traits.

It is nearly certain that Simon emerged from the Stacy family of Wiltshire. Though Stacys are found in records there as far back as the 14th century, the family seemed to have been a small one, of no discernible status or title. Their relationship to the previously noted Stacy families from around England is unknown. Given that Simon and his brother William owned substantial property in Maryland and Virginia, it seems likely they had been employed in agriculture in their native England as well. Agriculture seems to have remained the occupation of virtually every one of his descendants until well into the 19th century.

Simon, his children and grandchildren lived through the brutal early days of colonial Virginia, when oppressive heat, horrible living conditions, backbreaking work and infectious disease often cut lives short. In the upcoming pages is a summary of his life story and a narrative of his immediate descendants. Following that, in Part II is a virtual encyclopedia of evidence and documentation of genealogical relevance spanning more than 300 pages so that the reader can see where the story elements and assumptions given in the narrative are sourced from.

Chapter II: The Life of Simon Stacy (1640–1718)

There was a small Stacy clan in the county of Wiltshire as far back as the reign of Edward III; Richard, William and Henry Stacy were recorded in the Wiltshire tax rolls of 1332. Parish registers were kept across the country beginning in 1538, and the first Stacy record in Wiltshire was the burial of “Jone” (Joan) Stacy in Salisbury in 1563. Until 1600, there were fewer than 20 Stacy christenings in surviving Wiltshire records. Among them was Simon, who was christened January 13, 1580 in Stanton Fitzwarren, near Swindon. The marriage of his parents, Thomas Stacy and Joan Hollman on August 4, 1576 in Stanton Fitzwarren, is the earliest recorded event in the ancestry of Simon Stacy, immigrant to Virginia.

According to parish records, Simon had a son named William, christened on November 23, 1609 in Broad Blunsdon, on the outskirts of Swindon. Simon's fate is unknown; given that no further record of Simon or any other children of his seems to exist, he may have died young. His son William Stacy would later spend at least 15 years in Swindon before and during the English Civil War, while it was a sleepy, hill-top backwater of around 600 farmers, tanners and woolmongers. The little town had a purely barter-based economy, with farmers heading to the markets to trade with artisans during the week.

Wiltshire was a hotbed of Parliamentary sentiment, with much of the county opposed to the rule of Charles I. The king had made his headquarters in nearby Oxford in 1642 and quickly set about seizing towns in Wiltshire to control the principal roads from London to the wealthy ports of Devonshire and Somerset. Swindon remained relatively untouched, but towns just a few miles away such as Marlborough and Aldbourne Chase were devastated by conflict. Some buildings, such as St. Mary's Church in Marlborough, are still pockmarked by bullet and cannon fire.

William Stacy was named as the father in the christening records of six children who were baptized in the Anglican parish of Christ Church, Swindon:

1. William Stacy, christened March 3, 1632.
2. John Stacy, christened April 5, 1635.
3. Simon Stacy, christened April 13, 1640.
4. Elizabeth Stacy, christened February 26, 1642.
5. Richard Stacy, christened February 11, 1644.
6. Abraham Stacy, christened October 14, 1647.

This entry is the original recording of the christening of Simon Stacy, and the first record of his existence:

Found on the baptisms page for the year 1640, it reads: “Simon Stacy ye Sonn of William Stacy was baptized ye xiiiith day of Aprill.”

Their exact birthdates cannot be established, but they likely occurred just a few days earlier. English law at the time stated that baptisms must occur by the Saturday following the birth, and most baptisms are thought to have occurred within about the first three days. This means Simon was likely born during the second week of April, 1640.

The identity of William Stacy’s wife is uncertain. A William Stacy of Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire was married to a Jane Stacy who died in April 1673 and was himself buried in Wootton on January 8, 1694. This couple also had a daughter named Rebeckah who died in March 1674 and an Elizabeth Stacy was buried in Donhead St. Mary in 1689. Given that this 1694 burial is the only burial recorded in Wiltshire of a William Stacy from this time period, it seems likely to be the same William of Swindon. If this is the case, he lived to a ripe old 84 years of age.

Four of the above sons of William Stacy—William, John, Simon and Richard—sought opportunity in the New World.<sup>14</sup> In the mid-17th century, Maryland and Virginia were aggressively seeking out cheap labor for the ever-growing and enormously profitable tobacco industry, and all four Stacy brothers became indentured servants, suggesting they came from humble occupations. At the time, it was likely the best opportunity available to them—much of the land in England

<sup>14</sup> Three of the four Stacy men show evident relations in Maryland colonial records. William is named as an heir to Richard Stacy in his will; William and Simon Stacy are named as debtors in the estate of George Beckwith in 1676; Simon was named guardian of the orphans of Thomas Kemp in 1684, who was named in the probate papers of William Stacy in 1676. had been locked up in vast estates since the Norman Conquest, leaving virtually no hope of ownership for common farmers and laborers. Indentured servitude offered the promise of a parcel of land, often fifty acres or more, in exchange for four to seven years of service. For an impoverished young Englishman who had virtually no chance at owning property in his own country and was too poor to pay his own way to the colonies, indenture held almost unfathomable promise.

Transport to Maryland & Virginia (1661–1670)

William Stacy, who married Elizabeth Potter in Marlborough in June 1656, was likely the first to depart. He and his wife were transported to Maryland in 1661 by Edward Keene; His brother Richard, age 17, was also transported in the spring of 1661 by Gen. Thomas Cornwallis; Their brother John was transported by Henry Hosier of Calvert County in the spring of 1670. All settled in Calvert County, Maryland.

Headright grant to Richard Keene for transport of William Stacy and his wife among other servants from England to Maryland in 1661. This is the first record of the Wiltshire Stacys in the American colonies.

Perhaps out of necessity or expedience, Simon did not immediately go to Maryland. Documents show he was an indentured servant transported to Lancaster County, Virginia during the summer of 1667 by Maj. Robert Beverley, who later became clerk of the House of Burgesses and close friend of Governor Sir William Berkeley.

Beverley, a wealthy landowner from Yorkshire, was called “Virginia’s most inveterate dealer in servants” by historian Thomas Jefferson Wertebaker. Beverley had left England for Virginia following the death of his first wife in 1663 and established himself in Middlesex County, not far from Jamestown, and set about increasing his vast holdings through the importation of servants into the colony.<sup>15</sup> Virginia's vast plantations were starved for labor in these early years, so the royal governor paid a "headright" (a land grant, usually consisting of a few hundred acres) for each servant imported into the colony, to be paid upon the conclusion of the servant's indenture. Beverley transported so many servants he had been awarded nearly 30,000 acres of headright patents during his years in Virginia.<sup>16</sup> Simon likely went to work on the smaller of Beverley's two plantations in Gloucester County, which according to his 1686 will was a 500-acre tract on the south side of the Piankatank River, bordered by Chiskiack Creek and Bayley's Creek (also called Hockaday's Creek or Hockaday's Harbor).

Tidewater Virginia, where Simon Stacy lived, was primarily occupied with the growing of tobacco. By the mid-17th century, Virginia was exporting nearly two million tons to London every year. It was by far the most lucrative crop grown in the colonies, due in large part to the insatiable demand back in Europe, and could net a planter as much as six times the profit of any other crop. Tobacco had some drawbacks: it required the richest possible soil, and drained that soil of minerals and nutrients rapidly, leading to frequent need for crop rotation; and it was extremely labor intensive, requiring a large work force to be profitable. Tobacco was so vital to colonial Virginia that one cannot understand the life of Simon Stacy—or any other colonist—without understanding this cash crop.

Tobacco farming was difficult work that required careful planning and as much as four months of grueling work from planting to barreling, even in ideal conditions. Year in, year out, for most of their natural lives, colonial Virginians spent much of their waking hours engaged in the seeding, cultivation, curing and packing of tobacco crops.

The preparation of seedbeds began in January or February; for each acre of tobacco ultimately to be cultivated, 40 square yards of seedbed were required. The sites of seedbeds were chosen, cleared, burned and hoed. The tiny tobacco seeds were sown before the middle of March, often mixed with sand to make distribution more equal. The beds were raked, then covered with pine boughs to protect the emerging plants. After about a month, the fragile seedlings were thinned to about four inches apart.

An 18th century tobacco advertisement in an English newspaper.

If the seedlings survived inclement weather and ravages of the tobacco flea beetle, the planter would be ready to transplant his tobacco to prepared fields in May. Knee-high hills were made every three or four feet. This task was considered the most arduous one in the tobacco cultivation process; an experienced adult could prepare no more than five hundred hills a day. After hilling, the planter waited until a rain softened the soil in the fields and seedbeds before transplanting the tobacco plants to their final location. Even with the best of care and weather, not all of the plants would survive; often hills were replanted more than once before a plant took.

Until the plant reached knee-high, weekly cultivation was necessary, to deter both weeds and cutworms. The work was done both with a hoe and by hand, the hills around the tobacco being reformed at the same time.

About two months after the tobacco was transplanted, a series of steps began to ensure large leaves of high quality. First, the two to four leaves growing closest to the ground were removed in a process referred to as "priming." At the same time, the plants were "topped." This step, which involved removing a small bunch of compact leaves which formed at the top of the plant, meant that the tobacco would not waste its energy developing flowers and seeds.

After topping, the plant stood between three and four feet tall. More leaves would be removed, depending on the fertility of the soil, the variety of tobacco and the season when the plants were topped. At first, the settlers concentrated on quantity rather than quality, but experience with the market coupled with regulations eventually dictated that less of a better product was produced. The tobacco plants, standing six to nine feet high, were mature and ready to harvest by late August or early September. If the plant were harvested before it was fully mature or when its peak season had passed, it would be worth far less. On the other hand, if the tobacco stayed too long in the field, there was the risk of a frost destroying the entire crop. One of the skills of a Virginia cropmaster was the ability to judge just when the tobacco should be harvested. An experienced planter would look at color (a yellowish green), texture (thick, rough and downy) and pliancy (a leaf that broke when it was folded between one's fingers).

Since the plants ripened at different times, there were numerous trips to the field during harvest time. Plants were cut with a sharp knife between the bottom leaves and the ground. If the weather were favorable, the tobacco was left on the ground three or four hours to wilt. This resulted in a heavier, moister leaf which brought a higher price.

After the plants were cut, they were left hanging from lines or rails in a barn to cure. This lasted four to six weeks, during which time the leaves turned from green to a light tan. Afterwards the cured leaves were sweated, sorted, rolled into "rope" of leaves which were then balled up and packed into hogshead barrels. Each barrel could contain as much as 1,000 pounds of tobacco. Barrels were then shipped back to Europe. Because tobacco grew best in previously uncultivated soil, planters spent the rest of the year clearing land for future planting.<sup>17</sup>

Although they often worked alongside their masters in tobacco fields, indentured servants usually lived apart from them under more primitive conditions. They worked from dawn until dusk, six days a week through the growing season, which on tobacco and wheat farms could last from as early as February until as late as November. The mortality rate was very high, mostly due to what Virginians called the "summer seasoning," a humid, miserable, mosquito-infested period during which disease killed a majority of new arrivals. According to one European visitor to Virginia, servants died "like cats and dogs," while the sick "want to sleep all the time, but they must be prevented from sleeping by force," to prevent their deaths.<sup>18</sup>

By Simon's day, indentured servants did have some legal rights: an act passed by the Assembly in 1657 granted them the right to take to courts complaints of "harsh and bad usage, or else for want of diett or convenient necessaries." In 1661, laws were also passed preventing cruelty or trickery on the part of masters to extend the duration of their service.<sup>19</sup>

Simon arrived in Virginia during one of its most brutal periods. The year of his transport, Virginia suffered severe storms that included livestock-killing hail, forty days of rain, and a hurricane that destroyed more than ten thousand houses; about three-quarters of the crops were destroyed. In 1671, a plague killed more than half the cattle in Virginia, about 50,000. Two years later, the Dutch destroyed much of the English tobacco fleet. Poverty was so great that Governor Berkeley doubted he could rely on the loyalty of one third of the freeman in a foreign war. When heavy taxes were imposed in 1674, two mutinies were suppressed with difficulty.

Governor Berkeley (1605–1677, pictured at left) reported that in 1671 Virginia had 48,000 inhabitants, including 6,000 indentured servants and 2,000 African slaves.<sup>20</sup> These populations were regularly decimated as malaria, plague and other contagious diseases ripped through the southern colonies repeatedly during this period. Conditions were so bad that life expectancy of a colonial Virginian was ten years shorter than that of a New Englander. Berkeley did his part to make their lives as miserable as possible, bitterly opposing everything from public education to printing, citing the potential proliferation of “disobedience, heresy and sects” in his colony.<sup>21</sup>

This relentless hardship led to simmering political tension. As historian T. H. Breen noted:

Seventeenth-century Virginians were an unruly lot. While New Englanders lived in relative peace with one another, Virginians rioted and rebelled; even in periods of apparent calm, they were haunted by the specter of social unrest. These men witnessed a series of disorders between 1660 and 1683, most of which were local in character, some were only threats of violence, but a few involved several counties and one escalated into a colony-wide civil war... in each case opportunists had played upon the hopes and fears of the “giddy multitude,” an amalgam of indentured servants and slaves, of poor whites and blacks, of landless freemen and debtors.<sup>22</sup>

The situation was such a mess that Robert Beverley, who had won the crown's gratitude when he helped crush Bacon's Rebellion in 1676, promptly lost it when he set off the "tobacco cutting riots" of 1682. Tobacco prices had fallen, and Beverley encouraged planters to slash their own crop to reduce supply and raise prices again. Unrest followed, and Beverley was convicted of "high misdemeanors," spending two years in jail.<sup>23</sup>

Return to England, Transport to Maryland (1673–1675)

Given the dumpster fire that was life in Virginia, it's understandable that Simon Stacy departed shortly after his indenture had ended. No record of his indenture has been located, but according to historian Robert Beverley Jr. (son of the above-named planter), Virginia's servants typically served a five-year term; Simon's would have concluded in 1672.<sup>24</sup>

Upon being made freeman, Simon would have received what was called "freedom dues," loosely described as a quantity of corn and clothing. Sometimes other cash crops, currency, tools or firearms were part of the deal. In 1672 and 1673, Robert Beverley, George Harper and William Elliott of Gloucester County were awarded headrights for the transport of a group of servants that included Simon Stacy. Given that Elliott and Harper were neighbors of Beverley with adjoining plantations near the Piankatank River, it seems likely that Simon was owned by all three men at one time or another and worked on their property. This suggests he spent the term of his indenture in Gloucester County.

Shortly after being made freeman, Simon cashed out his freedom dues and departed the tumultuous Virginia colony for England. There he took a wife, and with his newfound wealth, paid for their transport to Maryland in 1675, where he joined his brothers in Calvert County.

On November 20, 1675, "Simon Stacy of Calvert County" claimed headright to 100 acres for transporting himself and his wife, named as Mary Stacy, from England. He immediately sold the headright to John Bigger for an undisclosed "valuable consideration," and may have instead lived on his brother William's property in Calvert County.

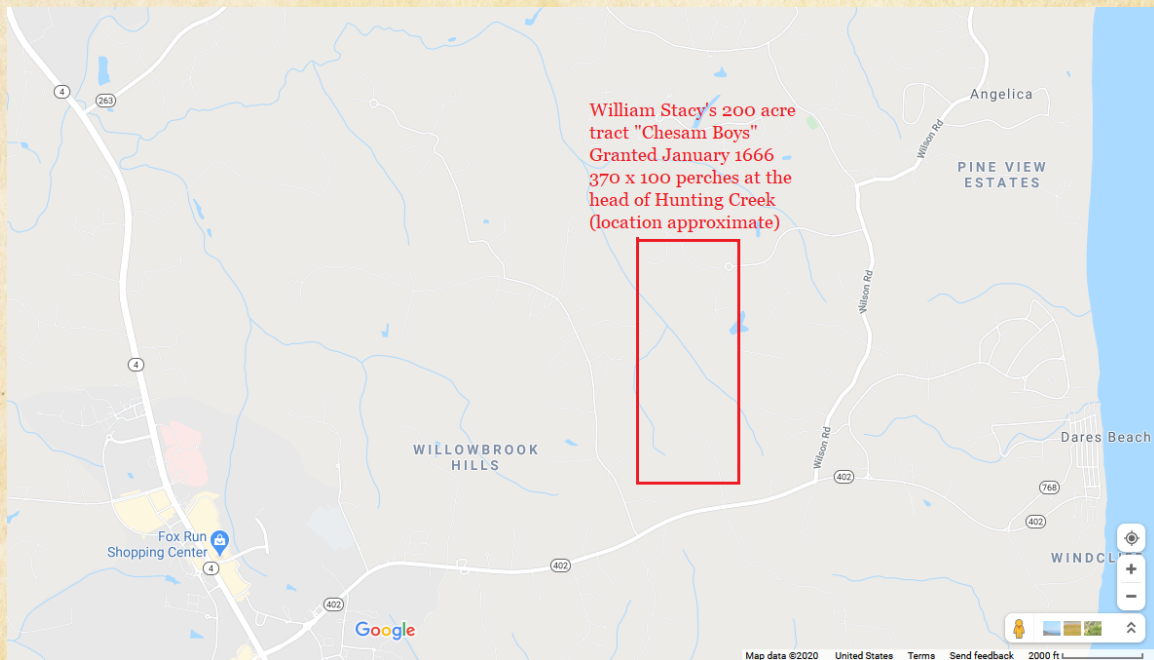

Following the conclusion of his indenture, William Stacy had patented a 200 acre tract called "Chesam Boys" (named for the village of Chesham Bois in Buckinghamshire) in January 1666. The property was at the head of Hunting Creek, off the east side of the Patuxent River. The vicinity is encircled by what is today Solomon Island Road, Wilson Road and Dares Beach Road. William was described in these records as a planter, and given that he was the only landowner among the Stacys, William's brothers may have lived with him and worked on his property. Court records show he served as a grand juror in 1670; one court order in 1668 notes that his attorney was William Calvert (1643–1682), a prominent member of the founding family of Maryland. William was the son of Leonard Calvert, the first governor of Maryland, and nephew of Cecil Calvert, 2nd Baron Baltimore and founder of the colony. Despite the prestigious connection, William Stacy's estate inventory suggests his farm afforded him only a modest income; it consisted of a few simple household items, mostly kitchenware and a bible.

Just as Simon Stacy had arrived in Virginia during one of its most unforgiving periods, misfortune would accompany his arrival in Maryland. His brother, Richard, who had been living at a riverside estate called Patuxent Manor, had fallen ill suddenly and died on April 14, 1674 at the age of 30. According to probate records, Richard's health failed so rapidly that he had hastily completed his will just eight and a half hours before his death. He had no estate besides a "blackish mare" he left to his brother William and some obliquely referenced "chattel" left to William's second wife, Mary. The lack of valuable property suggests Richard may have been a servant to Patuxent Manor's wealthy owner. William didn't outlive him by very long, following Richard to the grave in 1676 at age 44. John Stacy was last known living in 1685. Around this period, Simon's wife also seems to have died, and during the 1680s he remarried, probably to a daughter of Thomas Kemp of Calvert County.

Despite his hardships, Simon built a respectable life for himself as a successful planter and appears occasionally in court records from this period as an estate appraiser or administrator. But the frontier was a wild place, and instability was more the rule than the exception. Perhaps inadvertently, Simon found himself entangled in an attempted insurrection during the “powder and shot” incident of 1681.

Maryland was founded by George Calvert, 1st Baron Baltimore and chartered by King Charles I in 1632 as a refuge for Catholics. Calvert died before receiving the charter, leaving his eldest son, Cecil Calvert to be the first Lord Proprietor of Maryland and his younger son, Leonard as its first governor. The first Catholic settlers arrived aboard the biblically named ships The Ark and The Dove in 1634 and set about building their safe haven. Far from being a strictly Catholic settlement, it blossomed as an early experiment in religious freedom, with no officially state-enforced church. Soon it was populated by Quakers, Anabaptists and other minority religions.

Within a few decades however, the Protestants easily outnumbered the few Catholics in Maryland, though the latter maintained a shaky hold on the colonial government from their seat at St. Mary’s City. This tension boiled over into political conflict in the 1670s as Charles Calvert (1637–1715) struggled to hold onto power.

At the death of his father, Cecil Calvert in 1675, Charles ventured back to London to be elevated to his barony. His Protestant enemies took advantage of his absence, printing scathing attacks on the proprietorial government in a 1676 pamphlet called “A Complaint from Heaven with a Hue and Cry... out of Maryland and Virginia.” They complained about the lack of an established church, and of Maryland’s insufferable religious tolerance. The Rev. John Yeo wrote scathingly to the Archbishop of Canterbury that Maryland was in a “deplorable condition” and had become “a Sodom of uncleanness and a pesthouse of iniquity.” Upon Calvert’s return to Maryland, he responded to the criticism by hanging two would-be rebels and re-asserting Maryland’s religious diversity.

Tensions only escalated, and in 1681 rumors began circulating that a former Maryland governor named Josias Fendall and co-conspirator John Coode were planning an insurrection against Calvert. Fendall and Coode were arrested in July 1681. Coode was released within days, but Fendall, who had led a previous rebellion, was held for a longer period at Mattaponi, the estate of Col. Henry Darnall. The threat of insurrection was temporarily averted, but instability persisted. Word spread quickly that the Catholic position in Maryland was so desperate that Calvert had begun conspiring with the local Indians to discourage further Protestant uprisings with wanton acts of terrorism and murder. The massacre in May 1681 of a Protestant family by Indians at Point Lookout brought the anxiety to a fever pitch.

On July 14, 1681, the sheriff of Calvert County was charged with summoning Simon Stacy, James Rumsey, Thomas Lawson and Richard Thomas to the Prerogative Court in St. Mary’s City to testify in the trial of John Tyrling, who like John Coode had been accused of uttering “mutinous and seditious words to the people.” The same day, Calvert had issued a proclamation that all who were “divulgers of false news, rumors and reports” were to be “prosecuted & duely executed” and charged the military and civil officers of the colony to “make diligent inquiry” after such offenders.

In court the following July 21, the summoned Protestants arrived to be questioned by the bewigged leaders of Maryland: Phillip Calvert, chancellor; William Calvert, secretary; Col. Henry Darnall, an Irish landowner and close ally of the Calverts; George Talbot, another Irishman; William Digges, an English Catholic; and the Lord Proprietor himself, Charles Calvert.

Evidently, William Hodgeson told the court during the previous session that he had run into Simon Stacy at a horse race at the home of James Rumsey. He mentioned to Simon that he had heard that he had recently barricaded himself in his home, to which Simon replied that he “was afraid of the Indians, for that Mr. Tyrling had reported My Lord had furnished them with powder and shott.” Simon was said to have heard the rumor from James Rumsey, and Hodgeson claimed that Simon further noted Thomas Lawson and Richard Thomas also heard John Tyrling say so.

Appearing in court, Simon Stacy, Thomas Lawson, and Richard Thomas all wisely denied having spread rumors about the alleged conspiracy, probably hoping to spare Tyrling and themselves the gallows. James Rumsey said he had heard the rumor in church as a “general discourse,” which was confirmed by John Tyrling. Having no further evidence, the court dismissed the case.<sup>25</sup>

Following the failed insurrection, many political dissidents from Maryland fled across the Potomac River to Stafford County, Virginia during the tumult of the 1680s. Josias Fendall, who had been convicted of “seditious utterances” in Maryland, had been exiled from the colony following an attempt by a protestant mob to break him out of jail in St. Mary’s City. Fendall relocated to Stafford County by 1682, where he continued to rabble rouse against virtually anyone in power; his co-conspirator, Daniel Matheny, a French Huguenot, likewise exiled to Stafford. A number of other discontented protestants followed them across the river, and perhaps owing to Fendall’s influence, brought their discontent with them. In a letter to the president of the Privy Council of Maryland, Lord Baltimore grumbled in July 1681 that Stafford County residents were “as ripe and ready for another rebellion as they ever were.”<sup>26</sup>

Stafford County, Virginia (1687–1690)

Simon Stacy was one of those protestants who resettled in Stafford County, though his exact motives remain unclear. Aside from his suspicion of the Catholic government and the local Indians, Simon’s political leanings went unrecorded; given that he never again appears in court over seditious or rebellious matters, it seems likely he moved to Virginia to plant in peace. He found a landowner named Thomas Watts in Stafford County, and on April 30, 1687 signed a 15-year lease for a section of Watts’ property lying on the south side of Potomac Creek. The terms of his lease with Watts included an up-front payment of forty shillings and a recurring payment of 5,900 pounds of tobacco due every year on January 1. Watts stipulated that “Symon Stacey is to plant on ye above said lande two hundred apple trees Twenty foote distance every way and to leave a sufficient fence about ye said trees and what houseinge bee doth to leave them tite & tenentable that is to say one twenty foote dwellinge house & one thirty foot Tobacco house.” He also explicitly forbade Simon to “meddle with the timber.”

The following October, Simon left Maryland forever and relocated to his new “twenty-foot dwelling house” in Stafford County, on the picturesque shores of Potomac Creek. His new lease however, would be short-lived; Thomas Watts died in early 1690, and Simon immediately started meddling with the timber, prompting a swift response from Watts’ brother-in-law, Sampson Darrell. Appearing in court on April 7, 1690, Darrell accused Simon of a wide variety of misbehaviors, including trespassing, “persisting in scurrilous and base language” and arguing that he “hath illegally entered upon the land and daily commits trespasses waste and spoiles by cutting downe the Timber and breaking up the soile.” Darrell argued that Simon was laying waste to property that had properly belonged to his own wife, rather than Thomas Watts, requesting compensation of 10,000 pounds of tobacco. Simon replied rather dismissively via his attorney that he had a lease with Watts and thus had every right to the land; the court ruled against Darrell on the compensation, but determined that the property should be divided up between Watts’ heirs and Darrell.

York County, Virginia (1690–1718)

Finding himself suddenly homeless, Simon moved 117 miles south to Charles Parish, York County. He had remarried to an Elizabeth sometime earlier. Her maiden name went unrecorded, but an important clue to her identity appears in the records of Calvert County. In 1684, Simon Stacy administered the will of Thomas Kemp (1621–1684) and adopted his orphans. At the time, common law determined that the right of administration followed the right of inheritance. This strongly suggests that Elizabeth Stacy was a daughter of Thomas Kemp, and that the Simon and Elizabeth married in Calvert County some time before June 1684. Their son Joseph Stacy was born in Charles Parish on July 24, 1690, shortly after the move to York County, the only recorded childbirth for Simon.

Simon had begun traveling to York County as early as December 1688, when he had served on a jury that returned verdicts on two property cases, both involving “acts of trespass concerning a horse.” Why he chose York County is unknown, but he appears to have had connections to the place. A documented friend of his in Stafford, Edward Watts, (a possible relative of his landlord), had lived in York County as early as 1646 and may have retained ties; Simon may have also been related to a Josias Stacy who had been living in neighboring Warwick County as early as 1663 and in York County from at least 1673.<sup>27</sup> Simon seemed to live in both Stafford and York Counties from 1688 to 1692, when he ceases appearing in Stafford County court minutes.

Not long after his move to York County, Simon Stacy became a founding settler of Yorktown, Virginia. When Yorktown was laid out in 1691, 50 acres acquired from the port, which had existed for some years, were surveyed into 85 half-acre lots, each measuring 132 by 165 feet.<sup>28</sup> In late 1691, Simon purchased one of these lots in York County described as being in “York Town... plot number 28 of the said town on the records, measuring 10 by 8 poles, bounded by the street opposite to the land late in the tenure and occupation of Jno. Marshall, land of Warren Cary, York River & land of Hester Powell.” This riverside property in Yorktown sat on the north side of Main Street, just four lots away from where the court house was built in 1696.<sup>29</sup> It is uncertain if Simon lived on this plot, or for how long, as by 1716 it was property of the town again. Yorktown had few homes in these early years, but one of them belonging to Col. William Digges, a Virginia native whom Simon had faced in court during the “powder and shot” incident in Maryland a decade earlier. Small world!

<sup>27</sup> Josias/Josiah may have been the “Josias Stacy” born in Cuddeson, near Oxford in March 1619, the son of a John Stacy. Cuddeson is about 35 miles from Swindon, so family connections are possible. A John Stacy also served on a York County jury in the case of a girl who had burned to death, verdict given Dec. 3, 1657. “Josiah Stacy” died in York County on May 27, 1691, per Charles Parish records.

Simon, who was described as a planter in York County court records, also evidently owned a large plantation outside of town. This was a 375-acre tract, the bulk of it from a grant to William Calvert (his late brother’s former attorney) back in January 1663 and described as situated bordering an “oaken swamp” on the head of New Poquoson River (today just called Poquoson River). This land was further south in York County, on the east side of what is now Newport News Golf Club at Deer Run, on the north side of route 105, and west side of route 17.

With the stroke of a pen, Simon Stacy’s land purchase enabled him to join the class of freeholders he had worked for most of his adult life. He was 51 years old, and had lived in the colonies nearly half his life. “York Town” was founded by the colonial government as a port on the York River for English colonists to export Virginia’s popular tobacco to Europe. Within a few years, the rapidly developed waterfront boasted wharves, docks, storehouses and businesses. The settling in York County may have been a strategic one for Simon—his plantation in the county was situated just up the road from what was fast becoming one of the most bustling ports in Virginia, assuring him a path to prosperity. The Yorktown peninsula was recognized by contemporary planters as ideal for growing the lucrative “sweet-scented” strain of tobacco, and Simon took full advantage of this, having sold hundreds of thousands of pounds of the cash crop over subsequent years.<sup>30</sup>

Decades after Simon’s indenture, servants were still big business in Virginia, and rewards were often offered by the government for the return of those who tried end their term prematurely. On at least three occasions, Simon saw an opportunity to make some quick cash by hunting down runaways. On July 7, 1692, he captured an escapee from Nanzemond near York Ferry and was referred by York County court to the “assembly for allowance” for his reward. In October 1710, he turned in two more runaways and was similarly rewarded.

Simon had his own indentured servants as well and was sued by two of them. Charles Allin, who was indentured to Simon in 1689 and sold before October 1693 to a Ralph Walker, sued Simon over clothing that was owed to him per his contract; Another of his servants, Ann Grey, sued him in February 1716 for detaining her after she had been discharged from his service by a jury. The court agreed (again) that she had served her term and released her from Simon’s custody.

During these later years, Simon became something of a fixture in York County courthouse. In 18th century Virginia, court was held once a month, and court service was a sort of community obligation that freeholders were expected to volunteer for. Judges and lawyers were also local planters; professional bondsmen didn’t yet exist, so friends and relatives were expected to post bonds and securities for a variety of court actions. Tobacco was the currency of the land, and could be used both to pay court fines and fees and was often received as payment from the court itself.

From 1688 on into the early years of the 18th century, Simon appeared in some capacity in nearly every court session in York County. He was recorded buying cattle and household items during public auctions; appeared as plaintiff in a suit against a neighbor, or being sued for debts himself; he appeared innumerable times as a security for neighbors and friends during estate appraisals; as a witness in land deals; and as a church vestryman. During his years in Stafford County, he had additionally served as constable.

Simon served countless times both as a trial juror and a grand juror for up to six months at a time. Of note was a decision he reached in a 1691 case in Stafford County court brought by Benjamin Lewis, a black man from England who came to the colonies as an indentured servant, and after serving his four-year term, claimed to have been illegally enslaved by his master, one William Harris, who argued that Lewis had forged his indenture papers and was properly his slave.

Simon and the other ten jurors found for Lewis, who might have otherwise become a victim of the growing practice of enslaving black indentured servants for life.

Simon lived to be very old and seemed to remain a busy man until at least 1716. When he was “dangerously sick,” he lent a hunting saddle and furnishings to Robert Ross, which a court ordered him to return to Simon’s son, Joseph, following Simon’s death.

Simon’s wife, Elizabeth Stacy died on April 14, 1718. If she was indeed a daughter of Thomas Kemp, she was likely about 55 years old at her death. Nine months later, on January 23, 1718, Simon Stacy died at the age of 78.<sup>31</sup> His burial location is unknown, but the likeliest spot is the long-abandoned colonial cemetery adjacent to the original Charles Parish Church, which burned in 1808. Today the colonial era gravestones are long gone and the cemetery is a wide, unmarked field.<sup>32</sup>

Chapter III: The Stacys of Late Colonial Virginia (1718–1782)

Simon had one documented son, Joseph Stacy, born to Simon and Elizabeth Stacy shortly after they moved to York County. They had another likely son, John Stacy, probably born in 1692 while his parents were either in England or back in Stafford County for a time, while his father served in various capacities in court.

In the early 18th century, the Stacy family split into two descendant lines: the York County branch, founded by Joseph Stacy (1690–1726) and the Stafford County branch, founded by his (probable) brother John Stacy (c.1692–after 1750). Almost all the Stacys of colonial-era Virginia descend from these two groups.

The York County Branch

Joseph Stacy (July 24, 1690–Jan. 5, 1726) married Mary Bennett (d. Dec. 20, 1751) c. 1710

Their children were all born in Charles Parish, York County, Virginia:

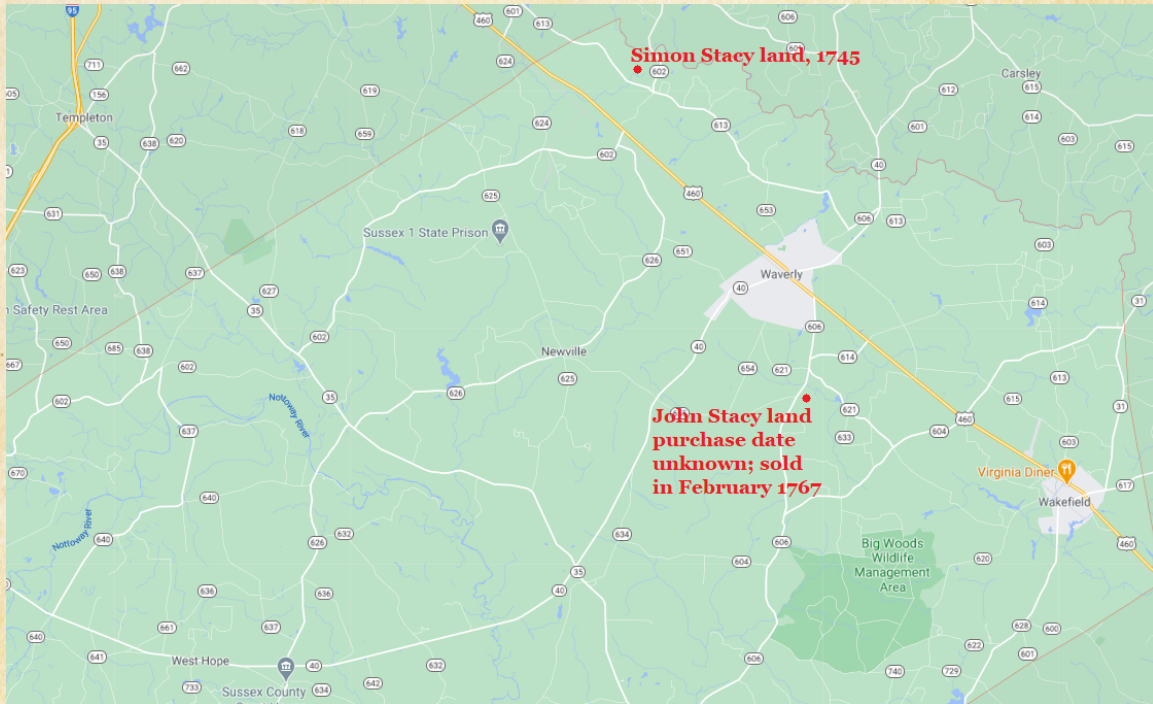

1. Simon Stacy (Jan. 29, 1711–1784) married Catherine, Elizabeth Morris, Mary.
2. Elizabeth Stacy (Jan. 11, 1713–Aug. 31, 1731)
3. Sarah Stacy (Feb. 17, 1716–Sept. 24, 1718)
4. Mary Stacy (July 17, 1720– ?) may have married a Mr. Cooper.
5. John Stacy (Dec. 15, 1722–1770) married before February 1752, Anne Davis.
6. Joseph Stacy (Apr. 6, 1726–before Oct. 1785) married Faith.

Court records show Simon Stacy's property was left entirely to his son Joseph, who in May 1725 rather generously leased it to a James Sclater of Charles Parish for one year for the bargain price of one ear of Indian corn at the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel.

Joseph became ill suddenly and died on January 5, 1726 at the age of 36, leaving five orphaned children, ranging in ages from a few months to 15 years. Judging by his estate inventory, he appeared to have been a modest yeoman farmer, leaving behind an estate valued at 28 pounds, 18 shillings, mostly consisting of a few items of furniture and a single slave. Subsequent to his untimely death, the children were raised by his widow, the former Mary Bennett, though his 18-year-old daughter Elizabeth followed him to the grave in 1731.

Before long, the devastation wrought by a century's worth of tobacco cultivation in the coastal plantations left them largely barren; the solution for most planters was to move inland and clear more forest. In 1744, Joseph Stacy's three sons, Simon, age 33, John, age 21 and Joseph, age 18, migrated 60 miles west to nearby Surry County, settling on the broad, flat plains and rich soil of Albemarle Parish. On February 20, 1744/5 Simon bought a tract of 200 acres bounded by Cattail Branch and Blackwater Swamp, and his brothers likely worked on the property as tenants. The property was sold in 1748, when Simon bought a new tract of 185 acres from Joel Barker “bounded by Broad Bottom Branch, the Wildcatt Branch, Edmunds and the College line.” Simon seemed to have remained on this property for some time, and was living here when Albemarle Parish broke off from Surry County and became part of the newly-formed Sussex County in 1754.

John Stacy bought his own tract of 243 acres “on the west side of Coperhaunk Swamp, bound by the College line, Judkins, William Blunt and William Nichols.” He planted here for some years, but sold the property in February 1767, having already returned to York County at least a year previous.

The York County Stacys were successful farmers and lived fairly quiet lives, seldom appearing in court or making a fuss. One interesting exception concerns some trouble John Stacy had during the early days of his marriage to Anne Davis. So much trouble, in fact, that he placed a notice in the Virginia Gazette in February 1752 declaring that his wife “hath eloped from her husband” and warning any who might encounter her that he would not honor debts she might incur while she was AWOL. What exactly the issue was we will never know. Ann returned to the family by 1756 and their first child, Robert, was born in Albemarle Parish on March 25, 1757.

This child, later known as Rev. Robert Stacy (1757–1822), spent his early life as a tailor's apprentice and farmer and was converted to the Society of Baptists at Grafton Church, York County in late 1779 or 1780. Subsequently he became a preacher himself at nearby Abingdon Church in Gloucester County around 1801. A brief biographical sketch of Elder Stacy noted he was "a sound and good preacher," whom his congregation seemed pleased with. He may have owned slaves named Ned and Elsey Almond, who in 1820 were said to be living on "Stacy Land," in Gloucester County. Robert had two daughters, but nothing further is known of his descendants.

Of the first generation of York County Stacys, only Simon (1711–1784) had a large family, a whopping seven sons and six daughters. Three of his sons, Lawrence, Stephen and Simon, served in the Revolutionary War, a conflict Simon Jr. did not survive, having fallen fatally ill at Valley Forge in June 1778. Many of Simon's children and grandchildren would later migrate out to North Carolina, Louisiana, Ohio and Texas. These families are mapped out in Part II.

Simon's younger brothers were less prolific: John Stacy died in 1770 and Joseph shortly thereafter, leaving five sons between the two of them to carry on the name. Of those five—Robert, John, Kinchen, Joseph Jr. and William—only Joseph and William are known to have had sons themselves, but how many of those lived to see adulthood is uncertain. We do know Joseph Stacy Jr. (b.1767), moved out west to Wilson County, Tennessee where he patented land on Hurricane Creek in 1815 and had at least five children.

The few Stacys that remained in Virginia after the Revolution had it hard. William, a probable son of Joseph Stacy (b.1726), was the last man standing, and his descendants remained in Warwick County through the post-Revolutionary decline of the Tidewater. From the 1780s to about 1820, soil exhaustion led to a massive exodus of planters and laborers alike, emptying out the once grand plantations and leaving the Tidewater a shell of its former self. Economic strife followed for those left behind, and William Stacy became so destitute that he ended up on the rolls of the Overseer of the Poor in Warwick County. Following his death in 1825 or 1826, his widow and children remained on the rolls until 1842. In 1850 a Rebecca Stacy, age 60, was the last of the name remaining in Warwick. Within a decade, the York County Stacy branch vanished from Virginia entirely.

The Stafford County Branch

John Stacy settled in Stafford County and fathered the much larger branch of the Virginia Stacys. Not much is known about John Stacy due to the fact that most of the records that would have revealed the events of his life were burned during the Civil War. He is widely presumed to be a son of Simon and Elizabeth Stacy since he named two of his own children Simon and Elizabeth and his likely father lived in Stafford County in 1687–1692.

John would have grown up on the Stacy plantation on New Poquoson River in York County. At some point he moved to Stafford, possibly to join relatives on his mother's side; According to the laws of primogeniture then in effect in Virginia, when a father died without a will his land was conveyed automatically to his eldest son. Given that Joseph Stacy inherited and later leased their father's property in York County, John was likely the younger of the two, and had to strike out on his own. He had no birth recorded in Charles Parish, suggesting he may have been born while his parents were in Stafford County in 1691 or 1692. Thomas Kemp Jr. (d.1695) also lived in Stafford until at least 1692, suggesting the Stacys may have lived with him.

John Stacy's whereabouts before 1740 seem to have gone unrecorded. At some point he moved back to Stafford, possibly to join his Kemp relatives; a James Kemp (bef.1708—c.1749) was listed on the tobacco tenders list in Stafford County, south of Potomac Creek, in 1724. John Stacy does not appear in the tobacco tenders list, though one would expect this to be the case if he lived north of Potomac Creek.

John's residence by 1740 can confidently be placed near the intersection of what are now routes 610 and 643 in Stafford County. According to a road order of October 11, 1750, he was likely a tenant on the estate of a wealthy gentleman planter named Bailey Washington:

A photograph of a handwritten document on aged, yellowed paper. The text is written in cursive and is a road order. At the top, there is a faint line of text that reads "supplicating a judgment upon him he is discharged." The main body of the text begins with "Bailey Washington, is appointed Overseer of the Road from Aquia Warehouse to Mr. Ralls Post below Aquia Run, & is ordered to clear & keep the S. Road in repair & that his Tithables, John Stacy, Simon Stacy, John Stacy Junr. Moses Lunsford, John Green, William Patten, Mason Combs, & Thomas Hurst clear the same & be exempt from other Roads."

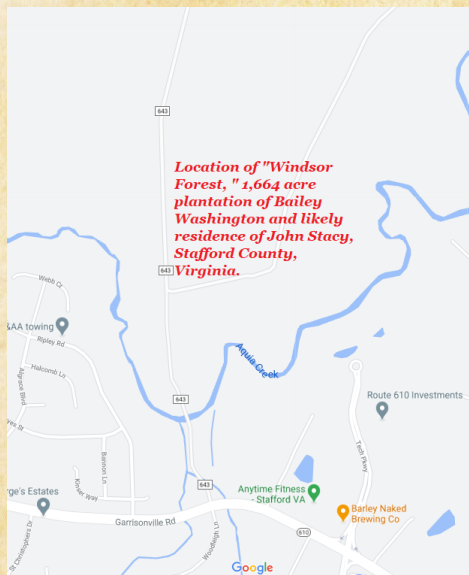

It reads: "Bailey Washington is appointed Overseer of the Road from Aquia Warehouse to Mr. Ralls post below Aquia Run and is ordered to clear and keep the road in repair and that his Tithables, John Stacy, Simon Stacy, John Stacy Junr. Moses Lunsford, John Green, William Patter, Mason Combs, and Thomas Hurst clear the same and be exempt from other roads."<sup>33</sup>

<sup>33</sup> According to the Virginia Department of Transportation: "The establishment and maintenance of public roads were among the most important functions of the county court during the colonial period in Virginia. Each road was opened and maintained by an Overseer of the Highways appointed by the Gentlemen Justices yearly. He was usually assigned all the 'Labouring Male Titheables' living on or near the road for this purpose. These individuals then furnished all their own tools, wagons, and teams and were required to labor for six days each year on the roads."

Washington's property, "Windsor Forest," was a sprawling 1,664-acre plantation on the north side of Aquia Run, on the east side of what is now route 643. It is now part of the Quantico Marine Corps reservation. According to historian Jerrilynn Eby, the Washington house stood just off the east side of the road, and the ruins of both the house and tenant or slave quarters are still visible. Bailey Washington (1731–1807) was a second cousin of George Washington, and the two were acquainted enough that the surveyor and future president bought his first Gunter's scale from Bailey in 1749. Bailey was also the father of Brig. Gen. William Augustine Washington (1752–1810), who led several campaigns against the British in South Carolina during the latter days of the Revolutionary War.

The road being tended by the Stacys in 1750 is now known as Garrisonville Road and the "Aquia Warehouse" named in the road order was the public tobacco inspection warehouse in the town of Aquia (now Aquia Harbor) at the far East end of the road. The Stacys lived either on Garrisonville Road, or more likely, on 643; both were called "Aquia Road" during the 18th century. The entire milieu of in-laws and associates of the Stacy clan tie them firmly to this area: Benjamin Tolson Sr., whose daughter Judith married a son of John Stacy, was noted as having leased a plot of 150 acres belonging to William Fitzhugh, adjacent to Bailey Washington; Robert Ashby, whose family John Stacy Jr. married into, also owned land nearby on Garrisonville Road; And finally, John Warner (d.1742), an esteemed mathematician and surveyor whose last will and testament John Stacy witnessed in 1740, also lived on 643, bordering Bailey Washington to the west.

The Stafford County of John Stacy's day was a bustling tobacco port with sweeping landscapes, sparkling rivers, and endless rows of some of the richest tobacco crop in North America. In the fall, farmers carted up "hogsheads" (massive barrels) of tobacco and drove them to Aquia Warehouse for inspection.

From there, they would be sold and loaded onto ships bound for European ports. Demand for Virginia tobacco remain insatiably high throughout the century and lasted until the Revolution, when the colonies stopped trade with Britain and tobacco fields were largely repurposed for food.

Not much else is known about John Stacy Sr. He seems to have been a tenant farmer the whole of his life. Tenants were of the lowest social class, scraping by year after year as renters of small plots of land, with rents paid in crops during the autumn harvest. The tenants usually had to buy food on credit most of the year until they received a lump sum when their produce was sold. Despite his lack of wealth, he witnessed the will of a gentleman, suggesting John Stacy was considered a trustworthy and upstanding fellow. He may have also been Warner's tenant at the time.

John Stacy Sr. (c.1692–after October 11, 1750) married Dorothy (d. February 5, 1751)

As gathered from a combination of court records, tithables lists, and the registers of Overwharton Parish in Stafford County, their children were:

1. Simon Stacy (c.1718–1762) m. Judith Tolson, August 22, 1741.
2. John Stacy (c.1720–after 1795) m. Elizabeth, c.1742.
3. Catherine Stacy (c.1725–after 1765) m. William Hill, September 17, 1745.
4. Sarah Stacy (c.1728–after 1799) m. Benjamin Robinson Sr., January 2, 1750.
5. Peter Stacy (c.1731–after 1755) m. Ruth Croswell, May 25, 1755.
6. Elizabeth Stacy (c.1733–July 12, 1755) m. William Howard, May 29, 1751.
7. George Stacy (c.1736–October 1767) m. Jemima Edwards, c.1759.

The maiden name of Dorothy Stacy is unknown. However, there is circumstantial evidence that she may have been from the Fristoe family of Richmond and Stafford Counties, Virginia. The names George, Catherine and Dorothy are all Fristoe names. Her son, John Stacy Jr., had to agree to a peace bond with Richard Fristoe Jr. in Stafford County court in 1750, so the families certainly knew each other. Richard Fristoe Sr. (c.1684–after 1764), likely son of John and Mary Fristoe of Richmond County, settled in Stafford County before 1724 and was about the right age to have been Dorothy Stacy's brother.

John Stacy's death went unrecorded, but it was likely sometime in the early 1750s. The burial location of John and Dorothy Stacy is unknown; Jerrilynn Eby noted that "when folks died, they were normally buried not far from their back doors, be they tenants or land owners. The chances are very strong that they would not have been able to afford inscribed grave markers and I would expect them to have been buried beneath simple field stones. In rural areas, burials in church cemeteries didn't come along until much later." This suggests that if they were indeed Washington's tenants, they may have been buried somewhere on Windsor Forest, in graves long since lost to time.

Frederick County (1758–1762)

In 1757 or 1758, the Stacys left Stafford County and moved more than ninety miles northwest into the frontier of the Shenandoah Mountains in Frederick County, Virginia. They were part of a significant migration west that included a number of other Stafford County families, both freeholders and tenants alike.

Soil exhaustion appears to have been the biggest factor driving the mass migration. Tobacco demanded nutrient-rich soil and quickly depleted lands it was grown on. As early as 1626, Virginia planters had been forced to expand from coastal territories into virgin forest after having destroyed plantation soil. This kept the people of colonial Virginia living a highly mobile life, and prevented them from settling into villages and towns. As French traveler Francis L. Michel noted in 1702, “the inhabitants do not live close together and the country is not settled in villages, because every twenty or thirty years new ground must be broken.”

As smaller plantations failed, they were bought up by larger landowners who required larger and larger holdings to maintain yields. Larger plantations required a massive workforce, and slavery became an increasingly popular solution to manage declining yields. The slave population of Virginia quadrupled between 1740 and 1775 to meet this rising demand, but the exploding popularity of slavery threatened the livelihoods of tenant farmers like the Stacys. This combination of factors may have pushed them into the mountains where smaller farms and immigrant landowners dominated and slavery was less established.<sup>34</sup>

Frederick County was on the edge of the native-inhabited wilderness at the time and its principal city, Winchester, became headquarters for the colonial army, with the newly-commissioned Col. George Washington as its commander. Simon, John and George Stacy settled in Frederick in 1758, likely hoping for a new start. Court records showed their financial difficulties—represented by a relentless barrage of debt suits—came with them.

George, then about 23, had problems getting a family started as well, with his fiancée, Sarah Ashby, having been cited for living in fornication with a Joseph Combs in Frederick County court on May 1, 1759. George evidently ended the engagement and moved to the western portion of Prince William County, which was split off just weeks later into the newly-created Fauquier County. When Simon Stacy, the oldest brother, died in the summer of 1762, John Stacy joined George in Fauquier, where he evidently remained a tenant farmer until at least 1768.<sup>35</sup> The descendants of Simon Stacy remained in Frederick, but later joined up with John again during the move west.

<sup>35</sup> Simon’s children never moved to Fauquier. His son Benjamin became head of the family and moved them out to Kentucky after the Revolution. Some of the children of John Stacy linked up with them around that time.

Simon's children, all born in Overwharton Parish, Stafford County until c.1758, thereafter in Frederick County, were as follows:

1. Sarah, b. Aug. 20, 1742, m. Baker Edwards of Stafford Co., VA
2. Benjamin, b. Apr. 7, 1744, removed to Jackson Co., TN
3. Sith, b. June 30, 1746, m. William Combs, removed to Clay Co., KY

John Stacy's children, likewise baptized in Overwharton Parish until 1758, were as follows:

Fauquier County (1762-1768)

Within a few years, the Stacys were joined in Fauquier by their sisters and brothers-in-law, William Hill and Benjamin Robinson. Robinson bought a plantation on the far eastern border of the county near Samuel Love's Mill while William Hill leased a tract in Leeds Manor in October 1765 near Goose Creek, just north of The Hollow (present-day Markham, Virginia). Named in William Hill's lease are no less than three eminent figures of the Revolutionary War era:

Oct. 12, 1765 - For 150 pounds in Fauquier Co. a spur of Naked Mt. 450 acres on north side of Goose Creek then up said creek to mouth of small branch to corner of Thomas Marshall's. The renter agrees to pay all quitrent and taxes, use only the wood and timber upon the land for the running of said plantation. build or repair a dwelling house 16 square, tabacco house 24'x 20', plant and fence in 100 apple trees and will work only three field hands with one overseer per 100 acres.

William Hill leases by Thomas Ludwell Lee & Molley and Col. R. H. Lee & Anne to William for lives of (1) George Holmes and wife Anne and son John. (2) Thomas Masters and wife Anne and their daughter Mary. (3) Himself and wife Catherine and son John. signed Thos. Lud. Lee, Molley Lee, Richard Henry Lee, Anne Lee, William Hill. Wit. Thomas Marshall, William Marshall, and John Keith.

Hill leased the property on Naked Mountain from Richard Henry Lee (1732–1794, pictured at left), who etched his name into history as the man who authored the Lee Resolution, the first formal proposal in the Continental Congress to break with England, in June 1776. His brother, Thomas Ludwell Lee (1730–1778), also named in the lease, was a member of the House of Burgesses from 1758 to 1765. He was so widely esteemed that John Adams, quoting George Wythe, once said that Lee was “the delight of the eyes of every Virginian.”

Thomas Marshall (1730–1802), was a bordering neighbor and a witness to the transaction. He is best known as the father of John Marshall (1755–1835),

Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court (1801–1835). John Marshall is remembered as the author of the practice of “Judicial Review” that established the Court as a political force and ensured fidelity to the Constitution, also famously declared in McCulloch v. Maryland that states cannot tax the federal government for “the power to tax is the power to destroy.” He stands in history as one of the most important members of the Supreme Court, and his kin still populate the pastoral hills of Fauquier County to the present day.

Thomas Marshall, a contemporary of George Washington, who accompanied the future president on his surveying excursions for Lord Fairfax in the mid-18th century, was a lieutenant in the Virginia militia during the French and Indian War and colonel of the 3rd Virginia Regiment during the Revolution. He was also a member of the House of Burgesses and as high sheriff of Fauquier County, was well known in the area.

Life in Fauquier County

At the founding of the county, Fauquier was very much wild frontier. Even basic economic infrastructures of the time—mills, furnaces, forges, and even ordinaries and taverns—were few. Consequently, homebuilding was still in a primitive state. Even the wealthy lived in tiny frame homes consisting of a loft for the children and assorted guests and two rooms below for the parents, heated by a hearth. Log cabins were still common, though most common farmers lived in a small frame dwelling with a rock or brick chimney and foundation. Gott and Russell describe these as “made of timbers dressed at least on one side with wood siding.” During the pre-revolutionary period, the luxurious brick and stone homes of the Tidewater were virtually unheard of in Fauquier.<sup>36</sup>

The road system was, in the words of historian John Gott, “too awful for modern experience to contemplate.” Roads were so bad that a “chariot” from London delivered to Lord Fairfax in Frederick County was so badly damaged by the rocky gravel paths that it sat unused upon its arrival. Travel was thus on foot or horseback, and customarily only done by men, often to attend court. Gott noted “women stayed home or rode behind their menfolk. It was usually inconvenient for them to appear in court. Their depositions were taken at home or in the house of a neighbor when the need arose. Opportunities for shopping, the great restorative of female morale, came seldom if at all.”<sup>37</sup>

Typically, the men did the shopping. Provisions that couldn’t be found in the town of Fauquier Courthouse were acquired at The Shenandoah Store in Winchester in the hills of Frederick County or at the John Glassford Store in Dumfries on the Potomac River. Each of these excursions would have required a round trip of more than 90 miles for the Stacys.

John and George Stacy both had accounts at the Shenandoah Store in Winchester in the early 1760s, where they financed household necessities on debt which they (usually) paid off after harvest season. John Stacy was recorded buying things like women’s stockings, irish linen, a dutch blanket, a hand saw, a man’s saddle, women’s leather shoes and a frying pan; George bought turpentine, a chisel, a half bushel of salt, thread and a crupper—a piece of tack used on a saddle to keep it from sliding off a horse’s back.

The typical farmer’s home had few, if any books, though they might have a bible or one of the numerous religious books that were published at the time such as the coma-inducing “The Complete Duty of Man.” Occasionally a how-to book might be lying around, particularly on carpentry.

Even those like the Marshalls who possessed sizeable estates often wore the cheap, homespun outfits of the common farmer, and often worked in the fields themselves alongside slaves or tenants. As evinced by his portrait at left, Thomas Marshall (1730–1802) didn’t bother with a fashionable powdered wig—a sweaty, uncomfortable nuisance in a muggy backwater like Fauquier County.

Life in colonial Virginia was hard, and the Stacys were near the bottom of the social ladder. Their financial hardship and lack of presence in the deed books strongly indicates they were tenants who never owned their own property, were forced to buy food and essential supplies on credit, and never had much opportunity to accumulate wealth. Living a short, impoverished, hardscrabble existence, they found themselves frequently in court for a wide variety of offenses, from swearing to fighting, owing money and generally being unruly.

John Stacy (c.1720–c.1795) seemed to be in court the most. Beginning in July 1750, he was a regular fixture in the courthouse, either being sued or suing someone for some infraction or other. In May 1751, he was sued in Stafford Court by George Tolson, his brother's brother-in-law, for "trespass, assault and battery." In September, he was formally indicted by the colonial government, along with several co-defendants that included Robert Ashby Jr. and Richard Fristoe Jr., but pled not guilty and got off on the promise that he would "keep the peace for a year and a day." His bond was paid by his brother-in-law, Benjamin Robinson, who had been married to his sister Sarah for mere months. As an interesting aside, one of the jurors selected for John's assault trial was Henry Dawson, whom John himself sued for the same crime just one year later.

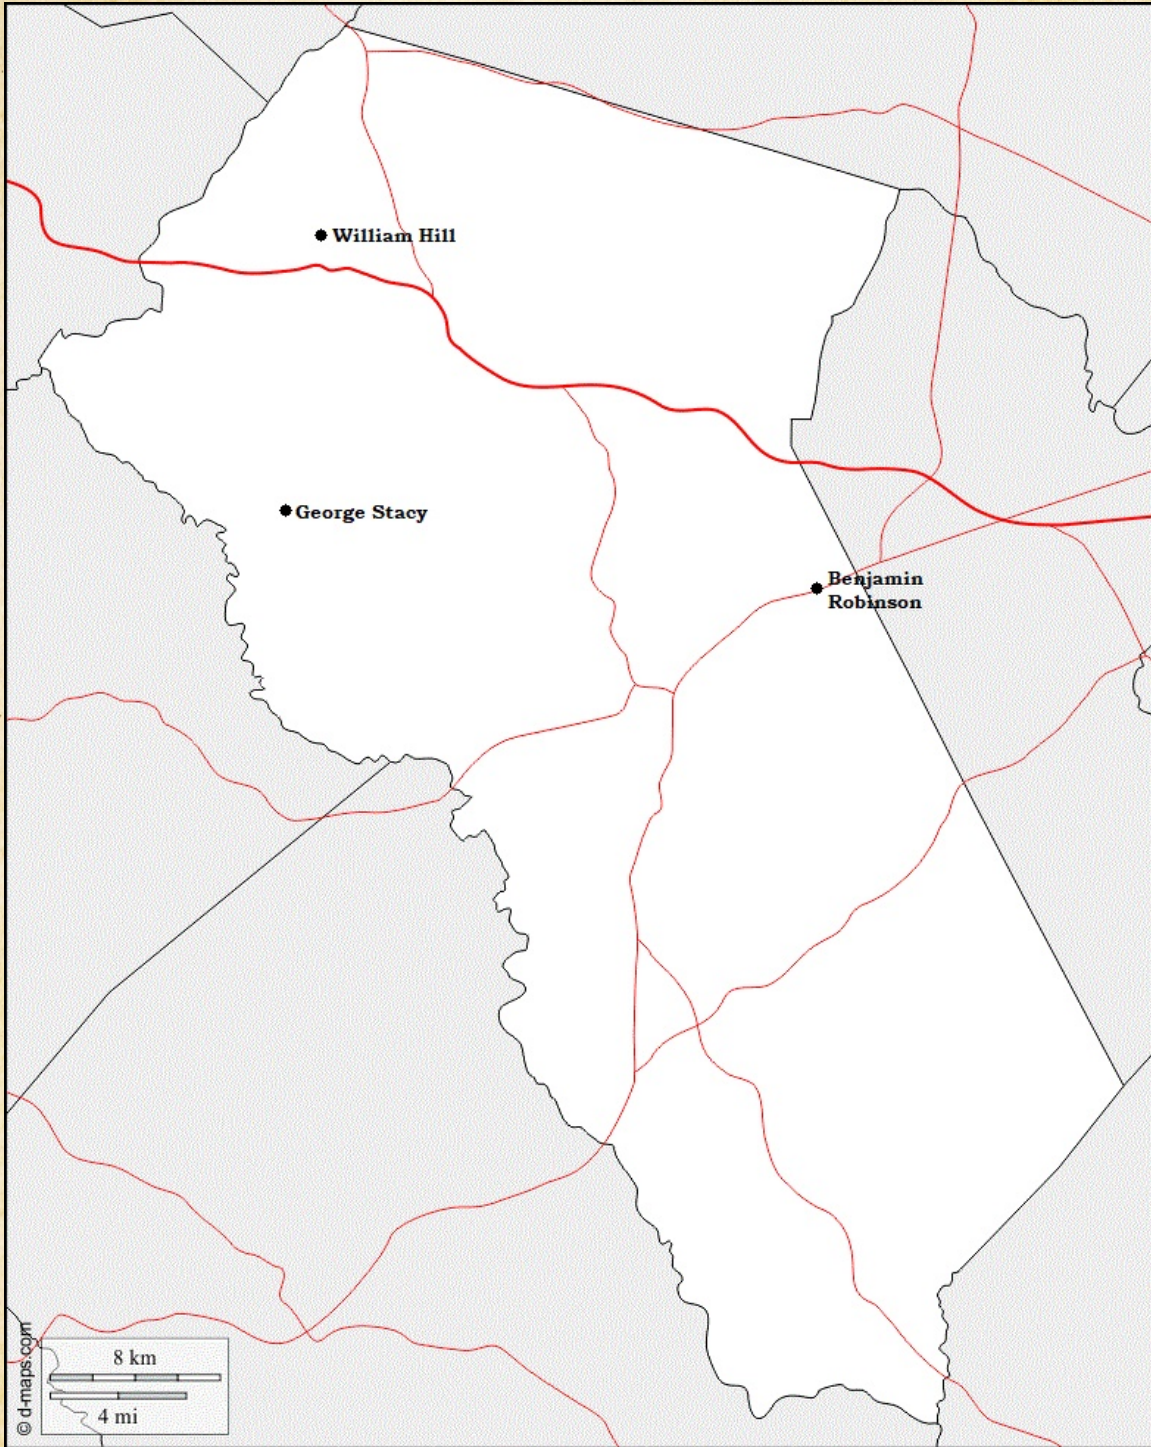

While John managed to dodge jail time, his court career was just getting started. He was sued for debts numerous times in Stafford, Frederick and Fauquier County Court—everywhere he was seemingly plagued by money problems. John was sued by four individuals in four separate debt cases in Fauquier County alone (1765–1768), and counter-sued on one, with both cases being dismissed. As late as 1790, he was in trouble with the Russell County government for not declaring his list of taxable property.

His brother, Simon Stacy was known to the court for his uncouth language, having been presented to the Grand Jury in Stafford for "swearing oaths" and ordered to pay the church wardens 10 shillings or 100 pounds of tobacco in December 1750. Like John, Simon seemed to have regular money problems, having been sued for debt in March 1755, and failed to appear in court. He was sued again for a debt of six pounds in 1758, leading to a promissory note for his debtor, John Counts, the following year. Simon's release from financial difficulties came only with his premature death during the summer of 1762.

Similarly, their much younger brother, George Stacy (c.1736–1767) found himself repeatedly in legal trouble. He was in Fauquier court frequently as he was bombarded by suits for debt, trespass, assault and battery and failing to attend church. He occasionally failed to appear in court, and once even tried to jump bail posted by his brother-in-law, Benjamin Robinson, forcing Robinson to collect him and bring him to court. Occasionally, George would send his lawyer, Cuthbert Bullitt, to court in his stead.<sup>38</sup>

The Stacys' legal troubles weren't confined to the men either. Their sister Elizabeth "Betty" Stacy was presented to a Stafford County grand jury for having a bastard child in December 1750. Having not appeared in court to answer the charge, she was fined in absentia 50 shillings or 500 pounds of tobacco, payable to the church wardens of Overwharton Parish.

A tenant farmer's life was hard enough, but extractive and often distant wardens of the Church of England usually made things worse. While they did offer a number of services to the community, including assistance to the poor and providing for the care of bastards until they reached adulthood, they didn't hesitate to pile the fines on liberally, rich or poor. In addition to punishments for swearing and having illegitimate children, parishioners could be fined for preaching without a license, missing church, not paying tithes, and a number of other trespasses. Mounting frustrations with fees and fines levied by a church that was spread incredibly thin on the frontier was likely a significant factor in the religious revolution that swept Fauquier in the 1760s.

Conversion to the Society of Baptists (1764)

As previously noted, attending the King's Church was mandatory, and missing mass resulted in heavy fines by the court. On November 22, 1764, George Stacy, Charles Littlejohn and his brother Henry Littlejohn were named among a list of 13 men presented by a Grand Jury in Fauquier County "for absenting themselves from their Parish Church within one month past by the knowledge of two of us." The above entry in the court order books is very significant in Stacy history: The abstention from church in November 1764 may have been the first sign of their conversion to Baptism.

It wasn't just George Stacy either. John Stacy and their brothers-in-law, William Hill and Benjamin Robinson, signed The Ten-Thousand-Name Petition in October 1776, indicating they too were rebelling against the King's church.

The petition was an appeal to the Church of England by Virginia Baptists to end its persecution—the fees, the fines and jail time—of Baptists and other religious dissidents. It stands in history as an early demonstration of support for religious freedom that helped pave the way for the Bill of Rights. And it shows that all of the Fauquier County Stacy relatives—including the in-laws—were so frustrated with the Church of England that they had broken from it, even at risk of incurring fines, before the Revolutionary War had ensured a break from English authorities.

The path to this break was a long one. The Church of England enjoyed nearly absolute power in the colonies, even having toppled the Catholic rulers of Maryland in the previous century. But the vast wooded expanses and thinly stretched resources of the frontier posed new challenges for the Church's power, and new renegade denominations saw opportunities in the masses of grumbling parishioners like the Stacys, long fed up with regulations, fines, church wardens, tithes and vast distances to church.

When Fauquier County was established in 1759, there was a single, massive parish called Hamilton, and only two churches, both of them Episcopal: Elk Run, a fancy brick building near Germantown, and St. Mary's, better known as Turkey Run church, a barn-like frame building of "no architectural merit" just south of Fauquier Court House (now Warrenton). Both were in the southern half of the county and families from the northern part of the county had to travel vast distances—some more than 25 miles—to keep the sabbath holy. The Stacys likely attended Turkey Run, grudgingly traveling the 19 miles down primitive gravel paths on horseback.

The first rector in what later became Fauquier County, Rev. James Keith (d. 1751), had his work cut out for him. He was understandably vexed by the immense size of his parish, which encompassed the entire county, and unbelievably, part of Prince William County as well. Not long after Fauquier was formed, Baptists began creeping in with the creation of Broad Run Baptist Church in 1762. Their presence expanded to Carter Run in 1769 and Thumb Run in 1771. The Baptists, initially persecuted, fined and occasionally imprisoned by authorities, rapidly turned the tables in the extremely sparse parish and by 1775, the Church of England was fighting for survival in Fauquier.

The rapid shift came partially as a result of the succession of the "almost constantly drunk" John Brunskill Jr. as rector of Hamilton Parish in 1753. Brunskill, had been accused of a variety of crimes and replaced by James Craig in 1762, a noted "speaker of paralyzing dullness," but by then parishioners were clamoring for a new parish. They got it in 1769 when the northern half of Hamilton was split off into Leeds Parish and four new chapels built. But in the meantime, the "new light" doctrine of the Society of Baptists, led in Fauquier by the eloquent and learned David Thomas, was spreading from farmer to farmer, winning converts right under the noses of the old guard.

Following the teachings of religious revolutionaries like George Whitfield and Samuel Davies, the Baptists were the ideal frontier religion—they advocated a simple, emotive faith that bucked secular authorities, exhorting believers to trust only the pages of the Bible and declare surrender to God through baptism as an adult. For those at the top of the power structure, these were blasphemies that weakened their grip on power and put the very souls of their flock in jeopardy, but to an average tenant farmer it must have felt like sweet relief since they converted in large numbers. Only the very wealthy maintained their Church of England connections in any great numbers.

The initial response of the government was indifference: The Toleration Act of 1689 had ensured that minority religions were protected, provided that preachers bought a license and parishioners continued to pay tithes to the Church of England. But when John Pickett, founder of the Carter Run Baptist Church, was arrested in February 1770, it gave him an opportunity to rally the troops. The controversy only made him more popular among the common folk. Over the next several years leading to the Revolutionary War, the power of the Church of England steadily declined on the frontier, and these early Baptists took their new religion across the American South and Midwest.<sup>39</sup>

What church the Stacys and Littlejohns attended in these early years is unknown. There are no Stacy, Littlejohn, Hill, Edwards, Ashby or Robinson names in Broad Run Baptist Church minutes until 1780 when Dixon Robinson, the son of Benjamin Robinson and Sarah Stacy, was baptized into the faith. There were no other Baptist churches in Fauquier until after the death of George Stacy. The Littlejohns may have later attended Thumb Run Baptist Church (at the time called "The Manor Church" because it was the first Baptist church in Leeds Manor) from its inception in 1772.

Abandoning the Church of England out of prolonged frustration was the first break with the Old Country. The final break was set off by gunfire in Lexington, Massachusetts on April 19, 1775.

The Revolutionary War (1775–1783)

The shots fired at Lexington and Concord deeply divided the American colonies, and the Stacys were no different; the family was deeply divided during the Revolutionary War, with a few children of Simon and George Stacy becoming loyalists. Most of the family however, fought for independence, with some giving their lives during the struggle.

At the time the first shots of the American Revolution were fired, the descendants of John Stacy lived primarily in Frederick and Fauquier Counties. These backwater counties rallied enthusiastically to pre-Declaration calls for companies of minutemen as Virginia entered the war effort.<sup>40</sup>

So enthusiastic were Virginians to declare independence, that they did so at the 5th Virginia Convention on May 15, 1776, two months before the Continental Congress. The Convention instructed its delegates to introduce a resolution for independence at the Continental Congress that met in Philadelphia. Richard Henry Lee did so on June 7, and the Continental Congress adopted the Lee Resolution on July 2. Two days later, when Thomas Jefferson's language was adopted, independence was formally declared.

After the battle of Great Bridge on December 9, 1775, very little conflict took place in Virginia, as the British concentrated on isolating Massachusetts from the rest of the colonies, hoping to choke off the rebels and end the problem. That plan collapsed with their defeat at Saratoga in late 1777 and later battles in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania in 1778–79 produced the same results. The war finally returned to Virginia in May 1779 when Admiral George Collier landed troops at Hampton Roads and used Portsmouth as a base of attack.

Despite the relative peace in Virginia through the first four years of the war, many Virginians served in theaters further north, the Stacys among them from at least 1777. Others fought in South Carolina after the British captured Charleston and pushed inland toward the high country.

From the York branch three Stacys served, all sons of Simon Stacy of Sussex County, Virginia:

Simon Stacy (1742–1778) served in the 15th Virginia Regiment from at least June 1777 and last appears in the muster rolls of John Gregory in June 1778 where it was noted he was “sick [at] Valley Forge” and “died in the service of the United States” according to the Revolutionary War pension application of his widow, Sarah. She received payments of eighty pounds per year from 1787 until at least May 1804.

Lawrence Stacy (1754–c.1783). In Revolutionary War rolls there is a “Lewis Stacy” who served with Stephen Stacy in the 11th Virginia Regiment. This can only be Lawrence. Lawrence enlisted on February 10, 1777 and was named in muster rolls of December 1778. He died shortly after the war, likely in 1783 or early 1784, when he is mentioned as having left unpaid debts in his father’s will.

Stephen Stacy (1761–aft. 1800) enlisted on March 6, 1777 and initially served under Capt. James Gray in the 15th Virginia Regiment. He served out the winter of 1778 at Valley Forge, and may have been present when his brother died. He later served in the 11th Virginia Regiment with his brother, Lawrence, and was stationed at White Plains, New York and Newark, New Jersey in September 1778, later transferring to Pumpton and Middlebrook. He was mustered out in November 1779, and later moved to North Carolina.

From the Stafford County branch:

John Stacy (c.1758–aft. 1810) served in the 2nd Virginia under Capt. Jones and Col. Spotswood. Named in muster rolls of 1777. This regiment was mustered from Prince William and Frederick Counties. John also served in the Montgomery County, Virginia militia in March 1781. He later moved to Hardin County, Kentucky.

George Stacy (c.1760–aft. 1836) was mustered in Capt. John Blackwell's company, 3rd Virginia Regiment in Alexandria, Virginia. He was commanded by Col. Neavill in June 1779. He later moved to Mercer County, Kentucky.

George Stacy (c.1760–aft. 1834) (Loyalist) enlisted in the Upper Ninety-Six Loyalist Militia in June 1780, just weeks after the fall of Fort Ninety-Six left his district vulnerable to British invasion. He later evacuated Fort Ninety-Six and King's Mountain when they fell to patriot forces. He served in the Dragoons until late 1781. After the war, he settled in Camden District, South Carolina, later relocating to Monroe County, Alabama.

Peter Stacy (c.1762–c.1781) (Loyalist) enlisted with George Stacy in the Upper Ninety-Six Loyalist Militia in June 1780. After evacuating Fort Ninety-Six in 1781 he seems to vanish, and his fate remains unknown.

Robert Stacy (c.1764–1849): Robert enlisted in the Spartan Regiment in June 1782 and served 66 days as a horseman in the company of Capt. Mapp, regiment of Col. Benjamin Roebuck. He was mustered out in October 1782 and was in no engagements, though he served briefly under Gen. Andrew Pickens as he hunted loyalists in Georgia. After the war, he settled in Spartanburg District, South Carolina.

Chapter IV: The Westward Migration to Kentucky & Tennessee (1782–1800)

In last two decades of the eighteenth century, relentless westward migration and poor farming techniques had rendered much of the soil in eastern Virginia up to the Blue Ridge unplantable, at least for a demanding crop like tobacco. George Washington described local farming methods as “ruinous” and visiting English farmer William Strickland noted “Virginia farms of the area were much worn out... nearly exhausted... and tobacco and maize... a curse.”

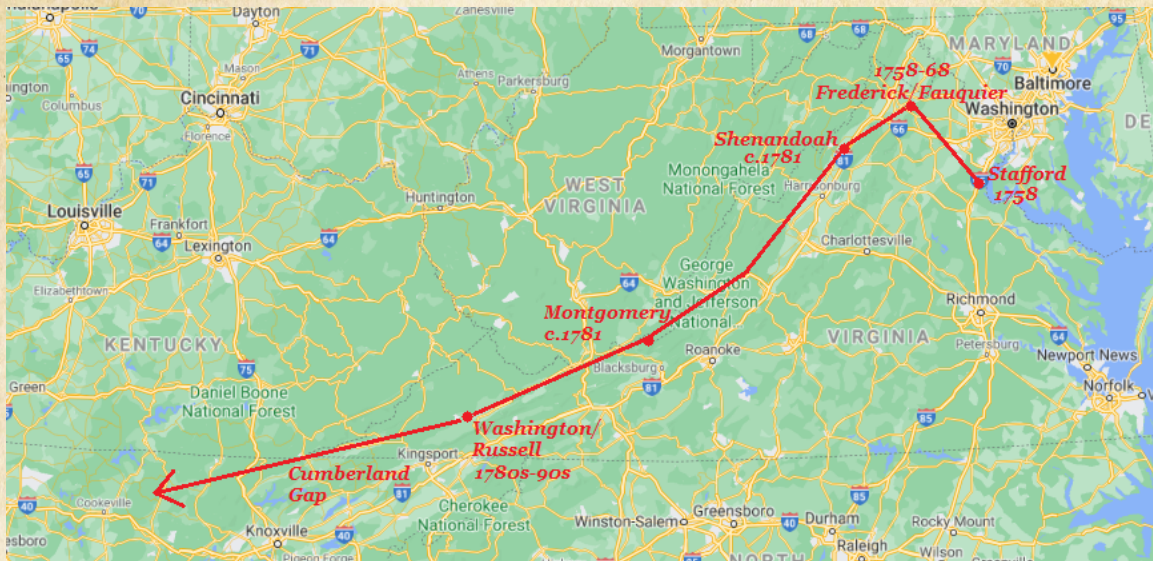

During the years of the Revolution, farmers and planters of Fauquier County continued to struggle with depleted soil and declining yields, but in 1781 a drought struck the county, prompting a number of residents to pick up and move further west. William Hill moved about sixty miles west to Shenandoah County, Virginia, a wild and sparsely populated locale nestled deep in the Appalachian Mountains, though he would return to Fauquier the following year; Benjamin Robinson remained in Fauquier the remainder of his life. John Stacy, however, decided to leave forever. By then, all three men at least sixty years of age. Prompted by the promise of land fertile, cheap farmland, the next generation in the Stacy, Hill and Robinson families would continue the migration west into Tennessee and Kentucky.

After the Revolutionary War concluded, a mass exodus from the Virginia Piedmont led by Daniel Boone brought thousands of settlers through the Cumberland Gap, a natural pass through the Appalachian Mountains formed by prehistoric stream activity near the point where Kentucky, Virginia and Tennessee meet between what are now the towns of Middlesboro, Kentucky and Cumberland Gap, Tennessee. Even very wealthy landowners like Thomas Marshall relocated to Kentucky as their once grand Virginia plantations turned to sand.<sup>41</sup>

This migration to Kentucky and Tennessee finally gave the Stacys the opportunity to own land for the first time in nearly a century, building household wealth and pulling them out of the trappings of cyclical poverty. By 1781, John Stacy, the last Stacy brother confirmed living, migrated more than 230 miles south along the Blue Ridge Mountains to join his nephew Benjamin Stacy in Montgomery County, Virginia, where both were reportedly members of the local militia under Capt. Daniel Triggs. By 1784, John Stacy had moved to Washington County, and signed a petition to break off a segment of it to form Russell County in 1787. It was in Russell County that John Stacy spent his remaining years, as his children began migrating into Tennessee and Kentucky.

William Stacy (c.1756–March 1838), younger son of Simon, pioneered the family’s move out of Virginia and into the landed class when he bought property in Hawkins County, Tennessee on October 24, 1782. He remained in Goshen Valley the rest of his life and is believed to be buried in Stacy Cemetery on Goshen Valley Road.

William’s older brother, Benjamin Stacy (1744–aft.1820), first appeared outside of Virginia in Wilkes County, North Carolina at the 1792 marriage of his son, Simon; by 1800 he was named in a tax list in Green County, Kentucky; within a few years, he had finally settled in Jackson County, Tennessee, where he died in the 1820s. His son, Benjamin Jr. was living in Lincoln County, Kentucky by 1798.

By 1803, Simon Stacy Jr. (c.1762–1822) had packed up his growing family and moved forty miles across the mountains into Kentucky, following other Stacy and Combs relatives. On November 15, 1817, he bought 50 acres from John Carnum on the North Fork (“Carrs Fork”) of the Kentucky River in Perry County. He spent the remainder of his life in Perry County and died at around age sixty.

John Stacy (called Junior, c.1760–aft.1810) appears in records for Montgomery County, Virginia (1781–85), tithables for Washington County (1784–86) and Russell County, Virginia (1787–89, 1793, 1795, specifically as “John Stacy Jr.”). He is found in Green County, Kentucky in 1800–1809 with Benjamin Stacy (his cousin) and Mason Stacy (son of Benjamin). He moved to Hardin County, Kentucky in 1810, the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, not long after the future president was born. Another son of John Stacy Sr., George, settled in Mercer County, Kentucky in the early 19th century. Other Stacys moved slightly northwest into Scott or Buchanan County, Virginia, where some of their descendants still live and numerous places have been named in their honor.

By far the most interesting Stacy migration story from this period was that of the volatile Peter Stacy.

Peter Stacy and the Cattle Wars (1806)

Peter Stacy (c.1768–c.1818), the youngest son of John Stacy (c.1720–c.1795), was a farmer and frontiersman as well as a powder keg of trouble who had repeated run-ins with the law, culminating in the Cattle Wars of Clay County, Kentucky, and finally, his own death at the hands of his own son-in-law.

Peter grew up largely in Montgomery and Russell County, Virginia as the Stacy family migrated southwest along the mountains. He makes his first appearance in public records in a tithables list in 1789 Russell County, and served three months in 1794 as a private in the Hawkins regiment of Hamilton District Militia for the protection of the frontiers southwest of the Ohio River. The following year, he bought land in Hawkins County, Tennessee, but sold it for unknown reasons just four days later and moved back to Russell County.

After returning from his brief foray into the Tennessee frontier, Peter was regularly in trouble for fist fights. He and his cousin, George Robinson, were hauled in front of a grand jury for a fight in November 1796; the following April, Peter again found himself in court for “fighting and profanely swearing.” He was in court every year through 1801 and again in 1805 until he finally left Russell County and settled in Clay County, Kentucky.

In April 1806, Peter was involved in a dispute over grazing rights near the Kentucky River that erupted into bloodshed. A man named John Amis slaughtered 20 cattle when he found them grazing on what he believed was his property near the fork of the Kentucky River. A group of men, including Peter Stacy, stormed Amis’s home and confronted his wife in support of William Strong, to whom the cattle had belonged. Things didn’t go well, and Stacy is said to have ended a heated argument by pistol-whipping Kate Amis in the face.

The men left shortly thereafter, but a furious Kate Amis sent a slave after them, supposedly to shoot the men. Realizing they were being followed, Peter Stacy hid behind some bushes and shot the slave in the head as he approached. This of course further escalated matters, and led to Amis summoning a small army of 30 men to exact revenge. After a shootout that left two horses dead and two men wounded, the parties agreed to settle the matter in court. But while testifying in the matter on August 5, 1807, John Amis was shot dead on the witness stand by Joel Elkins, of the rival “North Forkers.” The incident was later memorialized in a poem by Cana Baker.<sup>42</sup>

Peter Stacy remained in Clay County, and had two daughters, Isabella and Sarah, who married in 1813 and 1816 respectively. In 1817 or 1818, Peter evidently met his end at the hand of his own family. According to genealogist Barbara Stacy Mathews, “the John Jay Dickey Diary states that Peter was ‘killed with a knife’ by his son-in-law.” The diary does not state which one, but Mathews suspected it was John Spencer, who had married Sarah Stacy.

Places named for descendants of Simon Stacy

During their migrations across the southern states, the Stacys left their names on dozens of natural features, political boundaries, streets and other places. The places known to be named for members of this Stacy family are as follows:

Stacy, Buchanan County, Virginia
Stacy Branch, Scott County, Virginia
Stacy Fork, Morgan County, Kentucky
Stacy, Perry County, Kentucky
Stacy Branch, Perry County, Kentucky
Stacy Branch, Breathitt County, Kentucky
Stacy Falls, Casey County, Kentucky
Stacy School and Stacy Post Office, Perry County, Kentucky
Stacy, Concordia County, Louisiana
Stacy, Natchitoches Parish, Louisiana
Stacy Oil Field, Concordia County, Louisiana
Stacy, Hawkins County, Tennessee
Stacy Ridge, Jackson County, Tennessee
Stacy Spring, Cumberland County, Tennessee<sup>43</sup>

This list is not comprehensive; there certainly may be others. These are just the places named for Stacys where descendants of Simon are known to have lived across the Kentucky, Tennessee, Louisiana and the western counties of Virginia in the late 18th and early 19th centuries.

Chapter V: The South Carolina Stacys 1777–1800

The Bluegrass Stacys of Tennessee and Kentucky have been thoroughly documented by a number of genealogists going back decades, most notably on the website combs-families.org. Much of that work is included in the genealogies of Section II. Less well-explored are the descendants of George Stacy, youngest son of John and Dorothy, whose children populated Spartanburg and Clarendon County, South Carolina.

George's descendants were the only branch of the Stafford County Stacys that migrated south, rather than west to Buchanan County, Virginia, Kentucky or Tennessee. Owing a twist of fate to an early death and remarriage, they split with the rest of the family and instead moved to South Carolina, establishing themselves near what is today the city of Gaffney.

Like his brother Simon, George Stacy lived a short and difficult life marred by personal and financial difficulties. Judging by his run-ins with the law, he seems to have been cavalier, unruly, and held a low regard for both church and government authority. He was also a rugged frontiersman and skilled enough with a rifle to hunt wolves for the county, whose severed heads he brought to Fauquier Court House in exchange for a bounty of 100 pounds of tobacco.

George grew up on or near the Bailey Washington plantation on Aquia Creek in Stafford County and joined the migration of his older brothers Simon and John to the mountains of Frederick County in 1758. Evidence from the 1759 tithables list of Fauquier County suggests he quickly found work as a tenant on the property of Charles Littlejohn (c.1732–1824), who had leased 150 acres of Leeds Manor from Lord Fairfax in 1757. The exact location of the Littlejohn farm has been lost, but using his closest neighbors on the tithables list as proximity indicators, it was likely on Leeds Manor Road just south of what is now the village of Hume, Virginia.

The Manor of Leeds

The Manor of Leeds, which took its name from Leeds Castle in Kent, was part of the 5.2 million-acre Fairfax Proprietary surveyed by John Warner for Thomas, 6th Lord Fairfax, in 1736. The Proprietary, which essentially encompassed all the land in Virginia between the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers, was a gift from King Charles II to the Culpeper family in 1649, awarded for their unwavering loyalty during his exile and eventual restoration to the throne in 1660. The Fairfaxes married into the Culpepers and inherited the land before the close of the 17th century.

Though just a small corner of the Proprietary, Leeds Manor encompassed 146,462 acres in Fauquier, Frederick and Loudoun Counties. It ran from the northern branch of the Rappahannock on its southwestern side to the mouth of Carter's Run, to the branches of Goose Creek on the northern side, and out northwest to the Blue Ridge mountains between Happy Creek Gap and Ashby's Bent Gap.<sup>44</sup>

Beginning in the 1750s, Lord Fairfax began dividing the Manor into leases of 150 to 300 acres. The leases typically allotted terms and conditions as follows:

The renter agrees to pay all quitrent and taxes, use only the wood and timber upon the land for the running of said plantation. build or repair a dwelling house 16 square, tabacco house 24'x20', plant and fence in 100 apple trees and will work only three field hands with one overseer per 100 acres.

Thomas, Sixth Lord Fairfax (1693–1781, pictured at left) was so wealthy he owned at one point more than 5.2 million acres between the Rappahannock and Potomac Rivers, roughly 20% of the entire colony of Virginia. Despite his almost unfathomable wealth, he was revered as a simple and humble man, who typically wore the plain clothes of a common farmer and gave away vast quantities of food to his tenants every year. Rather than inhabiting the family castle in England or a vast plantation estate like the Lees, his primary residence was essentially a large hunting lodge in the Shenandoah Valley where he chiefly occupied himself with his life's greatest passion—fox hunting.

Though loyal to the crown, Lord Fairfax was sympathetic to the colonists in their grievances against England. This only served to increase his popularity with his American neighbors and tenants, including a young George Washington. The relationship between the two stretched from Washington's teenage years until the end of the baron's life. The effect of this relationship on Washington's development was significant. Fairfax was the man young Washington aspired to be; socially prominent, well-connected, and involved in important affairs. Even through the tensions of the revolutionary era, Washington remained respectful, even affectionate toward the aging aristocrat until his death in late 1781.<sup>45</sup> Shortly after the end of the Revolutionary War, the United States Congress broke up the Fairfax proprietary and put an end to "titled" Americans.

The Edwards Family of Westmoreland County, Virginia

According to a suit in Frederick County court in 1759, George Stacy married a woman named Jemima. Circumstantial evidence that will be presented in Part II suggests she was born Jemima Edwards in 1737 to Ignatius and Mary Edwards, then of St. Paul Parish, Stafford County. Historical evidence suggests that Jemima descends from Meredith Edwards, an Englishman who was transported to Maryland by John Filer in late 1675, and was granted land in Westmoreland County, Virginia in 1694.

Meredith, a neighbor of Lawrence Washington (grandfather of George), wrote his will shortly before his death in the summer of 1712 naming his four children as John, William, Thomas and Eleanor and his wife as Ann Edwards. Ann's maiden name went unrecorded, but beginning with the Register of the Kentucky State Historical Society, Vol. 17 No. 49 in 1919, several Edwards genealogies give her name as Ann Harrison. The source for this is evidently family tradition. Though these traditions claim she was a daughter of the elite Harrisons of Surry County, no such person appears in records or established Harrison genealogies. She was more likely from the Harrison family of Westmoreland, many of whom migrated to Stafford County and are found in the Overwharton Parish register. Court records indicate that by September 1713, she had remarried to Charles Hall and is likely the Ann Hall who signed her will in Westmoreland County on January 15, 1750/1 and died prior to March 16, 1751.

As early as 1716, the three sons of Meredith and Ann Edwards began migrating north along the coast, buying up land in King George and Spotsylvania County. Willam's son, Haden Edwards, was baptized in St. Paul Parish Church, Stafford County in 1716; Thomas Edwards was named as a landowner in a deed in Spotsylvania County in 1722, appearing in a number of King George County records through 1755; and John Edwards bought land in King George in 1723 and Spotsylvania in 1731.

Assembling data from original records and making some judgements based on locality and child-naming patterns, we can surmise John's children were Susanna, Ignatius, Elizabeth, Meredith, Andrew, William, Bridget and Thomas Edwards, born between around 1706 and 1740, probably via two or three different wives, with the second being Jane Arrington of Westmoreland County. Most of John's older children remained near him in King George and Spotsylvania, while his oldest, Ignatius, and younger children settled in Stafford County's Overwharton Parish.

William Edwards (bef.1687–aft. Nov. 25, 1746), had two documented sons, Haden and Benjamin Edwards, although there were assuredly other children. Per a family account dating to 1925 or earlier, they were Haden, Benjamin, John, Mary, Robert, Rebecca, Martha and Jeanette. Haden Edwards of Stafford County (1716–1803), who was in turn father of John Edwards (1748–c.1834) the first elected United States Senator from Kentucky. John was the father of Haden (1771–1849) and Benjamin Edwards (1780–1837), who were proto-revolutionaries in Texas and orchestrated the Fredonian Rebellion against Mexico in 1826.

Thomas Edwards (bef.1696–1774) bought up property all over Prince William, Spotsylvania and King George Counties before finally settling in his native Westmoreland County. Per his will and other court records, his wife was named Alice Howell and his children were William, Thomas, Mary Sargent, Franky and Alice Edwards. His son Thomas (1762–1832) was ancestor to Frances Wickliffe Edwards Roberts (1819–1883) First Lady of Texas from 1879 to 1883.

Dr. John Edwards (bef.1691–1743), who along with Thomas was called “gentleman,” began appearing in the court papers of King George County in 1723; though he owned properties in Fredericksburg, Williamsburg, Spotsylvania County and King George County he appears to have been based in King George; he was sworn as sheriff and gentleman justice there in 1737. He was sued in both Westmoreland and King George County court by Augustine Washington, father of the future president, in 1721 and 1724. Between 1731 and 1742, John Edwards appears in Spotsylvania County court records and bought a city lot in Fredericksburg, Virginia. He died between June and November, 1743 and his estate was probated in King George County on Dec. 2, 1743, with administration changing hands from Richard Tutt to Meredith Edwards by 1747.

John Edwards and Jane Arrington are identified as the parents of the Overwharton Parish Edwards clan in the 1929 article “General John Edwards King of Kentucky. A Sketch by His Great Granddaughter, Goode King Feldhauser of St. Paul, Minnesota,” Register of Kentucky State Historical Society Vol. 27, No. 80. This marriage is confirmed by a well-supported genealogy of the Monroe Family by George Harrison Sanford King. Specifically, John is named as the father of Elizabeth Edwards, who married William King in Overwharton Parish in May 1738. Elizabeth King’s son, Robert King (d. 1814) is buried alongside Jesse Edwards (1742–1795), documented son of Ignatius Edwards, in the tiny family cemetery called King-Roles in Stafford County, establishing a clear kinship link. Elizabeth’s youngest son, John Edwards King (1757–1828) was a general, called a “military genius” and famous son of Kentucky.

Ignatius Edwards (bef.1709–Oct. 15, 1750), father of Jemima, was almost certainly the eldest son of Dr. John Edwards and an undocumented first wife. Given that his given name was Catholic, she may have been native to Maryland. In October 1730, Ignatius leased 50 acres adjacent to Brent's Rock to Henry Wigginton on the north side of Aquia Creek roughly where route 635 now ends. This tract was later sold to Thomas Porter by Wigginton. After the lease, Ignatius removed to Maryland, where he was living at the birth of his son Ignatius in 1732. By 1737 he was back in Stafford County, where his daughter Jemima was baptized at St. Paul Parish; from at least 1742 to his death, he lived in Overwharton Parish. Edwards authored his will in November 1748, not long after his last child was born, and may have suffered from a protracted illness. He was however well enough to witness a deed in Prince William County court in June 1750. He died the following October, probably in his early forties.

A combination of his will and parish records indicate his children were:

1. Susanna Edwards b. c.1729 d. aft. Nov. 1748
2. Isabel Edwards b. c.1730 d. aft. Nov. 1748
3. Ignatius Edwards b. 1732 in Maryland; d. July 28, 1757
4. Leanna "Leah" Edwards b. c.1734 m. John Carter c.1751
5. Jemima Edwards b. Mar. 4, 1736/7 in St. Paul Parish, Stafford County; d.1816
6. Baker Edwards (c.1738–aft.1810) m. Sarah Stacy May 6, 1757
7. John Edwards d. Feb. 24, 1744 in Overwharton Parish
8. Jesse Edwards (Feb. 14, 1742–May 15, 1795) of Overwharton, m. Elizabeth
9. Anne Edwards b. July 17, 1745 in Overwharton Parish
10. Sarah Edwards b. June 28, 1748 in Overwharton Parish

His wife, Mary, was left to rear the children after her husband's early death, and was dead herself by June 1764. Her parentage is uncertain, though given she had a son named Baker, it's possible that was her maiden name. If this is the case, the only reasonable candidate is Mary, daughter of John Baker (c.1678–1728) and Elizabeth Butler of Westmoreland County.

Jemima Edwards began life in rough circumstances; despite her gentleman grandfather's wealth, her father seemed to have lived more humbly and left no land to his survivors: only some bedding, furniture, a pan, some clothing, a gun and a few head of livestock were bequeathed. At only fourteen years old, she was already pregnant when her father died, and gave birth out of wedlock in the spring of 1751. In May, she was cited by Stafford County court for having given birth to a bastard and ordered to pay the church wardens 50 shillings or 500 pounds of tobacco for the indiscretion.

On May 6, 1757, Jemima's brother, Baker Edwards, married 14-year-old Sarah Stacy, a daughter of Simon Stacy and Judith Tolson of Stafford County. Within months, the whole Stacy clan joined a mass migration out of Stafford into the mountains of Frederick County; Jemima's uncle, Andrew Edwards, was a tavern proprietor in nearby Prince William County, and her eldest brother, Ignatius, also appears in records there in 1753 and 1756. After the dissolution of George Stacy's engagement to Sarah Ashby in Frederick County, he moved to Prince William and apparently became re-acquainted with Jemima, whom he likely knew in Stafford County due to the earlier Stacy-Edwards marriage. Their marriage went unrecorded, but probably occurred between April and August, 1759 in Prince William or Fauquier County. On September 6, 1759 Sarah Ashby, George's former fiancée, dropped her suit in Frederick County court against "George Stacy and Jemima his wife" having recently been wed herself.

Ignatius Edwards, the Deserter

Jemima's brother Ignatius had on May 1, 1756 the misfortune of being conscripted into military service at Stafford and assigned to Fort Loudoun, a new fortification being constructed to protect colonists from attacks by Indians and their French allies. The size rolls give a description of Ignatius Edwards as a 24-year-old carpenter who stood only 5'5" with a big nose, average build, and fondly describe him as a "good dancer and fiddler." Given his evidently free-spirited nature and skill as a craftsman, Ignatius was spared the rigors of infantry life and instead deployed to Fort Loudoun to be put to work as an artificer.

This should have been the end of the story, but there was just one problem: Ignatius Edwards loathed military service and was determined to escape it. In a single year he deserted three times and was each time arrested and returned to his fuming colonel, 25-year-old George Washington. After ignoring warnings from Washington that he would face the gallows if he persisted in deserting, he was duly court-martialed following his third arrest.

The proceedings, which Washington attended, took place over July 25 and 26, 1757. Edwards pled guilty, and from the beginning, things didn't go well for him. His defense was less than spirited, and despite prosecutors giving him every chance to lay the blame on his superiors, he denied any mistreatment and said that simply he simply didn't recall being warned not to desert:

He was then asked what had induced him to be guilty of so heinous a Crime the Penalties of which he had been often told & perticularly made well acquainted with when he last joined the Regiment & in the warmest Manner exhorted to avoid? He answer'd he had heard the Articles against Desertion read but had not by any Exhortation or Command else as he cou'd recollect been advised or order'd to avoid the Penalties by Them inflicted.

This weak defense did not impress the court, and when Col. Washington was sworn, he directly contradicted this claim:

Colo. George Washington (being sworn) declared that he exhorted the Draughts in general to act well & told them that by a good Behavior they wou'd not only prevent Punishments & harsh Treatment, but make him & the rest of the Officers do every Thing in their Power to render the Service agreeable & that after he had in general spoke to all the Draughts then present he addressed himself to the Prisoner in perticular & told him that (as he had already been twice pardoned for the villanous & shameful Crime of Desertion) he ought for the future to be perticularly careful of his Behavior & never more think of deserting for that shou'd he desert again & be apprehended Nothing cou'd prevent his being hanged—He likewise declares that an Offer was made him from the Prisoner and William Brent in his behalf that he (the Prisoner) for a Discharge wou'd procure a Man to serve in his Room & that he (the Colo.) told them that as he had been an old Offender he wou'd not for any Consideration discharge him.

Capt. Robert Stuart also swore under oath that he heard Washington tell Edwards that he could be hanged for desertion. Edwards then claimed he had told Washington that he would pay another man to serve in his stead, an offer Washington declined on account of Edwards already being a deserter. On July 26, the court sentenced Ignatius Edwards to death. The sentence was carried out on Fort Loudoun's gallows on Thursday, July 28 according to a letter by George Washington to Robert Dinwiddie, then Governor of Virginia. In a brief passage, Washington had some scathing words for Edwards and another deserter, William Smith:

August 3, 1757.

I send your Honor a copy of the proceedings of a General Court martial.

Two of those condemned, namely, Ignatious Edwards, and Wm. Smith, were hanged on Thursday last, just before the companies marched for their respective posts.

Your Honor will, I hope excuse my hanging, instead of shooting them. It conveyed much more terror to others; and it was for example sake, we did it. They were proper objects to suffer: Edwards had deserted twice before, and Smith was accounted one of the greatest villains upon the continent.

George Washington

While Washington's hanging of a simple "dancer and fiddler" for the crime of not wanting to serve may seem harsh to some, context is important. During the summer of 1757, Washington was facing a crisis of mass-desertion. Of a mere two hundred recruits he managed to draft and march to Winchester in July, more than a fourth of them deserted, with twenty-four of them slipping away in a single night. Most of them were eventually recaptured, though gunfire was exchanged and one deserter was killed, with a pursuing soldier wounded. Without filling his ranks, not only would Washington not be able to complete the fort, he would be unable to fulfill a directive set by the House of Burgesses a few weeks earlier to send a regiment to defend South Carolina. With war with the French in full swing, the heat was on. The recruiting situation was so dire that Governor Dinwiddie, who by law had to approve all military hangings, sent blank death warrants for the increasingly frustrated Washington to use at will. The young colonel noted his intent to use them to scare deserters into compliance a letter to a colleague: "I have a gallows near forty foot high erected (which has terrified the rest exceedingly) and I am determined if I can be justified in the proceeding, to hang two or three on it, as an example to others."

Though the hangings likely did inspire fear among recruits, it did not stop the desertions. Weeks later, eight companies still could not count more than 90 rank and file soldiers. Washington and his superiors attributed their problems to the “pusillanimity of the people.” A more specific explanation might be that because most of Washington’s recruits were unemployed vagrants, they were ill-equipped for impressment into military service.

While not a vagrant, George Stacy had his own ongoing issues, with much of them playing out in Fauquier County court over several years. In July 1762 he was sued by lawyers on behalf of John Glassford, the Scottish “tobacco lord” and one of the wealthiest men in Britain (pictured at left), over a debt George owed at Glassford’s store in Dumfries, Virginia. George pleaded “non assumpsit” (in other words, “I never agreed to this obligation”) and the case dragged on for nearly two years. George acknowledged the debt in March 1763 and the court found for Glassford in the sum of twelve pounds, nineteen shillings and eleven pence, but George still hadn’t paid up a year later, leaving Glassford to sue his bondsman, Thomas Williams.

George was similarly sued by future Revolutionary War hero Daniel Morgan (pictured at left) for trespass, assault and battery in May 1763 and fined 100 pounds; he was sued again for debt by merchant William Allason and in both cases, failed to show up in court. Allason eventually sued Benjamin Robinson, George’s brother-in-law and bondsman, for the six-pound debt. Robinson “surrendered up the said Stacey” to the court in August 1765, and the case against Robinson was dismissed. After this court date, George’s legal troubles seemed to have quieted down and the record is silent for more than two years.<sup>46</sup>

The quiet was punctuated by an untimely end. George Stacy died suddenly in October 1767, at about the age of 30. The cause was not documented, but a coroner’s inquest was initiated, suggesting he died by accident or misadventure, rather than illness. His burial location is unknown, but it was most likely in one of the hundreds of family cemeteries near his home in Leeds Manor. No record of George’s children has survived; it is likely the earliest ones were born and baptized in Hamilton Parish. The latter children, born following his conversion to the Baptist Church in 1764, would not have been baptized as infants. His widow, <sup>46</sup> Gen. Daniel Morgan (1736–1802) led a rebel victory at the Battle of Cowpens in January 1781. If George Stacy assaulted Morgan himself, he must have been bold—Morgan was said to be 6 ft., 200 lbs. brawny and fearless, according to historian John K. Gott, who calls him “the most famous military man in Virginia next to Washington.” See Gott’s Fauquier County in the Revolution.

Jemima, evidently remarried to their close neighbor and probable landlord, Charles Littlejohn, by 1771 and resettled in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina by 1777, the last year Littlejohn appears in the rent rolls of Fauquier County.

George and Jemima Stacy's marriage lasted only about eight years and the number of children it produced is unknown, but may include most or all of the Stacys who appear in upper Ninety-Six District, South Carolina in the 1780s:

1. George Stacy (bef. 1763–aft. 1834), who enlisted in the Upper Ninety-Six Loyalist Militia in June 1780. He served through 1782 in Clarendon County, South Carolina and settled there in 1785, relocating to Monroe County, Alabama in 1822.
2. Peter Stacy (d. aft. July 1781), enlisted with George in the upper Ninety-Six Loyalist Militia in June 1780. He disappears from history after the evacuation of Fort Ninety-Six and may have died shortly thereafter.
3. Robert Stacy (c.1764–Feb. 6, 1849), enlisted in the Spartan Militia, serving as a horseman in the company of Capt. John Mapp, Col. Roebuck's Regiment, between June and October, 1782. He settled in Spartanburg District, which was named for his regiment.
4. Anna Stacy (bef. Dec. 1766–aft. 1810), wife of Shadrach Noland. She was named as "Anna Stacy" in a deed with her husband in Ninety-Six District on December 7, 1787. The Nolands later moved to Tennessee.

All four children were likely born on the Charles Littlejohn plantation in Leeds Manor, near modern-day Hume, Virginia. Though their father's untimely death was likely devastating, their mother's remarriage to Littlejohn improved their fortunes, pulled them out of poverty and likely improved their station in life.

Charles Littlejohn (c.1732–1824)

Like George Stacy, Charles Littlejohn was a native of Stafford County, and moved to Prince George County, Maryland as a child. Following his father's death in 1741, he and his siblings along with their mother relocated to Fairfax County, Virginia, where Charles appears in a list of freeholders in December 1755. His brother Samuel (1733–1813) settled in Fairfax and owned a farm near Occoquan Road, according to county road orders. Charles Littlejohn had married an unknown first wife, who gave birth to his son, Charles Jr. around 1760 and likely died shortly thereafter.

Unlike the hot-headed and debt-ridden Stacy, Charles Littlejohn lived a quiet, prosperous life and almost never appeared in court; he was fined only once for failing to appear in the episcopal church when he converted to Baptism. In the 1759 tithables list of Fauquier County, Charles and his brother Henry Littlejohn appear just three households away from George Stacy. The men between them were not landowners at the time, suggesting they and Stacy were Littlejohn's tenants. Charles's wife appears in the records of Goucher Creek Baptist Church in South Carolina as "Jemimah Littlejohn" and generations of Littlejohn descendants traditionally remembered her as "Jemima Stacy."

On July 2, 1773, Charles Littlejohn filed a memorial with the North Carolina legislature for 300 acres on Little Thicketty Creek in what was then part of Mecklenburg County, North Carolina; by the time he was granted the land on December 8, 1774, it was a part of Ninety-Six District, South Carolina. Today, this property on the north side of Gowdeysville Road in Gaffney, bordered on the east by the old Union County line, about midway between highways 18 and 105. Samuel Littlejohn owned the property that bordered to the southeast, just on the opposite side of the Union/Spartanburg line. It was here that Littlejohn established his homestead, and that his Stacy stepchildren would have likely grown up. They were joined by three new Littlejohns: Henry, born in 1772; Ignatius (named for his maternal grandfather, Ignatius Edwards), in 1777; and Nancy, born c.1779, who later married Peter Ellis.

Robert Stacy, likely George's youngest son, had a large family that became prominent in the city of Gaffney, South Carolina over the next two centuries. His descendants include Frederick Graham, Stacy (1857–1904), who co-founded Gaffney's first bank and was instrumental in the development of its early business life, as well as the formation of Cherokee County; Richmond Stacy (1870–1927), a South Carolina state senator 1915–1919 and 1927; Edwin Booth Stacy, assistant postmaster of Gaffney from 1924–1948; along with numerous veterans of the War of 1812, the Civil War and both World Wars. When Robert's son Chester died in 1895, the Gaffney Ledger noted "he left an honored name to those who bear it."

Descendants of Simon Stacy

First Generation

1. Simon Stacy, son of William Stacy and Jane, was born in April 1640 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 13, 1640 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on January 23, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

Immigrating to Virginia in 1667, he rose from indentured servitude to become a prosperous planter and public servant, serving as constable, grand juror and church vestryman.

Simon Stacy was christened in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England on April 13, 1640 to William Stacy. Through other records we know William may have had a wife named Jane who died in 1673.

William Stacy of Calvert Co. MD is definitely connected to Simon Stacy as they were both named as debtors in the estate probate of George Beckwith in 1676. And William is definitely connected to Richard Stacy of Calvert. Co. who died in 1674--his wife Mary administered Richard's estate. And there is definitely a John Stacy in Calvert as well. Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England has William, John, Simon and Richard Stacy all brothers born in 1632, 1635, 1640 and 1644, respectively. These men are almost certainly the same individuals who immigrated to Calvert County in 1661, 1670, 1661 and 1675, respectively. Of the four brothers, only William was recorded married in church records of Wiltshire, and only William was recorded married in his headright grant in Maryland. None of the four appear in records in Wiltshire after William's marriage in 1656.

LANCASTER & GLOUCESTER COUNTY, VIRGINIA (1667-1673)

We can get a clue about Simon's age from this inference by Robert Beverly, historian of VA in 1722:

“Servants, are those which serve only for a few years, according to the time of their indenture, or the custom of the country. The custom of the country takes place upon such as have no indentures. The law in this case is, that if such servants be under nineteen years of age, they must be brought into court to have their age adjudged; and from the age they are judged to be of, they must serve until they reach four and twenty; but if they be adjudged upwards of nineteen, they are then only to be servants for the term of five years.”

Simon must have been born no later than 1648. And if he was made freeman in 1667 (no record of this), he would have been transported in 1662. Problem is Robert Beverley wasn't even in the colonies yet in 1662, so this is not possible. Given that Beverley received his transport "certificate" in 1667, and his land grant award in 1672 (five years later), it stands to reason Simon immigrated in 1667, and was made freeman in 1672.

This is corroborated by the indenture record of Elias Robinson, who came over with him in 1667, and was indentured that year for a term of 8 years.

<https://www.pricegen.com/immigrantservants/servant/show.php?servant=11581>

Wm. Alexander came over same year, indentured 5 years.

<https://www.pricegen.com/immigrantservants/servant/show.php?servant=11580>

The first record of Simon Stacy in Virginia:

July 10, 1667: "Certificate accordinge to Acte is granted to Robert Beverly for ye transportacon of Richard Mounts, Sam Cox, Elyas Robinson, Will Alexander, Will Allen, Mathew Jones, SIMON STACEY, Sara Howard, Henry Horbert, John Gibson, George Anderson, Dorothy Pywater, John Jones, Will Kellum, John Ward, John Rivas, Robert Clarke, Willm Finnis, Anne Lister, Anne Barr, John Arthur, Anne Hertford, Thomas Harwood & Robert Bendley into this Countrey." (Lancaster County Court Orders, 1666-80)

There seems to be no extant record of Simon's indenture (1667-1672), but as soon as it was over, two different men from Gloucester County, VA claimed land warrants as reward for the transport of his group: the original Robert Beverly, and now William Elliott:

Simon Stacy was likely indentured to Beverley himself, and given that Elliot and Harper were both adjoining neighbors of Beverley it stands to reason Beverley sold Simon off to them at some point. This suggests Simon spent the duration of his indenture in Gloucester County on Beverley's plantation on Piankatank River, between Cheesecake Creek and Bailey's Creek. Beverley's neighbor on Piankatank was William Elliott:

At some point after Simon's indenture concluded in 1672, he went back to England, married, and joined the rest of his family in Calvert County, Maryland in 1675. The rest of his presumed brothers, John, William and Richard were indentured; Simon and his new wife were the only transportees to Maryland in this family who paid their own way, likely due to the surplus of Simon's previous indenture.

The designation "transported" implies Simon immigrated from England directly to Maryland, something Lord Baltimore rewarded with headright to land.

April 2, 1684: Simon Stacy named an appraiser of the estate of John Hammond. (Abstracts of the Testamentary Proceedings of the Prerogative Court of Maryland)

June 25, 1684: "Regarding: The estate of Thomas Kemp (CV). Symon Stacey was appointed administrator and guardian of orphans. Signed: Christopher Kellet. Thomas Brooke, gentleman (CV) to administer oath." (Abstracts of the Testamentary Proceedings of the Prerogative Court of Maryland: 1682-1686 : Liber 13 Folio 133)

NOTE: Thomas Kemp also transported Richard Stacy to Maryland in 1663 and was an appraiser of the estate of William Stacy in June 1676.

English law at that time held that "the right of administration follows the right of property.” Whoever was first in line to inherit from the estate was first in line to receive letters of administration. If the deceased left no surviving spouse, administration would go to the next of kin. If a daughter renounced administration, it could be granted to her husband. If no one in the family accepted the position, a significant creditor (someone owed money by the deceased) might be appointed administrator by the court. If no suitable administrator with an interest in the estate could be found, the court would have discretion to appoint a reputable, disinterested person to fill the role. Simon Stacy administering the estate of Kemp strongly suggests he was married to his eldest surviving daughter.

The Calvert County years saw the Stacys gaining some traction, surviving indentured servitude and becoming planters themselves, only to succumb to early deaths soon after. Richard died in 1674 at age 30; William, who most likely owned the property they all farmed, died in 1676 at age 44; William’s first wife had died previously, and his second wife’s second husband also seemed to quickly predecease her in late 1676; John Stacy disappears after 1685, suggesting he too had died; and Simon’s first wife was likely carried off by whatever plague was going around during that period. With nearly all of his family gone by 1687, Simon decided to make a return to Virginia.

STAFFORD CO. VA (1687 - 1690)

Simon lived in Stafford Co., VA in 1687-1690 (possibly as late as 1692), where he leased land from Thomas Watts on the south side of Potomac Creek (lease signed April 30, 1687, to commence 15-year term on Oct. 10, 1687). Genealogists have hypothesized his wife was the daughter of Thomas Watts, with no evidence. This theory goes all the way back to Barbara Stacy Matthews and is asserted on the Combs Families website. It appears to stem from a misreading of the suit by Sampson Darrell against Simon Stacy whereby the court rules that the land Stacy had a lease on would be divided among the heirs of his recently deceased landlord. It does not say or imply Stacy or his wife were among those heirs. Stacy himself appears as nothing more than a lease-holder. The documents in question are as follows:

In March 1689/90, Edward and Anne Watts filed a complaint against Christopher Herringe for an assault at the house of Symon Stacey on Potomac Creek, which presumably was on land leased from Thomas Watts. The plaintiffs alleged that in August 1689 Herringe "did her the said Anne kick beat and Evilly intreat so that by the said kicking and blows she the said Anne was grievously bruised and for a considerable time lame." Herringe countered that he "did only keep off and defend himself from the rage malice assault and battery of the plaintiff Anne" but the jury found for the plaintiffs. The same month, Edward was also involved in suits with Henry Ridgway, William Waller, and Thomas Chapman. (Stafford County Orders)

NOTE: Simon appears in court documents both Stafford and York Counties 1688-1692, suggesting he had property in both counties and split his time between them. They are 117 miles apart.

While Simon Stacy makes appearances in York County court before 1690, his appearances wind down that year, and he appears to have bought a new homeplace in Yorktown in late 1691. This suggests he lost his lease with the Thomas Watts land as a result of the judgement in April 1690, and slowly resettled in York as Watts' heirs decided what to do with his land.

YORK/STAFFORD COUNTY (1690-1718)

July 21, 1690: The persons hereafter named did publish their intentions for going to Old England: John Hooker, Matthew Collins, Symond Stacy. And noe objection was made here against them. (York Co. Orders)

July 24, 1690: Joseph Stacy born to Simon & Elizabeth Stacy (Charles Parish register, York Co.)

May 20, 1691: Simon Stacy on a jury in Stafford County to decide a case involving the indentured servitude of a free black man from England (Stafford County Virginia Order Book)

July 24, 1691: An attachment is granted Simon Stacy against the estate of Mr. Thos. Mountfort for one horse and one pound sterling, returnable to the next Court for judgement. The same day, Simon was sworn in as a Grand Juror. He had served several times previously in Stafford and York. (York County Orders)

Sep. 24, 1691: case brought by Simon Stacy against Thomas Mountfort dismissed, neither party appearing in Court. (York Co. Orders)

Late 1691 (date cut off): Col. William Diggs' deed from the Trustees for his port land in this county was acknowledged by the trustees (Simon Stacy named). This land was later referred to in a deed of Sep. 17, 1716 as "sd lott formerly granted to Simon Stacy by trustees for the sd Port Land in 1691." Further described as being in York Town, "plot number 28 of the sd town on the records" measuring 10 by 8 poles bounded by the street opposite to the land late in the tenure and occupation of Jno. Marshall, land of Warren Cary, York River & land of Hester Powell." This was likely where Simon lived for the remainder of his life. His son, Joseph, later leased land described as formerly belonging to Simon Stacy for an ear of Indian corn per year in 1725. (York Co. Records). The property was a 675 acre tract, the bulk of it a 600 acre grant to William Calvert (d.1682) back on Jan. 26, 1663 described as on the head of New Poquoson River (today just called Poquoson River). This land was further south, near what is now Newport News Gold Club at Deer Run.

Dec. 1691: Simon Stacy serves on a couple more juries, including one case where a man who was angry with another over the loss of a bull "ordered a servant to set his dogs upon him," and another case where a woman beat another woman "with force and arms contrary to the peace." (I think this was York County)

May 10, 1692: Simon Stacy named as a juror in a Stafford County case involving the theft of hogs by Sampson Darrell, who had sued him two years earlier (small world). (Stafford County Virginia Order Book)

Oct. 2, 1693: Simon Stacy brought before Thomas Mountfort a runaway slave from "Nanzemond Towne" he picked up July 7, 1692 near York Ferry, York

Parish. Simon captured at least two other runaway “servants” in subsequent years. (York County Orders)

Nov. 25, 1693: Per an indenture agreement of Dec. 13, 1689 between apprentice Charles Allin and master Simon Stacy, Allin declares that Stacy owes him “one new kersey suite, two new blew sherts, and one new dowlis shert, one paire of stockings, one pair of shoos, and one new hatt.” Stacy in turn sued a Ralph Walker for not coming up with the goods in question, and was awarded satisfaction. (York County)

1694: Simon Stacy listed as a security for Elizabeth Nickson to appraise the estate of John Nickson. (York)

May 24, 1694: “Simon Stacy of York County” named as security of John Freeman, admin. of estate of John Clifford.

Late 1694: “Mr. Henry Heyward arresting [suing] Simon Stacy in an action of trespass and ejection [removing a lessee] for not proving his declaration, he is non-suited.” Simon is also listed as a purchaser of an estate sale.

[Omitted are a bunch of mundane repeats--Simon as a security for so-and-so, Simon was sworn in as grand juror etc. Simon appeared to be at nearly every court session in some capacity, either suing someone, being sued, serving as a juror or as a security. He was very busy.]

June 11, 1696: Simon listed as a purchaser of cattle “sold by out cry” [public auction].

At a Court held 24 March 1698. In obedience to an order dated 24 March 1697 we being legally summoned by the sheriff of York County to make inquisition into ye damages committed upon ye land of Josiah Shipp and Eliz his wife in possession of Thomas Wooten being first sworn before Robert Read justice viewed the damages of said land and found ye value of 5 pounds, 15 shillings... May 23, 1701: Gloucester County Court deed recorded, Hugh Allen of Gloucester Co. to Ralph Flowers of York Co. sold 100 acres for 18 pounds in York County called “York Old Field” formerly held by Charles Alling, uncle to the said Hugh Alling. Witnessed by Simon Stacy and Peter Goodwin.

1704: “Simon Staice” named as owner of 200 acres in York County rent rolls on list between Isaac Powell and John Drewutt. Simon is the only Stacy listed as a landowner in the whole Virginia colony at this point.

In 1708-1709, Simon was involved in a protracted battle over the election of vestrymen to Charles Parish. The initial election in 1708 involved what were deemed "irregularities" such as voting at home, and declared the election null and void. Simon was among a group of eleven men appointed to the vestry, but five of them (not recorded whom) refused to be sworn. A power struggle with the pastor of Charles Parish ensued, and the vestrymen ended up locking him out of the church until the governor of Virginia stepped in. This is all described in Charles Parish History and Registers, York County Virginia, Library of Virginia, Richmond Virginia (3rd Reprint 1996). On p. 9: "On reading this day in Council the Complaint of Henry Hayward, Senr., John Doswell and other Vestrymen of Charles Parish in York County against Thomas Nutting and others Vestrymen of the said Parish for opposing Mr. Thomas Cheesmans and Mr. Robert Shields voting in the said Vestry at the meeting appointed for advising of the repairing or building a Church.

"And upon hearing the allegations of both the said partys in Council this Board are of opinion that the present Constitution of the said Vestry is irregular and illegal. And for removing all differences that have or may arise in the said Parish by continuing the said Vestry It is ordered that a new vestry be fairly and legally elected and chosen by the Freeholders and householders of the said Parish...." p. 13: "The petition by Henry Howard, Edward Tabb, and others complained of an "undue and irregular election of a vestry for Charles parish on the 29th of June last past", because "votes of the parishioners were taken at their own houses twelve days before the day of the said Election and two days before publication of the order," and because of "diverse other irregularitys." p. 15:

"The Council on February 18, 1708, took the case under consideration, and found that the said election (of November 2, 1708) was fairly and regularly made according to Law, and the directions of this Board, and that it doth appear by the Return that Eleven of the said Vestrymen were chosen by a great Majority of the Inhabitants and it appearing also that there are two others returned who had an equal number of votes, It is the opinion of the Council that the Sherif amend his return by strikeing out one of them to make the number of the Vestry twelve and the return being amended accordingly. It was ordered that Henry Howard, Thomas Nutting, Thomas Chisman, Thomas Roberts, Robert Curtis, Henry Howard junior, Simon Stacy, Edward Tabb, and Anthony Robinson being duly Elected as aforesaid be sworn of a Vestry and that a Dedimus issue for that purpose directed to Robert Read and Wm. Buckner Gent or any one of them to administer to the said Vestryment the Oaths and Test prescribed by Law for qualifying them for the said Offices."

Simon Stacy's death date was recorded in the register of Charles Parish, York Co. VA as Jan. 23, 1718. It is likely in the Julian style: the modern equivalent would be Feb. 3, 1719. Elizabeth Stacy died April 14, 1718. No relation stated, but his wife is named Elizabeth in the birth record of their son, Joseph.

Simon Stacy died without a will, but in colonial Virginia, a man's land would in most cases be deeded automatically to his eldest son. Joseph Stacy would later lease the land out in 1725, suggesting he was the eldest son.

Simon married Mary between 1672 and 1675 in England. Mary was born about 1650 in England and died between 1675 and 1684 in Calvert County, Maryland. Simon's wife is named as Mary in his Maryland land patent of 1675.

Since they were already wed when they bought the land and indentured servants cannot marry, they must have been wed in England between the end of Simon's indenture (1672) and the move to Maryland (1675). She is not named among those transported by Robert Beverly/William Elliot with Simon, so they could not have been married in England prior to 1667.

Mary died in Calvert County, Maryland between 1675 and 1684.

Simon next married Elizabeth Kemp, daughter of Thomas Kemp and Margery, before June 25, 1684 in Calvert County, Maryland. Elizabeth was born about 1663 in Calvert County, Maryland and died on April 14, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

Her existence is confirmed only through the birth record of her son Joseph in 1690 ("son of Simon by Elizabeth") and her death record, both in Charles Parish, York Co., Virginia. The death entry reads only "Elizabeth Stacy died April 14, 1718."

Elizabeth Stacy was very likely a daughter of Thomas Kemp (1621–1684) of Calvert County, Maryland, who shows numerous close links to the Stacys.

January 27, 1675: Thomas Kemp was awarded land for transporting Richard Stacy from England twelve years earlier. (Maryland Prerogative Court)

June 17, 1676: Mary Young Stacey of Calvert County, widow of William Stacey of Calvert County, was granted administration on his estate. Appraisers: Thomas Kemp, Thomas Lawson. William Groome to administer oath.

June 25, 1684: Simon Stacy was named guardian of orphans of the above Thomas Kemp in Prerogative Court in 1684 and administered his estate. English law at that time held that "the right of administration follows the right of property." Whoever was first in line to inherit from the estate was first in line to receive letters of administration. If the deceased left no surviving spouse, administration would go to the next of kin. If a daughter renounced administration, it could be granted to her husband. If no one in the family accepted the position, a significant creditor (someone owed money by the deceased) might be appointed administrator by the court. If no suitable administrator with an interest in the estate could be found, the court would have discretion to appoint a reputable, disinterested person to fill the role. Simon Stacy administering the estate of Kemp, strongly suggests he was his son-in-law, particularly given his role as guardian of his orphans. The closeness of Kemp to the Stacy family evident in other records, and the fact that no creditors were named in the estate papers, further suggests he fulfilled his administrator role as a family member. Another Thomas Kemp, probably a son, is found in Stafford County records in 1691 and 1692 and like Simon Stacy is associated with Potomac Creek.

<https://www.colonial-settlers-md-va.us/getperson.php?personID=I048578&tree=Tree1>

While it remains possible that Kemp was the father of Simon's first wife Mary, it is less likely. Mary would have likely been born in the 1650s, while Kemp was still a servant (and forbidden from marrying). Kemp still had minor children at his death in 1684 and none of his children seem to have been old enough to administer his will, strongly indicating they were all still minors, born no earlier than 1663.

MISTAKEN IDENTIFICATION

The identification of Elizabeth as a daughter of Thomas Watts by Barbara Stacy Mathews likely resulted from a misreading of the suit by Sampson Darrell against Simon Stacy, lessee of the recently deceased Thomas Watts, in April 1690. In the suit, Darrell claims Stacy trespassed on property properly belonging to his (Darrell's) wife, an heir of the late John Norgrave, original proprietor of the property, and that Thomas Watts leased half the 600 acres in question to Stacy without proper title. The court found for Stacy, but neither Stacy nor anyone else claimed he or his wife was an heir to Watts or Norgrave. Simon's lawyer produced his lease with Watts in court, which was his only claim to the property. The court determined the land in question did indeed belong to Watts and should be properly divided up among Watts' heirs, but does not name them.

There is a large Watts clan in York County, VA, and the name Thomas Watts does pop up. BSM may have figured that Simon Stacy ended up in York following the death of Thos. Watts in order to claim the land there he left behind--this would indicate he married an heir to Watts. Simon seemed to have no other connection to York County. The parish clerk, Edmund Watts, died there in 1675. No connection found in York County records.

One genealogist found a connection between Edward Watts (d. 1691, known friend/relative of Simon in Stafford, whose wife was beaten at Simon's house in 1689), and Edward Watts of York County, VA. Evidently Ed Watts was old, born as far back as 1625, and may be a brother of Thomas Watts who died in 1690. Edward appears in York County as far back as 1646, but died in Stafford in 1690 or 1691. His widow, Anne (1667-1741), remarried and died in Stafford in 1741. Unknown if this has any significance; another researcher has shown that these two Edward Watts men are not the same, nor even related.

<https://www.wikitree.com/wiki/Watts-6788>

Note also that a deposition of Feb. 5, 1730/1 gave Anne's age as 63, placing her DOB as 1667. <https://www.colonial-settlers-md-va.us/getperson.php?personID=I050225&tree=Tree1>

In sum, there seems to be no evident relationship between Simon Stacy and Thomas Watts, other than landlord-tenant. Thomas Watts does not appear in the deed or order books of York County, so it is not evident that BSM's theory has any substance.

2. Joseph Stacy (Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on July 24, 1690 in York County, Virginia and died on January 5, 1726 in York County, Virginia.

Joseph Stacy's birth was recorded in Charles Parish Register, York County, Virginia: July 24, 1690, "son of Simon by Elizabeth."

Joseph Stacy witnessed two deeds involving James Bennett in York County court in November 1714.

York County Orders, Wills, #16, page 28

On March 20, 1720, Joseph Stacy was the plaintiff versus Robert Ross, defendant concerning a hunting saddle and furnishings to be sold by the defendant to the plaintiff in which plaintiff stated that if a certain Simon Stacy, who was dangerously sick at the time should die before the defendant departed this colony that the plaintiff would pay the defendant 5 pounds and the defendants did promise the plaintiff that if the said Simon Stacy was living at the time of his departure out of the country that the said saddle and furnishings would be delivered for nothing. Jury found that said Simon Stacy was living when defendant left the colony and that Simon Stacy died before May 28, 1720. Judgement was later in favor of the plaintiff Joseph Stacy, and Robert Ross had to return the items.

York County, VA deeds, Orders, Wills #16, pg. 75

September 21, 1721 we find that Joseph Stacy in another petition along with James Bond against Richard Homes and his wife Jane. "It is ordered that unless the defendants (Richard and James Homes) do give the plaintiffs good security to idemplify them by court from childrens part of the estate of James Bennett, deceased that they surrender to the plaintiffs estate as appraised by the former appraisement.

July 20, 1724: Joseph Stacy required James Bond to give security for the faithful administration of the orphans estate (James Bennett estate).

May 7, 1725: "Deed of Lease: Joseph Stacy of Charles Parish, York Co. planter and Mary his wife for 5 shillings leased unto James Sclater of same place gent all that 130 a. parcel of land which Simon Stacy father of the sd Joseph Stacy purchased of Robert Sheild Senr and Mary his wife in the Oak Swamp in parish formerly called New Poquoson Parish but now Charles Parish bounded by the land of Henry Hayward, land of John Nixon and land of John Eaton, being sold out of the original patent by Robert Calvert being pt/o 375 a. of land granted by patent to the sd Robert Calvert in 1687, 300 a. of the sd land being formerly taken up and patented by Wm Calvert and patented 26 Jan 1663, the other 75 a. taken up by the said Robert Calvert... for the term of one year paying the rent of one ear of Indian corn at the feast of St. Michael the Arch Angel now next ensuing if demanded.”

[Note: The Wm. Calvert 300 acre grant was at the “head of New Poquoson River.”
--Cavaliers & Pioneers, Vol. I]

Joseph Stacy died with no will, but his estate was appraised on January 12, 1726; the inventory, dated 1728, noted his estate was worth 28 pounds, 18 shillings. His death date was recorded in the Charles Parish register as January 5, 1726 (January 16, 1727 by the Gregorian Calendar).

The birth and death records of his children and many of his grandchildren can be found in Parish Records previously mentioned.

Joseph married Mary Bennett, daughter of James Bennett and Ann, about 1710. Mary was born about 1692 and died on December 20, 1751 in York County, Virginia.

Children from this marriage were:

- + 9 M vi. Joseph Stacy was born on April 6, 1726 in York County, Virginia and died before October 1785.

3. John Stacy (Simon<sup>t</sup>) was born about 1692 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after October 11, 1750 of Stafford County, Virginia.

Not much is known about John Stacy Sr. due to the fact that most of the records that would have revealed the events of his life were burned during the Civil War. His existence can only be confirmed by three records, all from Stafford County:

Feb. 23, 1740: "John Stacey" named as witness to the last will and testament of John Warner (c.1680–1742), chief surveyor of Stafford County. Other witnesses were Richard Awbrey and James Phillips. The early date strongly suggests this is John Sr. John Warner was known to Peter Jefferson, father of Thomas, who noted his father described Warner as "an able mathematician." Warner's plantation, Canbury Park, bordered Bailey Washington's land to the west. Warner also surveyed the Manor of Leeds for Lord Fairfax in 1736.
<http://www.patc.us/history/archive/leeds.html>

Oct. 11, 1750: "Baily Washington is appointed Overseer of the Road from Aquia Warehouse to Mr. Ralls post below Aquia Run and is ordered to clear and keep the road in repair and that his Tithables, John Stacy, Simon Stacy, John Stacy Junr. Moses Lunsford, John Green, William Patter, Mason Combs, and Thomas Hurst clear the same and be exempt from other roads."
<http://www.viriniamemory.com/transcribe/scripto/transcribe/1228/3587>

Feb. 5, 1751: Overwharton Parish register entry: "Dorothy Stacey, Wife of John, Sr., died February 5, 1750/1."

He is called "John Stacey Sr." in this parish record, but it is unclear if he is still living, since the words "widow" or "relict" were never used in the Overwharton register. However, a careful analysis of the register indicates it would typically say "wife of" if the husband was still living. By the Gregorian calendar this date would be Feb. 16, 1751, so John Stacy may have lived at least to that year. A John Stacy appears in later records of Stafford County through 1755 but it remains unclear if they refer to him or his son of the same name.

John Stacy Sr. is widely presumed to be a son of Simon and Elizabeth Stacy of York County, Virginia, since he named two of his own children Simon and Elizabeth and his presumed father lived in Stafford County in 1687-1692.

He had no birth recorded in Charles Parish, suggesting he may have been born while his parents were in Stafford County in 1691 or 1692, possibly living with Thomas Kemp Jr., who was recorded in Stafford at the time. John likely grew up on the Stacy plantation on the headwaters of New Poquoson River in York County. According to the laws of primogeniture then in effect in Virginia, when a father died without a will his land was conveyed automatically to his eldest son. Given that Joseph Stacy inherited and later leased their father's property in York County, John was likely the younger of the two, and had to strike out on his own. At some point he moved back to Stafford, possibly to join his Kemp relatives; a

James Kemp (bef.1708—c.1749) was listed on the tobacco tenders list in Stafford County, south of Potomac Creek, in 1724. John Stacy does not appear in the tobacco tenders list, though one would expect this to be the case if he lived north of Potomac Creek.

John's residence can confidently be placed near the intersection of what are now routes 610 and 643 in Stafford County. According to the 1750 road order quoted above, John Stacy was likely a tenant on the estate of Bailey Washington. Washington's property, "Windsor Forest," was a sprawling 1,664-acre plantation on the north side of Aquia Run, on the east side of what is now route 643. This property is now part of the Quantico Marine Corps reservation. According to historian Jerrilynn Eby, the Washington house stood just off the east side of the road, and the ruins of both the house and tenant or slave quarters are still visible. Bailey Washington (1731-1807) was a second cousin of George Washington, and the two were acquainted enough that the future president bought his first Gunter's scale from Bailey in 1749. Bailey was also the father of Brig. Gen. William Augustine Washington (1752-1810), who led several campaigns against the British in South Carolina during the Revolutionary War.

Source: <https://staffordhistorical.org/bailey-washington-1731-1807/>

The road being tended by the Stacys in the 1750 road order is now known as Garrisonville Road and the "Aquia Warehouse" named was the public tobacco inspection warehouse in the town of Aquia (now Aquia Harbor) at the far East end of the road. The Stacys lived either on Garrisonville Road, or more likely, on 643; both were called "Aquia Road" during the 18th century. The entire milieu of in-laws and associates of the Stacy clan tie them firmly to this area: Benjamin Tolson Sr., whose daughter Judith married a son of John Stacy, was noted as having leased a plot of 150 acres belonging to William Fitzhugh, adjacent to Bailey Washington. Robert Ashby, whose family John Stacy Jr. is believed to have married into, also owned land nearby on Garrisonville Road. And finally, John Warner, whose last will and testament John Sr. witnessed in 1740, also lived on 643, bordering Bailey Washington to the west.

The burial location of John and Dorothy Stacy is unknown; Jerrilynn Eby noted that "when folks died, they were normally buried not far from their back doors, be they tenants or land owners. The chances are very strong that they would not have been able to afford inscribed grave markers and I would expect them to have been buried beneath simple field stones. In rural areas, burials in church cemeteries didn't come along until much later." This suggests that if they were indeed Washington's tenants, they may have been buried somewhere on Windsor Forest, in graves long since lost to time.

Overwharton Parish register, Stafford Co., Va.:

This seems to be the only record of her existence. Gregorian calendar date would be Feb. 16, 1751.

Nothing else for certain can be known about Dorothy, given the massive loss of Stafford County records. However, since the names of her children Peter, George and Catherine do not appear to come from her husband's side of the family, they may refer to some of her own relatives. There is circumstantial evidence that Dorothy was from the Fristoe family of Chopawamsic Creek, who were neighbors of the Stacys and bore the names Dorothy, George and Catherine among their members.

The Fristoes immigrated from Great Britain to Virginia in the mid-17th century. Their founder in America was Robert Fristoe (1615-1689) who immigrated in 1635, later marrying a Dorothy. They began appearing in records of Old Rappahannock County in 1662, and in York County, Virginia the same decade. This couple had at least three sons named David, John and George before her death (1670-75). With his second wife, Robert Fristoe had Robert and Jane in 1676 and 1678. George Fristoe and wife Mary had at least two children named Catherine and William Fristoe, born June 14, 1683 and October 1687 (North Farnham Parish register). There was also a Richard Fristoe who appears in county orders between 1704 and 1708.

The Fristoes of Stafford County almost certainly descend from this family. The given names Richard, Robert, George, Catherine, Jane, Anne, and William appear in the Fristoe families of both Rappahannock/Richmond and Stafford. The last Fristoe birth recorded in North Farnham Parish, Richmond County was in 1719; Richard Fristoe appears in Stafford County in the 1724 tobacco tender list, just 5 years later. There is considerable circumstantial evidence that the Fristoe family of Stafford came from Richmond. There was evident co-migration with the King and Baylis families of Richmond to Stafford in the early 18th century, and the families show connections in both places.

Robert Fristoe (c.1730-1764; married Ann Rhoads Feb. 1752) was close to the Stacy family, Jesse Edwards and Bailey Washington. His father was Richard Fristoe (c.1684-aft.1764) who begins appearing in Stafford County land records (via Prince William County court) in October 1724, when he patented 245 acres on Cedar Run Rolling Road and Chopawamsick Run. Robert had a brother named Richard Jr. (1714-c.1765) as well, who was in trouble with the law along with John Stacy Jr., Thomas Ashby and Robert Ashby Jr. in a Stafford County court case of 1751 and had to pay a peace bond:

October 1751: "John Stacy Jr., Richard Fristoe Jr., Robert Ashby Jr. and Thomas Ashby being bound over to this Court by a recognizance appeared & having heard them & their evidences ag'st them the court are of opinion that each of them enters into bond of twenty pound sterl'g with two securities of ten pounds sterling each for their good behavior & keeping the peace a year & a day... Benjamin Robinson & Henry Wiggington acknowledged themselves securities for the s'd John Stacy & Rich'd Fristoe. Charles Harding & John Carpenter for the s'd Robert Ashby - Richard Fristoe Sen'r & Thomas Crafford for Thomas Ashby."

In this order, Richard Fristoe Sr. served as bond not for his own son, but for Thomas Ashby; Benjamin Robinson, brother-in-law of John Stacy Jr., served as bond for Richard Fristoe Jr. as well as Stacy, suggesting these men may have been an extended family unit.

If Dorothy Stacy was a Fristoe, she was likely the daughter of John (c.1660-aft. Feb. 4, 1705) and Mary Fristoe of Richmond County, Virginia, who were also the likeliest parents of Richard Fristoe Sr.

Third Generation (Grandchildren)

4. Simon Stacy (Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on January 29, 1711 in York County, Virginia and died in 1784 in Sussex County, Virginia.

Born in York County, eldest son of Joseph (1690-1726). Simon's father died when he was only 15. Simon married while at York about the year 1740, and had two children there with his wife in 1741 and 1742. In 1744, Simon moved his family from Charles Parish, York County to Albemarle Parish (Surry, later Sussex County) where the rest of his children were born. Simon decided to stay at Sussex even when his younger brothers John and Joseph returned to York between 1763-67.

Some researchers believe his second wife was a Wright, probably due to the close relationship between Simon and the Wright family, with Stacys and Wrights often serving as godparents for each other's children in the 1750s and 1760s.

Feb. 20, 1744: Robert Proctor of Brunswick County to Simon Stacy of York County for 39 pounds and 10 shillings, 200 acres bounded by Cattail Branch and the Blackwater Swamp (being part of 460 acres conveyed to said Robert Proctor by William Bynam on Sep. 16, 1723). Witnessed by Benjamin Jordan, Joseph, Benjamin, William Rogers.

The above property was sold March 21, 1748: "Simon Stacy and wife Catherine Stacy of Surry County to John Gibbons of York County for 41 pounds 10 shillings sold 200 acres bounded by Cattail Branch and Blackwater Swamp being land bought by said Stacy from Robert Proctor."

Because just a few days earlier, on March 17, 1748, Simon bought new property: "Joel Barker to Simon Stacy for 25 pounds current money, 185 acres bounded by Broad Bottom Branch, the Wildcatt Branch, Edmunds and the College line.

"Simon Stacey" appears in in the tithables of Sussex County, VA in 1782, tax list of Lawrence Smith. In his household were 6 tithables whites and 9 blacks.
<http://files.usgwarchives.net/va/sussex/census/1782/1782tax04.txt>

He also appears in the 1783 tithables of Sussex County, list of Peter Jones.
<http://www.learnwebskills.com/patriot/va1783taxs2.htm>

Simon filled out his will on March 17, 1784. Later probate records state that he died that year. He was apparently a plantation owner with slaves. His children are named as follows: John Stacy who has a son named Thomas, Joseph Stacy, Mary wife of John Judkins, Martha House, Stephen Stacy, Edmund Stacy, Catherine, wife of Robert Parsons, Hannah, wife of Henry Parsons, and Nicholas Stacy.

Simon Stacy died during the year 1784. The names Caty, Simon, Nicholas and Hannah F. Stacy appear in Guardianship Records of Sussex County, VA in 1786-87. Unknown who most of these children were, since Simon Sr.'s children of the same name were mostly married by then, although Caty is almost certainly the daughter of Lawrence Stacy. His estate was probated September 16, 1784.

Simon married Catherine about 1740. Catherine died between 1754 and 1759 in Sussex County, Virginia.

Catherine's maiden name is unknown, but given the close ties between the Wright family and Simon Stacy as evidenced by baptism sponsorships dating to at least 1756, she may have been from the Wright family of York County, Virginia.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 17 M i. John Stacy was born on July 16, 1741 in York County, Virginia and died before April 28, 1807 of Brunswick County, Virginia.

Simon next married Mary about 1765. Mary was born about 1745 and died about 1825.

Some genealogies give her name as Mary Wright. Parish registers and wills give only her first name. BSM notes that she outlived her husband forty-one years, and thus must have been a very young woman when she was married.

She appears in the 1789 tithables of Sussex County, VA near Benjamin and Edmond Stacy.

Birth recorded in Charles Parish register, York County, VA.

May have married a Mr. Cooper.

8. John Stacy (Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on December 15, 1722 in York County, Virginia and died between January and March 1770 in York County, Virginia.

John's birth was recorded in the Charles Parish register, York County, VA. He joined his brothers Simon and Joseph in their journey to Surry County in 1744. Assuming they all travelled together, the younger Stacy brothers returned with their families to York County in 1764-1766, leaving their eldest brother, Simon in Sussex County (formed from Surry in 1753). John was in York County, Charles Parish, to witness the will of Judith Moore, April 17, 1751. (<https://www.jstor.org/stable/1925104>)

The early days of John's marriage were evidently troubled. In February 1752, Anne Stacy reportedly "eloped from her husband" and John published in the Virginia Gazette a warning to all who encountered that he would not honor any debts she might incur. Anne would later rejoin the family, giving birth to their first child, Robert, in March 1757.

On February 19, 1767, John sold his property in Sussex to John Lamb:

p. 256 19 February 1767. John Stacy of York Co, to John Lamb of Sussex County, for 65 pounds...243 acres on west side of Coperhaunk Swamp and bound by the College line, Judkins, William Blunt and William Nicholson. Wit: William Blunt, Edward Cross, Humphry Baylis and John Presson Rec: 20 August 1767

John would later fall ill, writing up his will on January 2, 1770 in which he left all his farmland to his wife, and at her death, to his son Robert. His will was probated March 18, 1770 in York County court.

Sources for information from the Virginia period are as follows: Albemarle Parish Records from Surry Public Library, Surry, Virginia-- Charles Parish records from York County Library.

John married Anne Davis, daughter of John Davis and Elizabeth, before February 1752. Anne was born on May 17, 1734 in York County, Virginia and died after 1780 of York County, Virginia.

In February 1752, Anne Stacy "eloped from her husband". John put in the newspaper of the day, York Co.'s Virginia Gazette a warning to all who encountered her and a promise that he would not honor any debts she might incur. Anne would later rejoin the family, giving birth to their first child, Robert, in 1757.

Her name was given in a probate of her mother Elizabeth Davis (d. 1766, York Co., Va.) as "Anne wife of John Stacy." Anne, daughter of John and Elizabeth Davis was recorded among the births of Charles Parish, York County as May 17, 1734.

"Mrs. Anne Stacey" appears in an "Account of Indian Corn Received for Taxes in the Year 1780" in York County, Virginia. (Virginia Genealogical Society Quarterly Vol. 30 No. 1)

Children from this marriage were:

+ 30 M i. Rev. Robert Stacy was born on March 25, 1757 in Sussex County, Virginia and died before April 24, 1822 in Gloucester County, Virginia.

+ 31 F ii. Sarah Stacy was born on January 3, 1759 in Sussex County, Virginia.

+ 32 M iii. John Stacy was born on February 5, 1762 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1799 of Gloucester County, Virginia.

+ 33 F iv. Anne Stacy was born on January 29, 1764 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1810 of Williamsburg, Virginia.

+ 34 F v. Elizabeth Stacy was born on November 27, 1766 in York County, Virginia.

9. Joseph Stacy (Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on April 6, 1726 in York County, Virginia and died before October 1785.

Birth recorded in Charles Parish register, York County, VA. Born four months after the death of his father, Joseph moved with his older brothers Simon and John to Albemarle Parish (Sussex) in 1744, later, when his brother John moved back to York, Joseph did the same (c.1766). John Stacy had a child in York in 1766, Joseph did in 1767. Presumably they traveled together.

Warwick Co. VA Orders, Nov. 6, 1755: "Ordered that Joseph Stacey, John Gibbs, John Loyde & Henry Hazard or any three of them being first sworn before a Justice of the Peace of this County do appraise in Current Money the Estate of William Price, dec'd and report the same to the Court." (VA County Minutes 1748-62, Library of VA, pg 421.)

Joseph does not seem to have lived much past 1767, as he appears in no tax or court records. Later documents of Joseph Stacy in this area do not make reference to a Jr. or Sr., suggesting Sr. was likely deceased. He is not named in a lawsuit that mentions his wife and most of his children in October 1785.

Joseph married Faith. Faith died after October 18, 1785 of York County, Virginia.

Several genealogies name her as Faith Bradley, but officially only her first name is given in records.

"Faithy Stacy" was named in a complaint by Mary Edwards against her, Joseph Stacy, Elizabeth Stacy and Kinchen Stacy in York County Court, Oct. 18, 1785.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 35 F i. Elizabeth Stacy was born in 1756 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after October 18, 1785 of York County, Virginia.

+ 36 M ii. Kinchin Stacy was born on January 18, 1763 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1790 of York County, Virginia.

+ 37 M iii. Joseph Stacy was born on October 13, 1767 in York County, Virginia and died after 1820 of Wilson County, Tennessee.

+ 38 M iv. William Stacy was born about 1774 in Virginia and died in 1825 or 1826 in Warwick County, Virginia.

VA reconstructed census of 1760 shows Simon and John Stacey in Frederick County.

Simon's death was probably during the summer of 1762:

Sep. 8, 1762: On the motion of Judith STACY who made oath according to law, certificate is granted her for obtaining Letters of Administration of the Estate of Simon STACY deceased, she having together with William HURST and Shadrach PARLOUR her securities entered into and acknowledged a bond of $500 for her due Administration of the said decedent's estate. Notes from combs-families.org:

In Overwharton Parish during the 1740s and early 1750s were Mason & Sarah Combs, Sr. who also removed to Frederick Co, VA in the early 1750s. In 1759, Mason Combs witnessed a Frederick County record signed by Simon STACY, Sr., and it was probably in this county that Benjamin STACY married Ann Combs (d/o Mason Combs, Sr.) and that Seth STACY m William Combs (s/o Mason, Combs, Sr.) By 1768, both the Combs and the Stacy Families were in Rowan Co, NC where Benjamin STACY (husband of Ann Combs) appears on Gideon Wright's Tax List along with Mason Combs, Sr. and his son, William Combs (h/o Sinai STACY), William CODY (h/o Seth STACY), and William RIDGE (h/o Winnifred Combs, also a d/o Mason Combs, Sr.)

It was probably in Rowan Co that Sinai STACY married William CODY, and at some time prior to 1784, possibly in either Rowan or its descendant county of Surry, that Judith TOLSON Stacy married a second time, to Thomas PETTIT whose 1784 Surry Co, NC will not only documents their marriage, but that of another son of Simon & Judith TOLSON Stacy, Sr.: Simon STACY, Jr., b ca 1762.

During the early years of the Revolutionary War, both the Stacy and the Combs Families were staunch Tories, as were their Cody and Ridge in-laws, Sinai STACY having married Tory William CODY, and Winnifred Combs (d/o Mason & Sarah Combs, Sr.) having married Tory William RIDGE.

In the meantime, a number of the Combs, Cody and Stacy children had removed to Montgomery Co, VA, where they are not only found together on various tax lists, but in 1781, on the Montgomery Co, VA Militia Company of Daniel Trigg which includes Mason and William Combs (sons of Mason Combs, Sr.), Benjamin, John and Simon STACY, Jr., William CODY and others.

By the late 1780s, early 1790s, most of these same families had moved on to Russell Co, VA, and Judith TOLSON Stacy Pettit is among those on the tax lists of that county.

By 1796, she is across the state line in Sullivan Co, TN, according to the 1853 Perry Co, KY, affidavit of her grandson, Thomas CODY (s/o William and Sinai STACY Cody), who declared that he had attended the wedding of the above-noted Mary EVERAGE to RW William CORNETT, and declared that his "grandmother Judah STACY raised Mary (EVERAGE Cornett) as a child until she married William CORNETT." This is the last known record of Judith to date.

BSM Note: In addition to the above-noted children, Simon Sr. and Judith may also have had a son, William STACY, as one by that name is found in early Hawkins Co, TN, married to Dollie SIZEMORE, and with a daughter, Judith. I have not actively researched this line, but given the location and the fact that Biram STACY, s/o Benjamin and Ann Combs Stacy, married Millie SIZEMORE, sister of Dollie, it is certainly possible (not yet actively researched).

See Also John STACY, Sr., brother of Simon, Sr., in the records of Stafford and Frederick Cos, VA; Surry Co, NC; and Russell and Montgomery Cos, VA.

See Also George H. TOLSON (s/o George & Elizabeth (MILLION?) Tolson, and nephew to Judith TOLSON Stacy Pettit) m pre-1810, probably in Stafford Co, VA, Seth Combs (d/o Joseph & Mary PRITCHETT Combs, III).

Simon married Judith Tolson, daughter of Benjamin Tolson and Mary Oldham, on August 22, 1741 in Stafford County, Virginia. Judith was born about 1720 in Northumberland County, Virginia and died after April 1796 in Sullivan County, Tennessee.

Judith is confirmed a daughter of Benjamin Tolson by his will in Stafford County, VA will book, dated January 27, 1759:

“I give to my daughter Judith Stacey one shilling Sterling.”

Her birthdate, along with those of her siblings is widely (and wrongly) reported as Oct. 9, 1729, which would have made her only 11 years old at her marriage. The Parish Register of St. Stephen, Northumberland County, VA for this entry reads as follows:

“Judith Tolson Daug’r To Do Born Oct’r 9, 1729.”

“Do” means “Ditto” and the entry above reads “Daug’r to Tho’s”--meaning the Judith Tolson born in 1729 was a daughter of Thomas Tolson, not Benjamin, who later moved to Stafford County, VA. Therefore, the Judith Tolson who married Simon Stacy has no birth record in Northumberland County. See Northumberland County Records of Birth 1661-1810 in Virginia Colonial Abstracts in Google Books.

[Original research of Jason Farrell]

Judith Tolson Stacy is said to have remarried to a Pettit after 1762 and was claimed in a written statement of her grandson Thomas Cody (1783-after 1853) to have raised her granddaughter Mary Everage until her marriage to William Cornett in April 1796.

STACY: Simon & Judith TOLSON Stacy m 22 Aug 1741, Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, VA; removed in the 1750s to Frederick Co VA where they are found in records with Mason COMBS, Sr., also formerly of Overwharton Parish. By 1768, both the COMBS and STACYS were in Rowan (later Surry) Co, NC, which is apparently where they became acquainted with the Cody-Ridge Families. Among their children were: Sithe STACY m William COMBS, Sr. (s/o Mason & Sarah COMBS, Sr.). Benjamin STACY m Ann COMBS (d/o Mason & Sarah COMBS, Sr.). Sinai STACY m William CODY. Simon STACY, m Elizabeth DAVIDSON (d/o James & Peggy DAVIDSON, Jr. Mary STACY may have married Abner [Abraham-JF] EVERAGE, and may have been mother of Mary EVERAGE, w/o William CORNETT. SPANE [sic], and Polly COMBS. (Green Co KY Will Book, p. 56). Henry's daughter, Lucy, had m John STACY (see below), but Polly's COMBS husband has not yet been identified. (See Barbara Stacy Mathews' Stacy Family Journal) Mason COMBS, Sr. is found in Frederick Co VA witnessing COUNTS-STACY records. Later, the COUNTS-STACYS and COMBS are found in Upper District Russell (Glade Hollow area), which is where William COMBS "apparently" lived prior to removing to Sullivan Co TN, then back to Russell, only in the lower district (Crabtree). John married Elizabeth about 1742. Elizabeth died after June 23, 1767 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

Some genealogies identify her as Elizabeth Ashby. Evident source is BSM, according to the archives of Combs-Families:

“A few days past Barbara posted that she got the information about John STACY Jr [II]’s wife being Elizabeth ASHBY from an old antique book that was given to her by her aunt who got it from her (the aunt) mother. I don’t think sources, etc were given and I don’t know if it was a published book or a personal record.”

<http://www.combs-families.org/archives/1999/v01.n146.txt>

This seems unlikely, however, because she would have to be a daughter of Capt. Thomas Ashby (c.1680-1752), and he already has a documented daughter named Elizabeth, wife of Mark Hardin. It is possible there were other Ashbys in the area.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 46 F i. Katharine Stacy was born on March 17, 1743 in Stafford County, Virginia.

+ 47 F ii. Silvia Stacy was born on December 6, 1748 in Stafford County, Virginia.

+ 52 M vii. George Stacy was born about 1760 in Frederick County, Virginia and died after 1836 of Mercer County, Kentucky.

+ 53 M viii. Peter Stacy was born about 1768 in Fauquier County, Virginia and died in 1817 or 1818 in Clay County, Kentucky.

12. Catherine Stacy (John<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1725 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after October 12, 1765 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

Catherine was named in the leasing of property by various members of her family in Fauquier County, VA on Goose Creek from the famous Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, adjacent the property of Thomas Marshall (father of Chief Justice John Marshall). The property can still be located today based on the description given. It is just north of Markham, Virginia on Leeds Manor Road.

October 12, 1765: For 150 (50 times 3 parcels) shillings pounds in Fauquier Co a spur of Naked Mt. 450 (three 150 acre farms) (abt 4400x4400ft sq) acres north side of Goose Creek then up said creek to mouth of small branch to corner of Thomas Mashall's. The renter agees to pay all quitrent and taxes, use only the wood and timber upon the land for the running of said plantation. build or repair a dwelling house 16 square, tabacco house 24'x20', plant and fence in 100 apple trees and will work only three field hands with one overseer per 100 acres. Catherine married William Hill, son of John Hill and Elizabeth Mahoney, on September 17, 1745 in Stafford County, Virginia. William was born about 1721 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after March 19, 1790 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

William Hill (c.1721-aft.1790) is believed to be the son of John Hill and Elizabeth Mahoney who married in St. Paul Parish, Stafford County, Virginia in 1716. He married Catherine Stacy in 1745 and moved with the Stacy clan to Fauquier County, where he leased 450 acres on Naked mountain/Goose Creek just north of what is now Markham, Virginia. He sold this lease to John Hickman in October 1780, having moved for a time to Shenandoah County (likely due to a drought), returning to Fauquier by 1781. He was last recorded living in March 1790. Like his brothers in law John Stacy and Benjamin Robinson, he was a signer of the 10,000 Name Petition, which called for religious liberty in Virginia during the Revolutionary years.

Manor of Leeds 1759-1793:

Leeds Parish lies north of an east-west line passing through the southern outskirts of present Warrenton just above Turkey Run Church. Leeds Parish lies within the boundaries of the Manor of Leeds, a feudal district, which was established in 1759 by Lord Thomas Fairfax the 6th (1693-1781), son of Thomas Fairfax 5th Lord of Cameron and Catharine Culpepper. The Manor of Leeds consisted of 152,000 acres lying in the counties of Frederick, Fauquier, and Culpeper. Lord Thomas Fairfax the 6th hired his nephew Thomas Bryan Martin to grant "leases for life" to the sons of his tenants. The lease expired with the death of their youngest child. Thomas Bryan Martin granted one hundred major leases from 1759-1775 and two hundred twenty-five additional leases from 1783 to 1793.

Drought of 1781

A severe drought in 1781 and overworked soil resulted in many Fauquier County families leaving Virginia and removing to the states of Kentucky and Ohio looking for fertile soil.

William Hill is shown in the 1782 Fauquier Co VA Property tax records. Only one male over 21, 1 horse and 2 head of cattle.

The property tax records show William and Allen in same house with Simon living nearby in June 1788. In the 1790 Fauquier Co Tax list they show both William, sons Allen and Simon and son-in-law George Holmes also nearby on March 19, 1790. Allen Hill is by himself in July of 1791. If William were alive, he should have been listed since he is a male over 18. Again, Simon is listed below as well.

CHISWELL, COSTELLO, HILL, MAHONEY, STACY -
I am researching William Hill (confirmed) who married Catherine Stacy 1745 Overwharton Parish Records (OPR). I believe that his father was John Hill who died in 1743 (OPR). John's Stafford Co. will states that his widow was Elizabeth M. Hill. A John Hill and Elizabeth Mahoney married in 1716 in St. Paul's Parish. I also have a will of William Hill (wives Anne Chiswell and Alice Costello) which states that: "Grandson William Hill, son of John Hill, -one ten shilling ring". Dates and area are a fit but no proof. Can anyone help?

Sarah Stacy married Benjamin Robinson Sr. in 1750 and lived in Stafford County until moving to Fauquier County around 1765, where she spent the remainder of her life. The Benjamin Robinson family lived on the far east end of Fauquier County, near Love's Mill, according to Fauquier Road Orders of the 1770s. A road ran right through the Robinson plantation.

Much of the research on this family group comes from John McMullen.

Sarah was named in tax lists following the death of her husband in 1785:

Sarah married Benjamin Robinson on January 2, 1750 in Stafford County, Virginia. Benjamin was born about 1715 in Virginia and died in January or February 1785 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

Benjamin Robinson's life is well documented in Stafford County (1740-1773) and Fauquier County (1765-1785), Virginia. Most of his children appear to have remained in the area and died there; some, like Dixon, followed the "Cumberland Gap" expansion into Kentucky. Tracking the children across the country is very difficult owing to the commonality of the name Robinson and the incomplete nature of early records; these entries reflect the best available research on the family as of 2019.

Benjamin Robinson Sr. first appears in the historical record in the register of Overwharton Parish, Stafford County at the birth of his son John in December 1740. His first wife having died in 1744, he remarried to Sarah Stacy in 1750. All events recorded in Overwharton parish.

There isn't much we can say about Benjamin Robinson except that he was a planter, and a responsible man who looked out for his family; he agreed to be "security" and "special bail" for his wayward brothers-in-law, John and George Stacy, when they ran into legal trouble. He lived near Love's Mill at the far east end of Fauquier County around 1778. According to Fauquier Road Orders, a road ran right through his plantation.

- + 70 M x. James Robinson was born about 1769 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after March 28, 1799 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

14. Peter Stacy (John<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1731 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after May 1755 of Stafford County, Virginia.

Peter Stacy's only definite appearances in the historical record are a trespass suit against him by Robert & Edward Maxwell, dismissed in December 1752 court; a debt suit against him in 1754; and his 1755 marriage, all events in Stafford County, VA. The Combs-Stacy researchers believed the Peter Stacy of Russell County who appears 1788 to 1802 tax lists to be a son of John (c.1720-c.1795), not his brother. They are likely correct, given that the senior Peter vanishes from Stacy clan activities after 1755.

A mention of Peter in Stafford County, VA:

Mar. 15, 1754: "In the Suit on the Attachment obtained by John Peyton, Gent., against the Estate of Peter Stacy, the said John produced an Account against the said Peter for 3.19.10 pounds. It's thereupon considered by the Court that the said John recover the same & his Costs. And the Sheriff having returned the Attachment executed in the hands of William Hill who declared he had two Shillings & six pence of the Estate of the said Peter which Sum he is ordered to pay to the said John in part Satisfaction of the above Judgement." (Stafford Co. Orders)

May 25, 1755: Overwharton Parish register recorded the marriage of Peter Stacy and Ruth Crosswell.

Note: Peter's birth year is estimated from his earliest court date, minus 21 years, since men had to have reached their 21st birthday to be sued in their own name in colonial Virginia.

Two decades after Peter Stacy either died or left Stafford County, a Peter Stacy appeared in Yohogania County, VA, which was divided in the mid-1780s, the northern half joining with Fayette County, PA. This Peter lived in Fayette and Westmoreland County until October 1787, when he removed to Jefferson County, KY, and in 1799, to Clark County, IN where he spent the remainder of his life.

In Yohogania County court documents, there are two mentions of a Stacy-- one "Peter Stasey" was "appointed constable for the ensuing year who is to be summoned before the nearest magistrate to qualify in sd office." In court dated June 24, 1778. The second mention is in a discontinued lawsuit called "Brewer vs. Stacy" in March and May 1779. (Minutes of the Court of Yohogania County, 1775-80).

https://dcms.lds.org/delivery/DeliveryManagerServlet?dps\_pid=IE5135965

There are never two Peter Stacys in any record, including tax lists from Fayette County in the 1780s, so it seems Peter Stacy of Stafford County, VA was deceased prior to 1780. That the Peter of Stafford died young and Peter of Yohogania was his son seems to be a "best fit" with the available evidence, considering the proposed "Peter Jr." had children until at least 1806, when the older Peter would have been at least 75 years old and less likely to still be having children, even if he remarried to a woman 30 years his junior.

The northern portion of Yohogania County, VA became Fayette County, PA in 1783, where a Peter Stacy was listed in tax records in 1786 in Tyrone township. He last appears as a witness in Westmoreland Co., PA court in October 1787 and seems to subsequently disappear from Pennsylvania. Just a month earlier, a Peter Stacy was recorded in Jefferson County, Kentucky, and later, Clark County, Indiana. Given how consistent the record is, there is likely only one Peter Stacy, and he moved to Kentucky in September or October 1787.

The connection with the Stacy family of Stafford is palpable. The given names of Peter's children-- including William, George, Elizabeth and Sarah-- are a possible indicator of his relationship with the Stafford County Stacy family. Stacy was still a scarce name in Virginia during the colonial period, so appearances by random Stacys suggests a probable relationship.

The problem with this is there is also a Thomas Stacy in Fayette County, PA at the same time as Peter. This Thomas was born in England in March 1755 and immigrated just before the Revolution, according to his soldier's pension application of 1832. The Stacy name is rare in PA during this period and given the proximity, they could be brothers; it places enough doubt in the identity of Peter Stacy of Fayette County that he is being added to this family tree with a strong cautionary note--this link is far from proven.

There is some DNA evidence that it is the same Peter: I have a DNA match with an Ancestry DNA profile "S.A., managed by jfandy" that shows descent from Peter Stacy of Fayette County, PA (8.3 cM, 1 seg.). This is very relevant because this person has entirely Pennsylvania and Indiana ancestry, so I am very unlikely to have any other shared connections.

Peter married Ruth Crosswell, daughter of Gilbert Crosswell and Ellinor, on May 25, 1755 in Stafford County, Virginia. Ruth was born about 1735 in Prince William County, Virginia and died after May 1755 of Stafford County, Virginia.

She was likely a daughter of Gilbert and Ellinor Crosswell from Sittingbourne Parish, Old Rappahannock County. They migrated to Prince William County before October 15, 1735 when Gilbert, Ellinor and William Creswell leased 100 acres there from Howson Hooe of Stafford County. Witnesses were Thomas Wharton, Meredith Davis and Robert Taylor. Gilbert is named as then "of the County of Prince William" but no location is given for William, who was reportedly "of North Farnham Parish, Richmond County" as of June 4, 1739.

The marriage of Gilbert Crosswell and Ellinor Hill was recorded in North Farnham's Parish Register, Dec. 9, 1728. Ellinor Crosswell had previously been married to John Hill of Richmond County.

The child from this marriage was:

+ 71 M i. Peter Stacy was born in 1756 or 1757 in Virginia and died between April and September 1810 of Clark County, Indiana.

15. Elizabeth Stacy (John<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1733 in Stafford County, Virginia and died on July 12, 1755 in Stafford County, Virginia.

Elizabeth is likely the “Betty Stacy” who was fined by the Anglican church for having an illegitimate child in a court session of Dec. 11, 1750:

“BETTY STACY being presented by the Grand jury for having a Bastard Child & summoned failed to appear it’s ordered that she pay to the Church Wardens of Overwharton Parish (for the Use of the Poor of said Parish) 50 shillings or 500 pounds tobacco.” --Pg. 100, Dec. 11, 1750, Court of Stafford Co. VA

In William F. Boogher’s oft-cited translation of the Overwharton Parish register, there appear to be two Elizabeth Stacys of the same generation who married just four years apart.

One entry reads: “William Howard married Elizabeth Stacy, May 29, 1751.”

The other states: “Benjamin Robinson Jr. married Elizabeth Stacy, May 25, 1755.”

Another record notes: “Elizabeth Howard, wife of William Howard died July 12, 1755.”

The Boogher transcript is tricky here though. There are two separate marriage records for this Elizabeth Howard:

William Howard married Elizabeth Stacy May 29, 1751

William Howard married Elizabeth Stanard May 29, 1751

However, a look at the original parish register microfilm (via Familysearch archives) shows there is no entry for the Howard/Stanard marriage in 1751; only the Howard/Stacy marriage exists in the original. This means that the Howard/Stanard marriage was evidently a mistake on the part of Boogher.

This presents a quandary. We have two Elizabeth Stacys marry in Overwharton Parish just four years apart. They couldn’t both be daughters of John Sr. It is possible the Elizabeth who married Benjamin Robinson Jr. was the eldest daughter of John Stacy Jr., but only if she married extremely young—maybe 14 years of age. She would not fit in Simon’s or any other known marriage.

It is also worthy to note that Elizabeth Stacy Robinson's marriage date is the same as her brother, Peter Stacy. It is possible that a confused priest or vestryman accidentally invented a marriage after the fact, that there was no Benjamin Robinson Jr., that there was only the Elizabeth Stacy who married William Howard and died in 1755. This would explain why neither Benjamin Jr. nor Elizabeth Stacy Robinson seem to exist outside of their marriage record, and why Benjamin Robinson Sr. named a much younger son Benjamin in 1758, according to the Overwharton Parish register.

It's all very perplexing. But in any case, given the earlier marriage date, we can state with confidence that Elizabeth, the wife of William Howard was a daughter of John Stacy Sr.

Elizabeth married William Howard on May 29, 1751 in Stafford County, Virginia. William was born before 1731 and died after April 25, 1756 of Stafford County, Virginia.

William Howard appears in a number of cases in Stafford County court. He served as a witness in a suit by Henry Stoddard in September 1750; he was also plaintiff in trespass cases in April 1752, November 1752, and March 1754. He survived his wife and went on to marry Martha Wheeler on April 25, 1756. His whereabouts after that are unknown.

Their child was:

+ 72 F i. Elizabeth Howard was born on August 14, 1752 in Stafford County, Virginia.

16. George Stacy (John<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1736 in Stafford County, Virginia and died in October 1767 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

George Stacy (c.1736-1767) Lived a short life as a tenant farmer in Hamilton Parish, Fauquier County, Virginia. In personality he was cavalier, unruly, and seemed to hold a low regard for authority. He was in court frequently in Fauquier County, often being sued for debts, trespass, assault & battery and failing to attend church. He occasionally failed to appear in court, and once even tried to jump bail posted by his brother-in-law, Benjamin Robinson.

George grew up near Aquia Creek in Stafford County, Virginia and followed the migration of his older brothers Simon and John to the mountains of Frederick County in 1758. George had evidently been engaged to Sarah Ashby of Frederick County until early 1759, when it was discovered and reported to the court that she had been romantically involved with a Joseph Combs. George ended their engagement, resulting in a suit by the jilted Ashby, later abated.

George moved on to Prince William County shortly thereafter, and was living there when the western flank was split off to form Fauquier County on May 24, 1759. He was enumerated in the first tithable list of Fauquier's northern district just 16 days later. Given that the nearest confirmed landowner listed is Charles Littlejohn, he likely lived and worked on Littlejohn's 150-acre tract near what is now Hume, Virginia. By September 1759, George was married to a Jemima (probably Edwards). The births of their children went unrecorded, but the George, Peter, Robert and Anna Stacy later recorded in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina are almost certainly theirs.

George died suddenly in October 1767. The cause was not documented, but a coroner's inquest was initiated, suggesting he died by accident or misadventure, rather than illness. By 1771, Charles Littlejohn had evidently married his widow and took his children to South Carolina, where he bought property on Little Thicketty Creek in Ninety-Six District.

George Stacy's burial location is unknown, but it was most likely in one of the hundreds of family cemeteries near his home in Leeds Manor.

George Stacy is also mentioned in the ledger for John Glassford's Dumfries Store, Prince William County, Virginia for the years 1762-64. He appears in the 1762-63 and 1764 books, though neither entry provides much information. He does appear in both account books right next to Haden Edwards. Joseph Combs is also in the ledger. Dumfries is just six miles from Aquia Church, the center of Overwharton Parish, Stafford County.

Oct. 26, 1767: The County is made DR. payment of 133 pounds of tobacco to John Bell, Coroner, for taking Inquisition on George Stacey. (Fauquier County Minute Book 1764-68) NOTE: Since the previous court date took place Sep. 29, 1767, this suggests that George died some time in October.

George married Jemima Edwards, daughter of Ignatius Edwards and Mary Baker, before September 6, 1759. Jemima was born on March 4, 1737 in Stafford County, Virginia, died on August 7, 1816 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina, and was buried in Charles Littlejohn Cemetery, Gaffney, SC.

JEMIMA EDWARDS (1737-1816): WIFE OF GEORGE STACY & CHARLES LITTLEJOHN

Jemima evidently married George Stacy in 1759, and after his death, remarried his widowed landlord Charles Littlejohn and moved to South Carolina between 1774 and 1777.

"George Stacy and Jemima his wife" were named in a September 1759 suit abatement (Frederick Co. VA orders). "George Stacey" died in October 1767 according to a coroner's inquest by John Bell (Fauquier Co. VA Orders).

“Charles Little John” and “George Stasey” lived just two homes apart in the June 1759 tithable lists of Fauquier County, Virginia. The proximity suggests Stacy was a tenant on Littlejohn’s property in Leeds Manor district, since none of the men listed between Stacy and Littlejohn appear to have been landowners until much later.

The identification of “Jemima Stacy” as the wife of Charles Littlejohn comes from the two-volume book Littlejohn Genealogy written by Iris Littlejohn McKown (1887-1971) and published by the Gaffney Ledger in 1953. In the second volume, Mrs. McKown indicates she received this information from T. C. Littlejohn (b. 1898), whom she also credited with identifying the graves of Samuel Littlejohn, his wife, and sister, then unmarked. This suggests the identification of Jemima Littlejohn as a Stacy was a family tradition he had inherited.

The tradition is at least partially confirmed by documents: “Jemimah Littlejohn” was named in the minutes of Goucher Creek Baptist Church at her death on August 7, 1816. And at least two of Jemima’s granddaughters were known to have been named Jemima as well.

Charles Littlejohn lived in same neighborhood as Robert Stacy in 1790, enumerated on same census page. Plat and deed records show they were neighbors on Thicketty Creek.

Given that Charles Littlejohn lived just three doors away from George & Jemima Stacy in Hamilton Parish (Fauquier County Tithables, June 10, 1759); that he was cited along with George Stacy by Fauquier Court for not attending church in November 1764; it stands to reason Jemima Stacy knew Charles Littlejohn socially, and married him after being widowed in 1767. Given the significant gap between births of Charles Littlejohn’s children (pre-1765 and 1772) and the small number of children he is known to have had per the 1800 census and family records, it seems likely Jemima Stacy was his second wife, and that their marriage occurred between 1767 and 1771, while Charles was living in Fauquier County, appearing in rent rolls until 1777.

JEMIMA STACY’S PARENTAGE

The wife of George Stacy and Charles Littlejohn is likely the Jemima Edwards who was born March 4, 1736/7 (Gregorian date March 15, 1737) in St. Paul Parish, Stafford County, VA, “daughter of Mary Edwards.” Parish records did not use maiden names for married women, so the Mary Edwards recorded is probably Mary, wife of Ignatius Edwards (d. 1750) of Overwharton Parish records of 1742-1750. They are documented having children as early as 1732. There is no other Mary Edwards recorded in Stafford County who was the right age to have had a child in 1737. Mary, wife of Meredith Edwards of Stafford County, didn’t have her first child until 1745.

Jemima Edwards was fined by Stafford County Court on May 14, 1751 for having a bastard child in Overwharton parish. She would have been 14 years old:

May Court, page 113 Stafford Co. Orders, May 14, 1751 "We likewise present JEMIMA EDWARDS for having a Bastard Child at the Parish of Overwharton."

September Court, page 133, Stafford Co. Orders, Sep. 12, 1751 "JEMIMA EDWARDS being presented to the Grand Jury for having a Bastard Child & summoned failed to appear whereupon it's ordered that she pay to the Church Wardens of Overwharton Parish 50 Shillings or 500 pounds Tobacco & Cask & Costs."

The fact that the only documented Jemima Edwards in Stafford County (of St. Paul Parish) ended up in Overwharton by age 14 is further evidence that she is the daughter of Ignatius and Mary Edwards of Overwharton.

Ignatius, the name of her father and oldest brother, was an exceedingly rare name in the early United States. In the 1790 census there are only 89 heads of household named Ignatius, with 73 of those based in Maryland. Zero in Virginia. The only other Ignatius in Stafford County birth records in Overwharton or St. Paul is a transcription error-- per other records, his name was actually Cornelius. No other men named Ignatius appear in the area until the 1780s.

The name was white hot in Maryland's Catholic communities, and Ignatius Edwards came from Maryland in 1732 or earlier (per a declaration of Ignatius Jr. when he was drafted). The scarcity of the name among colonial protestants is strong evidence that Ignatius Littlejohn, son of Charles and Jemima Stacy Littlejohn, was named for Ignatius Edwards.

Jemima had a sister named Anne (whom Anne Stacy Noland may have been named for) and her brother, Baker Edwards (mis-transcribed as "Isaker" in the Overwharton parish book by William F. Boogher), married Sarah Stacy, niece of her husband George Stacy, so there is already a proven connection between the Edwards and Stacy families. The name Anne is rare in the Stacy family of Virginia.

STACY-EDWARDS PROXIMITY

There are numerous other social links between the Stacy and Edwards families in Stafford County.

The John Stacy and Ignatius Edwards families were both associated with Henry Wigginton of Overwharton Parish:

Aug. 14, 1739: [Excerpt from land indenture]...Fifty acres part of the said one hundred acres being first purchased by Henry Wigginton father to the said Henry Wigginton, party to these presents from Thomas Smith and Susanna his wife by deed bearing the date the seventh day of March one thousand seven hundred and twenty five (six) and the remaining fifty acres of the said 100 acres being also purchased by the said Henry Wigginton the father from Ignatius Edwards and Mary his wife by Deeds of Lease and release bearing date respectively the thirteenth and fourteenth days of October one thousand seven hundred and thirty, which said one hundred acres of land together with the said twenty four acres of marsh were afterwards granted to the said Henry Wigginton the father by Deed from the proprietors office the Northern Neck of Virginia dated the 5th day of December 1730...

October 1751: John Stacy jun'r, Richard Fristoe Jun'r, Robert Ashby Jun'r, & Thomas Ashby being bound over to this Court by a recognizance appeared & having heard them & their evidences ag'st them the court are of opinion that each of them enters into bond of twenty pound sterl'd with two securities of ten pounds sterling each for their good behavior & keeping the peace a year & a day. Benjamin Robinson & Henry Wigginton acknowledged themselves securities for the s'd John Stacy & Rich'd Fristoe. Charles Harding & John Carpenter for the s'd Robert Ashby - Richard Fristoe Sen'r & Thomas Crafford for Thomas Ashby. Then the court adjou'd till tomorrow morn'g [9?] clock.

Jesse Edwards, brother of Jemima, was witness to the will of Robert Fristoe in Stafford County, dated Sep. 15, 1764. Other witnesses named as Baily Washington, Nicholas Riley. Note that Robert Fristoe Jr. was in hot water in Stafford County court along with John Stacy Jr. in 1750; the Fristoes served as road maintenance with the Stacys on Aquia Road, per a road order of 1750, and Bailey Washington served as their overseer. To top it all off, Jesse Edwards also lived on Aquia Road (Garrisonville Rd.) as late as 1795, according to tax records. So it is clear that Jesse Edwards and the Stacys were close neighbors in Stafford County.

The Stacys left Stafford and moved to Frederick and Prince William Counties c. 1757-58, and at least part of the Edwards family did the same. Jemima's brother, Ignatius, served at Fort Loudoun in Frederick County in 1756-57 and at the time of his execution in July 1757 was described as "of Prince William County." She also had an uncle in Prince William/Fauquier, Andrew Edwards. George Stacy was living in Prince William County when an act of legislation broke part of it off into Fauquier County on May 24, 1759. He was recorded in the first tithables list there just two weeks later.

DEATH RECORD

The Littlejohns were communicants of Goucher Creek Baptist Church in Spartanburg District. Jemima's death was recorded in the church minutes: "Jemimah Littlejohn Departed this Life the 7th day of August 1816." Her husband's death was also recorded as Feb. 6, 1824.

karendelorisknowles, who is a descendant of Ignatius Littlejohn (8 cM) (no shared ancestry, strong match)

STACY/EDWARDS MATCHES: Several successful triangulations.

SKFeagins (11 cM), a descendant of Joseph Combs and Mary Edwards of Prince William Co., Va., cross-matches with me, Danny Stacy (108 cM) and Rick Stacy (94 cM), all Samuel Acum Stacy descendants. SKFeagins has few brick walls before her 4th great grandparents, and most of those are in NJ or the midwest.

glw1320 (8 cM), a descendant of Uriah Edwards, cross-matches with myself and Cecilia Kindrick (25 cM) a Robert Stacy descendant. glw1320's tree has significant gaps, but no surnames of concern.

Marian Stokes (9 cM), a descendant of Elizabeth Edward King, cross-matches with myself and Ashlyn Stacy Neeley (833 cM), my first cousin. Marian starts having some tree gaps among her 3rd and 4th great grandparents, but only about 7. Some seem to be in Darlington and Berkeley County, SC, which is a concern.

Fisher7341 (8 cM), a descendant of Thomas Edwards (1774-1850) of Buncombe County, NC, cross-matches with myself and Rick Stacy, a "Gaffney Stacy" descendant. Two other profiles she manages show this triangulated match as well.

Fourth Generation (Great-Grandchildren)

His father's will (1784) noted John was still living and had a son named Thomas. Nothing further is known for certain.

Evidently this John Stacy served in the Revolution and ended up in Brunswick Co., VA, where he died before April 28, 1807. He had children Thomas Stacy (c.1769-c.1841) and Martha Stacy (1786, unsourced) and may be the father of a John Stacy whose wife petitioned for divorce in Henry County, VA in September 1809. He evidently does not appear in the 1790 tithables of Brunswick County, Virginia.

The identification of the John Stacy of Sussex with that of Brunswick comes in the name of "Dilsi" a slave given to John in the will of Simon Stacy (1784) that comes up in the records of John and Thomas Stacy in Brunswick 23 years later:

April 28, 1807. Brunswick, Virginia, United States. Stacy being anxious to pay these debts for $1 paid by Powell & ? sold entire interest & estate of said Thomas Stacy in remainder after the death of his father John Stacy in the following negroes. To wit: Dilce (?) a woman bequeathed by will...

Some researchers have taken this to mean that Bennett/Benedict Stacy of the Mahlon Stacy lineage, who lived in Brunswick County from as early as 1771 through at least 1783 was related to the descendants of Simon Stacy, but this was proven false by DNA testing in 2006-08 via Becky Madruga's Stacy newsletter. Bennett Stacy was named in the 1783 tithables of Brunswick County. See: <http://www.learnwebskills.com/patriot/va1783taxs2.htm>

Wit: James Hinton, Benjamin Chapman, Adam Sims. Proved 25Mar 1771. Peter Pelham Jr CC. Deed, VA, Brunswick, Abs Books Vol. 5, 1770 - 1775 Deed Book 10

John's wife remains unidentified.

His children were:

+ 77 M i. Thomas Stacy was born about 1769 in Virginia and died after 1840 in Maury County, Tennessee.

+ 78 M ii. John Stacy was born about 1780 in Virginia and died before 1837 of Henry County, Virginia.

18. Simon Stacy Jr. (Simon<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on March 20, 1742 in York County, Virginia and died in June 1778 in Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. "Simon Stacy Jnr." was named a freeholder in the vestry book of Albemarle Parish, Sussex County in a record of March 31, 1768.

Simon Stacy served in the 15th Virginia Regiment from at least June 1777 and last appears in the muster rolls of John Gregory in June 1778 where it was noted he was "sick [at] Valley Forge." He "died in the service of the United States" according to the Revolutionary War pension application of his widow, Sarah. She received payments of eighty pounds per year from 1787 until at least May 1804.

Simon married Sarah Andrews about 1767. Sarah was born on April 30, 1747 in Surry County, Virginia and died after May 1804.

Her maiden name may have been Andrews. There was a Sarah Andrews born in Albemarle Parish on April 30, 1747 to John and Sarah Andrews. In addition to her son having the middle name Andrews, Simon Stacy Jr. and the Andrews family sponsored each other's baptisms, suggesting strong family ties. Sarah Andrews was sponsor for the baptism of Jenny Stacy (Simon & Elizabeth) in 1760.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 79 F i. Katherine Stacy was born on November 4, 1768 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1810 of Sussex County, Virginia.

+ 80 M ii. Benjamin Stacy was born on April 2, 1770 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1789 of Sussex County, Virginia.

+ 81 M iii. William Andrews Stacy was born on August 2, 1772 in Sussex County, Virginia and died after 1802.

She was named as Mary Judkins in the will of her father. Her husband may have been the Robert Judkins who was a neighbor to Simon Stacy in the 1782 tithable list of Sussex County, VA. Could also be the William Judkins who died in Sussex in 1790.

Since William and Robert Judkins both appear to be married to women with different names (aside from one Robert Judkins who was married to a Mary, but probably too early to be the one), by elimination it seems that Mary was likely married to John Judkins. Most of the children of John & Mary Judkins were sponsored by Simon, Mary, Lawrence or Patty Stacy, suggesting close family ties.

Mary Stacy was named godmother of Edward Wright, born June 2, 1764 in Sussex County. Her brother, Simon Stacy Jr., was named godfather. See <https://www.ancestry.com/boards/surnames.wright/8190/mb.ashx>

Birth and christening records from this family all come from Albemarle Parish register, Sussex County, VA.

Mary married John Judkins about 1763. John was born on October 3, 1746 in Surry County, Virginia.

He may be the Sgt. John Judkins who fought in the 4th Virginia Regiment in the Revolutionary War from at least June 1, 1777 and who may have died in the service July 19, 1777 (the remark may also note that he was sick, its barely legible). The 4th regiment included men from Sussex and Surry Counties, among others in Virginia.

He may be the John Judkins who appears in a Rent Roll of Sussex County, VA in 1779.

He is likely not the John Judkins who lived in Surry County, VA in 1782 tithables. This John Judkins appears in Surry County, VA as late as the 1810 census: 010011-30200 but is evidently a different man. There are at least two John Judkinses who married in Surry County in the 1790s who are a better fit.

- + 83 F ii. Martha Judkins was born on December 4, 1765 in Sussex County, Virginia.
- + 84 M iii. Gray Judkins was born on April 11, 1770 in Sussex County, Virginia.

His birth was recorded in Albemarle Parish register, Sussex Co., VA. He was named as an heir in his father's 1784 will.

He may be the Joseph Stacy who was granted 100 acres near Little Town Creek in Montgomery County, NC on Nov. 26, 1789. He was granted a further 100 acres on the northeast side of the Pee Dee River in Montgomery County on June 9, 1799.

From NC state records, Dec. 11, 1789: "Received from the Senate a Bill to release Joseph Stacy of Montgomery County from the forfeiture of a recognizance..."
<https://docsouth.unc.edu/csr/index.php/document/csr21-0002>

The NC Joseph appears in the 1800 census of Montgomery County. He is over age 45 (b. before 1755) which makes him a strong candidate to be the same man.

Curiously, no Joseph appears in 1782 Montgomery County property tax lists, but Benjamin and John Stacy do appear. This strongly suggests that these Montgomery County Stacys are the Quaker Stacys (John/Benedict/Benjamin/Aaron/etc.)

21. Martha Stacy (Simon<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on September 24, 1751 in Surry County, Virginia and died after March 17, 1784.

No record of her marriage in Albemarle Parish and the name House seems to be non-existent there until 1809, suggesting she moved away from the county. She is named as Martha House in her father's will.

Martha married ? House before March 17, 1784.

22. Lawrence Stacy (Simon<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on December 8, 1754 in Sussex County, Virginia and died before March 17, 1784.

In Rev. War rolls there is a "Lewis Stacy" who served with Stephen Stacy in the 11th Virginia Regiment. They enlisted on Feb. 10, 1777 and Mar. 6, 1777, respectively. Named in muster rolls of Dec. 1778.

See: Regiment: 11th Regiment, 1776-1778 (Folder 282) - 12th Regiment, 1777-1778 (Folders 298-301) Ancestry.com. U.S., Revolutionary War Rolls, 1775-1783 [database on-line]. Provo, UT.

In his father's 1784 will:

"I give to my daughter-in-law Sarah Stacy a negro girl called Sherry during her life, then to be sold and equally divided between her daughters Caty and Martha Stacy. My desire is that what is common after paying my son Laurence Stacy's debts may equally be divided amongst John, Stephen and Edmond Stacy."

Lawrence married Sarah.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 86 F i. Caty Stacy .

+ 87 F ii. Martha Stacy .

23. Jenny Stacy (Simon<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on July 22, 1760 in Sussex County, Virginia and died before March 17, 1784.

No other record than her birth in Albemarle Parish. Not named in her father's will. Likely died young and unmarried.

Record from C. Ray Stacy: Stephen enlisted 06-Mar-1777. The first record is for the month of June 1777, at which time he was with Capt. James Gray's Company of the 15th Virginia Regiment, commanded by Lt. Col. James Inness. The town or camp is not given. He appears to have had Lt. Col. Innes as commander until January 1778. It seems that Lt. Col. Innes was replaced by Maj. Gustavus B. Wallace. Wallace appears to be in command until at least May 1778, when he was replaced by Lt. Col. John Cropper. During the winter of 1778, the Company was at Valley Forge, as some of the Muster Rolls and Pay Rolls are headed "Valley Forge." Lt. Cropper seems to have been replaced by Daniel Morgan. (About May 1778, the 11th (1776-1778) and the 15th Virginia Regiments were incorporated and designated the 11th and 15th Virginia Regiment until about September 1778). On September 1, 1778, he was stationed at Camp White Plains, NY. In September he was at Newark. On November 1st and December 1st 1778, the Company was at Pumpton. "During January and February of 1779, he was at Middlebrook. The Company was then commanded by Col. Abraham Bufford. They remained under Bufford until May 1779. The Company Muster Roll dated June 11, 1779 is at Smith Clove and was by the commanded by Col. Russell. Stephen was assigned to Major Stephenson's Company of the 5th and 11th Virginia Regiment of Foot, commanded by Col. Russell. On August 1, 1779, the Company, still under the command of Col. Russell, was stationed at Ramapough. The last report on Stephen is for the month of November 1779, when he was stationed at Camp Morriston, still under Col. Russell. On September 2, 1783, he was issued a Certificate for the balance of full pay Agreeable to an Act of Assembly passed November Session, 1781. It was received by Robert Jones. Vol. 176, pg. 271. He was issued Land Office Military Warrant, No. 2707, on March 4, 1784.

Susan was named as wife in Deed Book H, pg. 423 of Rockingham, NC.

Virginia Records from C. Ray Stacy: Deed Book, H, pg. 423:31-Dec-1795 - Indenture in which Stephen Stacy of the County of Rockingham, State of North Carolina, sells to Edmund Stacy of the County of Sussex, State of Virginia, for 13 lbs 5 shillings, all his right, title, an interest in his part or portion that is due him from his father's estate, at his mother-in-law's decease, etc. Signed by Stephen Stacy (Seal) and Susan Stacy (x). Wits: William Harrison, Nicholas Stacy and William Lam. Recorded 04-Feb-1796.

He is found in the 1800 census of Salisbury, Rockingham Co., NC. 20001-31010

In Rockingham County, NC there is a family cemetery called Soyars-Lee-Benton which has a marker that names a Deborah Benton (1802-1848) who married a Thomas Stacy in 1816.

Transcript of Albemarle Parish records show a Magdalene Stacy, dau. of Simon and Elisabeth Morris born March 15, 1768. But given the odd gap between 1761 and 1766 births and the fact that Edmund Stacy was listed as the son of Simon and Mary, it presents a bit of a dilemma. Did Elizabeth Morris Stacy come back from the dead to give birth to Magdalene in 1768, despite Simon already being remarried to Mary in 1766? It seems more likely that 1768 was a transcription error that may have originally been 1763.

No other record of her existence. She was not named in her father's will and likely died young.

Birth date from Albemarle Parish register, Sussex, VA. There seems to be some confusion about his birth, with the original Albemarle Parish book naming his parents as "Simon and Catherine Stacey" which seems impossible, since Catherine was long deceased by 1766 and Simon had been remarried before then. It's possible he was born in 1756, or that his mother was wrongly listed.

Dated 12 October 1803 - Probated 2 February 1804

NOTE: Children obviously were not named, however the estate settlement of his mother, Mary Stacy does give us the names of the children [supposedly Polly, Willis and Rebecca, according to indirect information from other genealogies].

Ibid p. 547 - Inventory of Edmund Stacy includes a negro slave named "Nat" value 105 pds. (See the will of Edmund's father in which he bequeathed the slave "Nat" to his son Edmund)

"Mary _____ Stacy died 41 years after the death of her husband, Simon Stacy (1711/12 - 1784) and was therefore a fairly young woman when her husband died. Edmund's children never received any of the estate, as their mother and husband John Holloway had removed to Alabama prior to the estate settlement."

Rebecca Harrison remarried a John Halloway on Oct. 24, 1807 (VA marriage bonds) and they had a son named James W. Hallaway on Jan. 31, 1807 and a daughter named Sarah in 1810, according to the family bible of A. F. Stacy.

Edmund married Rebecca Harrison on November 6, 1797 in Sussex County, Virginia. Rebecca was born about 1775 in Virginia and died on March 22, 1850 in Alabama.

Death date comes from the A. F. Stacy family bible: "Rebecca Halloway, my mother, departed this life Mar. 22, 1850 about 75 years old."

Children from this marriage were:

+ 88 M i. Alexander Franklin Stacy was born on January 14, 1798 in Sussex County, Virginia, died on August 16, 1865 in Eden, Texas, and was buried in Eden Cemetery, Eden, TX.

+ 89 M ii. Willis A. Stacy was born in 1802 in Sussex County, Virginia and died on February 15, 1838 in Hardeman County, Tennessee.

Her birth was recorded in Albemarle Parish registers and her marriage to Henry Parsons in Virginia state records. This couple seems to vanish from records and don't appear in 1810 or later census records.

Hannah married Henry Parsons on February 4, 1793 in Sussex County, Virginia. Henry was born on August 12, 1749 in Surry County, Virginia.

The only Henry Parsons whose birth was recorded in Albemarle Parish was born in 1749.

Her birth and that of her husband were recorded in Albemarle Parish register. She is named in her father's will, and her marriage was likewise recorded at Albemarle. She was likely recorded in the household of Robert Parsons in the 1810 US census of Sussex County, VA. Per the census, she had at least 7 children. Their identities are unknown.

She may have been recorded in the 1830 U.S. census in the household of Robert Parsons, although the oldest female in the house is age 40-50 (born 1780-90), so this would indicate a much younger woman, possibly a second wife.

Catherine married Robert Parsons on December 21, 1795 in Sussex County, Virginia. Robert was born on November 27, 1774 in Sussex County, Virginia, died on September 24, 1863 in Ward, Indiana, and was buried in Reitenour Cemetery, Winchester, IN.

His birth was recorded in the Albemarle Parish register. Son of Henry and Eliza Parsons. He married his father's sister-in-law. He can last be confirmed in the 1810 US census of Sussex County, VA.

He may be the same Robert Parsons who appears in Indiana in the 1820 (Orange or Wayne County), 1830 (Ward, Randolph County) 1840 (Ward, Randolph County) census records. He married Eva Wreck, with the date of their marriage license as Sep. 16, 1844 (Randolph Co., IN records). This Robert Parsons age 76, b. VA, appears in Ward, Randolph County, IN in the 1850 census with a female, Eve, age 63 (possibly his third wife). He appears again with Eve/Eva Parsons in Ward township in the 1860 census, age 87, wife age 73, both born in VA. This Robert Parsons died in Ward on Oct. 24, 1863 and was buried in Reitenour Cemetery, Winchester, IN. (See <https://www.findagrave.com/memorial/66999936>)

Rev. Robert Stacy, son of John and Anne Stacy lived in York County, Virginia from about 1765 to 1786. He lived in Warwick Co. VA from 1786 to 1796. He became a preacher in 1797/98 and lived in Gloucester Co., VA from 1796 until his death, probably in early 1822 at the age of 65. Kinchen Stacy, Robert's cousin, also born in Sussex County, appears with him in the 1788 Warwick Co. tax census. Robert, Joseph & Kinchen Stacy, Joseph & Kinchen being brothers and cousins to Robert, all remained closely associated with one another through the 1780s and 90s, showing close kinship.

Timeline:

Mar. 25, 1757: Robert Stacy, son of John and Anne, born in Sussex Co., VA. His birth was recorded in the Albemarle Parish register. The parents return to their native York County by 1766.

Jan. 20, 1772: Robert Stacy is apprenticed to tailor John Conrad Gunther at York County, VA. The indenture was for six years, due to end in 1778.

Late 1779: Robert Stacy converted to baptism at Grafton Church, York County by John Leland (The Family Tree Searcher Vol. 17, No. 1, 2013, pg. 36).

Oct. 1782: Robert Stacy of York County petitioned the colonial government for redress for the loss of his hay bails during the latter part of the Revolutionary War (Publick Claims of York Co., VA During the Revolutionary War, Chiefly for the Years 1780-81).

1783-1784: "Robert Stacy" appears in York Co., tax census in these two years. He owns a single slave. He is over age 21 (born before 1762).

June 10, 1785: Robert Stacy purchases 40 acres from Robert Shield. Witnessed by John Stacy (his brother). York County court.

Nov. 1, 1785: "Robert Stacy and wife Susannah" sold their land (40 acres, purchased five months earlier) in York Co. VA to Robert Shield. They appear in tax records of Warwick Co. in early 1787, so presumeably moved there after the land sale.

May 15, 1786: In York County court "Robert Stacy who made Oath according to the Law, and with John Stacy and Kinchen Stacy his securities, entered and acknowledged their bond in the penalty of 100 pounds... on the estate of Lucy Burcher, deceased."

1787: "Robert Stacy" living in Warwick Co. VA (neighboring York Co.) in 1787 property tax census of VA, owning three slaves, has no known sons and has some livestock. Over age 21 (born before 1766).

Mar. 21, 1787: Robert Stacy remained a friend with his former master, John Gunther throughout his life. He appeared in York Co. Court for him as a witness on March 21, 1787. The entry reads:

"On the motion of Robert Stacy, a witness from Warwick for the same against the same (John C. Gunter against John Mass, administrator of John Goodwin, dec'd), it is ordered that the said John Gunter pay him 239 pounds of tobacco for attending the court six days and for traveling seven miles four times and returning." (York County Orders, 1784-1787, pg. 424)

Aug. 19, 1789: Robert appears in York Co. court again on Aug. 19, 1789, again as a witness for Gunter. He is still mentioned as being from "Warwick", but the distance traveled is changed to five miles, the duration to two days, and the payment to 70 pounds of tobacco. (John C. Gunter vs. John Nelson, York County Orders) Note: John Conrad Gunter was dead by April 1796, when his will was probated.

Aug. 18, 1791: Robert Stacy appears in York Co. court as a witness for John A. Rogers. (York County Orders)

Jan. 20, 1794: John and Robert Stacy witnessed a marriage declaration for James Drury and Anne Vicars in York County (York County Orders)

July 20, 1795: Robert Stacy is last recorded in Warwick County's tax census, though he appeared in York County Court on Oct. 17, 1796 (via his attorney, in a case involving William Burcher, whom Robert was named guardian of in 1786). Robert does not appear in any tax census in 1796.

1797: Robert Stacy makes his debut appearance in Gloucester County in the tax census of this year. (Gloucester County is just across the river from York County). He appears as "Robert Stacy" in 1797, and in 1798 appears in the same county as "Reverend Robert Stacy."

1801: Rev. Robert Stacy became the pastor of Abingdon Church in Gloucester Co., VA. He was called "a sound and good preacher." A brief biography of Elder Stacy noted that he was "raised up in the Grafton Baptist Church in York County." He may have owned slaves named Ned and Elsey Almond, who in 1820 were said to be living on "Stacy Land." According to an account written by John Leland, a Baptist preacher from Massachusetts, Robert Stacy was among a group of Episcopalians in York County whom he converted between November 1779 and July 1780.

Dec. 16, 1803: Robert Stacy signed a petition in Gloucester County to the members of the General Assembly of Virginia to complain that the practice of burning oysters to obtain lime from their shells had depleted the oyster population in the rivers they lived on, and this caused distress since they captured the oysters for food and used them as merchandise. They asked the Assembly to prohibit the practice before all the oysters were gone. (Magazine of Virginia Genealogy, Vol. 30, No. 1)

1799-1803: Robert disappears from the tax records between 1799 and 1803; during this period he does not appear in York, Warwick or Gloucester Counties, however his brother, John (b. Feb. 5, 1762 in Sussex Co,VA) who appears in several York County court documents between 1785 and 1795, does appear in Gloucester Co. in 1799. There are no Robert Stacys that appeared in York, Warwick or Gloucester Counties simultaneously. Robert does not appear in York County court records after Oct. 1796, around the time he moved to Gloucester County.

1810-1820: Robert Stacy, Botetourt, Gloucester, VA 1810: has a wife and 3 daughters. In the 1820 census he has two daughters and a wife.

Apr. 24, 1822: He remains in Gloucester County tax records from 1804 until the tax census records on April 24, 1822 this entry: "Stacy, Robert, dec'd".

Robert married Susannah Burcher about 1785. Susannah was born before 1765 and died after 1820 of Gloucester County, Virginia.

Birth year estimate comes from census records. Her husband obtained letters of administration for the estate of Lucy Burcher in York County Court on May 15, 1786. Robert also became the guardian of her orphan son William Burcher (b. Feb. 22, 1775 to James and Lucy, Charles Parish), suggesting the Burchers were likely his in-laws.

His birth was recorded in register of Albemarle Parish, Sussex County, Virginia as Feb. 5, 1762.

He is likely the John Stacy who appears near Kinchen Stacy in York Co. VA Tax Census of 1790, and the Gloucester Co. Tax census of 1799. He appears in a number of court documents with Kinchen and Robert Stacy through the 1780s and 1790s. He also served as bondsman for Kinchen's marriage to Margaret Mason.

York County Court, June 10, 1785, John Stacy witnessed Robert Stacy's land purchase from Robert Shield and others.

York County Court, Oct. 18, 1785:

On the motion of John Stacy, witness for Mary Edwards against Joseph Stacy and others it is ordered that the said Mary pay him one hundred and seventy five pounds of tobacco for attending this court seven days. (The "others" referred to are named in the complaint Mary Edwards against Joseph Stacy, Kinchen Stacy, Elizabeth Stacy and Faithy Stacy.)

York County Court, May 15, 1786:

On the Motion of Robert Stacy who made Oath according to Law and with John Stacy and Kinchen Stacy his Securities entered into and acknowledged therein Bond in the Penalty of one hundred poundes conditioned as the Law directs. Certificate is granted him for obtaining Letters of Administration on the Estate of Lucy Burcher in due form~

Ordered that Robert Shield, James Holloway, John Stacy, Thomas Holloway or any three of them being first sworn before a Justice of the County do appraise in Current Money the Slaves and personal Estate of Lucy Burcher deceased and return their Appraisement to the Court.

John Stacy and Robert Stacy witnessed the marriage declaration of James Drury and Anne Vicars Jan. 20, 1794, York County, VA.

John Stacy last appears in the tithables list of Gloucester County in 1799. His fate after that remains unknown.

Her marriage declaration in the court records of York County calls her "Anne Stacy, spinster of the Parish of Northampton and County of York." On the same page it shows her brothers, John and Robert Stacy witnessed a marriage declaration for James Drury and Anne Vicars in York County dated Jan. 20, 1794.

The 1810 census confirms the Anne Stacy who married Henry Drury was considerably older than her husband: 00010-10201 (man age 26-45, wife over age 45, 3 female children).

Since one year is not long enough to have three children (excepting the unlikelihood of triplets), this suggests that one, the other or both had either been previously married, or they had a common law marriage for some years.

Anne married Henry Drury on February 20, 1809 in York County, Virginia. Henry was born on November 28, 1780 in York County, Virginia and died after 1810 of Williamsburg, Virginia.

He is likely the Henry Drury born in Charles Parish, York County on Nov. 28, 1780, chr. Feb. 11, 1781, to Henry and Elizabeth.

Only the year of her birth is recorded in Albemarle Parish register, Sussex County, VA.

Still unmarried in 1785; named in a complaint by Mary Edwards against basically her whole family Oct. 18, 1785 York Co. court.

Kinchen Stacy found in York Co. VA in 1782-1787.

1784 tax census, York Co.: Robert Stacy, one slave; Kinchin Stacy, no slaves; John Stacy, three slaves.

1785: Kinchen marries Margaret Mason according to Virginia marriage license bonds.

1788 tithables, Warwick Co.: Robert Stacy alone.

1789 tithables, Warwick Co.: Joseph, Robert and Kinchin Stacy. Joseph and Kinchen enumerated April 7, Robert enumerated April 9. Robert owned one negro over 16, one horse. Per land census he also owned 40 acres of Warwick Co.

1790 tithables, York Co.: Kinchen and John Stacy listed. In 1791 there is a mysterious "F. Stacy" who is a landowner in York County, could be Faith, Kinchin's mother.

<http://www.binnsgenealogy.com/VirginiaTaxListCensuses/Warwick/1789Personal/04.jpg>

Joseph Stacy was apprenticed to cabinetmaker George Chisman on Oct. 18, 1784. (York Co. Deeds 6, 1777-91, p. 247).

A Joseph Stacy appears in Warwick Co., 1789 tax census and York Co., 1800 tax census.

He is almost certainly the “Joseph Stacy Junior” who patented land on the “waters of Hurricane Creek” in Tennessee in August 1815. (Tennessee, Early Land Registers 1778-1927, Series 2). This Joseph also seems to have a plat in Wilson Co., TN dated July 1814 and December 1816. In the 1820 census, this Joseph Stacy is over age 45 (b. bef. 1775), has 3 sons and 2 daughters. His neighbors included several familiar York County names such as Bennett and Edwards. He appears in no further census records.

38. William Stacy (Joseph<sup>3</sup>, Joseph<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1774 in Virginia and died in 1825 or 1826 in Warwick County, Virginia.

This is a presumed son of Joseph because he doesn't seem to fit anywhere else. Also, because it seems only the sons of Joseph (b. 1726) and John (b. 1722) moved to Warwick. He has a definite marriage record in Sussex Co. VA as given. It can't be William Andrews Stacy because he had a different wife and this Susan evidently lived long enough to have her own daughter also named Susan according to the following:

<http://hdhdata.org/roots/d3189.html#f00031>

This William Stacy appears in the Warwick County census of 1820 next door to William Burcher. 200010-20010

Listed in records of Warwick County Overseers of the Poor on June 3, 1822 are Nancy, Susan, Joseph, John and Robert Stacy, said to be the “five children of William Stacy.” They are listed several times over the years. William is mentioned as their father for the last time on June 6, 1825. From June 11, 1826, they are said to be the children of “Rebecca Stacy and Mrs. Stacy.” Rebecca must have been a second wife of William. The Stacys are listed in diminishing numbers until 1842.

William married Susan Watson on November 24, 1797 in Sussex County, Virginia.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 90 F i. Ann Stacy was born about 1813 in York County, Virginia and died after 1880 of Denbigh, Warwick County, Virginia.

+ 91 F ii. Susan Stacy was born about 1818 in Warwick County, Virginia and died after 1880 of Denbigh, Warwick County, Virginia.

+ 92 M iii. John Stacy was born before June 1822 in Warwick County, Virginia and died in June 1832 in Warwick County, Virginia.

+ 93 M iv. Joseph Stacy was born before June 1822 in Warwick County, Virginia and died after June 1, 1835 of Warwick County, Virginia.

+ 94 M v. Robert Stacy was born before June 1822 in Warwick County, Virginia and died after June 7, 1830 of Warwick County, Virginia.

+ 95 F vi. Nancy Stacy was born before June 1822 in Warwick County, Virginia and died after June 11, 1824 of Warwick County, Virginia.

William next married Rebecca Wood about 1820. Rebecca was born about 1790 in Warwick County, Virginia.

Her marriage to Baker Edwards is listed in the Overwharton Parish register. She was not quite 15 years old at the time. An older woman appears in the Baker Edwards household in the 1810 census, suggesting she was still living.

Sarah married Baker Edwards, son of Ignatius Edwards and Mary Baker, on May 6, 1757 in Stafford County, Virginia. Baker was born about 1738 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1810 of Aquia, Stafford County, Virginia.

Baker Edwards was named in his father's will of November 1748--noted that he was not yet 16 years of age. So he had to have been born in 1733 or later.

Marriage of Baker Edwards and Sarah Stacy recorded in Overwharton Parish register May 6, 1757, though he was mistranscribed as "Isaker Edwards" in the book version. There is no other record of any "Isaker Edwards."

Baker Edwards appears in only a few records in his native Stafford County, VA. He evidently lived there his whole life and appears in tithable records from 1785-1790, and the 1810 census. He was also listed among the customers of Robert Brent's dry goods store in Stafford County in 1785. (Land of Herrings and Persimmons, pg. 225)

William Edwards

Hezekiah Edwards

Per his descendants, his full name may have been John Baker Edwards. This strengthens the possibility that his maternal grandparents were John Baker and Elizabeth Butler of Westmoreland County, Virginia, who had a daughter named Mary.

EDWARDS

I am trying to find information on a Baker Edwards. He is listed in the 1810 census for Stafford County. He is possibly the father of Jesse and Nathan Edwards. Also I am looking for information on any of the following possible children of Baker:

Jesse Edwards

William Edwards

Nace (Ignatious?) Edwards

Elizabeth "Betsy" Edwards born about 1765

Nathan, who may be William Nathaniel Edwards

Any help appreciated, Jannifer Gresham jannifer\_g@yahoo.com

The name I have is “Baker”, not “Balker” and I have not been able to prove this is correct. There is a Baker Edwards referenced in the 1810 Stafford County BA census and I have also seen reference to testimony given by a Baker Edwards in some court records involving a Wigginton. There is a tax record in 1787 for a Backer Edwards which could actually be Baker. However, other than a typed genealogy record where Baker is given as the father of Jesse, the only references I have are from three or four letters written by different individuals to my grandfather around 1924 stating that their grandfather/great-grandfather’s name was Baker. In one letter, it is given as John Baker Edwards.

I found a single LDS record stating that a Baker Edwards married a Sarah Stacy, but I have found other LDS records to be incorrect so I cannot state that this is so. The Overwharton Parrish records state that a Sarah Stacy married an Issaker Edwards. I would love to prove what is true and what is not, but I do not know if that is possible.

According to the records from my grandfather I have, Jesse, William, “Nace” and Elizabeth listed as the children of Baker.

Also, according to my records, Jesse’s brother was Nathan.

I know the original reason these records were gathered was in pursuit of the “Edwards Fortune” in New York and I have several letters to my grandfather from a person named Dolly Walrath who appeared to be traveling the country trying to raise money and organize local groups (the letters are written on stationary from famous hotels around the country and there is also correspondence on paper with a letterhead for an heirs organization).

I have records on all of the children of George Grant Edwards and Mary “Polly” Woodward and their descendants up until the 1920s and some into the 1930s. I have been able to find public records supporting most of this information. So far, I have also been able to find census and other records supporting the listed descendants of Jesse’s sister Elizabeth, and some support for Jesse’s brother William’s descendants as listed in the records. There is nothing in the records regarding Nace (Ignatius?) other than he is given as a brother.

Other families that are mentioned in the records for the early 1800s and associated with Baker’s children and their descendants are: Stapleton, Parsons, Sword, Noe, Worley, Lawson, Pigg, Robinette, Livesay, Rohme, Wacaser and McClancy. Several of these families moved to Illinois and Texas and further west and I have letters written from some of their descendants to my grandfather. My direct Edwards ancestors moved from Virginia to the central Kentucky area. George and Mary were my gg-grandparents. My grandfather was a son of Abraham S. (wish I knew what the S. stood for) and was born in 1879, so he personally knew many of the people mentioned in the records.

- + 97 M ii. Nathan Edwards was born in Stafford County, Virginia.
- + 98 M iii. William Edwards was born in 1765-1784 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1825 of Aquia, Stafford County, Virginia.

- + 100 M v. Ignatius Edwards was born about 1783 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1860 of Richland, Belmont County, Ohio.

Benjamin STACY I, (s/o Simon & Judith TOLSON Stacy) born 7 Apr 1744 in Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, Virginia, is listed in 1768 on Gideon Wright's Tax List, Rowan Co, North Carolina, along with Mason COMBS, Sr. and his brother-in-law, William COMBS (married Benjamin's sister, Seth). In 1781, Benjamin served in Daniel Trigg's Montgomery Co, VA militia company, along with, among others, William and Mason COMBS, Sr. and his brother-in-law, William CODY (h/o Sinai STACY).

Benjamin appeared on tax lists in 1789/90 in Russell Co, Virginia, but may have been (back?) in Wilkes Co, NC in 1792 when their son, Simon, married. In 1800, Benjamin was listed on a Green Co, KY tax list (as was a still-unidentified William COMBS), but later removed to Jackson Co, TN. It is not known where or when Benjamin may have died, but was probably in that county pre-1820.

Benjamin married ca 1764, probably in Frederick Co, VA, Anne COMBS (daughter of Mason & Sarah COMBS, Sr.), born 18 Mar 1742/1743, in Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, VA. She may be the same who appears (as a widow) in the 1820 Jackson Co, TN census. It is not known when or where Ann COMBS Stacy died, but was probably in Jackson as their son, Biram STACY, resided in that county in 1820. See also next.

KNOWN CHILDREN OF BENJAMIN STACY:

Jesse STACY, b pre-1769 based on 1789 Russell Co, VA Tax List; was in Hawkins Co, TN in 1793; taxed on 1796 Lee Co, VA tax list (pp); and in 1801/2 in Wayne Co, KY, then on 1812 Jackson Co., TN tax list, and back to Wayne Co., KY, then to Jackson Co., ca 1827/28 where he died after the 1830 census.

Winnie STACY m 27 Feb 1801, Green Co, KY, John JACKSON (no more information).

Biram STACY, b 1790-1800; resided in 1810 in Hawkins Co, TN(?); was listed on the 1820 Jackson Co, TN census; m Millie SISEMORE (a.k.a. Mildred SIZEMORE).

OR

Biram STACY married Elizabeth ROYAL, daughter of John ROYAL (married Betty JONES in Lincoln Co., KY) of Lincoln County, KY and later of Jackson County, TN. He died in AR. In his will he named his son-in-law "Abraham" Stacy (always called Biram in every other census and document) John ROYAL and his children and grandchildren went to AR where I found the will and also where Biram STACY died. His widow Elizabeth remarried to Mr. BARRETT. After BARRETT died, she and the children went to TX where she died. (Barbara Stacy Mathews, Combs Research Archives, 3/10/1997)

John STACY, born before pre-1774 per 1820 Jackson Co, TN census, died after 1810; married Lucy SKAGGS (daughter of Henry SKAGGS, Sr., d testate 1810 Green Co, KY) on 9 May 1782 in Russell Co, Virginia. John was listed on the census in 1810 in Hardin Co, Kentucky.

Mason "Meshack" STACY m 10 Jan 1809, Green Co, KY, Charlotte CARTER. He appears on the 1830 and 1840 Hickman Co, KY census, and was in Coahoma Co, MS in 1850.

ORAL HISTORY:

Clarice STACY Spencer. Interview, 1992, taped and transcribed by Combs-Stacy Researcher Barbara Stacy Matthews, 1998.

"The STACY families came from VA - there was a large family of them. Simon STACY was my grandfather. He died before I was born, but I remember my grandma Matilda - I remember her funeral. She died when I was only 7 years old. She is buried in the old Hartville Cemetery [Wright Co, MO], toward the back of the old part. She doesn't have a headstone. My dad wouldn't go to the funeral. I don't know why. He didn't go. I suppose my grandpa is there too, with no headstone. I don't know about this, he died before I was born [BSM: 1897]. There was a picture of my grandpa. It hung in Ma and Pa's house for as long as I can remember. He reminded me of Jesus. He had long hair and it was light, and light eyes, which I suppose were blue. The frame was an old frame. I think Earls wife sold it at a yard sale for that frame. Earl had it after Ma and Pa died. My Aunt Sith was so clean you could eat off her floors. Her husband TURNER was beaten to death by an insane man while the two little boys watched. Aunt Sith nearly died from the shock. She didn't marry for a long time after that. She married Old Isaac CODY later - he was a distant cousin of hers. She was named for one of his grandmother's - Sitha STACY. She married a Combs. Isaac's grandfather was John CODY and he married his cousin Elizabeth SUMMERS. Aunt Sith told me her grandma was Mary SUMMERS, her sister. Sitha Combs was their grandma - Will Combs was their grandpa - that's the way it was. She said the Combs and STACYS married a lot. My dad was named for another Benjamin STACY. There was an old Ben STACY who married Ann Combs, Aunt Sith wrote that down in her family record. This is what Aunt Sith said - Isaac told her this - Ben was her family and his family too. He had many son's. Old Ben STACY had a son Ben and he married a Combs too. They married a lot. I don't know which Ben my dad was named for. The Combs and STACYS were related, that's what I remember."

From: <http://www.combs-families.org/combs/assoc/stacy.htm#ben1>

Benjamin married Ann Combs about 1762 in Frederick County, Virginia. Ann was born on March 18, 1743 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1820 of Jackson County, Tennessee.

Children from this marriage were:

- + 101 M i. Benjamin Stacy Jr. was born in 1763 in Frederick County, Virginia and died on March 10, 1856 in Breathitt County, Kentucky.
- + 102 M ii. Jesse Stacy was born about 1767 in Frederick County, Virginia and died about 1830 of Jackson County, Tennessee.
- + 103 M iii. Simon Stacy was born about 1770 in Virginia and died before December 8, 1845 in Russell County, Kentucky.
- + 104 M iv. Byram Stacy was born in 1775-1780 in Virginia and died after 1830 of Stewart County, Tennessee.
- + 105 M v. John Stacy was born in 1780-1790 and died after 1830 of Jackson County, Tennessee.
- + 106 F vi. Winnie Stacy was born about 1781.
- + 107 M vii. Mason Stacy was born in 1785 in Tennessee and died after 1860 of Crittenden County, Kentucky.

NOTE: Combs-Families.org has researched this family in depth and were unable to definitively name the children of this couple, probably because:

1. They moved to counties with no parish records
2. They moved frequently, making them difficult to track
3. They lived at a time when only the male head of household was well-documented, and his name was common in the areas they lived
4. The appropriate probate records don't exist or were lost.

Not knowing this family well, I'm going to let their work stand as definitive. See below. [JF]

He made no mention of Scott Co, which may mean it hasn't been researched)

Sith married William Combs Sr. before 1767 in Frederick County, Virginia. William was born on November 28, 1740 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1820 in Clay County, Kentucky.

William Combs, Sr. (Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), born 28 Nov 1740, Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, VA; m bef 1767, possibly in Frederick Co, VA, Sith (a.k.a. Seth, etc.) STACY (d/o Simon & Judith TOLSON Stacy (Pettit)), b 30 Jun 1746, Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, VA. Over the years, William and Seth also resided in Rowan and Surry Cos, NC, possibly in Wilkes Co, NC; in Montgomery and Russell Cos, VA; Sullivan, and possibly Hawkins, Cos, TN; and quite probably in Clay Co, KY (which may also be where both died).

William's ancestry is documented by the Overwharton Parish Register, and his marriage by a combination of records and family history detailed in the Cody-Combs-Stacy Report, which also includes both parents and siblings of Seth STACY Combs, as well as additional data in regard to their daughter, Winnifred Combs Sumner Hicks (See also below).

Unfortunately, for many years numerous researchers mistakenly believed that William Combs, Sr. was the father of only child, William Combs, Jr. of Russell Co, VA, who was instead, the s/o RW William & Sarah Ann MILLION Combs, Sr. As a result, no attempt was made to seek additional descendants of this couple. Only two children of William have been documented, and those only recently (John and Winnifred), although it appears probable that William also had a son, William, Jr., and undoubtedly several more children. Of these three or more children, however, only descendants of their daughter, Winnifred, have been actively researched in the past (Research in progress plus see below).

A Tentative Chronology of the Life of William Combs, Sr.

28 Nov 1740 Stafford Co, VA. Overwharton Parish Register. Born: William Combs, "son of Mason and Sarah Combs."

1751 Frederick Co VA. William's father had removed to Frederick by late 1751, and the family appears to have remained in this county until at least 1763.

1 Nov 1763 (Frederick County VA Record Book 11 page 343) John STACY, Thomas WILLIAM, Gilbert GORDON, Gersham KEYS, Gerrard SMITH, Thomas CROS, Daniel HUGHES ord to appear in Williamsburg court to give evidence against William COMES.

1768 Rowan Co, NC Tax List of Gideon Wright included not only Wm COOMBS who tithed one, but also his father, Mason Combs, Sr., his brother-in-law, Benjamin STACY (m William's sister, Ann Combs), his brother-in-law, William RIDGE, Sr. (m William's sister, Winnifred Combs), and brother-in-law, William CODEY (CODY), who m Seth's sister, Sinai STACY.

1771 Surry Co, NC was established from Rowan, and the county's first tax lists include William COMES [sic], who tithed one again, and all of the above from the 1768 Rowan List, as well as Thomas PETTIT, second husband of Seth's mother, Judith TOLSON Stacy.

1772 Surry Co, NC tax lists. William COMES, 2 tithes, is listed immediately below his father, Mason, Sr. and younger brother, Mason, Jr. The identity of the second tithe is not yet known.

1774 Surry Co, NC tax list of Benjamin CLEAVLAND [CLEVELAND] included William COMES with only one tithe again, listed immediately above David MARTIN, who tithed himself, son, Salathiel and Negro Sall.

Notes: (1) Benjamin CLEVELAND was a resident of Wilkes Co, NC upon formation of that county in 1777, and William Combs appears to have resided at least part of the time in Wilkes Co (whose Surry County boundary shifted a number of times). (2) Upon his death, the above David MARTIN'S widow, Mary, married (2) David ALLEN of Allen's Iron Works (on the Surry-Wilkes County line), and (3) Jonathan HAINES, Sr., later a guardian to the RIDGE children of William's sister, Winnifred Combs Ridge Allen.

1776-1783 Surry-Wilkes Co, NC. Like many of their neighbors, most of the men in the CODY, Combs, RIDGE and STACY families were Tories at the outset of the Revolutionary War, and William Combs was most definitely one of them. His brother-in-law, Tory William RIDGE was killed at the Battle Hanging Rock in Aug 1780, and one result of his death was a series of legal actions that spanned the next more than twenty years. Included in the Estate File of William RIDGE are numerous depositions attesting to not only the Tory activities of the Combs and their in-laws, but also documenting numerous relationships within these families.

Many of these depositions included the "semi-stock" question:* "Do you know any thing of the characters of John Combs, William Combs, Mason Combs, Biram Combs, Jeremiah Combs, Thomas COODY, Godfrey COODY, William COODY and John STACY- if you do please to relate what you know respecting them."

*The question did not always include the exact same individuals, but generally the above were included.

Although the above John Combs may have been William's older brother, John Combs, Sr., he was more likely his son (see below). Mason was William's younger brother, Biram his nephew (son of his brother, John, Sr.), William CODY his brother-in-law, h/o Sinai STACY, and while the ancestry of both Jeremiah Combs and John STACY are undetermined, according to the 1802 Deposition of David ALLEN of Davidson Co, TN, they were "... all related to William RIDGE, I also believe that the most of them were disaffected toward the American cause and that the most of them took an active part against the Americans in favour of the british and that some of them were murderers and were generally called men of infamous character and in short no truth could be placed in any thing they might sa[y] or do."

A number of other depositions refer to the Combs, Codys and Stacys as murderous, thieving Tories, but of special interest in regard to William Combs, Sr., are the depositions of John FIELDER, Sr. and his wife, Elizabeth:

The 1800 Deposition of John Fielder, Senior, of Davidson County, Tennessee, included the question, "...do you know any thing of the carriers of Thos. COODY Wm COODY Godfre COODY John Combs Wm Combs Mason Combs or the carriage of the COODYS and Combs in genl if you do relate it." FIELDER replied: "...they all were calld enemys to the Country and that this Deponant understood that Thomas COODY commanded a Tory Company, that Wm Combs and others was apprehended for killing a steer said to be the property of Joseph THOMPSON and that Wm COODY in the presence of this Deponant robbed the corn house of Wm T. LEWIS of a bag of corn.... And further Sayeth that John Combs the son of William Combs was taken in possession of a Horse Creature that was Stolen from the deponant & further this deponant saith not."

This deposition, as was the case with most in the Estate File, was being given on behalf of William Terrell LEWIS, Jr., and FIELDER was the second husband of LEWIS' sister, Elizabeth (widow of David BENGGE), and the father of John FIELDER, Sr., whose son, John, Jr. (by an earlier wife), had m Nancy RIDGE, d/o William RIDGE, Sr. by an earlier marriage.

The deposition of Elizabeth LEWIS Benge Fielder, given at the same time and place as her husband's, not only included the statement that Thomas, William and Godfrey COODY, and John, William and Mason Combs, were all "enemys to their country," but the added information that "they had left the neighbourhood & joined the Tory party (that is part of them)..." When asked if her husband had been "...plundered of two Horse Creatures by the Torys...", Elizabeth replied that "He was, one was taken in the possession of Jno. Combs son of William & the other was sent home by that family."

14 Sep 1778 Surry Co, NC Land Entry. Micajah LEWIS enters for Joel LEWIS in the service of the United States, 150 acres on Camp Creek including William CODEY'S plantation for complement. Caveated by William Combs, returned to court. (Combs-Cody Researcher George Baumbach)

1778-1781 Land Entry (no date) Joseph PRUIT, 150 acres on Camp Creek, the waters of Mitchell's River, adjoining John FIELDER'S entry including William CODEY'S improvement (Warrant issued to H. SPEER Dec 17, 1803, transferred). (Combs Land of Old Surry NC (includes Old Wilkes))

Surry County's tax records are 'spotty' in the latter half of the 1770s, and it is not certain whether William was residing in this county or in Wilkes (where at least one adult William Combs was being taxed - see below). Nor is it known exactly when the Combs, Codys and Stacys left the Yadkin River area to "join the British", although quite possibly not until after the death of William RIDGE in 1780. The above Micajah and Joel LEWIS were brothers of William Terrell LEWIS, Jr. and besides being Rebels (a.k.a. Patriots), and thereby inherent enemies of all Tories, Micajah also may not have 'taken well' the caveat of his land entry by William Combs; to wit:

28 Jan 1778 - 10 Feb 1779 According to the Revolutionary War pension

declaration of Elihu AYERS, he was a private in the militia company of Capt. Micajah LEWIS under Col. Benjamin CLEVELAND beginning on 28 Jan 1778 for a period of 12 months and thirteen days, during which they defended "local Whigs and their property from the ravages of the Tories", traversing the countryside from ALLEN'S Iron Works on the Yadkin River to Mitchel's River, Fisher's River, CODIE'S Creek, Roaring River, Lewis Fork, Riddie's River, to the head of the Yadkin, thence around by the Table Mountains, crossing the three creeks of the Catawba River, thence to the main river down the same to Greenlees Ford, thence to Burke courthouse and from thence crossing the South Yadkin to the Shallow Ford of the main Yadkin River. From thence through the Tory country to the Iron Works above mentioned." According to AYRES, during this term of service, he was present and assisted in "half hanging William Combs whom they let off on promise of better behavior," although both William KOYLE and Lemuel JONES were hung following a court martial consisting of officers, Col. Benj CLEVELAND, Capt. Benj HEARNDON, Capt. GORDON and Lt. Baker AYERS..." (RW Pension File NC R335, Patrick Co, VA, 16 Nov 1832. See Surry Co, NC for additional). See Also Elihu AYERS & John FIELDER in the Estate Records of William RIDGE, account book of William COOK.

19 Jan 1779 Wilkes Co, NC. "Return of the Aid Volunteers and Drafts from Wilkes Co., Jan 19, 1779: William Combs, Rec'd. his Bounty of -----." "Although this may have been William Combs, Sr. (perhaps enforced service following his half-hanging"), this William appears more likely to have been RW William Combs of Wilkes Co, NC; Charlotte Co, VA; and Sullivan Co, TN, whose relationship to William Combs, Sr., remains unknown, but thought probable (His stay in Charlotte Co, VA seems more than coincidence since John COOK, s/o William COOK, also a guardian to the RIDGE children), also left Surry NC for Charlotte Co, VA). The early Combs of Wilkes County also included a Lucretia as well as a John, and two George Combs, one of whom also had ties to Charlotte, but thus far no progress has been made in determining the ancestry of any.

Aug 1780 It is not known when the Combs, Codys and Stacys left the Yadkin River area to "join the British," but apparently in time to participate with the ill-fated William RIDGE in the Battle of Hanging Rock. Whether they returned to the area immediately thereafter is not known, but it appears that they were at least 'in and out' and that William, Sr.'s son, John Combs, was there for at least part of the early 1780s. (Surry Co, NC tax lists become "spotty" aft 1777, and the earliest Wilkes list is not until 1780 and appears to have been the above-noted RW William Combs. What is known is that William Combs, Sr., his brother, Mason, and at least some of the CODYS and STACYS moved north across the border into Virginia:

10 Apr 1782 Montgomery Co, VA Personal Property Tax List included William

Combs (1 tithe), his brother, Mason, as well as Benjamin and John STACY, but both William CODY and Simon STACY were missing (William CODY appears to have possibly been 'in and out' of the area, however, since his and Sinai STACY'S daughter, Nancy, married in Montgomery in 1785)

1784 Surry & Wilkes Co, NC. Mason Combs, Sr. dies and William Combs is listed among creditors of estate. There is also a William who witnesses a document for William Terrell LEWIS this year, but no William is on the 1784 Surry tax list. William's brother, Mason Combs, appears to have been the same who was on Surry tax lists this year, however, and is also recorded as having sold land. While no William Combs was on the 1782 Wilkes Co, NC tax lists, a William is on the 1784, although, again, this "looks like" the "other" William Combs of Wilkes.

1787 Montgomery Co, VA tax lists include no Combs or Stacys, but do include Samuel SUMNER (first husband of Winnifred, d/o William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr.); William CODY (h/o Sinai STACY) and David THOMPSON, but Montgomery county records also note that Samuel SUMNER was killed that year and that his widow removed "to Washington" (presumably Virginia, but possibly Tennessee), and that William CODY has also gone (without having paid his taxes). William Combs, Sr. is not found on any 1787 Virginia personal property tax lists, and was apparently down in Tennessee:

01 Dec 1787 Watauga Petition (Frontier Tennessee). Watauga petition signers, submitted to NC Senate in December, 1787, included as follows (in order and adjacent as listed): William Combs, William Combs, Jr., Henry Combs, William STACEY, Adam COUMB, Daniel AGEE, John COMAY.

Note: It is not known where Mason Combs was at this time, but the above William Combs, Jr. is thought to have probably been Sr.'s son. Henry Combs may have been the s/o William Combs' brother, John, Sr., but if so, he was a man on the move since he appears on Montgomery Co, VA tax lists in 1787, and also married in that county the following year. If he was a second Henry Combs, he has not yet been found in later records. William Combs, Jr. was unlikely to have been the s/o John, Sr. since he was still being taxed up in Shenandoah Co, VA as late as 1792. Adam COUMB and John COMAY have not yet been identified (copies of original records still needed!), nor has William STACY. William Combs was apparently residing in Sullivan Co, TN at the time, based on the following:

26 July, 1788 (Sullivan Co TN Deed Book 1, p. 362) William Combs and Sethe, his wife, of Sullivan County, NC to Phillip FOUSE of Sullivan County, NC, 200 Acres, witnessed by John LOWRY and Seth PORTERFIELD. (Families and History of Sullivan County, TN, Vol. 1, 1779-1992)

Notes: Not only is this deed needed, but we still have no record of when or how this land was acquired. It is believed that the above Philip FOUSE was more likely FOST based on FOUSTS of the 1796 Sullivan Co TN Tax List and the 1830 Sullivan Co TN Census. The above land may have been on Reedy Creek based on

Sullivan Co, TN DB3, 1795-1802, p. 1., dated 25 Aug 1795, which describes other land purchased by Philip FOUST on that creek.

1789 Russell Co, VA Personal Property Tax List. Capt. William WEIR'S Upper District. Includes William Combs (tithes 1), Mason Combs and a second William Combs who was probably William, Jr. (see next), as well as William CODAY (CODY), h/o Sinai STACY; Benjamin STACY, h/o Ann Combs (as well as numerous other STACYS); and David THOMPSON, h/o Nancy CODY. None were on the 1788 list.

Side Note: Also on this tax list is Henry SKAGGS, Sr., and numerous other SKAGGS, all of whom had preceded the Combs-Cody-Stacy families to this area, having earlier been together with them in Montgomery Co, VA. Both Henry SKAGGS, Sr. and many of his family members, as well as Benjamin & Ann Combs Stacy, and others of their family, will eventually remove to Green Co, KY, where is found an unidentified William Combs, and where in 1810, Henry SKAGGS, Sr. died testate, naming daughters, Lucy STACY (w/o John) and Polly Combs, whose husband's name remains unknown, but who may have been the unidentified William Combs of Green.

1790 Russell Co VA - John Weir's List - Upper District again includes two William Combs, each tithing one, but this time one is designated as William Combs, Jr. Mason Combs is listed as Meshek,* as well as William CODY, Benjamin STACY and the SKAGGS. New this year, among others, are a John Combs, and William's mother-in-law, Judith TOLSON Stacy Pettit (with no tithables). *The STACYS also include a Meshack whom Stacy Researcher Barbara Stacy Mathews states was also a.k.a. Mason - for reasons unknown). One William Combs is also listed on Russell's Upper District Land Tax this year, but remains unidentified. 1790 is the last year that Benjamin STACY (h/o Ann Combs) appears on Russell tax lists, which is also true of Henry SKAGGS (See below and both Lincoln and Green Cos, KY).

Was John Combs the s/o William? John, s/o William, seems to have stayed behind in (or returned to) Surry Co, NC for a short period in the early 1780s, and may also have been the John Combs who was in and out of South Carolina with the GOWING (GOIN) families, and then to Washington Co, TN, but may also have been in Wilkes Co, NC (research in progress). This is not John Combs, Sr., brother of William, as he was in Wythe Co, VA this year.

1791 Russell Co, VA. Upper District Land Tax List. Both a William Combs and a John Combs are listed on the land tax list, but no Combs or Codys are listed on personal property tax lists of either the Upper or Lower Districts (Lower District land tax list is not extant). In 1792, no Combs, Codys or Stacys are listed on either land or personal property tax lists. Although some SKAGGS remain in Russell in 1791, Henry SKAGGS, Sr. (and others) is also now gone. The Combs, Codys and Stacys remain absent from Russell Co, VA records through at least early 1795, and probably even later. In 1796, William CODY and son-in-law, David THOMPSON, have returned, but still no Combs are to be seen, a possibly strong indication that William Combs was the same who follows.

09 Sep 1793 - 14 Mar 1795 (Hawkins Co, TN DB2:186) . Joseph ROGERS to William Combs, both of Hawkins Co, TN, £50, 200 Acres in Hawkins Co. "on south side of Holston River on Honeycutts Creek commonly called the Drye branch joining PAYN 400 acre entry." s/Joseph ROGERS; Wit: Thos JACKSON, Jas HAGAN

Not only was William Combs in Hawkins Co, TN at this time, but so was Mason Combs, as were a number of STACYS. Also on the Dry Branch was Mashack (Meshack, Mason) STACY who had, in 1792, also purchased land adjoining "payns entry," Payn having been William PAYNE who was "somehow kin" to Daniel PAINE, h/o Sylvia Combs, whose ancestry is unknown, but Daniel and Sylvia are later found in Warren Co, TN adjacent to Jeremiah and Simon Combs who were documented sons of Mason, as well as to Martin JOHNSON and his wife, Sarah Combs, her ancestry also unknown, but her husband, Martin, had witnessed land records for Mason Combs in Hawkins, and it is believed that Sylvia Combs Paine and Sarah Combs Johnson were probably daughters of either William Combs or Mason Combs.* No record of William Combs having sold this land has been discovered as yet (Hawkins Deeds need to be fully read). The land of his brother, Mason, was on Beech Creek, and at least some of it was purchased in 1795 from Peter STACY. Both Peter and Meshack STACY next show up back in Russell along with William Combs (See below).

* Sylvia's first son was named Mason, and her second, William. Sarah's first son was named William. She had no sons named Mason, but her second daughter was named Dorothy, probably named after Mason Combs' wife. Neither named a daughter, Seth, Sitha, etc. (Go Figger; i.e., research in progress). Martin and Sarah are also found in records of Jackson Co, TN with property adjacent to that of William RIDGE, Jr., s/o William and Winnifred Combs Ridge, Sr.

6 Sep 1796 Russell Co, VA. Crabtree Creek of Moccassin Creek of Holston River (Lower District). A VA Land Warrant was issued to William Combs on this date, but was not surveyed until 30 Jan 1798, nor entered until 19 Dec 1800. Based on later land transactions, the land was on Crabtree Creek. William does not appear on Russell Co, VA tax lists in either 1796 or 1797, but is back in 1798:

1798 & 1799 Russell Co, VA Lower District Personal Property Tax Lists include William Combs who is listed as non-tithable (at this time he would have been 58-59 years old) as well as William Combs, Jr. and John Combs, the latter two with one tithe each.

Also on these lists are William CODY, John CODY (s/o William) and David THOMPSON (all of whom except John were also on 1797 and earlier lists); James TATE; and Samuel CORNETT (see below). Also Note: By 1812 Reuben PRICE (h/o Dolly CODY), David THOMPSON (h/o Nancy CODY), James TATE (h/o

Ruth DAVIDSON), Champ FARIS and others are all on the 1812 Warren Co, TN Tax Return of James Cooper (and in 1814 James TATE was the Capt. of a Militia Company in that county, with Martin JOHNSON (h/o Sarah Combs, his Sergeant). The 1798 Russell Upper District personal property tax lists include a John and William Combs. John is unidentified, but William is thought to have been William Combs, Jr., h/o Anna THOMPSON and s/o RW William and Sarah Ann MILLION Combs, Sr.

1800 Russell Co VA Lower District Personal Property - James Dickenson's List includes William Combs, as well as John Combs (but no William Combs, Jr.); and William and John CODY, George, Peter and Simon STACY, as well as David THOMPSON, and a new addition, Robert HICKS, second husband of William, Sr.'s daughter, Winnifred Combs, widow of Samuel SUMNER.

1799-1809 Russell Co, VA. During this time period, numerous land transactions are recorded in reference to not only William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr., but also both their in-laws and their neighbors. Their land was in Lower Russell Co, VA, that part which later became part of Scott Co, VA, and which was also near to the Russell/Sullivan Co, TN line, on Crabtree Creek of Big Moccasin Creek of the Holston River. These records indicate that the closest neighbors of William and Seth STACY Combs included: William and Sinai STACY Cody; Samuel CORNETT;* Benjamin READ (REED), Zachariah (Zebedee) LOVEALL, William HOWERTON; Champion FARIS; and John WELLS, and William & Jemima WELLS. Other near neighbors included: RW William CORNETT,* John FRAZIER, Reuben PRICE (m Dolly CODY, d/o William), Elisha FARIS, William LAWSON, William HOUSTON, John WOODS, Jonathan WOODS,* William TURNER, James DAVIDSON (and others), Simon STACY, Stephen HOGG, Abraham CHILDERS, STEPHEN HOGG (and other HOGGS), Avery & George KIZEE (KESEE, KEZEE), William STRONG (h/o Jane CALLAHAN), John WHITE, William SPURLOCK, Vincent BENHAM (and others).

*Samuel CORNETT, who lived adjacent to William Combs, was the brother of RW William CORNETT (See also Dickey Diary Interviews) who was in Sullivan Co, TN in 1796 when he married Mary EVERAGE, the latter raised by Judith TOLSON Stacy Pettit. Their marriage took place at the house of George & Polly WOODS Morrison (she the d/o of the above Jonathan WOODS and his wife, Nancy DAVIDSON, widow of Solomon OSBORN). William CORNETT had land on Moccasin Creek surveyed in 1803 in Russell Co, VA, but by 1804, he had entered land in then-Floyd Co, KY which became part of Clay in 1807. In 1810, Samuel and William CORNETT (and others) were listed only a few names apart from John and William Combs on the Clay Co, KY Census, as was also true of William & Jane CALLAHAN Strong, John CODY, Robert HICKS and others (See below).

11/24/1801 (Russell Co, VA Order Book 3:168) The sheriff was ordered to immediately jail William Combs and Champion FARIS for insolent behavior in court.

1802 Russell Co VA Personal Property Tax Lists include no Combs in the Upper District, but in the Lower District are William Combs, non-tithable and John Combs with 3 tithables (might these extra two tithables have been sons?)

The next available tax list for Russell Co, VA is not until 1810, but in the meantime, William Combs, Sr. continues to appear in the records of Russell:

9/29/1802 (Russell Co, VA Order Book 3:222) Commonwealth vs Samuel CORNETT on an indictment. The deft found not guilty. Court ordered that William Combs and John Combs be paid for their attendance on behalf of the Commonwealth in the suit against Samuel CORNETT. (Combs Researcher Sue Elfving who adds: This is the only mention of John Combs in Russell court order records.)

22 Oct 1804-Aug 1805 Russell Co VA DB3:614. William Combs & Sytha his wife to William HOURTON, all of Russell. $60. 100 a. in Russell Co on Big Mockerson Cr. waters of Northfork of Holsten and joining the old survey of the sd. Combs and bounded corner to the sd. Combs... another corner to sd. Combs... crossing Mockerson Cr. which land was granted sd. Combs by patent bearing date 20 Jan 1798. s/William (his X mark) Combs, Sytha (her + mark) Combs. Wits; Isaac O'DONOLD & John SMITH and continued for further proof. 1/2/1805 (Russell Co, VA Order Book 3:420) Deed from William Combs to William HOWERTON again proven in court by the oath of John WELLS. 2/26/1805 (Russell Co, VA Order Book 3:367) Deed from William Combs and wife to William HOWERTON presented and proven by oaths of Isaac O'DONALD and John SMITH. Ack./Rec. Aug Court 1805 on Oath of John WELLS.

Although William Combs' name appears in later records of Russell Co, VA, each occurrence appears to be an instance referencing not him, but his land (whether as part of a boundary or later provenances of earlier transactions). Although The Combes Genealogy... refers to records for William Combs in Russell (or Scott) Co, VA as late as 1815, (a) this source had also confused the William Combs of this county, and may well be referring to the other; and (b) there is no evidence that either William or John were still in southwest Virginia after the above sale (neither were on the 1810 Russell Co, VA Tax List (not extant census). Instead, it very much 'looks like' both William and John Combs have, like many of their neighbors, removed to Clay Co, KY:

1807 Clay Co, KY Tax List: John Combs & William Combs. Also on this list are Nicholas, Mace (Mason?), Elijah, Henry, and George Combs (all thought to have been sons of William's brother, John Combs, Sr.), as well as a second John Combs and two Jeremiah Combs, one of whom is said by The Combes Genealogy... to have been the s/o a John Combs. Others include William Sr.'s son-in-law, Robert HICKS, Peter and Simon STACY, numerous DAVIDSONS, William CORNETT (and others) and William STRONG.

1808 Clay Co, KY Tax List, Page 6: John and William Combs plus Shadrick,

Mason and Jeremiah Combs. Shadrach is said by The Combes Genealogy... to have been the brother of Jeremiah (Additional Combs are on p. 5 of this list, and Biram Combs has been added, page no. not known).

1809 Clay Co, KY. John and William Combs are still listed, with the remaining Combs the same except that Shadrach and Biram having "gone missing." In March of this year, William, Sr.'s nephew, John CODY (s/o William and Sinai STACY Cody), married William's granddaughter, Elizabeth SUMNER (d/o Samuel and Winnifred Combs Sumner (Hicks)).

1810 Clay Co, KY Census, page 153. On line 8, is a John Combs (1 male and 1 female b pre-1765 (21101-01001-00)), who may have been the John Combs of Russell Co, VA. Listed on the next line is the Shadrach Combs, b 1784-5, whom The Combes Genealogy... states was the s/o a John Combs. On lines 12 and 13 are brothers, Samuel and William CORNETT, and on line 16 is Will Combs (1 male and 1 female both b pre-1765), who "look like" William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr., particularly since line 17 is Nathaniel CORNETT, Line 18 is the family of William, Sr.'s daughter, Winnifred and her second husband, Robert HICKS, and Line 19, Winnifred's daughter, Elizabeth SUMNER and her husband, John CODY. Both John and William Combs continue to appear on Clay Co, KY tax lists through 1820 (as does Robert HICKS, John CODY and others). In 1818, for the first time, there are two William Combs on the Clay County tax lists, and in 1819, there are three, with one being termed Sr. On the 1820 Clay Co, KY tax list, two of the William's 'go missing,' but the remaining William Combs is still titled Sr.

The eldest male in this household was b pre-1776 (the oldest category) as was the eldest female. Also note that a second family may be in this household. On line 18, is Shadrack Combs (s/o John Combs) and on line 20 is RW William CORNETT. The line immediately preceding that of William is Robert BRASHEARS whose father, Samuel, was the Sergeant of the 1788 Sullivan Co, TN Militia List on which an unidentified John Combs served, and who married Mary "Polly" EVERAGE, d/o Mary EVERAGE, 2nd wife of RW William CORNETT. The line immediately following William's is the household of George and Mary SUMNER Stacy, the former s/o Simon & Elizabeth DAVIDSON Stacy, and the latter the d/o Samuel & Winnifred Combs Sumner (and granddaughter of William and Seth STACY Combs). If John Combs is on this census, he is either 'hidden' in another household (See also, however, Floyd Co, KY. This same year, Perry Co, KY was formed from Clay and Floyd, but no further record of William Combs has been found as yet. By 1830, he would have been 90 years of age and it is doubtful that either he or his wife were still alive by then, but there may be estate records in Perry. Also to be remembered is that the William Combs who appears in Clay Co, KY tax lists "should have been" either a younger William Combs, or 'non-tithable' due to his advanced age (possibly recorded in Clay Co, KY court orders?).

In the meantime, however, while much additional research is still needed, it is difficult to believe that the William Combs of early Clay Co, KY could have been anyone other than William Combs, Sr.

Known and Possible Issue of William & Seth STACY Combs, Sr.

Winnifred Combs (William, Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), b 1765-1770, probably in Frederick Co, VA or Rowan Co, NC; d aft 1840 in Wright Co, MO; m (1) bef 1784, possibly in Montgomery Co, VA, Samuel SUMNER; d 1787/1788, of Montgomery Co, VA; m (2) bef 1798, Rev. Robert HICKS, Sr., b 1765-1775, d aft 1840, probably in Indiana or Missouri.

Winnifred is documented as a daughter of William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr., and the wife of Samuel SUMNER and Robert HICKS by Stacy Family History, Dickey Diary Interviews and records and materials located in the applicable Combs Counties of Record herein. She probably m Samuel SUMNER by 1785 in Montgomery Co, VA (based on 1783-5 VA birth of daughter, Elizabeth per Wright Co, MO Census). The 1787 Montgomery Co, VA tax list includes Winnifred's first husband, Samuel SUMNER, and he is also recorded in 1788 as having been "kild, wife gone to Washington." It is not known if Winnifred went to Washington Co, VA or Washington Co, TN, but by 1797 she had married Rev. Robert HICKS, probably in Virginia (based on 1797-98 Virginia birth of son, James HICKS). Robert may have been a widower, and the Robert HICKS who m 1794, Washington Co, VA, Susannah THOMPSON. In 1800, Robert HICKS is found on a Russell Co, VA tax list with Winnifred's father, William, and by 1807, Robert was listed on Clay Co, KY tax lists. He continued to appear on Clay Co, KY tax lists through 1820, and on the 1810 and 1820 Clay Co, KY census enumerations. Robert and Winnifred and various of their children are also found in the records of Perry Co, KY following it's creation from Clay and Floyd Cos in 1820-1, but before 1830, had left for Indiana. The 1830 Jackson Co, IN census includes Robert HICKS and son-in-law, John CODY. Sons-in-law, George STACY (m Mary SUMNER) and Joshua RIPPEE (m Mary Sarah HICKS), are found on the 1830 Monroe Co, IN census. Robert HICKS patented BLM land in 1835, which was in Monroe Co, IN, in the same township and section as that of William Riley Combs (ancestry undetermined, but b KY in 1810), and only a few miles away from the 1838 Brown Co, IN patent of a Henry Combs. The 1840 Brown Co, IN census includes a Robert HICKS (record still to be read), and it is not known if this is him, nor whether he died in Indiana or Missouri. A number of descendants of Winnifred removed to Missouri in the 1830s and 1840s, and are found in the records of Ray, Pulaski and Wright Cos, MO. According to the 1889 Wright Co, MO biography of Winnifred Combs' grandson, Samuel CODAY, Winnifred died in that county "at a very old age." Samuel CODAY also states that his grandfather, Samuel SUMNER was a miller by occupation and that he was "waylaid and shot;" however, the Dickey Diary Interview of Winnifred's grandson, John S. Combs (s/o Jeremiah C. "Chunky" and Synthia SUMNER Combs), states that he was killed "resisting arrest" (not necessarily mutually exclusive).

Important! The following listings are brief and general, included primarily to indicate possible Combs Counties of Record for Winnifred Combs Sumner Hicks and her children. For much more about Winnifred and her descendants, see Gloria B. Carter's and Pat Orton's "Who was Winnifrit Combs Sumner Hicks?" report, Barbara Stacy Mathew's Stacy Journal and Pat Orton's Hicks Family Files.

Winnifred's children by Samuel SUMNER included (1) John SUMNER (m Judah STEWARD), b 1783-1786, found in the records of Clay and Floyd Cos, KY and Jackson Co, IN; (2) Elizabeth SUMNER, b ca 1785, VA, m 1809 Clay Co, KY to John CODY (s/o William and Sinai STACY Cody), and found in the records of Clay and Floyd Cos, KY; Jackson Co, IN; and Pulaski and Wright Cos, MO. (3) Syntha SUMNER, b 1785-88, m bef 1807, Jeremiah C. "Chunky" Combs (s/o Nicholas "8" & Nancy GRIGSBY Combs, Sr.), and they are found in the records of Clay and Perry Cos, KY as well as the Dickey Diary Interviews. (4) Upon the marriage of Winnifred's daughter, Mary SUMNER,* to George STACY (s/o Simon & Elizabeth DAVIDSON Stacy) Nov 1812 in Clay Co, KY, Robert and Winnifort HICKS signed the consent which included Robert's statement that he had no objections against the marriage of his "stept-daughter." (See original document provided by Combs-Stacy Researcher Barbara Stacy Mathews).

*Note: Mary SUMNER was b ca 1796, TN (1850 Wright Co, MO Census) and may have been the d/o a SUMNER other than Samuel, indicating a possible marriage for Winnifred between those to Samuel SUMNER and Robert HICKS.

Winnifred's children by Rev. Robert HICKS, Sr., included: (1) James HICKS, b 1797-8, VA (1860-70 Douglas Co, MO Census) or ca 1806, VA (1850 Ozark Co, MO Census), m Rebecca RILEY; (2) Sarah HICKS, b January 22, 1801 Kentucky, probably died in early 1870s in Wright Co, MO; married November 3, 1818, Clay Co, KY, Joshua RIPPEE, b 1797 NC (son of James RIPPEE (on the tax lists for Clay County; 1820 Floyd County KY, 1830 Monroe County IN, children later in Ray and Wright Cos, MO); (3) Robert HICKS, b ca 1804, KY (1850 Ozark Co, MO Census), m Catherine SWEETEN; Frances HICKS, b ca 1806, KY (1850 Wright Co, MO); m George ROGERS.

John Combs (William, Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), b pre-1765, probably in Frederick Co, VA or Rowan Co, NC; possibly d in Clay Co, KY; possibly m bef 1781, possibly a Sarah ????

John Combs the Tory, a.k.a. John "May Have Been" Combs, is documented as a son of William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr. by the Estate File of William RIDGE. He may have been one of the John Combs in the early 1780s in Surry Co, NC (and/or may have been in Wilkes Co, NC); he may have been the John Combs who removed to Greenville SC, thence to Washington TN in the later 1780s where he may have been the John COMAY (mis-transcribed?) of the Dec 1787 Watauga Petition (Frontier Tennessee) listed only a few names below William Combs, William Combs, Jr., Henry Combs and Adam COUMB; he may have been the John Combs of the 1788 Sullivan Co, TN Militia List; he may have been the John

Combs with William Combs, Sr. in the 1790s and early 1800s in Russell Co, VA; he may have been the John Combs with the William Combs (who may have been William Combs, Sr.) in early Clay Co, KY (and/or the John Combs of Floyd Co, KY); and he may have been confused with his first cousin, RW John "8" Combs (a.k.a. John Combs the Patriot) and he may have been "The Other John Combs [III]", possible father of Jeremiah "Long" Combs, Shadrach Combs, Mason Combs and Millie Combs Smith) of East Kentucky, whom The Combes Genealogy... states were all children of a John Combs who may have been (but probably was not) the children of RW John "8" Combs by a putative, but totally undocumented, first wife.

In other words, so far, other than his Tory activity in Surry Co, NC, we know nothing of this John other than that he existed..... Research in Progress...

William Combs, Jr. (William, Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), b 1760-1765(?), possibly in Frederick Co, VA or Rowan Co, NC; possibly d in Greene Co, KY aft 1830; possibly m bef 1804, possibly in Russell Co, VA, Polly SKAGGS, b 1770-1774, d/o Henry SKAGGS, Sr.

William Combs, Jr., a.k.a. William "Possibly" Combs, is Totally Undocumented, both as a son of William Combs, Sr. and as the h/o Polly SKAGGS. Moreover, not only is it possible that he never existed, it's also more than possible that the William Combs, Jr. of Russell Co, VA was not William Combs of Greene Co, KY. However, he is most certainly worth "keeping an eye on" since he seems to have disappeared from Russell Co, VA, where he was listed as a Jr. with William Combs, Sr., abt the same time that William Combs, possible h/o Polly SKAGGS, appears in Greene Co, KY,* which also happens to be abt the same time that Benjamin and Ann Combs Stacy (brother and sister of William & Seth STACY Combs, Sr.) also appear in Greene Co, KY... Research in Progress...

*William Combs, Jr. is listed on the 1798 Russell Co, VA tax list, but not the 1799. William Combs is not listed on the 1797 Greene Co, KY Tax List, but does appear on the 1799 Greene Co, KY tax list. See also the Dec 1787 Watauga Petition (Frontier Tennessee) which included William Combs, Jr. listed immediately after William Combs.

FUN FACT: By 1781, William Cody had moved to Montgomery County, Virginia, immediately north of Surry and Wilkes Counties. Exactly where they settled is unknown, but probably in the area of present day Wythe, Carroll or eastern Grayson County, close to North Carolina. William Combs and wife Sythe Stacy, and Benjamin Stacy and wife Ann Combs, Mason Combs Jr and wife Dorothy, also migrated to Montgomery County.

Many occupants of the New River Valley were staunchly loyal to Britain and it would appear reasonable that William Cody fled, given the danger of being captured and hung by Colonel Benjamin Cleveland of Surry and Wilkes Counties, North Carolina. Indeed, Cleveland "half-hung" a William Combs, Tory, of Surry County (11), possibly the husband of Sythe Stacy, but let him off after declaring allegiance to the Whigs. However, William Cody and William Combs had joined Captain Daniel Triggs patriot militia in Montgomery County (12).

Children from this marriage were:

+ 108 M i. John Combs .

+ 109 M ii. William Combs Jr.

+ 110 F iii. Winnifred Combs was born in 1765-1770 in Frederick County, Virginia and died after 1840 of Wright County, Missouri.

Mary Stacy Everage appears to have died young, since her own mother is recorded as raising her presumed daughter, Mary Everage, from her early childhood. An apocryphal story from Everage descendants claims that one day while her husband was away and her sons had gone for a walk, she tied her daughters to their beds and vanished, never to return. This may have been during the later years of the Revolutionary War.

"Nothing more is known of Sarah STACY; however, it is possible that Mary STACY later m Abraham EVERAGE, and was the mother of Mary Ann EVERAGE who m 1796, Sullivan Co, TN, RW William CORNETT." From:

<http://www.combs-families.org/combs/assoc/stacy.htm#simon>

Some researchers believe her husband, Abner Everage is the same as an Abner Etheridge who appears in census records of Surry Co., NC in 1790 (1-2-1-0-0). This appears to be correct, given that he appeared in the same county as "Everage" as far back as 1771.

Mary married Abner Everage about 1769. Abner was born before 1750 and died after 1800 of Morgan, Wilkes County, North Carolina.

The marriage of Abner Everage to Mary Stacy is speculative. We do know that a granddaughter of Judith Tolson Stacy was called Mary Everage, who lost her mother young and was raised by her grandmother until her marriage (in 1792 or 1796 according to conflicting accounts). Abner Everage seems to be the best candidate for her father, given that he appears in several records near Combs and Stacy families at the time in the 1775 tax list of Surry County, North Carolina.

Abner Everage fought in the Revolutionary War and was granted 640 acres in North Carolina June 1785 for his service. It was in the 11th District, waters of Indian Creek of Big Hatchee River. This area evidently later became part of Tennessee. He evidently did not have the land long, as others were noted owning it as far back as the year it was granted. See: Tennessee. North Carolina Revolutionary War Land Warrants, 1783–1837. Land Office Records, 1783–1927, Record Group 50. Tennessee State Library and Archives, Nashville, Tennessee.

There is an apocryphal story passed down through the generations of the Everage/Everidge families about Abner Everidge. They say he lived in North Carolina and enlisted in the army and went away and never was heard of any more. He left a wife and four children; Joel (Joe); Solomon, Mary and Nellie. They say that the widowed mother lived with her four children for a few years endured much hardship, one day the two boys, Joe and Solomon were out strolling about the place and when they returned to the house, they found their two little sisters tied to the bed; their mother had vanished and never returned. Another story said the father was still around around and took the girls to the Stacys and the boys to the Choctaw Nation for the Indians to raise.

Abner Etheridge appears in the 1771 and 1775 tax lists of Surry County, NC, the 1790 US census of Surry County (2-1-1) and the 1800 US census of Wilkes County, NC: 21001-00001. His daughters do seem to have vanished, suggesting the apocryphal story may have at least some truth to it.

Abner Everage may have been deceased by 1808. William Armstrong, Captain in the Regular U.S. Army during the Revolution in North Carolina, appeared before Andrew Campbell J.P. of Hawkins County, TN and stated that Abner Everidge was a Soldier in his Company, was taken sick and got leave to go home and that after a peace, a Mr William Terrell Lewis produced an order for the land grant for him. Settlements etc. 2 July 1808.

William and Sythe Stacy Combs patented land 100 acres on Mocossin Creek in in 1800 (27) and sold it in 1804 (28). The closeness of his land to William Cody and Samuel Cornett was documented in the patent of Benjamin Reed (29):

Note: According to the Perry Co KY declaration of Thomas CODY, b 1783 (s/o William & Sinai STACY Cody), dated 25 Jan 1853, Perry Co, KY, Mary EVERAGE m William CORNETT abt 1797-1798 "at the house of George MORRISON in Sullivan Co., Tenn. Squire GAINES, a justice of the peace, married them. A short time after they were married CORNET left for the mountains of Kentucky and seven or eight years afterward he [CODY] left for Kentucky with his father, hunting for elk and buffalo, and found William CORNETT and his wife in a camp at the mouth of Bull Creek, a branch of the north fork of the Kentucky River. This was in 1804. Mary and CORNETT were married but a short distance from where his father lived, as all the family were present, as his grandmother STACY [Judith TOLSON Stacy (Pettit)] had helped to raise Mary..." (RW Pension File of Wm. CORNETT) See MORRISON-WOOD below.

Sinai married William Cody about 1768 in Rowan County, North Carolina. William was born about 1741 in Orange County, Virginia and died after 1820 of Scott County, Virginia.

William Cody and sons Thomas and Zedekiah remained on Big Mocossin Creek at the foot of Clinch Mountain. This land was incorporated into Scott County in 1814. The 1815 tax list recorded William Cody and also Thomas Cody on a farm of 130 acres on Big Mocossin Creek and Zedekiah with 85 acres on the same creek (31). Also present were George Stacy, Meshack Stacy, Meshack Stacy Sr, John Sumner, and William Stacy. All were present in 1820.

William and Sinai Cody have not been found after 1820, although exhaustive research in Scott County has not yet been done. By 1840, the next extant US Census, William was no longer listed, suggesting he died after 1820. Thomas had moved to Kentucky. <http://www.mindspring.com/~baumbach/cody/william.htm>

William Stacy had a land grant in Hawkins County, TN dated Oct. 24, 1782. Edward Sizemore's estate settlement of Oct. 23, 1811 in Hawkins County shows his daughter Dolley was married to a William Stacy.

William Stacy signed his will in Hawkins Co., TN March 1, 1838. It was entered into record March 16, 1838. Sarah Morelock; Richard Henry m. Nancy Ann Britton.

William, his wife and son Richard are said to be buried in Stacy Cemetery, Goshen Valley Road in Hawkins County.

Sizemore Family Data--Raw Notes--Virginia DeMarce--17 August 1996

COMMENTS: The book (Kennedy, p. 24) identifies Edward Sizemore, b. 1725, with Edward Sizemore of the Eastern Cherokee affidavits. They must be two separate men, since the second Edward "Old Ned" Sizemore who was the ancestor discussed under Eastern Cherokee claims lived until approximately 1858 according to the Guion Miller testimony taken in 1908 (see below). In one place, Kennedy claims specifically to be a descendant of the one who was the "self-proclaimed Cherokee," but dates his birth to 1725.

The book also identifies the wife of Joseph Phipps Sr. (1730-?:) as a daughter of Ned Sizemore, "name lost to history" (Kennedy, p. 56). If such a connection can be documented, it must be to a daughter of one of the older Edward Sizemores, not to the "Eastern Cherokee claims" Old Ned Sizemore (see below). None of the material located (see notes below) alleged a Phipps marriage for one of the Cherokee Claims Edward "Old Ned" Sizemore's daughters.

Kennedy states (Kennedy, p. 24) that "Crocket [Ritchie]'s son John Ritchie married Sylvania Sizemore, daughter of the self-proclaimed Cherokee Edward "Ned" Sizemore, born in 1725," citing Jean Ritchie, Singing Family of the Cumberlands, p. 99. Unfortunately, Kennedy in this passage provided no chronological data for Crocket Ritchie, John Ritchie, or the claimed daughter Sylvania (Sizemore) Ritchie. Also in connection with that claimed marriage, the impossibility of the man born in 1725 being the man associated with the Eastern Cherokee claims stands. The Guion Miller testimony did not allege a daughter "Sylvania" among the children of that "Old Ned" Sizemore. Again, as seen in the notes below, no documentation was located for a Ritchie/Sizemore marriage in Kennedy's ancestry. The chart on p. 99 of Ritchie's Singing Family of the Cumberlands gave no parentage for Sylvania Sizemore. On pp. 112-113, Jean Ritchie indicated that her father was Ned Sizemore, who was half Indian. However, this man was not the "Old Ned" Sizemore discussed in the Guion Miller affidavits. She would appear to be the Sylvia Sizemore discussed below, who belonged to another branch of the Sizemore family.

The 1850 U.S. Census, Perry Co., KY, p. 419, shows Crockett Richie, age 60, b. NC (Sistler & Sistler, 1850 Census, Eastern Kentucky, p. 284; Perry County Genealogical 1982, p. 21). This man m. Susan Grigsby, b. 1782-d. 1876, called "wife of Alex Crocket Ritchie" (Perry County Genealogical Society Newsletter, August 1987, p. 37). This couple has to be of a younger generation than the Alexander Ritchie who was brother of the Delilah Ritchie who married into the Roberson family.

Certainly the John Richie shown on the 1850 Perry Co. census married to Sylvia (not Sylvania), was not of an age to be married to a daughter of "Old Ned" Sizemore: He was 35, b. VA; she 34; the annotations have a question mark on the surname Sizemore for her (Perry County Genealogical and Historical Society 1982, 25-26).

Born in Frederick County, Virginia around the time his father died, Simon Stacy Jr. migrated to Montgomery County, Virginia as a teenager and served in the Montgomery County Militia company of Captain Daniel Trigg with his brother Benjamin and cousin John Stacy, along with several Combs relatives in 1781.

After the Revolution, the Stacy family migrated to Russell County, where Simon Jr. first appears in a poll tax in 1787, enumerated near Grumby Mountain, Capt. Daniel Webb's list. By 1790 he was married and had moved to Moccasin Creek.

Simon pops up in Russell County records through the years: June 25, 1794, he was a juror in Russell Co., VA, Court. In 1800, Simon was fined $2.49 for swearing in the courtroom, a large amount of money in those days. One can tell by the text of his will that he was sharp but crude of speech.

By 1803, Simon packed up his growing family and moved forty miles across the mountains into Kentucky, following Stacy, Combs and other relatives who had already migrated. He paid taxes in Floyd County, KY in 1803-1808. On November 15, 1817, he bought 50 acres from John Carnum on the North Fork ("Carrs Fork") of the Kentucky River in Perry County. He would spend the remainder of his life in Perry County and died at around age sixty. According to original research published years ago in the pages of The Stacy Magazine, Vol. 1 No. 4, pg. 120, Simon Stacy and his wife Elizabeth Davidson had 13 children. In order of birth they were George, John, James, Jesse, William, Sarah, Simon, Benjamin, Shadrack, Margaret, Julia and Elizabeth. There was an additional male child born that did not make it to adulthood, per analysis of census records.

Simon married Elizabeth Davidson about 1790. Elizabeth was born about 1770 in Virginia and died after August 15, 1825 of Perry County, Kentucky. Simon Stacy's DAR record gives Elizabeth's death as Aug. 15, 1825, Scott County, VA. She may have lived with one of her children that remained in that area.

Children from this marriage were:

- + 124 M i. George Stacy was born about 1793 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1860 of Wright County, Missouri.
- + 125 M ii. John Stacy was born about 1795 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1830 of Clay County, Kentucky.
- + 126 M iii. Jesse Stacy was born about 1799 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1840 of Perry County, Kentucky.

+ 127 M iv. James Downey “Rough Jim” Stacy was born about 1800 in Russell County, Virginia, died on December 30, 1866 in Perry County, Kentucky, and was buried in Bradley Cemetery, Knott County, KY.

+ 128 M v. William “Big Billy” Stacy was born about 1801 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1870 of Knox Creek, Buchanan County, Virginia.

+ 129 F vi. Sarah Stacy was born about 1805 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1870 of Kanawha County, West Virginia.

+ 130 M vii. Simon S. Stacy was born about 1808 in Floyd County, Kentucky.

+ 131 M viii. Benjamin Stacy was born about 1810 in Floyd County, Kentucky and died after 1870 of Garden, Buchanan County, Virginia.

+ 132 M ix. “One-Eyed” Shadrack Stacy was born on September 12, 1812 in Clay County, Kentucky, died on October 28, 1888 in Perry County, Kentucky, and was buried in Vicco Baptist Church Cemetery, Perry Co., KY.

+ 133 F x. Margaret Stacy was born about 1814 in Kentucky.

+ 134 F xi. Julia Stacy was born about 1816 in Kentucky.

+ 135 F xii. Elizabeth Stacy was born about 1818 in Kentucky.

Her birth record in Overwharton Parish says simply: “Katharine Stacy, daughter of Elizabeth, born March 17, 1743.” Nothing further known.

A few genealogical sources (including BSM) name her as the daughter of John Stacy. Some identify her as the “Suky” Stacy that was born in 1754. There is ample evidence on the web that “Suky” is a nickname for “Susannah” so this is probably correct. It also seems logical to place her among his children since most of the Stacy clan of Russell Co. seemed to be the verified children of John Stacy, with only Benjamin and Simon coming from Simon’s (d. 1762) brood. It seems that all of the Stacy’s who appear in those Montgomery and Russell County records in the late 1700s must be descendants of either Simon or John.

There is a wealth of information on the Kiser family of Virginia, including documentation from old family letters and family bibles in the book Mead Relations: Mead-Brown-Powell-Keyser, Kelly-Trumbo-Austin, Toler-Prichard: Virginia-Kentucky. Much of the vital record information found on Findagrave has been confirmed or corrected by this book.

Susannah married Joseph Kiser about 1781 in Virginia. Joseph was born in 1756 in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, died before February 6, 1816 in Carbo, Russell County, Virginia, and was buried in Old Carbo Cemetery, Carbo, VA. Kiser, Joseph, 1756-1816

Joseph Kiser was born about the year 1756 probably in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. His father, Charles Keyser from Germany, had settled in Lancaster County (1) for a period of time before he acquired land in Frederick County, Virginia in 1765 (2) and area near Hawksbill, later to become Shenandoah County and presently located in Page County, Virginia. On October 8, 1778 he appears in the Page County records when he sued for debt and was awarded 18 shillings and 6 pence plus court cost.

On October 10, 1782 the Commonwealth of Virginia granted Joeph Keyser 88 acres of land on the south side of the Clinch River. Marginal notations show this entry marked “void” and “Surv. 50 acres”. The same record shows that on December 18, 1783 he had surveyed 50 acres at the same location. At that time the land was in Washington County, later to become a part of Russell County in 1786. The area he settled became known as Keyser Station, today known as Carbo. In December of 1785 he signed the petition to form Russell County.

On March 18, 1793 he purchased 70 acres of land on Becks Branch of Russell County from John Frost and others. On November 24, 1801, Joseph and his wife, Susannah, conveyed to Jacob Burch 50 acres of land on the waters of Clinch River on the north side of Copper Ridge and adjoining Edward Kelly, "it being fifty acres which land was granted by the Commonwealth to said Keiser bearing date the 21st day of November 1792". Both grantors signed the deed.

He was a Russell County juror on April 22, 1789, and also on June 26, 1792. He was allowed 12 shillings, 6 pence for killing one old wolf on February 22, 1791. His estate was appraised by Abraham Childress, James Sutherland, Jacob Blare and William Kelley, and the appraisal was recorded February 6, 1816.

Joseph married Susannah Stacey probably in Page County, Virginia but spent most of their lives in Russell County, Virginia where both died, Joseph in 1816. Nearly all his descendants spell their surname Kiser.

Their children were: Joseph Kiser, born 6 June 1782, died 27 March 1869, married Mary P. Childress; Abednego Kiser, born 1784, died October 4, 1814 in War of 1812, married 8 September 1803 to Mary P. Jessee; John Kiser, born 8 August 1786, died 15 April 1852, married 4 March 1796 to Nancy Long; Nimrod Kiser, born 1788, died 1828, married Mary P. Breeding; Ephraim Kiser, born 1790, died 11 October 1885, married 31 August 1815 to Mary P. Sutherland; Susannah Kiser, born 1792, died 23 July 1860, married Stephen Skeen; Mary Polly Kiser, born 1794, married James Artrip; Charles Kiser, born 1796, died 5 June 1880, married Nancy LaForce; Elizabeth Kiser, born 1798

(1) Kercheval's "History of the Valley", 4th Ed., page 37 relates an incident in relation to which "Major Andrew Keyser also informed the author that an Indian once called at his father's in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, appeared to be much agitated, and asked for something to eat. After refreshing himself he was asked what disturbed him. He replied, "The Southern Indians have killed my whole nation." This indicates clearly that Charles Keyser lived in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania, before he settled in what is now Page County, Virginia. (2) By deed of April 6, 1765, recorded in Frederick County, Virginia, deed book No. 10, page 248, Lewis Rhinehart and Mathias Rhinehart of Frederick County, Virginia conveyed unto Charles Keyser, of the same place, a parcel of land on the South Fork of the Shenandoah, being the lower end of two tracts of land granted to Mathias Rhinehart by deed of February 8, 1764, from the Proprietor's Office of the Northern Neck of Virginia.

NOTE: I have located in a book titled, "Bird-Samuels Paper" that a Joseph Kiser, along with Charles Kiser (Jr.) are listed in Michael Reader's Company of Dunmore County, Virginia during the Revolutionary War. Dunmore County eventually became Shenandoah County. I believe this Joseph Kiser to be the same Joseph that settled in Russell County, Virginia and he also had a brother named Charles Kiser (Jr.). I have written to the National Archives to obtain records but that were unable to locate any.

His will names his children in order as Joseph, Abednego, John, Nimrod,

The identification of Shadrach Stacy, whose birth was recorded in Overwharton Parish, Stafford County VA on Aug. 20, 1756 with the Meshack Stacy who later appears in tithables and court records of Russell County, VA is based on the possible confusion of either a parent, relative or vestryman who entered the birth in the parish register.

Shadrach and Meshach, along with Abednego, are characters from an Old Testament story about three Hebrew youths who survive being thrown in a fire and someone who knew the story may have gotten the names confused. But the different names likely represent the same person. See:

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Shadrach,\_Meshach,\_and\_Abednego

The origin of this theory, as with so much on the colonial Virginia Stacy family, is the forum of Combs-Families:

“The Mashack STACY who purchased land in 1792 from Partin could not have been the son of John STACY and Lucy SKAGGS since they got married 26 Mar. 1786 Mtgy Co., VA. Barbara and I have wondered if the older Meshack/Mashack might have been the Shadrach born 20 Aug. 1756 to John and Elizabeth [ASHBY STACY Jr. I think I have him on a Wash Co. warrant type record in the year 1783 (can't find now) which would make him born by 1762.”

---

He appears along his brother and father in 1784-86 Washington County, VA tithables:

1784 Wash Co. VA PP Txl: John Stacy owm, 1hr
1785 Wash Co. VA PP Txl: John Stacy Junr 1wm, 2hr, 5ctl
John Stacy Senr owm, 1hr, 2ctl
1786 Wash Co. VA PP Txl: John Stacy 1wm, 1hr, 5ctl
Mesheck Stacy 1wm, 2hr, 2ctl
John Stacy Senr 1wm, 1hr, 4ctl

Meshack signed the 1785 petition to form Russell Co. from Washington Co., VA.

Also in this 1786 return of Andrew Cowan's we find the SKAGGS, the SHORTS, and John BREEDING

In 1787 in Russell Co., VA, you find:

6/21/1787 STACY, John Senr owm>21, 1wm 16-21
6/21/1787 STACY, John Junr 1wm>21, 1hr, 2 ctl
6/21/1787 STACY, Meshack 1wm>21, 1hr
6/21/1787 STACY, Simon 1wm>21, 1hr

Note: The above young male in John Senr's hh was likely Bad Boy Peter since John Senr & Peter were listed together in their 1788 & 1789 entries but only 1 white male tithable. The John Junr on the 1787 list should be the John who married (1785) Lucy SKAGGS.

Mashack is not there in 1788 but a Mashack is back in 1789 (with 2 horses) as Benj & Wm appear (single entry) and Jesse shows up for the first time. Jesse is the son of Benj.

In 1792 there are no STACYS in Russell Co. tax lists. That year's tax list was very marginal with lots of missing names. There had been Indian attacks in 1791 with their Big Moccasin neighbor Elijah Farris killed so maybe some moved away for awhile. Who knows! But I think Meshack was back down in Hawkins buying his land. In any event, Meshack is back in Russell by 1802. Mashack has two documented sons Mashack Jr and John who later moved to Morgan Co., Ky. Census and other records suggest he had other sons but they have yet to be proven by records as far as I know.

Mashack's wife was Agnes Bailey and her father's Hawkins Co. will identified her surname and as the wife of Mashack. I found this on the Internet but can't find it now. I am pretty sure it is in the Hawkins Co. Rootsweb site but I couldn't locate it a few minutes ago. Oh, this small brain.

Mashack remained in Russell/Scott Cos. where he died in the 1830s.

The John STACY [II] Senior of these early tax lists has to be John STACY Jr. (of Stafford & Frederick) who married Elizabeth ASHBY and was having babies (Sylvia) by 1748 at the earliest per the OPR. And I would think the John STACY Junior of the early Wash/Russell tax lists would be John STACY III and the one who married Lucy SKAGGS since Henry SKAGGS was in Wash Co. by 1782 (txl). Furthermore, John STACY [II] and Elizabeth ASHBY'S daughter Susanna KISER was in Russell too.

There was never another John Stacy (other than the two - Sr & Jr) in Russell Co. records. Mashack's son John showed up later in Scott but he is too young to be confused with any of the earlier John STACYS.

By 1798 there is only 1 John STACY and he is tithable and GONE by 1800.

William Cody and sons Thomas and Zedekiah remained on Big Mocossin Creek at the foot of Clinch Mountain. This land was incorporated into Scott County in 1814. NOTE: BSM or some other 90s researcher appears to have made a glaring mistake: there is no evidence of a Meshack Stacy being the son of a John Stacy and Lucy Skaggs as claimed here:

“Meshack (a.k.a. Mason) STACY, s/o John & Lucy SKAGGS Stacy (See Cody-Combs-Stacy Connections, Russell Co, VA, 1810 Green Co, KY will of Lucy’s father, Henry SKAGGS, Sr., who also named daughter, Polly Combs). Meshack sold the above tract in 1793. [THIS MUST BE AN ERROR: HE COULD NOT

HAVE BEEN OLD ENOUGH IF PARENTS MARR. 1782]" <http://www.combs-families.org/archives/1999/v01.n146.txt>

Census records between 1820 and 1850 show there are only two Meshack Stacys in the United States: Meshack Sr. (1756-1836) and Jr. (c.1791-aft. 1870).

Shadrack married Agnes Bailey.

Children from this marriage were:

+ 145 M i. Simon Stacy was born in 1790-1800 in Virginia and died after 1830 of Russell County, Virginia.

+ 146 M ii. Meshack Stacy Jr. was born about 1791 in Hawkins County, Tennessee and died after 1870 of Caney, Morgan County, Kentucky.

+ 147 M iii. John Stacy was born about 1798 in Virginia and died after 1850 of Morgan County, Kentucky.

+ 148 M iv. William Stacy was born about 1800 in Scott County, Virginia and died after 1850 of Russell County, Virginia.

John Stacy (called Junior) (c.1760 - aft.1810) appears in records for Montgomery County, Virginia (1781-85), tithables for Washington County (1784-86) and Russell County, Virginia (1787-89, 1793, 1795, specifically as "John Stacy Jr."). He is found in Green Co., KY in 1800-1809 with Benjamin Stacy (his cousin) and Mason Stacy (son of Benjamin). He moved to Hardin County, Kentucky in 1810, the birthplace of Abraham Lincoln.

No children have been established as definitely those of this John Stacy. Combs-Families erroneously identified a Meshack who was much too old to be his son. However, there is a Meshack Stacy b. 1805-06, living in Livingston Co. KY in 1850 and who later moved to Jackson County, IL and died in Hardin, IL in 1874, who could be his son.

Given his close proximity to Henry Skaggs in Green Co. KY, he is likely the John Stacy who married his daughter, Lucy Skaggs. Henry Skaggs will:

Combs-Families:

John STACY, born before pre-1774 per 1820 Jackson Co, TN census, died after 1810; married Lucy SKAGGS (daughter of Henry SKAGGS, Sr., d testate 1810 Green Co, KY) on 9 May 1782 in Russell Co, Virginia. John was listed on the census in 1810 in Hardin Co, Kentucky.

-----
CONFUSION: John Stacy m. Lucy Skaggs identified by researchers as a son of Benjamin Stacy, but only John Sr and John Jr appear in Russell County tithables. There is no third. Confusion may come from a family story from an elderly lady interviewed in 1992 by BSM who mentioned a marriage of Ben Stacy and Ann Combs was in her family-- she did not say they were ancestors exactly, just people her father was named for.

Data for third below:

1785 Petition House of Delegates To Form Russell County

John Stacy [m. Lucy Skaggs; son of Benjamin and Ann Combs Stacy]

Mashack Stacy [son of John Stacy Sr.]

James Davidson [father of Elizabeth, wife of Simon Stacy, brother of Sinai Cody]

Henry Skaggs [father of Lucy]

[NOTE: There are a lot of John Stacys and this source may be confused. There is a John Stacy Sr and a John Jr listed in the tithe lists of Russell County, VA 1787-89, and this site lists Jr. as the son of Benjamin Stacy, which is impossible.]

A researcher on Combs-Families says this John Stacy married Lucy Skaggs Mar. 26, 1786 in Montgomery County, VA (which later became Russell County).

“I have some deeds ca 1800 from George & Mary Stacy, and after 1817 from George & Agness Stacy. Probate records of Joseph Culbertson show that Joseph’s widow married ca 1806 George Stacy. The death certificate of George S. Culbertson said that his mother was Jennie (Jemima) Stacy. However I have no documentation on George Stacy’s family.

“I think that he may have moved to Mercer Co Kentucky, (perhaps divorced from Agness as she remains in Scott Co until after 1845), as in 1832 George Stacy of Mercer Co patents land in Hendricks Co Indiana, which in 1836 he sells to Jemimah & Jeremiah Culbertson, and which Jemimah [Stacy] Culbertson leaves to her children in her will.”

George married Mary. Mary died before 1817 of Russell County, Virginia.

The child from this marriage was:

+ 149 F i. Jemima Stacy was born in 1787 in North Carolina and died in December 1857-May 1860 of Marion, Indiana.

George next married Agnes Chittleton about 1817.

County, Virginia and died in 1817 or 1818 in Clay County, Kentucky.

Peter Stacy (c.1768-c.1818) was a notoriously violent frontiersman who had repeated run-ins with the law, culminating in the Cattle Wars of Clay County, Kentucky, and finally, his own death at the hands of his son-in-law, John Spencer.

In 1806, Stacy was involved in a dispute over grazing rights near the Kentucky River. A man named John Amis slaughtered 20 cattle when he found them grazing on what he believed was his property near the fork of the Kentucky River. A group of men, including Stacy, stormed Amis' home and confronted his wife in support of William Strong, to whom the cattle had belonged. During an argument, Stacy pistol-whipped Kate Amis in the face.

The men left shortly thereafter, but Kate Amis sent a slave after them to shoot the men. Realizing they were being followed, Peter Stacy hid behind some bushes and shot the slave in the head as he approached. This of course further escalated matters, and led to Amis summoning a small army of 30 men to exact revenge.

After a shootout that left two horses dead and two men wounded, the two parties agreed to settle the matter in court. But while testifying in the matter on Aug. 5, 1807, John Amis was shot dead on the witness stand by Joel Elkins, of the rival "North Forkers."

The incident was later memorialized in a poem by Cana Baker.

RECORDS:

Peter likely appears as an unnamed tithable in his father's household in 1787. This suggests he was born between 1766 and 1771. The fact that John Sr. and Peter were listed in a single household until 1789 suggests he turned 21 in 1789 or 1790, and was thus born in 1768 or 1769.

“There were two Peter’s, one the son of John Sr. of Stafford Co., who married Ruth Crowell, and the other Peter, the son of (I believe, from Tax records) John Jr. of Russell Co., VA. This younger Peter was in Hawkins, got in a great deal of trouble there and retreated to the Clay County, KY area where he was killed by his son-in-law sometime in 1817-1818. He was involved in the cattle wars of KY.”

“The John Jay Dickey Diary states that Peter was ‘killed with a knife’ by his son-in-law, but does not state which one. Peter had two known son’s-in-law; John Spencer and Abner McCortney. I suspect strongly that it was John Spencer, and have much circumstantial evidence that this is the fact.”

Affidavit of Robert Russell on behalf of Simon Hill supporting his claim to Revolutionary War service:

I Robert Rusell a United States pensioner aged about eighty-four years, of Warren County and State of Virginia, do testify that I was well-acquainted with John Hill, and served with him in the revolutionary war, in Cap. Michael Rader's company and marched from the town of Woodstock, now in Shenandoah County and State of Virginia on the 10th or 11th day of March in the year 1777 on to Pittsburg and joined Col. Gibson's Regiment where we remained some time and then were sent down the Ohio River in boats to Wheeling where said Company joined Col. Shepherd's regiment and remained there until the 14th day November ensuing where said Hill, with others were dismissed from there, it not being considered necessary to keep so many men there any longer, for the defence of the port. I being sick with the small pox remained there ____il [ink smeared] the 17th of March following, when I was dismissed from the army, and returned home, about the 26th of the same month, and in the month of November 1778, I rode to north Carolina, and after being there a short time I joined a volunteer Company of cavalry commanded by Capt. Litteral, and remained in that section until the spring of 1781, nearly all the time in service, under different engagements, and during the time in service I frequently heard of said John Hill and two of his brothers George Hill and Simon Hill, being in the Infantry under Gen'l. I returned home to Virginia in May 1781 and about one year after I returned home, George Hill and Simon Hill returned to my neighbourhood where they remained till[?] about twenty-six years ago, when they removed from this section to Muskingum County in the State of Ohio, and during the time the said George Hill and Simon Hill lived in my neighbourhood I frequently saw them and heard them tell of their service in the Southern army under Genl. Birth recorded in Overwharton Parish register, Stafford Co., VA. Marriage bond recorded in Fauquier County, VA.

<http://www.binnsgenealogy.com/VirginiaTaxListCensuses/Fauquier/1799PersonalB/41.jpg>

George's whereabouts after 1799 are unknown. There are a number of George Robinsons in Virginia and Kentucky in the 1810 U.S. census who could be him, but nothing further confirmed. The George Robinson of Prince William County that year is age 26-45, so he appears to be a bit too young.

George married Ann Foster on August 26, 1789 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

In her father's will she was listed as Elisha Robinson; Overwharton records her birth name as "Lishea" but that may be a mistranscription. Her older sisters who were married were listed by their married names, so Elisha was not married in 1785. She was 28 years old.

There appear to be two entries for his birth in the transcription of the Overwharton parish register book; one calls him "Benjamin Robinson" the other gives no first name. Both give a birth date of June 21, 1758. Marriage date comes from his marriage bond recorded in Fauquier County, VA.

Dixon served in the Revolutionary War from at least July 13, 1777--rose to rank of corporal.

Dixon Robinson and his wife Anna Pinkstone are listed (along with his DOB) on page 2490 of the DAR Patriot Index, Centennial Edition, Part III. According to that book, Dixon was a private in the Continental Line of Virginia.

Shadrack Pinkston<sup>3</sup> was discharged a coroporal, at Morristown, New Jersey, December 16, 1779, having served three years in the 11th Virginia Regiment on Continental Establishment (Ibid., p. 227). In addition to his pay of 6 and 2/3 dollars every month, he was given a warrant for bounty land in the Ohio Military District (then of Virginia; later if formed Ohio County, Kentucky), warrant no. 3997 for 100 acres, dated November 19, 1785 (_____ Jillson, Old Kentucky Entries and Deeds, p. 354). After the War, Shadrack returned to Fauquier County, Virginia, along with his niece's husband, Dixon Robinson, who had also served in the Guard, (Godfrey, op. Cit., p. 240). In 1782, Shadrack and Henry Pinkston co-sign the inventory of the estate of John Barbour in Fauquier County, Virginia. Barbour is probably the son of John and Sarah Pinkston Barbour, therefore a cousin to Shadrack and Henry Pinkston.

Birthdate estimate comes from his order in the will, directly after Dixon Robinson.

Stephen Robinson transferred Lease of Property to William Fitzhugh, not described further. Book 10, p. 354. Abstracts of Fauquier Co. VA, Deed Books 10-17, 1788-1810 Buck, Dee Ann, c. 1997.

Enumerated Mar. 28, 1799 in personal property tithable, Fauquier Co., VA.
<http://www.binnsgenealogy.com/VirginiaTaxListCensuses/Fauquier/1799PersonalA/21.jpg>

Catherine Robinson Campbell named her brother Stephen as guardian of her son, Nathaniel Campbell, in her will written 22 April 1822, and proven 23 Dec 1822. Will Book 8, p. 263.

Marriage data for first marriage from Ancestry.com. Virginia Marriages before 1824 [database on-line]. Provo, UT, USA: Ancestry.com Operations Inc., 1997.

Second marriage identifies her as "Mrs. Lydia George." From: Dodd, Jordan. Virginia, Compiled Marriages, 1660-1800 [database on-line]. Provo, UT, USA: Ancestry.com Operations Inc, 1997.

Thomas Roach appears in the 1810 census of Fauquier County, VA, only himself and his wife. Their lack of children fifteen years into their marriage suggests Lydia never had any with her second husband, and may have only had one (Presley) with her first.

Lydia was appointed guardian of her son Presley on Sep. 26, 1791, likely after the death of her husband Aaron George. (Fauquier County Guardianships)

Lydia married Aaron George on October 24, 1785 in Fauquier County, Virginia. Aaron died before September 26, 1791 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

The child from this marriage was:

+ 198 M i. Presley George was born before September 26, 1791 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

Lydia next married Thomas Roach on February 26, 1795 in Fauquier County, Virginia. Thomas died after 1810 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

Elijah Robinson was named in his father's will in January 1785. Some researchers believe Elijah to be the Elijah Nash Robinson who died in Daviess, Indiana Oct. 13, 1845. This seems unlikely, since Elijah Nash was born Mar. 13, 1779, according to his tombstone, and Elijah, the son of Benjamin was old enough to claim himself as tithable in 1790, placing his birth in 1769 or earlier. It's possible there is more than one Elijah Robinson in this extended family group, or that the tombstone birth is wrong.

Elijah Robinson's marriage date comes from his marriage bond recorded in Fauquier County, VA.

Dixon Robinson was named guardian of his minor brother James Robinson Oct. 27, 1788, a few years after the death of their father. Dixon Robinson was chosen guardian of James Robinson, orph., of Benj'a Robinson, dec'd. 27 December 1788. For: L500. Security: Stephen Robinson. (Fauquier Co., Va Guardian Bonds 1759-1871 by John Gott)

James appears in Stafford Co. VA 1790 tithable list next to William Robinson; and in 1799 Fauquier tithables with William, Sarah, Stephen and Martha Robinson.
<http://www.binnsgenealogy.com/VirginiaTaxListCensuses/Fauquier/1799PersonalA/21.jpg>

He could be any number of James Robinsons that moved west after 1800. Nothing definite known after the Fauquier County tithables. Some genealogists have him as the father of the Catherine Robinson who married William Edward Sanders in Fauquier Sep. 20, 1818, but with no supporting evidence.

James married Molly Robinson on January 23, 1790 in Fauquier County, Virginia.

Two decades after Peter Stacy left Stafford County, a Peter Stacy appeared in Yohogania County, VA, which was divided in the mid-1780s, the northern half joining with Fayette County, PA. He lived in Fayette and Westmoreland County until October 1787, when he removed to Jefferson County, KY, and in 1799, to Clark County, IN where he spent the remainder of his life.

Genealogist Jenny Rasmuson believes Peter Stacy of Clark County Indiana was the son of Peter Stacy and Ruth Crowell of Stafford County, Virginia. While there is no solid proof that this is the case, it seems likely. Stacy was still a scarce name in Virginia during the colonial period, and the disappearance of Peter from Stafford after 1755--with an appearance by a Peter Stacy of the same generation in 1778 about 230 miles north, seems to fit well enough, especially since he had children with names seen in the Stafford County family such as Sarah, Elizabeth, William, Peter and George.

Whatever the case may be, all records for the Peter Stacy who died in Clark County, IN are included here for reference.

George Stacy (c.1760-after 1834) was a farmer of Camden District, South Carolina and a soldier in the Upper Ninety-Six Loyalist Militia during the final years of the Revolutionary War. He fought at King's Mountain in October 1780, a pivotal victory for patriot forces that prevented Lord Cornwallis from invading North Carolina. George later evacuated Fort Ninety-Six, the last major British stronghold in South Carolina and served through 1782. After the war, he settled in Camden District and bought substantial property. His own loyalist sentiments seem to have subsided enough that he named his second son after then-president George Washington in 1792. He departed South Carolina with his children in 1822 and settled in Alabama.

George's parentage is uncertain but his confirmed origin in upper Ninety-Six District (modern day Cherokee/Spartanburg counties) and probable relation to a Peter Stacy (who also enlisted in the Upper Ninety-Six Militia), the naming of his son Amos (also the name of a son of Robert Stacy), place him as a likely son of George and Jemima Stacy of the Stafford County Stacy clan. He may also be the grandfather of Peter B. Stacy of Chesterfield County, who had children named George and Jemima (1860 census). Robert Stacy Sr. also had a grandson named George P. Stacy, who had a son named Harvey Stacy, possibly named for Elizabeth Harvey, wife of George Stacy.

George's descendants inherited an alternate spelling, "Stacey" that was formalized during the mid-19th century. The family bible of Amos Stacy and Elizabeth Kearley shows the spelling "Stacy" for the earliest generations, but the spelling begins to morph into "Stacey" with the birth of John Advill Stacey recorded in 1830.

George Stacy born. Census records give a wide range for his birth, from as early as 1755 to the 1770s. The fact that he purchased land on Jan. 3, 1785 proves he was born in 1763 or earlier. A date of Oct. 11, 1751 is often given for his birth. This is incorrect. The very faded entry in the Amos Stacy family bible appears in a list of his grandchildren and reads "George Stacey was bornd October 11th, 1859," coming one entry after the birth of a Hannah E. Stacey, born in 1857.

George Stacy served as a loyalist in the Revolutionary War. Along with Peter Stacy he enlisted in the Spartan Loyalist Regiment (a.k.a. the Upper Ninety-Six Militia) of Upper Ninety-Six District. These men were primarily from what are now Spartanburg and Cherokee Counties. George served under Capt. Nicholas Hawley. Peter served Capt. William Young.

George enlisted as a private in the Spartan Loyalist Regiment on June 14, 1780. By August, he had been mustered in the South Carolina Rangers, stationed near Camden, South Carolina, where he remained through the end of 1781. He was at Kings Mountain during the battle (Oct. 7, 1780) and evacuated Fort Ninety-Six in July 1781.

George was mustered in the First Camden Militia and served from Nov. 13, 1781 to Mar. 12, 1782 with a William Stacey who reportedly died during his service on Mar. 27, 1782. Private "George Stacey" appears in the payrolls of Lt. Col. William Young's corps, Little River Militia, Ninety-Six Brigade, Maj. William Young's company, Sep. 6, 1782. (Loyalists in the Southern Campaign of the Revolutionary War Vol. 1, p. 336). After this date, he evidently mustered out and settled into private life in Camden District.

From Apr. 8 to Sep. 8, 1782 he served under Maj. William Young in the Troop of Mounted Dragoons. (Loyalists in the Siege of Fort Ninety-Six by Bobby Gilmer Moss) staceya413 matches with eight other individuals who have ancestors named Stacy born in Spartanburg County, South Carolina. They are Diane Thornton Stephens, James Stacey, jolleylyn, J.Q. (managed by Sally T Quinn), C.Q. (managed by Sally T Quinn), rayeann16, Pamela Carpenter (Managed by carpenter177), elaine best. All 5th to 8th cousins.

DNA Match: I have a DNA match with a descendant of George Stacey via his son Amos. Profile is staceya413. 9 cM across 1 segment.

Of these, Diane Thornton Stephens is a descendant of Sally Stacy Boyd; Pamela Carpenter, J.Q., C.Q., and rayeann16 are descendants of Nancy Stacy Quinn. This is reasonably strong evidence of relation between Robert Stacy and George Stacey.

George married Elizabeth Harvey. Elizabeth was born before 1765 and died after January 26, 1822 of Clarendon County, South Carolina.

Posting from Steve Stacey:

I recall that we have discussed the Creek indian connection in the past. My notes indicate that we were going to trade family information. The Stacey connection to the Creek indians is documented through one grandson of George Stacey, Manning Stacey, son of William Stacey. Manning Stacey was the only grandchild of George Stacey to place his name on the rolls of the Creek indians. He was a first cousin of Sarah Stacey, your direct ancestor, wife of Milton Carnley. Many Staceys in the William line gathered their family genealogy before 1974 and submitted the information and were placed on the rolls. The wife of George Stacey, Elizabeth (surnamed Harvey, most likely), was full blooded Indian. This information is not documented except by family oral history and the physical features of her many descendants. If you are looking for written proof, it simply does not exist. --Steve Stacey.

Peter Stacy/Stacey served from June 14, 1780 in the Spartan Regt under Capt. Samuel Young, served at the battle of King's Mountain (Oct. 7, 1780) and evacuated Fort Ninety-Six (July 1781).

--Bobby G. Moss, Loyalists in the Seige of Fort Ninety-Six

"Peter Stacy" was named in pay abstracts of Maj. Zachariah Gibbs regiment, Spartan Militia, Ninety-Six Brigade, men who came to Orangeburg with Lt. Col. John H. Cruger, now present at Dorchester, who also served with Lt. Ferguson, Lt. Samuel Young's company, six months pay June 14 - Dec. 13, 1780.

Peter Stacey/Stacy was named in pay abstract 71 Lt. Col. Zachariah Gibbs regt., Spartan Militia, Ninety-Six Brigade, Soldier's Certification, for those who came with Lt. Col. John H. Cruger to Orangeburg, SC, and were omitted from a previous abstract; these men also served under Maj. Ferguson. Six months' pay, June 13 - Dec. 14, 1780 at Dorchester, SC.

Also serving with George Stacey in the Camden Militia was a William Stacey who reportedly died during his service on March 27, 1782. (Pay Abstract Nr 136, Col. Robert English Regt., 1st Batt. Camden Militia. From "Loyalists in the Southern Campaign During the Revolutionary War, Vol. 1 p. 123.)

Peter's fate after the war remains a mystery. Given that he is known to have evacuated Fort Ninety-Six, but seems to have vanished thereafter, it is possible he was one the 500 evacuees who departed South Carolina with his commanding officer, Lt. Col. Zachariah Gibb, and resettled in Rawdon, Nova Scotia. There seems to be no trace of him or any likely descendants anywhere in Canada, suggesting that if he made it to Canada, he may have died young.

Robert Stacy (c.1764-1849) timeline:

c.1764: Robert Stacy is born to George Stacy & Jemima Edwards in Hamilton Parish, Fauquier County, Virginia. Robert's birth likely took place on the plantation of Charles Littlejohn in Leeds Manor, near modern-day Hume, Virginia, where his father was living in 1759-64 or later.

October 1767: His father dies suddenly, and by 1771 Robert's mother remarries to Charles Littlejohn. Charles and Jemima have three known children: Henry "Big Yatt" in 1772, Ignatius in 1777 and Nancy c.1779. While most of the Stacys head off to Kentucky and Tennessee, the Littlejohns join a migration to Ninety-Six District, South Carolina, to settle in the upper Broad River Region near Thicketty Creek.

1774 (Dec. 8): Charles Littlejohn patents one hundred acres on a branch of Thicketty Creek in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina. His land is today on the north side of Route 211 in Gaffney, SC, bordering the old Spartanburg-Union line.

1777: Charles Littlejohn is last recorded in VA as a tenant of Leeds Manor, Fauquier Co. VA. This is the likeliest year the family moves to SC. Robert is about 13 years old.

June 1780: Robert's brothers George and Peter enlist in the Upper Ninety-Six loyalist militia and fight for the British in the Revolution, mostly in the southern part of the state; his sister Anne would marry Shadrach Nowland, formerly of Frederick Co., Virginia ca. 1782 and they would be recorded in a land sale of December 1787 in Ninety-Six Dist., SC.

1782 (Jun. 6-Jul. 5 and Sep. 8-Oct. 25): Priv. Robert Stacy serves as a horseman in the company of Capt. John Mapp (1761-1828) of Col. Roebuck's (c.1755-1788) regiment of the SC militia just south of the city of Spartanburg. John Mapp's company saw action Sep. 16, 1782 during the Final Cherokee Campaign when they subdued a Cherokee Indian settlement and forced them to sign a temporary peace treaty under Brig. Gen. Andrew Pickens.

1784 (Jul. 29): Robert files his payment indent petition to the colony of South Carolina with written verification of his service by officers in his regiment.

1785 (Dec. 7): Robert receives nine pounds, five shillings, and one and a half pennies for his service. (SC Stub Entries to Indents, Book X, pt. I, No. 1142)

1786 (Dec. 17): Robert's first plat in Spartanburg District is certified by the surveyor. (SC Land Grants)

1787 (Feb. 5): Robert receives on this day a land grant from the Colony of South Carolina (statehood was not achieved until 1788) for 254 acres of property in Spartanburg District on the south side of Goucher Creek, just west of the branch off from Thicketty on Highway 150. His borders are John Shippy, Robert Wilkins and Robert Morris. This property sat on top of what is now the intersection of Goucher Green Bethel Rd. and Highway 150.

1790: Robert Stacy is enumerated in the federal census of South Carolina in Spartanburg Dist. next to Joseph Austill. Commonly mis-indexed as "Robert Story."

1798 (Sep. 11): A court order states that "Robert Stacy" will "oversee the road leading to Union County in place of John Lipscomb." That road is now highway 150.

1799 (Apr. 11): Robert is first recorded buying land in Spartanburg District, purchasing 13 acres from neighbor John Lipscomb (1761-1827).

1800 (Mar. 21): Robert's land purchase from Amos Austell is filed. In November, Robert sold land to William Brock.

1801 (Sep. 29): Robert begins the relocation of his estate to the west side of Broad River with the purchase of 200 acres on the waters of Cherokee Creek: Sept 29, 1801 Box H, p. 11-12 Jordan Gibson (Logan Co., KY) to Robert Stacey (Spartanburg) waters Cherokee Cr of Broad R. Witness Amos Austell and Samuel Austell. Signed Jordan Gibson's mark. Wit. oath, Oct. 26, 1801 Amos Austell to John Lipscomb Rec. Dec 5, 1801. This property was identified as the southern border of Charles Hester's 222 acre plat surveyed on Oct. 20, 1797, and affirmed as a Stacy boundary in a deed of Champion to Dare October 3, 1808. It bordered William Tate (Wilson Nesbitt after 1839) to the east, Cherokee Creek to the south and Robert Lipscomb and Michael Gaffney to the west. By 1840, Robert bought up most of the surrounding property, running a massive farm of more than 1,000 acres farmed by as many as 20 slaves.

1806 (Apr. 14): Robert sells 187 acres of his original plot bordering John Lipscomb's to William Brock. He then sold 13 additional acres to Brock the same day, 200 acres in total (this is likely the 13 acres he bought in 1799). Sally Stacy renounced dower to Jn. Lipscomb.

1810 (Mar. 25): Robert purchases 52 acres on Cherokee Creek from Richard Robertson.

1815 (Oct.): Robert Stacy & Jesse Tate sell to Michael Gaffney (1775-1854) 120 acres on both sides of Cherokee Creek. Border: Michael Gaffney. (This property is likely near Gaffney Ferry Rd., possibly slightly west).

<http://sharonscrapbook.blogspot.com/2013/08/captain-michael-robert-gaffney-and-mary.html>

[Following two transactions are two purchases outside Spartanburg District]

1822 (Oct. 10): Robert Stacy (Sr? Jr?) buys from John Wood 178 acres on branch of Lawson's Fork on Little Cherokee Creek (this is near the town of Spartanburg).

1828 (Dec. 16): Robert, now in his sixties, is widowed, according to his family bible.

1829 (no date)- Robert buys from son George 216 acres on Cherokee Creek. This was probably in preparation for George's relocation to Alabama. (George had bought 200 acres of this property in 1816 from Henry Kennedy; part of a Feb. 26, 1800 grant to Samuel Sparks on Gilkey's Creek).

1830: Robert appears in the Federal census, now age "60 to 70" years, living with only his slaves, (among them Prince Stacy 1822-1885), and his 2 youngest children, Chester, 19 and Denicy, 16. Denicy marries Thomas Davis, but dies within a decade. Most of Robert's children have grown up and moved to Alabama

1833 (Jun. 28): Robert buys from Thomas Dare 200 acres on People's Creek.

1834 (Nov. 3): Apparently dissatisfied with his last purchase (or speculating), Robert sells the same 200 acres on People's Creek to William Ross (1789-1839).

1838 (Jun. 20): Robert buys from Robert Lipscomb (1780-1860) 84 acres bordering his own land on Cherokee Creek. A branch of the creek runs through the property and stretches out to what is now River Drive. (L tract)

1840 (Mar. 7): Robert buys from Richard Robertson "a certain tract" on Cherokee Creek, part of the estate of the late Nathaniel Robertson. This is a part of the tract Nathaniel Robertson bought from William Bostick in 1797, a massive 600-acre block on Cherokee Creek surveyed for Thomas Henry in 1764. The acreage of the purchase is unknown, but it seems likely this was what Robert sold to Chester in 1846.

1840 (Aug. 4) Robert, by now in his seventies, lives only with his (twenty) slaves and his daughter Elizabeth, who is age 40. After the youngest children left home, Elizabeth, probably widowed, moved back in to take care of her elderly father. Robert seals his will on Aug. 4, 1840.

1845 (Mar. 28): Robert sells to John Williams and Francis Northey 120 acres on the south side of Cherokee Creek. (The Northey property sat on the north side of Cherokee Rd., between what is now Ross St. and Scoggins Rd.)

1845 (Nov. 7) Robert sells to Obediah Surratt and D. B. Ross a tract of 150 acres on the north side of Cherokee Creek. Border: branch, M. C. Stacy.

1846 (Feb. 25): Robert sells a massive 278 acre plot to his son Chester, the largest of his transaction on record. The deed described the land being on "both sides of Cherokee Creek."

1848 (Jul. 22): Deed of conveyance, Robert Stacy to William B. Smith for $125 acres sold 50 acres on Cherokee Creek of Broad River bordering Northy and the creek. (This property is on the east side of what is now Teague Rd., surrounding a small man-made pond).

1848 (Sep. 7): Deed of conveyance, Robert Stacy of Spartanburg Dist., for $125 sold to James Ellis 50 acres on a branch, waters of Cherokee Creek; on meanders of the branch to Ellis Spring branch. Note: This is the final of Robert's land sales of 1845-1848, where he sold off 498 acres. After selling this property, he had his 200 acre homeplace, and another 250 acres adjacent both the homeplace, M.C. Stacy and his southern neighbors including Northy, Ellis, Sarratt and Williams. This may have been residual property fragments of little value.

1849 (Feb. 6): Robert Stacy dies at about 84-85 years old. His death is recorded in the Stacy family bible. Officiating at his funeral is Rev. John S. Ezell (1825-1903). Robert's will is probated on Feb. 19, 1849, and his grave was dug by a neighbor, John McKee. His estate is inventoried Mar. 10, 1849, and that May a legal battle begins between the two executors, M. C. Stacy and James L. Pearson, over the old man's belongings. He owns a large farm with several cows, horses, slaves, etc., a smooth bored rifle, and other things later inventoried in his will. His remaining land, described as 250 acres consisting of 170 acres of old field, 50 acres of woods and 30 acres of bottomland, was sold in a Sheriff's auction to J. W. Ross.

Oddly enough, Robert's exit from life wasn't exactly peaceful; on November 2, 1849 four of his own slaves (Lucy, Gilly, Henry and Abe) along with a slave called Harry owned by Robert Lipscomb, were tried for conspiring to kill his son Chester in an evident bid to win Lucy's freedom. The slaves were found not guilty. (Magistrates & Freeholders Court of Spartanburg, Case 110, 11/2/1849) (Source: <https://csidixie.org/exodus/coroners-slaves>)

1849 (Oct. 22): R.C. Poole, Sheriff of Spartanburg Dist., to J.W. Ross for $400 sold 250 acres land of Robert Stacy, deceased, in this district on the waters of Broad River, bounded by M.C. Stacy, George Bobett, William B. Smith, James Ellis, Northy, Sarratt and Ross. Sold by order of the Court of the Ordinary tested 3 Sep. 1849. Except for Bobett, all of these neighbors were men Robert sold property to in 1845-1848. Bobett got the home place.

There is a Denicy Stacy mentioned in the family bible, born on Dec. 15, 1814. One naturally assumes this is the daughter of Robert Stacy, but in his 1840 will he makes mention of a "Denicy Stacy, daughter of my deceased son William" and states that she married Thomas Davis and died leaving no children. The will makes no mention of any Denicy, daughter of Robert, however a young girl appears in the 1820 and 1830 censuses in Denicy's age group, living w/ Robert. Unless there are two Denicy Stacys born about the same year and both dying before 1840, they may be the same person. Robert & Sally probably adopted their son's only daughter after William died.

THE STACY HOMEPLACE ON CHEROKEE CREEK

Robert's original land grant was in the southern part of Spartanburg District, adjacent to John Shippy and William Wilkins, and he appears to have lived near the Austells here from 1787 to 1801. He relocated his estate to the west bank of Broad River in September 1801 with a 200-acre purchase from Jordan Gibson. It is almost certainly on this plot that his homestead existed and any possible family cemetery would have been erected, particularly given that he did not buy further acreage in this area until 1810 and family cemeteries are typically found within 100 yards of the house.

This 1801 tract was a rectangular strip measuring 4,950 x 1,782 ft. “on the waters of Cherokee Creek” and extended from the north side of Gaffney Ferry Rd. down to Nesbitt’s line, south of the intersection of River Dr. and Victory Trail Rd. Robert’s precise homeplace went unrecorded, but it was most likely the old homestead at 167 Gaffney Ferry Rd. (35°05'48.9"N 81°35'42.6"W), which would have been a commanding hilltop position overlooking his property at the time. Any family cemetery that may have existed would have been near here.

Robert made a number of acquisitions and as of 1840 he owned about 70% of the property encompassed by River Dr., Victory Trail Rd. and Cherokee Ave. His property, at the time over 1,000 acres, extended from what is now the industrial park on Commerce Dr. to the north to the intersection of Rainbow Dr. and Deerwood Ln., on the west end and all the way to Cherokee Ave. on the southwestern flank, where Ross St. is. He owned a ~500-acre tract on Doolittle Creek near present-day Blacksburg as well. Robert’s extensive land holdings, occasional speculation and flipping of properties and extensive estate inventory strongly suggest he was one of the wealthier men in Spartanburg District at the time, what we would today call upper-middle class.

Locating Robert’s original tract was a matter of using elimination to piece the puzzle together.

We knew the 1801 “Jordan Gibson” tract must be where the house was, because there would have been no other place for him to live between his final Thicketty Creek sale in 1806 and the purchase of his next Cherokee Creek plot in 1810. Given the house was here, the cemetery was likely to be as well.

Identifying the Jordan Gibson Tract was made possible first by using an “anchor tract”-- in this case, the Tate Mill (a.k.a. Dare’s Mill) tract. Because we knew where the mill was due to existing ruins and its identification on an 1869 map, we could place that on a modern map. The Hester plat surveyed in 1797 was adjoining the Tate’s Mill tract on its southeast side and was sold jointly with it in the 1820s. The bottom boundary of this adjoined the Jordan Gibson tract at a red oak according to the plat. The Gibson deed (to Stacy) gave this red oak as the northeast boundary. This boundary sits firmly south of the intersection of River Dr. and Victory Trail Rd., and north of Cherokee Creek. So that gave us the upper boundary of the Jordan Gibson tract that became the Stacy homeplace in 1801.

Once we had this “Rosetta Stone”, the rest of it fell into place. We then could deduce that the 1839 plat survey for Wilson Nesbitt that identified the shape of his northwestern border with Robert Stacy was referring to the homeplace. The border on the Nesbitt plat corresponded perfectly to the shape of existing boundaries per the GIS parcel map survey for Cherokee County, giving us Robert's eastern boundary line.

The Jordan Gibson deed gave us the precise meets and bounds of the homeplace, and the positioning was deduced relative to adjacent properties and natural features. The deed noted the property was "on the waters of Cherokee Creek" indicating a tributary of the creek that was too small to name. Keeping the property north of the creek gave us a position that lined up directly on 133-167 Gaffney Ferry Rd. A combination of GIS parcel mapping and old-fashioned platting on paper gave us the rest of the missing pieces. Local historian Dennis Amos was instrumental in helping us figure all this out.

Robert Stacy sold off 498 acres of his property between 1845 and 1848. In March 1849, his executors sold 200 acres on the north side of Cherokee Creek, beginning on the bank of the creek, bounded by Nesbitt Iron Manufacturing and Gaffney to George Bobbitt. This was almost certainly his homeplace, the Jordan Gibson tract. Bobbitt (1813-1892) remained there until the 1850s and supposedly married a Sarah Littlejohn. They moved back to his native Grayson County, Virginia about 1852.

Robert married Sally Austell, daughter of William Austell and Amelia Duncan, about 1784 in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina. Sally was born about 1767 in Berkeley County, South Carolina and died on December 16, 1828 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina.

Sally Austell was born near Bush River, Berkeley County, South Carolina (today near the town of Newberry) in 1766 or 1767. M. C. Stacy stated in the 1880 census that his mother was born in South Carolina, so we can assume she was born shortly after the Austells sold their property in Virginia in May 1766 and moved to South Carolina, settling in what is now Newberry County. This is consistent with the accounts given in the 1800, 1810 and 1820 censuses, which indicate Sally was born between 1765 and 1774.

She spent her earliest years growing up on her maternal grandfather's farm near the Bush River Quaker community before her family moved 60 miles north to the vicinity of Thicketty Creek, near the present-day town of Gaffney, around 1780.

Between around 1780 and the time her husband received his land grant in 1787, Sally would have likely lived on the property that was sold in this transaction:

p. 80-81 November 6, 1806 AMELY (Amelia, Milly) AUSTELL (Spartanburgh) to AMOS AUSTELL (same); for $500. sold 200 acres on Thicketty Creek border: N-William Lipscomb, and W- Robert Wilkins, where AMELY AUSTELL lives; part of 400 acre grant to Thomas Nichols. Signed: MILEY AUSTELL Wit. oath

November 9, 1806 JOSEPH AUSTELL to John Lipscomb. Rec. Nov. 10, 1806
Her death date--Dec. 16, 1828-- is given in the Robert Stacy family bible. Her name is given only as "Sally Stacy, wife of Robert Stacy," and there is no official documentation of her maiden name. However, there are a number of indications that she was very likely born to William and Amelia Austell:

1. The given names for her children, Nancy, William, Amos and Amelia are not Stacy names and appear to have come from the Austell family;
2. Descendants of Amos Stacy claim his real first name was "Joseph", also an Austell name;
3. One of Robert and Sally's grandchildren was named "Margaret Austelle Stacy";
4. A daughter of Amos Austell was named "Sally";
5. Robert lived next door to Joseph Austell in the 1790 census;
6. Robert and the Austell brothers served as each other's witnesses in two early land transactions in 1800 and 1801.

It's circumstantial evidence, but a virtual mountain of it.

Furthermore, autosomal DNA triangulation has strongly corroborated that Robert Stacy's descendants are related to the Austell family.

1. Ashley Vance (19 cM), descendant of William Austell (1777-1842), is a DNA match to myself and Ashlyn Stacy Neely, both descendants of Robert Stacy. Her family is well-documented back to about the year 1800 and there seems to be no other common ancestry.
2. Dewayne Duncan's (29 cM) lineage isn't known, but he has shown crossmatching with Amos Austell descendant cveillis2006 (13 cM) as well as 6 descendants of Robert Stacy (25-127 cM). He is almost certainly a Robert Stacy descendant.
3. ebennett1222 (7 cM), a descendant of Amos Austell (1775-1855), has DNA matches to joe1945vcnv (41 cM) who matches to 8 descendants of Robert Stacy, and J.S. (127 cM), who in turn has matches to at least 14 descendants of Robert Stacy (28-833 cM). Both are almost certainly a descendant of Robert himself (J.S.'s last name is evidently "Smart").
4. BucknerandFinnertyFamBam (9 cM), a descendant of Amos Austell, has DNA matches to J.S. (127 cM), joe1945vcnv (41 cM) and E.P. (21 cM), all Robert Stacy descendants.
5. atrubear (14 cM) a descendant of Joseph Austell (1769-1823) has DNA matches to myself and Debra Fowler (23 cM), descendant of Robert Stacy.

Anna Stacy, wife of Shadrach Noland (also spelled Nowland, Noland, Nolen or Nolan), appears definitively in only a single record and evidently died before age fifty. Records of her birth or baptism do not survive and the location of her grave remains unknown, though it is likely in Pendleton District (modern-day Pickens, Oconee and Anderson counties).

Shadrach Nowland and wife "Anna Stacy" were recorded in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina selling land in December 1787:

p. 32-35 December 7, 1787 Shadrach Nowland and wife Anna Stacy (96 Dist.) to Edward Williams (same) for 50L S.C. money sold 200 acres on _____ Branch of Broad River grant May 6, 1769. Gov. William Tryon (N.C.) to Daniel McDaniel then in Tryon Co. NC. Wit: Stephen Nowland and Reuben Warren Signed: Shadrack Nowland and Anna S. Nowland's marks. Certified July 27, 1792 by S. Bethel.

A search of Daniel McDaniel's grants shows he was granted this property on the Suck Creek branch of Broad River: A. MCDANIEL, DANIEL-III, File no. 161, Grant no. 454;Bk. 23, page 487. Plat: survey'd for Daniel-III McDaniel 220 A. on Suck Creek of Broad River including his own improvement...Nov. 30, 1768. Zach Bullock, Surv.(No CB) Iss. May 6, 1769.

Suck Creek branches off of Broad River in the western-most section of Cleveland County, NC, right near its border with Rutherford County, and flows south into what is now Cherokee County, SC. Its southern tip is about a mile north of Thicketty Mountain. This suggests that in 1787 the Nowlands may have lived five or six miles northwest of what is now the city of Gaffney. Given the close proximity to Robert Stacy and the scarcity of their last name in the area, it stands to reason they are siblings. If she is indeed a daughter of George and Jemima Stacy, she was likely named for her mother's sister, Anne Edwards.

Anna Stacy Nowland last appears in the 1810 census. Her family subsequently moved to TN.

She had as many as 10 children according to census records. They would have been born between 1783 and 1810. Their names are unknown, but may include James, Nancy and Robert Nolen who later appear in census records in Tennessee. The large number of people named Nolin/Noland/Nolen and the seemingly endless misspellings and variants make it extremely difficult to track her descendants through records alone.

POSSIBLE CHILDREN

1840 Census SC-- Robert (in his twenties), John (in his twenties), Absalom (in his thirties) and James Nolin (in his thirties) in Spartanburg Co. In Hardin Co., TN there was Shadrac (in his eighties, with one female teenager, one female in her fifties), another Shadrac (the same man, listed in the pensioner's schedule, reported age 89) and a Rufus K. Nolen (who is in his thirties. But he is the son of a Littleberry Nolin, completely different line! They are from NC/VA. So it looks like anyone SC born should be related).

1850-1880 Census TN

1850 census

Nancy Nowlin b. SC 1788 (probably a widow of a Nowlin son). Possible daughter Lucy, 30, b TN, and possible Lucy children Mary, Paris, Julia and Zilphy, all very young. (Lewis Co., TN)

James Nowlin b. SC 1795 in household with a Jeepee Hopper and two other Hoppers (Bedford Co. TN). Jepee was male, so he doesn't appear to have been married.

Nancy Nolin b. SC 1800. Has a Nancy Nolin b. 1820 in household. Both b. SC. Census taker wrote a weird post script about these two: "These women live by themselves in a remote part of the county and are supported by the [text cut off]. (Dickson Co., TN) These two appear again in the 1860 census, age 61 (67?) and 40. The younger Nancy is reported "deaf and dumb" and the older is reported "insane." By 1870, Nancy the elder is 80 years old and the younger is 40. Nancy the elder reports "keeping house." Census taker says they are "idiotic" (marking the wrong column) and "deaf and dumb". By 1880, they are both gone from TN, presumed dead.

Robert Nolin, b. SC 1802. Wf. Ann b. SC 1805, children James, Elizabeth, Eliza, Robert all b. TN

(Hardin County, TN). Robert appears again in 1860 census of McNairy Co., TN, his wife now called "Gracie", both born SC, ages 63 and 60 (b. 1797 and 1800). No other people in home.

There was a Shadrach Nolen who was granted land by the Feds in Benton, County Alabama in 1849.

In Bibb Co. AL 1850 there was an Isaiah Nolen who was next door neighbor of James Lockhart and his daughter, Nancy. This Isaiah was supposedly a son of Stephen Nolen b. 1753, and thus nephew of Shadrach Nolen according to an online genealogy.

Anna married Shadrach Noland, son of Stephen Nolen and Susannah Smallwood, before December 7, 1787 in Ninety-Six District, South Carolina. Shadrach was born in 1752 in Frederick County, Virginia, died in 1841 in Hardin County, Tennessee, and was buried in Walker Cemetery, Hardin Co., TN.

Prior to the Revolution, Shadrach's father, Stephen Nolan, started buying up land in the Broad River region. He was named in an unrecorded plat for land not granted on Thicketty/Pacolet Creek, Broad River, Aug. 22, 1772, and as a grantee of property on Thicketty Creek, Craven Co., SC on Nov. 19, 1772.

Shadrach Nowland also started buying land in the pre-Revolution years. He was named in an unrecorded plat for land not granted, 100 acres on Little Saluda River, Big Creek, Colleton County South Carolina, Jan. 7, 1773, and an unrecorded plat for land not granted 100 acres on Pacolet River, Feb. 20, 1773.

Shadrach served in the Revolution 1776-1781 and thereafter settled in South Carolina. He likely married Anna Stacy around 1782, and their first child was born within a year or two, per census abstracts.

Oct. 1, 1784: State of South Carolina pays him 94 pounds sterling for service in the Waters Troop, Thomas's Regiment, Sumpter's Brigade from April 1, 1782 "to date hereof." (Stub entries to indents issued in payment of claims, SC Treasury)

During the war, he reported his father lived in Fairfield District and that he re-enlisted in 1780 at "Four Hole Bridge"--this is near Charleston, SC.

<https://scpictureproject.org/dorchester-county/four-holes-swamp-bridge.html>

Shadrach Noland served in the Revolutionary War of 1776. He is listed on the 1840 Census for Revolutionary War Pensioners on page 159. Age is given as 89 years old. Also on the South Carolina Indents #488 Lib M. Abstract from pension file states "soldier was born in 1752 in Frederick Co. Virginia. After the Revolution the soldier lived in Pendleton Co. South Carolina, then moved to Hopkins Co. Kentucky, to Dickson Co. Tennessee, and then on to Hardin Co. Tennessee where he applied March 17, 1834 having lived there some 12 years."

State of Tennessee Hardin County S.26649

On this the 17th day of March, 1834, personally appeared in open court before the Justice of the Court of Pl_____ and _____ of said county and state, Shadrach Nolen, a resident in the said county and state aforesaid, aged about eighty-two years, who being first duly sworn according to law doth on his oath make the following declaration in order to obtain the benefit of the provisions made by the Act of Congress passed June 7, 1832.

That he enlisted in the Army of the United States about the commencement of the war between Great Britian & the United States, but in what years he does not know, nor is he certain in what regiment of the line. He was enlisted by two recruitment officers named Panniel and Walton in the state of Georgia who were with others under the Colonial Government forces at Petersburg in the state of Georgia as Rangers to protect the frontier settlements from Indian encursions & outrages & whilst there fought as a Ranger as aforesaid under the British Government. The above named Panniel and Walton came there & this declarant & all the others, their forces enlisted with them except for the Captain & 1st Lieut. This declarant and the others enlisted with him were required to meet others who were enlisted at Ogeechey Fort in Augusta when the bounty was to be paid to each of us, we met the enlistments from Ogeechey Fort at the appropriate time & place and remained a day or two in Augusta & from there went directly to Savannah in Georgia and there joined the Americans in Savannah under Genl. McIntosh.

This declarant was there put under the immediate command of Captain John McIntosh, who was shortly after promoted to the office of Major & this declarant states that he served under the command about or at the same time of a Col. Harris. This declarant also states that there was then a ___ Abershaim(?) & a Col. Elbert. Whilst at Savannah this declarant and forty seven others _____ under the command of Lieut. Brown to assistance of Lt. Col. Richard Winn, who with 200 men under his command with forces some distance from Savannah & just before we reached the fort there were a body of Indians & a party of men called the Florida Scouts (refugees from the United States) attacked us and killed all the company except Lieut.

Brown, this declarant & two others, & the fort under the command of H_____ was taken. We then returned immediately to Savannah. Whilst stationed at Savannah this declarant was transferred to service on a River Galley which was commanded by Capt. Braddock, whose particular and special duty was to prevent the British vessel Otter(?) from landing her forces; while in the service on the River Galley, the forces of the British vessel landed on either Amelia or _____ Island & we also landed & had an engagement, and drove them back to their vessel after killing several, in that engagement a Captain Ward was killed belonging to our army. This declarant enlisted for a time of eighteen months. Shortly after the engagement above the Americans took the British pilot boat, the Otter, the British abandoning & escaping through the swamp and marsh. This declarant does not recollect that any other material event occurred & he returned to Savannah & when his time of service, to wit: 18 months expired, he got his discharge in Savannah and went to his Father's in Fairfield, South Carolina.

This declarant states that he served out the 18 months, the time for which he first enlisted. His residence was at the enlistment in Fairfield So. Ca. This declarant remained at home until he made a crop and a man by the name of Morgan, having enlisted for three years, & he coming home, employed this declarant to serve out the remainder of his, the said Morgan's time, as a substitute. This declarant joined the army under the command of Genl. Huges at the Four Holes _____ & joined Captain Hopkins company as a substitute as aforesaid and served in Captain Hopkins company, he thinks in the 6th Regiment & shortly afterward marched to Stono where the British then were. This declarant was in that battle (June 20, 1779, JF) on the left wing under the command of Col. Henderson & his Captain Hopkins was about at that time. Capt. Dogges in the left wing was killed.

Thomas Coatsworth Pinckney was engaged in service in that battle as a ally he thinks & commanded the left wing as he rode before us up to the battle ground. The American Army was then compelled to return. In the battle at Stono this declarant was slightly wounded in the leg, from thence we marched to Charleston where I was taken sick with the fever & laid in the hospital in Charleston about 3 months. Whilst sick in the hospital one of the declarants neighbors, being in Charleston with a waggon, the declarant got a furlough and was carried home in his neighbor's waggon. This declarant remained sick at home until his furlough expired & Major Allison came after this declarant but he continued so sick that he could not rejoin the Army until Charleston was taken by the British & the Army (May 1780 JF) being _____ did not get a discharge.

This declarant does not know precisely the length of time he served as a substitute for said Morgan, but he is confident he served six months. About 8 or 9 months after this declarant recovered from the sickness aforesaid this declarant enlisted for the term of ten months under Capt. Walters as a Horseman in Genl.

Sumpter's Brigade in South Carolina in Newberry District, he thinks at the house of said Capt. Philemon Walters, he thinks in June in the year 177__.

This declarant was shortly mounted & joined Genl. Sumpter on the Congaree under Capt. Walters & from thence marched to the fork between Saluda & Broad river, then this declarant with a hundred or more under Capt. Walters & Col. Richard Hampton were detailed to annoy the British under the command of Lord Rawdon who was then on march from Charleston to Ninety-Six to drive off Genl. Green who was then before Ninety-Six attempting to take Ninety-Six and a tory called Cragen.

This declarant and the others detached as aforesaid pursued the British who pursued Genl. Green & his army from Ninety-Six towards the fish dam ford on Broad River. Whilst in pursuit of the British we cut through their lines two or three times. The British pursued Green until they came to a little river, he thinks called Enoree which emptied into Broad River, from there they returned toward Charleston. Shortly afterward, this declarant rejoined Genl. Sumpter at Congaree. From Congaree Genl. Sumpter & forces marched to Orangeburg, though this declarant & others were in advance of the army and at Orangeburg the body of Tories killed a Sargeant Hart and one or two others of our men of the advance party who was commanded by a ally ____.

We remained at Orangeburg some and had frequent incursions into the surrounding country against the Tories who were in a swamp on Edisto & dispersed them, when Captain Alexander was wounded. We took a good many Tories prisoners at Cow Castle Swamp and brought them to Orangeburg and put them in jail. From Orangeburg this declarant & a man named Johnson was dispatched by Col. W. Hampton to Birch(?) Hall to Captain Simmons to procure provision for the Legislature which was then in session at Jacksonborough. Previous to this time this declarant was taken with the smallpox at Whetstone Mill & this declarant was sent to Col. Bob Goodens where he remained until he got well & before he joined the army under Genl. Sumpter the battle at Eutaw had been fought (Sep. 8, 1781-JF). He has no documentary evidence nor does he know a person who can prove his services.

This declarant served in the Revolutionary War in the whole two years, ten months, ten months of which time he served in the Calvary. This declarant was born in Frederick Co. Virginia & from the best information in the year 1752 but I have no record of my age. I have lived in Pendleton County South Carolina 22 years since the war. From there I removed to Hopkins County Kentucky from thence to Dickson County Tennessee & from there to Hardin County Tennessee where I now reside and have resided for nearly twelve years past.

This declarant received discharges from two of his terms of services mentioned above, the first & the 2 terms of services both which have been destroyed by getting wet in removing. This declarant is known Archelaus Walker James K. Martin who can testify as to my character for veracity & their belief of my services. He hereby relinquishes every claim whatever to a pension or annuity except the present and he declares that his name is not on the pension roll of the agency of any state.

Thomas Stacy is mentioned in the 1784 will of his grandfather, Simon Stacy, as the son of John Stacy.

He appears in the 1790 tax census of Brunswick County, Virginia, so he must have been at least age 21 (born 1769 or earlier). He appears there again in 1800.

He appears in the 1820 and 1830 census of Henry County, Virginia. By 1840 he was in Maury County, Tennessee where he is said to have died in or around 1841.

The only children included here are those that I could verify with original documentation. Some researchers believe Nancy Stacy (1811-1887) to be his daughter, but Nancy, mother of James Stacy, is found with him in the 1880 census and self-reports being a widow. So it is more likely that she married into the family.

Thomas married Keziah Braswell. Keziah was born on March 8, 1776 in Brunswick County, Virginia, died on February 23, 1867 in Hallettsville, Texas, and was buried in Stacy Cemetery, Hallettsville, TX.

Her gravestone reads: Sacred to the Memory of Our Mother, Keziah Stacy born March 8, 1776 died Feb. 23, 1867.

Henry County to Wit February term before me Peter Garland Justice of Peace for said County. Elizabeth Stacy coming of Lawful age and after being duly sworn deponeth & sayeth in that on the 28th day of December last The sd. Elizabeth intermarried with John Stacey-both coming of the aforesaid County, That after being married to the sd. Stacy in aforesaid they went to live with Mr. Charles Jones, he the said Stacy to be his overseer, but continued only about a week Her husband Stacy then carried the sd. Elizabeth to her Fathers where He remained with her but about one week. He the sd. Stacy then carried Her to his Brothers in Pittsylvania County where he continued to stay about one more week. He the said Stacy started with her the sd. Elizabeth to go to state of Kentucky but not with the appearance of intending to travel refusing from the relations of sd. Elizabeth to receive any food provisions for this journey. After setting off He did not go from the Father of said Elizabeth not one mile stopping at Her Brother Johns & the next day returned to the said Elizabeths Fathers Where He was offered Land to live and assistance to build a house to live in with provisions to live on. After the said house being nearly finished which was about another more or less a fortnight He the said Stacy without anger or provocation repeated what He had often before talked of that He intended to leave Her the said Elizabeth and accordingly went off and she the said Elizabeth has not been with him since and she the said Elizabeth further sayeth while she was with sd. Stacy a few days after marrying of him He began to declare & often repeated his dissatisfaction saying he had only married her to spite her Old Father from circumstances. She the sd. Elizabeth has reason to believe that He the sd. Stacy intended to kill or cripple Her. His ill designs in various instances was plainly discovered to the said Elizabeth by threats of whipping etc, etc. To wit about ten days after the sd. marriage at the house of Mr. Charles Jones she was thrown out of a high door & He the said Stacey loaded a gun & threatened her life but she the sd. Elizabeth got out of his way by takin (sic) refuge in a house & with aperture? fastening the door-He the said Stacey a few days before this threats to kill the said Elizabeth declared to her that he did not love her & that is He only married to fret her Father and wished some means to be fallen on & part them & proposed to the sd. Elizabeth to go to the man that married them & to acknowledge herself to be no woman that He might have cause to leave her. When He the ad. Stacey left his brothers in Pittsylvania she the ad. Elizabeth has cause & verily believing He Intended to drown her in Leatherwood Creek & Smiths River which water courses was between his said Brothers & her Fathers, & the sd. Elizabeth further says It was about two months after she was married to the said Stacy before he left her next He had many offers to be furnished with a home & conveniences to live on. Sworn to before me this 25th day September 1809

To the Honourable the Speaker and House of Delegates of the General Assembly of Virginia. The Petition of Elizabeth Stacy Humbly sheweth That your Petitioner on the twenty-eighth day of December one thousand eight hundred eight, was married to a man by the name of John Stacy of the County of Henry, who decoyed your Petitioner (who was not of Lawful age) from her Honest Respectable Fathers House, and indulged your Petitioner with tales the most flattering of their future Happiness. But a few weeks had elapsed when your Petitioner found that her confidence had been misplaced and her best hopes destroyed --- When the Lawful Husband of your Petitioner regardless of every matrimonial tie, began to practice on your Petitioner the most savage and ever Brutal Severities--- When the inhuman treatment of the said Stacy was made known to the father of your Petitioner, He (the father) made use of every possible means to soften the vicious disposition of the said Stacy, to save your Petitioner from ultimate ruin. Which only tended to increase the unexampled fury of the sd. Stacy, and consequently to heighten the fears of your Petitioner, Whose live (sic) was repeatedly threatened by the said Stacy and in two instances was greatly endangered by his attempting to shoot and drown her (sic). The situation of your Petitioner becoming thus desperate was obliged to Elope from her brutal husband, and take refuge in the House of an indulgent Father which was about two months after intermarriage between the said Stacy and your Petitioner, since which time the said Stacy (as your Petitioner has been informed) has been Strolling in different parts of the County & continues to malin (sic) your Petitioner with Violence and destruction from which circumstances your Petitioner prays that your Honourable body may pass a Law divorcing her from the said John Stacy and in duty bound she will ever pray. He is not the Benjamin Stacy (b. bef. 1775) who appears in the US census of 1820 and 1830 in Murfreesboro, Rutherford County, Tennessee. This is Benjamin (and Aaron) from the Benedict Stacy line.

Benjamin married Lucy Cooper on August 16, 1787 in Sussex County, Virginia.

William A. Stacy married Jinsey Stratson Sussex Co., VA Oct 14, 1802 (VA Compiled Marriages)

The surname Stratson may be a mistranscription of "Watson."

There is an unknown William Stacy who appears in York County, VA 1820 census: 100010-12020
On the same page is a John Stacy: 000010-00100

Both men were born ca. 1775-1794.

William married Jinsey Watson on October 14, 1802 in Sussex County, Virginia.

Alexander F. Stacy is proven to be a son of Edmund and Rebecca Harrison Stacy in his family bible. Also strongly suggested by the given names of his children Edmund, William Harrison Stacy and Rebecca Harrison Stacy. He moved to Madison Co., Alabama by 1821, when he was recorded marrying Rebecca Hathcock on Aug. 15. Alexander was listed in Hardeman County, TN in the 1830 census. After Rebecca's death, Alexander Stacy moved to Natchitoches Parish LA (by 1832). There his and Rebecca's first child, Martha Anne Stacy, married Joseph William Gardner of Tennessee. In the 1850 census of Natchitoches Parish, Alfred Hathcock, Alexander Stacy, and Joseph Gardner are all listed in the same area.

"In 1865 Alexander Franklin Stacy made a trip to Texas to find a place to locate. He went to Concho County, which adjoins Tom Green County on the east. He contracted pneumonia and died there in August of the same year, and is buried at Eden, about 45 miles southeast of San Angelo."

Much information about the names and birthdates of his children seems to come from a family bible record belonging to one of his granddaughters in the 1970s. See: <http://www.fgs-project.com/louisiana/groups/s/stacy-alexander-franklin.htm>

Stacy Family Newsletter No. 20 had a transcript of the A.F. Stacy family bible, which noted that Alexander Franklin Stacy was the son of Edmund Stacy and Rebecca Harrison. All dates given here--A.F. Stacy birth, births and deaths of his wives, births and deaths of his children that predeceased him--are from that family bible. He also gives information about his brother: "Willis A. Stacy departed this life Feb. 15, 1838. b. 1802" and his mother: "Rebecca Halloway, my mother, departed this life Mar. 22, 1850 about 75 years old." Evidently he had no other siblings, suggesting his father fell ill in 1802 or 1803 and died in late 1803.

Bible gives the births and deaths of his children as:

Elizabeth Jayne Stacy: Sep. 20, 1824

Mary Esther Stacy: Mar. 6, 1827 d. July 20, 1830

Sarah Catherine Stacy: Mar. 22, 1829 d. May 23, 1830 ("my dear little Sarah Catherine")

Edmund H. Stacy: Nov. 1, 1833 d. Dec. 14, 1846

Nancy B. Stacy: Dec. 1, 1836

William Harrison Stacy: Feb. 14, 1839

Margaret Stacy: Sep. 27, 1845 d. Feb. 5, 1846 ("the first child of Elizer Ann Stacy")

Willis married Mary Ann Knight on October 3, 1827 in Hardeman County, Tennessee. Mary was born about 1810.

Ann married William Fox.

Ann next married Edmund T. Powell Sr. Edmund was born in 1805 in Virginia and died after 1880 of Denbigh, Warwick County, Virginia.

233 M i. Edmund T. Powell Jr. was born in 1845 in Virginia.

Susan married Lewis E. Burcher, son of William Burcher and Elizabeth Wood, before 1834. Lewis was born about 1814 in Warwick County, Virginia and died before 1880.

Children from this marriage were:

234 M i. Robert Burcher was born in 1836 in Virginia.

235 M ii. Lewis Burcher was born in 1850 in Virginia.

236 M iii. M.C. Burcher was born in 1853 in Virginia.

An entry in the records of the overseers of the poor notes John Stacy was given money to make his coffin, June 4, 1832, so it's likely he didn't live long past this.

She is named in an oral history provided by Jannifer Gresham. Nothing else known.

She could be the Elizabeth Edwards who appears in the 1810 Stafford County, VA census, although this seems more likely to be a widow. 001001110

His existence comes from a history provided by Jannifer Gresham.

May be the Nathan Edwards who appears in the 1860 census of Brunswick County, NC, age 92, born in VA, living in the household of Edmund Edwards, farmer, age 44, born in NC. Since an Edmund Edwards married in 1846 in Isle of Wight County, this is likely to be a different line.

His existence comes from an oral history provided by a descendant, Jannifer Gresham.

He is likely the William Edwards who appears in Stafford County in Aquia in 1810, though the later William Edwards in 1820 and 1840 Stafford County are a younger man born in the 1790s.

William Edwards 1810 Aquia, Stafford Co. VA: 0001000000 (William age 26-45)

William Edwards 1820 Stafford Co. VA: 110100110001 (William age 18-26)

William Edwards 1840 Stafford Co. VA: 12100001-011001 (William age 50-60)

He may be the William Edwards who inherited the property of Jesse Edwards on Aquia Road in 1799. He owned this plot until around 1825 according to Stafford County historian Jerrilynn Eby's book Land of Herrings and Persimmons.

There is a William Edwards found in the census of Montgomery County, KY in 1850 who was a shoemaker, age 89, born in Virginia, wife Mary b. VA age 88, and a Nancy Nicks, age 44, born in NC. This would place his birth in 1760 or 1761. He fits but currently no way to confirm his identity given how common the name is.

In a short letter written to my mother, she questioned the truth of the stories she was hearing that we have some Indian blood in our lines. In a letter responding back to her by Wanda Andrako, a cousin to my father, she was told that Serena Adeline Bynum and her husband, Hiram Morton Stacey were BOTH of Indian descent. She said that Hiram's Indian Ancestry comes through the Sizemore line and his father (not sure what this means exactly... Is it through 2 of his lines or just the Sizemore line? I don't know yet). She also said his wife Serena was also of Indian descent. I found that the Sizemore in my line was the mother of Shadrack Meshack Stacey, her name was Mildred "Milla" Sizemore. She was a descendant of Edward "Old Ned" Sizemore who was Cherokee Indian (It is said Ned's real name was Ned Sixkillers). Shadrack Meshack Stacey also married Betsey Elizebeth Hawkins, it is said of her that she was an "Indian Maiden". It appears that there are some discrepancies over some of these stories, and skepticism on whether or not "Old Ned" is full blooded Cherokee Indian or not, but there are many more who have searched it and believe it. It's only been in these lines connected to these two, Bynum/Stacey that I have heard stories of Indian ancestry, which leads me to believe there must be some truth to it. I also remember my mother hiring a genealogist who told her that she believed my father had a Grandma (many greats back) that she suspected may be Indian because she found her buried in an Indian Cemetery. To this day, I do not know which Great Grandma she was talking about. I'd like to see some DNA evidence on these lines... I am as white as WHITE CAN BE! Hard to believe I could have Indian blood in me, but I do have high cheek bones and many in our family have strong facial features, sooo I suppose it's a possibility... I really don't know!!! :)

John Combs the Tory, a.k.a. John "May Have Been" Combs, is documented as a son of William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr. by the Estate File of William RIDGE. He may have been one of the John Combs in the early 1780s in Surry Co, NC (and/or may have been in Wilkes Co, NC); he may have been the John Combs who removed to Greenville SC, thence to Washington TN in the later 1780s where he may have been the John COMAY (mis-transcribed?) of the Dec 1787 Watauga Petition (Frontier Tennessee) listed only a few names below William Combs, William Combs, Jr., Henry Combs and Adam COUMB; he may have been the John Combs of the 1788 Sullivan Co, TN Militia List; he may have been the John

Combs with William Combs, Sr. in the 1790s and early 1800s in Russell Co, VA; he may have been the John Combs with the William Combs (who may have been William Combs, Sr.) in early Clay Co, KY (and/or the John Combs of Floyd Co, KY); and he may have been confused with his first cousin, RW John "8" Combs (a.k.a. John Combs the Patriot) and he may have been "The Other John Combs [III]", possible father of Jeremiah "Long" Combs, Shadrach Combs, Mason Combs and Millie Combs Smith) of East Kentucky, whom The Combes Genealogy... states were all children of a John Combs who may have been (but probably was not) the children of RW John "8" Combs by a putative, but totally undocumented, first wife.

In other words, so far, other than his Tory activity in Surry Co, NC, we know nothing of this John other than that he existed..... Research in Progress...

William Combs, Jr. (William, Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), b 1760-1765(?), possibly in Frederick Co, VA or Rowan Co, NC; possibly d in Greene Co, KY aft 1830; possibly m bef 1804, possibly in Russell Co, VA, Polly SKAGGS, b 1770-1774, d/o Henry SKAGGS, Sr.

William Combs, Jr., a.k.a. William "Possibly" Combs, is Totally Undocumented, both as a son of William Combs, Sr. and as the h/o Polly SKAGGS. Moreover, not only is it possible that he never existed, it's also more than possible that the William Combs, Jr. of Russell Co, VA was not William Combs of Greene Co, KY. However, he is most certainly worth "keeping an eye on" since he seems to have disappeared from Russell Co, VA, where he was listed as a Jr. with William Combs, Sr., abt the same time that William Combs, possible h/o Polly SKAGGS, appears in Greene Co, KY,* which also happens to be abt the same time that Benjamin and Ann Combs Stacy (brother and sister of William & Seth STACY Combs, Sr.) also appear in Greene Co, KY... Research in Progress...

*William Combs, Jr. is listed on the 1798 Russell Co, VA tax list, but not the 1799. William Combs is not listed on the 1797 Greene Co, KY Tax List, but does appear on the 1799 Greene Co, KY tax list. See also the Dec 1787 Watauga Petition (Frontier Tennessee) which included William Combs, Jr. listed immediately after William Combs.

Winnifred Combs (William, Mason, Sr., John, Archdale), b 1765-1770, probably in Frederick Co, VA or Rowan Co, NC; d aft 1840 in Wright Co, MO; m (1) bef 1784, possibly in Montgomery Co, VA, Samuel SUMNER; d 1787/1788, of Montgomery Co, VA; m (2) bef 1798, Rev. Robert HICKS, Sr., b 1765-1775, d aft 1840, probably in Indiana or Missouri.

Winnifred is documented as a daughter of William and Seth STACY Combs, Sr., and the wife of Samuel SUMNER and Robert HICKS by Stacy Family History, Dickey Diary Interviews and records and materials located in the applicable Combs Counties of Record herein. She probably m Samuel SUMNER by 1785 in Montgomery Co, VA (based on 1783-5 VA birth of daughter, Elizabeth per Wright Co, MO Census). The 1787 Montgomery Co, VA tax list includes Winnifred's first husband, Samuel SUMNER, and he is also recorded in 1788 as having been "kild, wife gone to Washington." It is not known if Winnifred went to Washington Co, VA or Washington Co, TN, but by 1797 she had married Rev. Robert HICKS, probably in Virginia (based on 1797-98 Virginia birth of son, James HICKS). Robert may have been a widower, and the Robert HICKS who m 1794, Washington Co, VA, Susannah THOMPSON. In 1800, Robert HICKS is found on a Russell Co, VA tax list with Winnifred's father, William, and by 1807, Robert was listed on Clay Co, KY tax lists. He continued to appear on Clay Co, KY tax lists through 1820, and on the 1810 and 1820 Clay Co, KY census enumerations. Robert and Winnifred and various of their children are also found in the records of Perry Co, KY following it's creation from Clay and Floyd Cos in 1820-1, but before 1830, had left for Indiana. The 1830 Jackson Co, IN census includes Robert HICKS and son-in-law, John CODY. Sons-in-law, George STACY (m Mary SUMNER) and Joshua RIPPEE (m Mary Sarah HICKS), are found on the 1830 Monroe Co, IN census. Robert HICKS patented BLM land in 1835, which was in Monroe Co, IN, in the same township and section as that of William Riley Combs (ancestry undetermined, but b KY in 1810), and only a few miles away from the 1838 Brown Co, IN patent of a Henry Combs. The 1840 Brown Co, IN census includes a Robert HICKS (record still to be read), and it is not known if this is him, nor whether he died in Indiana or Missouri. A number of descendants of Winnifred removed to Missouri in the 1830s and 1840s, and are found in the records of Ray, Pulaski and Wright Cos, MO. According to the 1889 Wright Co, MO biography of Winnifred Combs' grandson, Samuel CODAY, Winnifred died in that county "at a very old age." Samuel CODAY also states that his grandfather, Samuel SUMNER was a miller by occupation and that he was "waylaid and shot;" however, the Dickey Diary Interview of Winnifred's grandson, John S. Combs (s/o Jeremiah C. "Chunky" and Synthia SUMNER Combs), states that he was killed "resisting arrest" (not necessarily mutually exclusive).

NOTE: The dates and burial information for Mary Everage and her children came from their entries on Findagrave. Family appears to be thoroughly documented with extant tombstones that yielded original dates. Mary's full death date came from her Revolutionary War widow's pension application. The application gives somewhat conflicting accounts of her marriage date and place and age at marriage. See: <https://revwarapps.org/w6723.pdf>

Mary Everage, who married William Cornett, the pensioner, was raised by her grandmother, Judith (Judah) Tolson Stacy Pettit. William and Mary were married in Sullivan County, Tennessee "but a short distance from where his [Thomas Cody] father lived" which was in Russell County, a few miles from the present state line. Samuel Cornett was a brother of William Cornett, and his land in Russell County adjoined William and Sinai Stacy Cody, David and Nancy Cody Thompson, William and Sythe Stacy Combs, and James Davidson, father of and Elizabeth Stacy who married Simon Stacy, all on Big Moccasin Creek (26)

Death date does not appear on his tombstone; it is from his widow's Revolutionar War pension application. His widow stated on May 31, 1850 that her husband "died 14 years ago on November 26." She also notes that her parents informed her that she was 22 years old when she married Cornett in Washington County (now Tennessee), and that in 1850 she was 80 years old. "Some time during this month 58 years ago she married William Cornett." She had no record of the ages of her children but said there were ten and named those then living as Sally McDaniel, Polly Beshears, Robert Cornett, Nancy Combs, Roger Cornett, Rachel Cordill, Samuel Cornett, Nathanael Cornett, Joseph Cornett. Joseph Everage migrated to Perry County, KY before 1830, where he appears in census records on the same page as the Combs, Cornett, Brashears and Stacy families. He is in his forties and has four sons and two daughters.

Some genealogists claim his date of birth as February 7, 1780 but list no source.

Her husband last appears in the 1840 census in the same place. The census indicates David is in his thirties while his wife is in her forties.

“Judah Morelock” age 51, appears in 1850 census of Greene County, TN. Evidently widowed. She does not appear in the 1860 census, but reappears in the 1870 census in the same place, age given as 73.

Judith married David Morelock. David was born in 1800-1810 and died after 1840 of Greene County, Tennessee.

There is much debate among descendants as to this William and Rebecca Stacy. Some believe William was Zachariah Stacy, or William Zachariah Stacy, son of William Stacy of Hawkins Co., TN who after trouble with the law, (counterfeiting) left the area in a hurry and went to Jackson Co., TN where he had relatives, Uncle Ben and family. He had left behind a wife and two children. He then married Rebecca Griffy [Griffin] and had a large family in IL (briefly) back to TN and then on the trail of tears as Rebecca was an indian, then left trail at Springfield, MO. -- <http://www.combs-families.org/archives/1997/97-03-16.htm>

Marriage record from "Tennessee Marriages, 1780-2002." Ancestry.com

He is likely the "William Stacy" who appears in the 1840 census of Hawkins County just two homes away from Wright Mullins. His age is given as 30-40. This is consistent with the William Stacy, born TN, found much later remarried to a Rebecca from Tennessee in Douglas County, MO in the 1870 census. He is age 69, wife is 65 and they have two small children in their home by the last name of Huff that were born in Missouri.

DNA testing of descendant Donald G. Stacy of Oregon, Robert Lee Stacy of CA and Hiram Stacy of NY indicate William Zachariah belonged to the G haplogroup.

The 1812 Clay Co, KY marriage bond of George STACY & Mary SUMMERS [sic] included a parental consent signed by both Robert HICKS and Winnifret [Winnifred] HICKS, which identified Mary as Robert's "stept daughter" (Original document can be viewed at Barbara Stacy Mathews' Stacy Journal site).

Ed Note: For many years, it was mistakenly thought that it was George STACY whose grandmother was a Combs; however, George was the s/o Simon STACY, Jr. (s/o Simon & Judith TOLSON Stacy (Pettit), Sr.) and Elizabeth DAVIDSON (d/o James II of Russell Co, VA).

--Combs-Families.org. <http://www.combs-families.org/combs/assoc/stacy.htm#ben2>

The George Stacy who appears in Wright Co. MO in the 1850 census is very likely the same George who married Mary Sumner/Summers from the oral history of Clarice Stacy, since Wright County is mentioned as the location this line settled after Kentucky. See <http://www.combs-families.org/combs/assoc/stacy.htm>

In the 1850 census his children are listed as Judy, 22, Sylva, 17, and Mary, 13, all born in Indiana.

1860 census. Wright Co. MO:

George Stacy M 67 Virginia
Mary Stacy F 53 Virginia
Julia Stacy F 33 Indiana

George married Mary Sumner, daughter of Samuel Sumner and Winnifred Combs, in 1812 in Clay County, Kentucky. Mary was born about 1796 in Tennessee and died after 1860 of Wright County, Missouri.

Mary SUMNER was b ca 1796, TN (1850 Wright Co, MO Census) and may have been the d/o a SUMNER other than Samuel, indicating a possible marriage for Winnifred between those to Samuel SUMNER and Robert HICKS.

Not a perfect fit, but could be the John Stacy who appears in Clay County, KY 1830 US census: 1100100000000-11001. John is b. 1800-1810. Simon Stacy Jr. seems to be the only Stacy who passed through Clay County who could be his father. Simon Stacy appears in the Clay Co., KY tithables in 1807.

A Jesse Stacy appears in the 1830 census of Perry County, KY near Benjamin Stacy who is listed as 50-60 years old (Benjamin Stacy Jr. would have been 67, but the Perry County Benjamin is known to be him via other records). Census records give his age as 30-40 years. He has seven children. He is a strong candidate for a son of Benjamin Stacy Jr., given the age and proximity. There are a number of Combs families on the same page as well.

This same Jesse appears very near a Shadrack Stacy in Perry County, 1840 census. By then his age is given as 40-50 years. He has a wife and eight children.

Jesse Stacy cannot clearly be discerned in later census records.

127. James Downey “Rough Jim” Stacy (Simon Jr.4, Simon3, John2, Simon1) was born about 1800 in Russell County, Virginia, died on December 30, 1866 in Perry County, Kentucky, and was buried in Bradley Cemetery, Knott County, KY.

Death record of his son S.L. Stacy names his parents as James Stacy, b. VA and Polly Whitley. His daughter Nancy’s next of kin named her parents as James Stacy and Polly Owens.

James Stacy was married in March 1822. It does not name his wife. (Kentucky, County Marriage Records, 1783-1965).

According to whoever wrote his Findagrave.com entry, he was known as “Rough Jim” Stacy. His wife was said to be the daughter of William Whitley and Frances Lee Owens. He lived near his father on the North Fork of the Kentucky River.

1850 US census, Perry County, KY. James was a farmer:

Polly Stacy 48 b. VA
James Stacy 21 b. KY (all children)
William Stacy 17

James married Mary Whitley in March 1822 in Perry County, Kentucky. Mary was born on February 2, 1802 in Russell County, Virginia, died on July 3, 1896 in Perry County, Kentucky, and was buried in Bradley Cemetery, Knott County, KY.

128. William “Big Billy” Stacy (Simon Jr.4, Simon3, John2, Simon1) was born about 1801 in Russell County, Virginia and died after 1870 of Knox Creek, Buchanan County, Virginia.

“On 20 July 1835 Big Bill sold to Joseph Back 100 acres of land on Quicksand Creek, Perry County, KY (now Breathitt County). William and Rebecca left this area soon after the sale (note from Lorene Profitt database.) He lived near his father, on the north fork of the Kentucky river. He moved to Buchanan Co., Va. in about 1835. He was nicknamed “ Big Billy” being 6’ 6” tall and weighing 350 pounds. He was buied on the Big Sandy River, in Buchanan County, Va.”

Several genealogists claim his birthdate as June 10, 1810 and his death as 1893, but none of them are original sources.

The unincorporated community of Stacy, Virginia (Buchanan County) was evidently named for this Benjamin Stacy.

Benjamin married Rhoda Davis about 1834. Rhoda was born about 1810 in Kentucky and died after 1870 of Garden, Buchanan County, Virginia.

Shadrack married Sarah Combs on December 16, 1832 in Lawrence County, Indiana. Sarah was born on September 12, 1812, died on September 18, 1892 in Perry County, Kentucky, and was buried in Vicco Baptist Church Cemetery, Perry Co., KY.

He was a farmer on Clinch River. According to the book Mead Relations: Mead-Brown-Powell-Keyser, Kelly-Trumbo-Austin, Toler-Prichard: Virginia-Kentucky, his children were: Warren, Margaret, James S., Dicie, Simeon, Ephraim Mayfield, Mary, Joseph, Noah S., Abraham, Mahala, Matilda. Evidently, family accounts claim Joseph's parents came to Russell County from Shenandoah County. Since his father appears in Washington (precursor to Russell) in 1783, it is probable Joseph Kenton Kiser was born in Shenandoah County, but later children were born in Washington County and after 1785, Russell County.

Joseph married Mary Ellen Childers. Mary was born on April 9, 1787, died on April 14, 1891 in Russell County, Virginia, and was buried in Old Carbo Cemetery, Carbo, VA.

Abednego married Mary Jessee on September 8, 1803.

John married Nancy Long about 1814 and they had the following children:

Joseph 1814-1824

Andrew Anthony "Andy" 1816-1905

Elizabeth Mary 1818-

Matilda "Tilda" 1820-1891

John Mulkey "Jack" 1824-1907

Nancy 1826-1907

Margaret 1828-

Harvey G 1830-

Melvena "Malarney" 1832-1910

James D "Black Jim" 1840-1909

John married Nancy Long. Nancy was born on March 4, 1796 in Russell County, Virginia, died on June 12, 1868 in Russell County, Virginia, and was buried in Kiser Cemetery, Carbo, VA.

Children named in his will as Elizabeth, Gould, Winnie, Washington, Naman, Nimrod.

Ephraim was born in 1790, most likely in what was then Washington County, Virginia to Joseph & Susannah (Stacey) Kiser/Keyser. Some have suggested, even his daughter Rachel Kiser, that he was born in Shenandoah County, Virginia. We know that his father Joseph had settled in Washington County by 1783 (later to become Russell County). It could be possible that Joseph & Susannah were back in Shenandoah visiting when Ephraim was born.

On 16 Sept 1813, at the age of 23, Ephraim enlisted in Russell County, Virginia into Lt. Andrew Caldwell's Company of the Military Infantry, 72nd Regiment of Virginia Militia. They then marched to Norfolk where they were attached to the 4th Virginia Regiment. On 22nd of October 1813 he was then transferred to Capt. George W. Camp's Company of the Military Infantry, 4th Regiment of Virginia Militia and served as a cannoneer in the artillery on Craney's Island. He served for 6 months and honorably discharged on 13th of March 1814. The government granted him 80 acres of land in New Mexico for his service but he never established his claim.

When he returned to Russell County he found that his brother Abednego was preparing to serve in the war as well. Ephraim tried to persuade him not to go by telling him that he was a single man without a family to support and the he would gladly serve in his place. Abednego refused by saying, "No brother, you've served

Ephraim married on 31 Aug 1815 in Russell County, Virginia to Mary "Polly" Sutherland, daughter of James & Sarah (Buchanan) Sutherland. Her father was an immigrant from Scotland.

They were both members of the Dumps Creek Baptist Church. All their children except Elijah, were baptized.

Mary became sick in September of 1857 and lived until 21 Mar 1858 when she died of dropsy. Ephraim died of black erysipelas (an infection on his arm) on 11 Oct 1885. A doctor Harden treated him.

The book Mead Relations: Mead-Brown-Powell-Keyser, Kelly-Trumbo-Austin, Toler-Prichard: Virginia-Kentucky confirms most of this data, although it appears less thorough, and includes another daughter, Sarah Jane and does not include John.

Susannah married Stephen Sargeant Plunkett Skeen. Stephen was born in 1788 in Newberry County, South Carolina, died in 1870 in Wise County, Virginia, and was buried in Skeen Cemetery, Wise, VA.

Charles married Nancy LaForce. Nancy was born about 1803 in Botentourt County, Virginia and died in 1891 in Russell County, Virginia.

Children listed in Mead Relations: Mead-Brown-Powell-Keyser, Kelly-Trumbo-Austin, Toler-Prichard: Virginia-Kentucky as William and Daniel Hurst. Book says this family moved to Kentucky.

Census records usually give Meshack's birthplace as Tennessee, though some say Virginia. He was likely born during his father's brief foray into Hawkins County, TN, where he was recorded in land transactions of 1792. He later went back to Russell County, VA, where Meshack Jr. grew up and remained (later in Scott County) until after 1820.

Stacy Fork, Kentucky is evidently named for Meshack Stacy Jr., who traveled through the Cumberland Gap from Tennessee and settled the area in the early 19th century.

This same Mashack found in 1860 census of Morgan County, KY. He was still alive in 1870 Morgan County, age 84 with his wife, working as a farmer, just a few homes away from a Henderson Stacy who has a son named Meshack.

Given that Mashack lived in both Hickman and Morgan Counties, KY, he is likely the father of the Stacy men that appear in the early 19th century in those areas.

A Meshack Stacy appears in the Morgan County, KY federal census of 1850. Born TN, age 59, wife Vilett age 53 b. VA, dau. Nancy age 17 b. KY. Also appearing is a James Rosa, age 21 b. KY.

Census records show from 1820 through 1850 this Meshack is the only Meshack Stacy of this generation.

Meshack married Violet Barker on December 6, 1815 in Scott County, Virginia. Violet was born about 1797 in Virginia and died after 1870 of Caney, Morgan County, Kentucky.

Most census records give her birthplace as VA; 1860 gives it as NC. The death certificate of her son Henderson Stacy names his parents as Meshack Stacy and Violet Barker.

"I'm Tom Lee and am happy to find a cousin in John McMullen, especially with the great website he has devoted to our Robinson ancestors, among others. Benjamin Robinson (b. ca 1720 Stafford Co, VA; d. 1785 Fauquier Co, VA) is our common ancestor. Benjamin and Sarah Stac(e)y Robinson's daughter Catharine is my ggg-grandmother. John has indicated the lineage backward from Benjamin which he covers very thoroughly on his website. Catherine was born in Overwharton Parish, Stafford Co, VA, 8 Feb 1752. She died in Fauquier Co, VA, probably 1822, but there is some question in this regard (a subject for discussion at a later time?). She married a Campbell, whom I believe was George Campbell of Prince William Co, VA. I descend from their son Nathaniel and Sarah "Sally" O. Pettit (m. 17 Jan 1805 in Fauquier Co, VA). Nathaniel served as a soldier from Virginia in the War of 1812. He and his family relocated first to Shelbyville, KY, then to Washington Co, KY, where Nathaniel died 16 September 1823. Sally married second Andrew Gwin 26 July 1831. Sally, daughter of Thomas and Be(t)hethelon Owens Pettit, was born 3 April 1786 in Fauquier Co, and died 16 Aug 1861 in Washington Co, KY. She and Nathaniel had 8 children."

Amos was enumerated as "James Stacey" in the 1850 census and in 1860 as Amos. Could be James was a first or middle name, or that the census taker misheard a twangy "Amess" as "James". His gravestone and family bible give his name simply as Amos.

The Robert Stacy family bible gives Nancy Stacy's birthdate as Jan. 25, 1785.

She married John "Jackie" Quinn about 1807 in South Carolina and moved to Bibb County, Alabama between 1815 and 1821, according to census and later accounts of the births of her children. The family moved on to Mississippi by 1834.

There is a Quinn family tradition that Nancy Stacy Quinn was scalped by the Indians about 1835 and left for dead. She made a miraculous recovery and lived with what remained of her scalp an additional 25 years.

Just months before her death, Nancy Quinn was recorded in U.S. census of 1860 living in Starkville, Oktibbeha Co., Mississippi, so it is presumably there that she died.

Her gravestone reads: "Nancy Quinn died Oct. 15, 1860, age 73 years. Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God." She was buried on the Quinn family farm with her husband and at least two of her children.

Nancy married John Quinn, son of Hugh Quinn, about 1807. John was born in 1785 in York County, South Carolina, died on January 6, 1877 in Whitfield, Mississippi, and was buried in Quinn Cemetery, Sturgis, MS.

John Quinn's birth is confirmed as 1785 in South Carolina in the 1850, 1860 and 1870 U.S. census. The Quinn family were from York County, so he was likely born there. In 1850 and 1860 he reported his employment as farming, but seemed to be retired by 1870. Quinn genealogists generally believe him to be the son of Hugh Quinn.

He could be the John Quin who appears in the 1810 census of Spartanburg District, SC with a wife and four children, although this man was recorded having 3 sons and 1 daughter, which seems inconsistent. No other John Quinns in York or Union counties seem as likely to be him, unless he is the "John Quin Jr." of York. He doesn't seem to have been recorded in the 1820 or 1830 census in SC, AL or MS.

A John Quinn appears as a witness in Spartanburg District land transactions in 1806 and 1815, the latter involving Robert Stacy.

On Dec. 1, 1826 he purchased 80 acres in Bibb County, AL from the federal government. (U.S. General Land Office Records, 1776-2015)

By 1834 he was recorded owning land in Mississippi. (U.S., Indexed Early Land Ownership and Township Plats, 1785-1898). Oddly enough, he had just patented 39 acres in Bibb County, Alabama in April 1834. (U.S. General Land Office Records, 1776-2015)

He appears in a number of census records, including the Mississippi state census of 1841.

In the 1850 federal census, John and Nancy, both 65, b. SC, were living with their children Oliver, 17, Robert, 14, Nancy, 16, and Julia, 22, born in AL, MS, AL and AL, respectively. John Quinn was a farmer. Given the significant disparity in ages, Nancy Stacy Quinn was too old to have given birth to these children, suggesting that aside from Julia they are probably grandchildren.

His wife Nancy died in 1860 and by 1870, he had remarried to a Susan, age 66, born in South Carolina. According to his widow Susan's pension application, John Quinn served in the War of 1812 in Capt. Joe Greene's Company, SC militia.

Since his last known residence was Whitfield, Oktibbeha Co., Mississippi (1870 U.S. census), it is likely there that he died.

His gravestone reads: "John Quinn, died Jan. 6, 1877, age 93 years. The memory of the just is blessed."

338 F i. Mary Jane Quinn was born about 1808 in South Carolina and died about 1840 of Oktibbeha County, Mississippi.

Sarah married Pressley Davis in 1850 in Mississippi. Pressley was born about 1829 in Tennessee and died about 1853 of Oktibbeha County, Mississippi.

Sarah next married John W. Christopher about 1866. John was born in January 1841 in Alabama and died after 1900 of Oktibbeha County, Mississippi.

Robert Stacy family bible clearly gives Delilah's birthdate as Oct. 8, 1788 but also says her first name is "Delia," though several different spellings are found in the bible alone.

Delilah Lockhart was named and presumed living May 15, 1849 in a newspaper bulletin that requested the children of Robert Stacy make any objection to his land sale known before August 6. She was deceased by Oct. 26, 1850 when the census of Bibb County, Alabama was enumerated, showing her husband, age 64, and daughter Nancy, age 35. Curiously, she does not appear in the 1850 census mortality schedules, which recorded deaths that occurred between June 1849 and May 1850.

Delilah married James Lockhart about 1804 in South Carolina. James was born about 1786 in Ireland and died in 1854 in Bibb County, Alabama.

A biography of James Lockhart's grandson, Joab Lockhart, indicates the family moved from South Carolina to Alabama when Stacy Lockhart was age 14. This would have been around 1819. (Source: History of Arkansas, pg. 774, Grant County. 1889)

A James M. Lockhart, age 37, from County Antrim, Ireland, enlisted in the army for a five-year term on Nov. 6, 1821 at Washington DC. His trade was listed as "farmer," complexion fair, hair sandy, eyes blue. He was named among a list of men from Charleston. He was discharged July 26, 1822. (Register of Enlistments in the U.S. Army, 1798-1914; National Archives Microfilm Publication M233, 81 rolls; Records of the Adjutant General's Office, 1780s-1917, Record Group 94; National Archives, Washington, D.C.)

James was enumerated in US census of Bibb County, Alabama on Oct. 26, 1850. Reportedly age 64, born in Ireland, farmer. Only his daughter Nancy, 35, b. SC appears in his household, indicating his wife was deceased.

James Lockhart was deceased by Sep. 28, 1854 when his estate was probated. Oliver Stacy Quinn (O.S. Quinn) and Bryant Lee purchased a number of items from his estate on Oct. 11, 1854. (Probate Court Special Term, Nov. 20, 1854; Alabama Wills & Probate Records, 1753-1999, Vol. G)

Sally Stacy's birthdate is fully legible in the Robert Stacy family bible, and given clearly as Jan. 16, 1790.

"Sally, wife of James Boyd" was named in her father's 1840 will.

She appears in the 1860 census in Tunnel Hill, Whitfield County, Georgia. By then "Sarah Boyd" was reportedly age 76. Her husband was listed as 70 and her son Martin was head of the next household, age 30. James Boyd Jr. was in the same township.

Sarah "Sally" Stacy Boyd appears in no further records.

Sally married James Boyd about 1810. James was born in 1788 in North Carolina and died after June 26, 1860 in Tunnell Hill, Georgia. James Boyd first appears in Hall County, Georgia in the 1820 US census. 100010-400100. Evidently he had four daughters and one son (Colonel Hopson) by 1820.

In 1830, he appears again in Hall County. 2101001-1030001

By 1840 the family moved to Murray County. 01310001-0011001

"James Boyd Sr." appears in the 1850 US census of Murray Co., Georgia. Age 62, farmer b. NC; Sarah Boyd, age 60, b. SC; Martin W. Boyd age 20, b. GA; Thomas K. Boyd, 17, b. GA. His son, James Boyd Jr., is in the very next household.

362 M viii. Martin W. Boyd was born about 1830 in Hall County, Georgia, died about 1896 in Rocky Face, Georgia, and was buried in Mill Creek Community Cemetery, Mill Creek, GA.

Martin married Sarah Cox on February 9, 1855 in Whitfield County, Georgia. Sarah was born about 1840 in Georgia and died about 1872 in Whitfield County, Georgia.

Martin next married Mary S. Bowen on November 23, 1873 in Whitfield County, Georgia. Mary was born on May 29, 1850 in Georgia, died on December 2, 1938 in Whitfield County, Georgia, and was buried in Mill Creek Community Cemetery, Mill Creek, GA.

363 M ix. Thomas K. Boyd was born about 1833 in Hall County, Georgia and died after May 23, 1864.

William Stacy's birth date is _____ 16, 1792 in the original Robert Stacy family bible, birth month having been rendered illegible by water damage. However, a transcript of the bible's births page that Miriam Stacy McLeod received from "a descendant of Thomas Jefferson Stacy" gives William's date of birth as December 16. The bible gives his death date as April 11, 1817.

William Stacy served under Capt. Michael Gaffney from October 1, 1814 until March 7, 1815 in the South Carolina State Militia.

William's estate entered probate on April 6, 1818. His father was administrator of his estate in Apr.-Aug., 1818 and apparently adopted his young daughter, Denicy as her presence is noted in the Robert Stacy household in the 1820 and 1830 census and her birth is recorded in the family bible with Robert's children as Dec. 15, 1814.

William married Jennie Leek, daughter of John Leek and Sarah, about 1813. Jennie was born about 1795 and died on an unknown date.

The identification of Jennie Leek as the wife of William Stacy comes from Leek genealogists. John Leek was a neighbor of Robert Stacy on the west side of Broad River. He lived further south, in Union District.

The child from this marriage was:

364 F i. Denicy Stacy was born on December 15, 1814 in South Carolina and died between 1830 and 1840 in South Carolina.

Denicy married Thomas Davis. Thomas died after August 4, 1840.

In his father's family bible, only the year of birth is completely legible; Miriam Stacy McLeod's pre-water damage transcript states Robert was born Oct. 16, 1795.

We can glean from census records that Robert Jr. was still living at his father's farm at age 25 in 1820, moving to Alabama within six years.

His marriage intention to "Eadith Lee" was recorded in the civil register of Bibb County, AL as Dec. 28, 1826, with the marriage occurring on Jan. 9, 1827 (pg. 136, Bibb Co. AL marriage records).

Curiously, he is recorded having again married an "Edith Lee" on Nov. 2, 1843 in Bibb County (AL County Marriage Records; marriage bond signed Oct. 31, 1843 by Robert Stacy and Hopkins Lee, presumed father of bride). Census records indicate this second Edith was born in 1818, indicating she must be a separate person.

Robert served as a grand juror in Bibb Co. AL in session of August 1, 1829. (Commissioner's Court Minutes, Bibb Co. AL, 1828-31, pg. 24.)

On Jan. 10, 1832 he was granted federal land in Bibb County, but had been living there several years prior.

Robert was enumerated in the 1850 US census on the west side of the Cahaba River in Bibb County, Alabama. Farmer, age 56, b. SC; Edith 31 b. SC; Hopkins, 23, Irvin, 17, Albert 13, Noah 6, Milton 5, Marion 4, Albritha, 15, Melissa 3, Lucretia 1 all born in AL. Also in household is laborer Absolom Duncan, 25.

He makes his final appearance in the 1860 US census of Bibb County, age 64, with his wife Eady, 42, and children Noah, Milton, Marion, Malissa, Lucretia, Margaret and Caroline.

Robert's estate papers indicate he evidently took ill in March 1861, at which time he began racking up expenses for doctor visits and treatments for himself and his wife. He and the family were treated with quinine, volatile liniment, and morphine several times over the year. There were other doctor expenses for "vaccinating all the family" on Jan. 5, 1863, and "morphine for Mrs. Stacy" on Feb. 9, 1863, suggesting a severely contagious illness had swept through the home and taken Robert.

Robert's death date is not clear, but it occurred between July 2, 1862, when he bought 20 bushels of corn from Daniel Kornegay, and September 4, 1862, when his estate administrator, James M. Williams, entered into bond. The estate appraisal on September 13 showed a few slaves, livestock and farming equipment along with shoemaking and blacksmithing gear.

The estate papers note that the family's serious medical expenses led to unpaid debts that persisted in court until 1879.

Robert married Eadith Lee, daughter of Hopkins Lee, on January 9, 1827 in Bibb County, Alabama. Eadith was born about 1808 in North Carolina and died about 1837 in Bibb County, Alabama.

Children from this marriage were:

365 M i. Hopkins Stacy was born about 1827 in Bibb County, Alabama and died before September 14, 1854 in Bibb County, Alabama.

Hopkins married Jane Parker on February 19, 1851 in Bibb County, Alabama. Jane was born on December 25, 1833 in Alabama, died on January 16, 1903 in Bibb County, Alabama, and was buried in Haysop Baptist Church Cemetery, Eoline, Alabama.

366 M ii. Ervin Stacy was born on March 7, 1833 in Bibb County, Alabama, died on June 10, 1898 in Bibb County, Alabama, and was buried in Pleasant Hill Cemetery, Bibb County, AL.

Ervin married Edith Melvina Parker on October 28, 1867 in Bibb County, Alabama. Edith was born on March 9, 1839 in Bibb County, Alabama and died after January 30, 1921 of Bibb County, Alabama.

367 F iii. Tabitha Ann Stacy was born about 1835 in Bibb County, Alabama and died after 1880 of Jefferson County, Alabama.

Tabitha married Isaac J. Caddell on August 25, 1853 in Bibb County, Alabama. Isaac was born in 1833 in Alabama, died after 1880 of Jefferson County, Alabama, and was buried in Warrior Cemetery, Warrior, Alabama.

368 M iv. Albert Stacy was born about 1837 in Bibb County, Alabama and died after 1850 of Bibb County, Alabama.

Robert next married Edith Lee on November 22, 1843 in Bibb County, Alabama. Edith was born in 1818 in North Carolina and died in 1876-1880 of Bibb County, Alabama.

In various census records she gave her birthplace as both North Carolina and Alabama.

Her husband's probate papers and subsequent debt suit dated Jan. 3, 1876 name his entire family, including his wife "Edith Stacy" and notes she was a resident of Bibb County, Alabama.

Also named are:

Irvin Stacy of Bibb County; Tabitha Coddell, wife of Isaac Coddell; "the children of Hopkins Stacy N. L. and R. L. Stacy of Bibb County"; Milton Stacy of Bibb County; Marion Stacy of Bibb County; Leuentia Parker, wife of Henry Parker of Bibb County; Melissa Mills [sic], wife of Ezekiel Mills of Bibb County; Margaret Oglesby wife of Samuel Oglesby of Bibb County; Cornelia Stacy, a minor, lives with her mother in Bibb County.

Edith Stacy was deceased before the 1880 census.

Children from this marriage were:

369 M i. Noah Stacy was born about 1844 in Bibb County, Alabama and died after 1860 of Bibb County, Alabama.

370 M ii. Milton Stacy was born in May 1845 in Bibb County, Alabama and died on July 20, 1914 in Bibb County, Alabama.

371 M iii. Marion Stacy was born on March 7, 1847 in Centreville, Alabama and died after 1920 of James, Alabama.

372 F iv. Malissa Stacy was born on April 22, 1848 in Bibb County, Alabama, died on September 9, 1921 in Lauderdale County, Mississippi, and was buried in Clay Memorial Cemetery, Cuba, AL.

Malissa married Ezekiel Miller on December 17, 1868 in Bibb County, Alabama. Ezekiel was born on April 12, 1845 in Alabama, died on June 16, 1922 in Lauderdale County, Mississippi, and was buried in Clay Memorial Cemetery, Cuba, AL.

373 F v. Lucretia Stacy was born on May 6, 1850 in Bibb County, Alabama, died on January 1, 1908 in Bibb County, Alabama, and was buried in Centreville Memorial Cemetery, Centreville, AL.

Lucretia married Henry Parker on February 5, 1873 in Bibb County, Alabama. Henry was born on March 6, 1826 in North Carolina, died on October 12, 1897 in Bibb County, Alabama, and was buried in Centreville Memorial Cemetery, Centreville, AL.

374 F vi. Margaret Austelle Stacy was born on February 1, 1851 in Bibb County, Alabama, died on March 3, 1914 in Jefferson County, Alabama, and was buried in Green Pond Presbyterian Cemetery, Bibb Co., AL.

Margaret married Rev. Samuel Simpson Oglesby on December 17, 1872 in Bibb County, Alabama. Samuel was born on October 17, 1845 in Alabama, died on December 26, 1925 in Jefferson County, Alabama, and was buried in Green Pond Presbyterian Cemetery, Bibb Co., AL.

375 F vii. Cornelia Alice Stacy was born in February 1855 in Bibb County, Alabama and died after 1900 in Bibb County, Alabama.

Cornelia married James Oglesby on November 26, 1886 in Bibb County, Alabama. James was born in February 1843 in Alabama, died on August 8, 1921 in Centreville, Alabama, and was buried in Pleasant Hill Cemetery, Bibb County, AL.

In the Robert Stacy bible, only the year of George Stacy's birth-- 1797-- is legible. The Oct. 20, 1797 birthdate comes from Miriam's S. McLeod's info, a transcript of the bible by a descendant of Thomas Jefferson Stacy from many decades ago. George's death date appears in the bible's death page as Feb. 17, 1832.

George Stacy was recorded three times in South Carolina deeds: the first, when he bought 200 acres from Henry Kennedy on Nov. 29, 1816, likely to establish his homestead on Gilkey Creek. (Original grant Feb. 26, 1800 to Samuel Sparks). The second time was as a witness in his father's land transaction of Dec. 28, 1820 (Findal W. Robertson to Robert Stacy Sr.) He sold his Gilkey Creek property to his father in 1829.

Judging by census records of his children, George appears to have moved to Pickens County, Alabama in 1827 or 1828; he appears in the 1830 census in Pickens County. He died there just two years later.

George Stacy's children are named in Robert Stacy Sr.'s probate papers as Hopson, William, Miles, Eliza, Elizabeth and George Stacy. They are named in his widow's probated estate in January 1853 as "Hopson Stacy, Eliza (consort of Samuel Fitch), Elizabeth (Wife of William B. Akins, administrator), Nancy Stacy, William Stacy, Miles C. Stacy, and George Stacy, all age 21 except Nancy Stacy who has Mark Russell as her guardian."

Given his significant land ownership, George was likely a farmer.

George married Elizabeth about 1816. Elizabeth was born about 1791 in South Carolina and died in December 1852 in Fayette County, Alabama.

Genealogists have speculated that her maiden name may have been Hopson based on the name of her first child, and the fact that there was a Hopson family in Spartanburg District, South Carolina. The name Hopson also appears among the children of Sally Stacy Boyd.

Appears in 1850 US census of Fayette Co., AL as Elizabeth Stacy b. SC age 59. Also, in household are Miles C. Stacy, 29 b. SC, Nancy Stacy, 19 b. AL, and George W. Stacy, age 4, b. AL.

Children from this marriage were:

376 M i. Hopson Stacy was born on July 3, 1817 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina, died on September 24, 1897 in Lamar County, Alabama, and was buried in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Lamar Co., AL.

Hopson married Lucrecia about 1842. Lucrecia was born on August 8, 1821 in Alabama, died on July 2, 1903 in Lamar County, Alabama, and was buried in Mount Pleasant Cemetery, Lamar Co., AL.

377 M ii. Miles C. Stacy was born about 1821 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina and died about 1862 in Rankin County, Mississippi.

Miles married Christine about 1845. Christine was born about 1835 in South Carolina and died after 1870 of Rankin County, Mississippi.

378 M iii. William Stacy was born about 1823 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina and died after January 1853.

379 M iv. George P. Stacy was born in September 1825 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina and died after 1900 of Cleburne County, Arkansas.

George married Charlotte Hardin in 1850 in Chickasaw County, Mississippi. Charlotte was born in January 1833 in Alabama and died after 1900 of Cleburne County, Arkansas.

380 F v. Eliza Stacy was born about 1827 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina and died before 1880 in Lavaca County, Texas.

Eliza married Samuel Fitch before January 1853 in Alabama. Samuel was born about 1824 in South Carolina and died after 1880 of Lavaca County, Texas.

381 F vi. Mary Emily Elizabeth Stacy was born on March 8, 1828 in Pickens County, Alabama, died on March 16, 1883 in Lamar County, Alabama, and was buried in Macedonia Cemetery, Shaw, Alabama.

Mary married William B. Atkins before December 18, 1850. William was born on December 12, 1827 in Tennessee, died on December 1, 1902 in Millport, Alabama, and was buried in Macedonia Cemetery, Shaw, Alabama.

382 F vii. Nancy Stacy was born in 1832 in Pickens County, Alabama and died after January 1853 in Alabama.

Birth date in Robert Stacy family bible is illegible, but year is probably 1799, same as the Miriam McLeod transcript of the dates before the water damage, which gives a date of Jan. 26, 1799.

In 1830, Elizabeth's whereabouts are unknown, but by 1840 she was back living with and probably taking care of her elderly father. She had no known husband and was named as "Elizabeth Stacy" in her father's probate materials (1849). As of May 15, 1849, she was said to be living out of state in a newspaper announcement by Chester that beckoned his siblings to reply to the proposed estate sale of their father.

Robert Stacy's family bible clearly gives Amelia's birthdate as April 14, 1802.

The Ducalion Yeagher family bible notes that Ducalion's wife Sarah was the daughter of "Henry and Amelia Gillum." He is probably the Henry Gilliam who appears in the US census of 1830 in Pickens County, Alabama with a wife, one daughter and another adult male. They migrated to Alabama some time before the first of their first child in August 1829, per later census records.

Bryant Lee and "Milly Gillum" were married in Bibb County, Alabama on January 6 or 8, 1837. It was a second marriage for both--Bryant Lee had been married to the deceased Effie Clark in 1827. Source: Alabama Select Marriages 1816-1942 via Ancestry.com

Amelia Lee was last recorded living in the 1860 US census of Bibb County, Alabama. Near Isaac Caddell and Robert Stacy Jr. West Side of Cahaba River, July 18, 1860.

Amelia married Henry Gillum about 1828. Henry was born about 1800 and died about 1835 of Pickens County, Alabama.

Children from this marriage were:

383 F i. Sarah Ann Gillum was born on August 1, 1829 in Alabama, died on May 25, 1917 in Sherman, Texas, and was buried in Kingston Cemetery, Kingston, TX.

Sarah married Rev. Ducalion W. Yeagher on December 5, 1849 in Bibb County, Alabama. Rev. was born on April 12, 1828 in Alabama, died on April 24, 1890 in Kingston, Texas, and was buried in Kingston Cemetery, Kingston, TX.

384 F ii. Narcissa Jane Gillum was born on September 1, 1831 in Alabama, died on August 20, 1895 in Oktibbeha County, Mississippi, and was buried in Big Creek Cemetery, Oktibbeha, MS.

Narcissa married Lemuel D. Friday on November 6, 1849 in Bibb County, Alabama. Lemuel was born on November 8, 1825 in South Carolina, died on July 24, 1903 in Mississippi, and was buried in Big Creek Cemetery, Oktibbeha, MS.

385 F iii. Mary E. Gillum was born on October 17, 1833 in Alabama, died on November 30, 1904 in Tyler County, Texas, and was buried in Mount Pisgah Community Center, Woodville, TX.

Mary married Absolum L. Duncan on December 16, 1850 in Bibb County, Alabama. Absolum was born on May 10, 1826 in South Carolina, died on January 6, 1859 in Tyler County, Texas, and was buried in Mount Pisgah Community Center, Woodville, TX.

Amelia next married Bryant Lee, son of Hopkins Lee, on January 6, 1837 in Bibb County, Alabama. Bryant was born about 1805 in Cumberland County, North Carolina and died before October 5, 1872 in Bibb County, Alabama.

Bryant Lee's likely father, Hopkins Lee, was living in Cumberland County, North Carolina in the 1800 and 1810 census, so it is likely that Bryant was born there. Census records agree his birth occurred around 1805 in North Carolina. Some genealogists give it as November 1, 1804.

The 1860 census notes he lived on the west side of the Cahaba River in Bibb County, Alabama. He was employed as a farmer, his wife was born in South Carolina and his children with her were all born in Alabama.

Amos Stacy (or "Joseph Amos Stacy", according to his descendants) was almost certainly named for his uncle Amos Austell. He had slightly older first cousin of the same name, born to George Stacy in Camden Dist., South Carolina who settled in Monroe County, Alabama. His date of birth are confirmed in both his father's bible and his own as March 11, 1804. His bible also gives his death date as Dec. 17, 1876.

Amos first appears in records as a witness to his father's purchase of the Lawson's Fork property near Spartanburg City on Oct. 10, 1822. His whereabouts for much of his early life is unclear: Amos is not a head of household in either the 1830 or 1840 census, and does not seem to have been enumerated in his father's household.

Amos reappears in Pickens County, Alabama by 1844 where he married a woman 22 years his junior and settled down for a few years before removing to Choctaw County, Mississippi in 1847 or 1848 (according to census records showing his childrens' birthplaces). He lived directly next door to his brother, Isham. Both men were farmers. Some time after 1867 he moved a final time to Texas where he is buried.

Marriage Certificate

This certifies that the rite of Holy Matrimony was celebrated between Amos Stacy of Pickens Co, AL and Elvira Allen of Pickens Co, AL on the 11th day of April 1844 at Miles Allen's by James T. Burdine, J.P.

222. Isham Stacy (Robert<sup>4</sup>, George<sup>3</sup>, John<sup>2</sup>, Simon<sup>1</sup>) was born on January 12, 1805 in Spartanburg District, South Carolina, died on May 18, 1885 in Choctaw County, Mississippi, and was buried in Spring Hill Cemetery, Choctaw County, MS.

Isham Stacy was also called "Isam" (family bible) and "Isom" (descendant genealogist info). The Robert Stacy bible gives his birthdate as Jan. 12, 1805. He was likely named for Isham Harrison, judge and sheriff of Spartanburg District at the turn of the 19th century. According to numerous census records, he was a farmer.

Isham Stacy stayed in South Carolina until at least 1830, when he last appears in the US census. He likely moved to Bibb County, Alabama in 1832 or 1833. According to the 1850 US census of Bibb Co., Alabama, Julia was his last child born in South Carolina; the next child, Robert, was born in Alabama, as were all of his children with Catherine.

On Sep. 20, 1839, "Isam Stacy of Bibb County, Alabama" bought 39 acres in Bibb County. (Source: Doc # 21688. Original data: United States. Bureau of Land Management. Alabama Pre-1908 Homestead and Cash Entry Patent and Cadastral Survey Plat Index. General Land Office Automated Records Project, 1996.)

He appears in the 1850 US census of Bibb County, Alabama: Isam Stacy, 46, b. SC; Catharine 46, b. SC; Sally, 20, b. SC; Juliann 17, b. SC; Robert, 16, b. AL; Dilly, 15, b. AL; Nancy 11, b. AL; Sylvester, 9, b. AL; Luther C. 7, b. AL; Penina 6, b. AL; Mary J. 4, b. AL; Richard M. 1, b. AL. Also Samuel Thompson, age 22, b. AL. His oldest son, Pleasant M. Stacy appears right next door.

Isham bought 39 acres in Choctaw County, Mississippi from the federal government's land office on Oct. 1, 1859 and relocated. (Source: Original data: United States, Bureau of Land Management. Mississippi Pre-1908 Patents: Homesteads, Cash Entry, Choctaw Indian Scrip and Chickasaw Cession Lands. General Land Office Automated Records Project, 1997.)

He appears in Choctaw County in the US census of 1860. His first wife died the following year, and he remarried about 1865 to a woman 35 years his junior. They had two children.

By the 1880 census, the elderly Isham Stacy was living with his son Luther in Supervisor District 1, northwest of what is now Chester, Mississippi.

Isham Stacy died in Choctaw County, Mississippi in 1885. His gravestone reads: "Isham Stacy Jan. 12, 1805 May 18, 1885. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

Isham married Catherine Robinson about 1823. Catherine was born on July 13, 1803 in South Carolina, died on June 30, 1861 in Choctaw County, Mississippi, and was buried in Spring Hill Cemetery, Choctaw County, MS.

Her gravestone reads: "Catherine Stacy July 13, 1803 June 30, 1861. Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

Tradition has it that her maiden name was Robinson. Note that I've included her maiden name here, as well as the middle names of all of her children, even though they are abbreviated in virtually every official record. The extensive record of middle names points to the probable existence of a bible or other family documentation they were derived from, particularly since they line up well with the abbreviations found in documents.

The Robert Stacy family bible clearly states the birth date of "Dicy Stacy" as Nov. 6, 1806. In most records she is called Dicy or Dici but in the 1880 census she is called "Lou" and even "Ludy" in her son James's death certificate.

The Pearsons are an unusual family. They had only four children, three of whom never married. Only oldest son Robert, who moved to Texas, had a family. The remaining three stayed in South Carolina near their parents. Two of the children are buried in Gaffney's Oakland Cemetery, so it is possible the parents are as well, in an unmarked grave.

Dicy married James L. Pearson, son of Uphemia Lawrence, about 1835. James was born in 1806-1807 in South Carolina and died after 1880 in Draytonville, Union County, South Carolina.

James L. Pearson was co-executor of the will of his father-in-law, Robert Stacy. He lived in Spartanburg and later Union County, South Carolina where he made his living as a farmer.

Mary married John Jamison about 1879. John was born on September 30, 1840 in Union District, South Carolina, died on April 14, 1915 in Gaffney, South Carolina, and was buried in Oakland Cemetery, Gaffney, SC.

Robert and Sally Stacy's youngest son, Martin Chester Stacy, was born on August 1, 1811 on his father's sizeable plantation northeast of what is today the town of Gaffney. He was the only one of his siblings who remained in South Carolina. He married a German/Scotch-Irish woman from nearby Draytonville on December 28, 1838 and they had their own family of thirteen children. He attended Mt. Ararat Church in his wife's native Union District for many years.

Chester is only recorded buying land twice, once from his father on Feb. 25, 1846 (228 acres) and the second from I. B. Mintz in 1856 (295 acres). The 1846 land had been purchased by his father in 1840 and bordered Robert's homeplace to the northwest, situated on both sides of Cherokee Creek. This property is now occupied by the industrial park on Commerce Drive, and referencing a 1907 NGS map shows his likely house was approximately where Core Molding Technologies now sits. Chester relocated his home to what is now Shelby Highway in 1856, and gave 25 acres of his Cherokee Creek land along with his original house to his son Amos before July 1890 (as mentioned in his will).

When his father died in February 1849, Chester and James L. Pearson executed the old man's will. Besides the troubling legal disputes that arose over that (and, around this time, the death of his sister Delilah), Chester was informed on October 27, 1849 by Martin Pennington of a plot to kill him by four of his father's slaves: Lucy, Abe, Henry, Gilly and Harry, slave of his neighbor Robert Lipscomb.

According to Pennington's deposition, the conspiracy began three nights earlier when Lucy asked Pennington if he would buy her and grant her freedom after the co-conspirators murdered Stacy. The death of Robert Stacy had temporarily put the ownership of his slaves in a gray area while they were property of his estate, but they would inevitably belong to either Chester or end up sold on the market. Evidently, Lucy had acquired $250 and sought to take advantage of the probate period to win her freedom by killing the only man in a position to prevent that from happening.

Lucy was supposed to go into Chester's house and make up some tale to get him outside, whereby the others would murder him; if she failed, they would raid his home and do it there. Instead, Pennington told Chester of the plot on October 27, and when the slaves arrived at Chester's home the following day, they found an angry and allegedly drunk Chester brandishing a gun. "I'll be damned if I don't shoot!" he warned Gilly as they approached. The plan foiled, Chester went immediately to court and the conspirators were put on trial. On November 2, they were all found not guilty, partly because Harry had a strong alibi (having been drinking at someone else's house at the time) and the case hinged on the shaky testimony of Pennington alone.

The fate of the slaves is unknown, but it seems likely that Chester sold the conspirators. According to the 1860 slave schedules, Chester owned 9 slaves, ranging in ages from 3 to 46, but only the oldest would have been an adult in 1849.

In addition to farming, Chester also operated Stacy Ferry about 1,800 feet from his house on Stacy Ferry Road, (a section that is now Gaston Shoals Road). He was also a blacksmith, and had a small gold mine on his property, according to his estate inventory. Chester sold a 278 acre plot in 1864 to a neighbor near Stacy Ferry, Thomas Little. This was likely his property near Cherokee Creek.

It is evident that Chester's homeplace was on Broad River: A newspaper biography of Richmond Stacy noted that he was born at "the Stacy place on Broad River" in 1870; in 1896, another newspaper account said Samuel A. Stacy visited his mother at her home "on Broad River"; Frederick Graham Stacy's obituary states he was born "on his father's farm Northeast of Gaffney." The death certificate of a daughter of Thomas Jefferson Stacy (a Mrs. Wilkins) claims her father was born "on Broad River." As late as 1935, the property was still known as the "Chester Stacy home place near Broad River", and whoever owned it rented it to a black tenant named Arthur Epps, (who, incidentally, may be some relation to the "King" Arthur Epps of the Drifters). One of Chester's great granddaughters also claimed his home on Broad River was still standing in the 1990s, but failed to indicate exactly where before her death.

Where exactly Chester's house stood can be gleaned from a few clues. In March 1903, F.G. Stacy, acting "as executor of the estate of M.C. Stacy," declared his intent in The Gaffney Ledger to sell the property explicitly referred to as "the Home Place", described as being in Cherokee County "on both sides of the Stacy Ferry Public roads, bounded by Broad River and the lands of T.W. Little, R.E. McCraw, H.M. Sarratt, S.S. Ross, and others, containing 277 and a half acres more or less." Stacy Ferry Road is now called Shelby Highway.

The strongest candidate for Chester's home is a stone foundation house located at 943 Shelby Highway. According to a 1907 postal map, this home would have been the closest residence to Stacy Ferry. It is also the only home on that section of Shelby Highway old enough to be his. It is known to have been owned by the McDowell family as early as 1935, but it shows indications of earlier construction, including a hand-dug well and hand-hewn frame timbers. As of 2019, there was an old crumbling barn across the street and slightly further south, which may have been built by either Chester or the Ross family, who lived nearby.

According to one of his great grandchildren (Sylvia Stacy Berry), Chester was present in Richmond, Virginia on April 4, 1865, the day Abraham Lincoln made an unannounced visit to meet there with his generals shortly after the city fell. Large crowds greeted the president, who was protected only by a few sailors as he made his way through the throngs, warmly greeting well-wishers, including former slaves. Chester picked up his young son Amos, who was 6 years old, and put him on his shoulders so he could see Lincoln through the crowd.

Why Chester was in Richmond with at least one of his children while the city was ravaged by war remains a mystery. It is possible he was there to inquire about the fate of his sons upon hearing that the Confederate capital had fallen. Five of his sons, the youngest only age 16, served in the CSA army. Two of them never made it home.

As of 1882, Chester was known to be a deacon at Mt. Ararat Baptist Church, where his father-in-law was one of the very first deacons. Chester wrote his will on July 13, 1890, at the age of seventy-eight, and died five years later at age eighty-four. According to his obituary, Stacy was "prominent in church work" and "died at his home on Broad River on Tuesday afternoon." The paper also notes he had several prominent children and left "an honored name to those who bear it." He is also mentioned in the papers of Gaffney town founder Capt. Michael Gaffney as being one of the founding fathers of the town.

Chester was buried in the cemetery of Providence Baptist Church, but was exhumed a few years later to make room for the newly-constructed Providence Road, and reinterred at the Stacy plot in Gaffney's Oakland Cemetery. His gravestone says he was born Aug. 11, 1811 and died Sept. 16, 1895, both of which are probably incorrect. Multiple sources, including his probated will, family records, and even the local newspaper give his date of death as Tuesday, September 17, 1895. Multiple records, including his father's bible, also give his date of birth as August 1; no others say August 11. His birth date, marriage date and births of his children were recorded in the family bible of Edwin Booth Stacy.

A 1949 account in The Gaffney Ledger states that the descendants of M.C. Stacy were having a reunion at "Martin's farm" on Shelby Highway, but that may refer to a popular picnicking venue also called Garrett Martin's farm. The full blurb, from Aug. 23, 1949:

"First Stacy Reunion-- A reunion of the Stacy family, descendants of Marion Chester Stacy, who was born August 1, 1811, and who died September 17, 1895, will be held next Sunday at Martin's farm on the Shelby highway, it has been announced by M. C. Stacy, of Gaffney. The first Mr. Stacy came to this section from Virginia. All relatives and friends are cordially invited to attend the reunion, which, Mr. Stacy said, will be the first ever held by the family.”

Martin married Peninah Peeler, daughter of Isaac Peeler and Mary Gilkey, on December 28, 1838 in Union District, South Carolina. Peninah was born on September 14, 1818 in Union District, South Carolina, died on April 7, 1910 in Gaffney, South Carolina, and was buried in Oakland Cemetery, Gaffney, SC.

The first child of her father's second marriage (to Mary Gilkey, 1817), Peninah was half German and half Scotch-Irish and grew up on a farm in rural Spartanburg District, South Carolina. She wed Chester Stacy in 1838 and was his wife for nearly 57 years. After her husband's death (1895), Peninah left the farm (possibly to her son, Amos) and moved to the city with her eldest daughter into the home of her son.

Peninah moved in to Gaffney city's Ward 3 with her son Fred and grandson Clarence (son of Billy Stacy). She was enumerated there in 1900. The orphaned children of her son Amos also lived there at one time. Curiously her father's birthplace is given as MD, rather than the usual NC.

Her grave stone says she died April 7, 1910 and her obituary confirms the date. She had been in poor health for a long time due to her advanced age. Her lengthy obituary noted that she loved to attend the Baptist Church when health permitted, and described her many traits-- the warmth of her genuine hospitality, a kind, indulgent disposition, unselfish solicitude. She lived in the city of Gaffney, possible in the home of her late son, Fred G. Stacy. She died quietly in her bed surrounded by her "girls and boys" as she called them, though most were in middle age. She had lived 91 years.

1. William Stacy, son of Simon Stacy, was born in November 1609 in Broad Blunsdon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on November 23, 1609 in Broad Blunsdon, Wiltshire, England, died in January 1694 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England, and was buried on January 8, 1694 in Wootten, Wiltshire, England.

THE STACYS OF WILTSHIRE

There was a small Stacy clan in the county of Wiltshire as far back as the reign of Edward III: Richard Stacy and Henry Staci were recorded in the Wiltshire tax list of 1332. Parish registers were kept across the country beginning in 1538, and the first Stacy record in Wiltshire was the burial of "Jone" (Joan) Stacy in Salisbury in 1563. Until 1600, there were fewer than 20 Stacy christenings in surviving records. Among them was Simon, who was christened Jan. 13, 1580 in Stanton Fitzwarren, near Swindon. The marriage of his parents, Thomas Stacy and Joan Hollman on Aug. 4, 1576 in Stanton Fitzwarren is the earliest recorded event in the ancestry of Simon Stacy, immigrant to Virginia.

According to parish records, Simon had a son named William, christened on Nov. 23, 1609 in Broad Blunsdon, on the outskirts of Swindon. Simon's fate is unknown, but a man of the same name was the subject of a postmortem inquest in nearby Oxford in 1609 or 1610. William Stacy would later spend about 15 years in Swindon before and during the English Civil War, while it was a sleepy backwater of around 600 farmers, tanners and woolmongers. The town had a purely barter-based economy, with farmers heading to the markets to trade with artisans during the week. Wiltshire was a hotbed of Parliamentary sentiment, with much of the county opposed to the rule of King Charles I.

William Stacy of Swindon, Wiltshire, England had several children who were christened in Christ Church parish records:

William Stacy, christened Mar. 3, 1632.

John Stacy, christened Apr. 5, 1635.

Simon Stacy, christened Apr. 13, 1640.

Elizabeth Stacy, christened Feb. 26, 1642.

Richard Stacy, christened Feb. 11, 1644.

Abraham Stacy, christened Oct. 14, 1647.

Names of early Maryland settlers in MD Archives named Stacy/Stacey:

William Stacy and wife Enne, transported 1661.

Martha Stacy, transported 1661.

Sarah Stacy, transported 1662.

Richard Stacy transported 1663 (as reported in 1675)

John Stacey, transported by June 1670.

Edward Stacy, transported 1678.

William, John, Richard and Simon Stacy are all recorded living in Calvert County, MD 1661-1687. Simon, William and Richard show clear connections to each other in records. William is named as an heir to Richard Stacy in his will of 1674; William and Simon Stacy are named as debtors in the estate of George Beckwith in 1676; Simon was named guardian of the orphans of Thomas Kemp in 1684, who is named in the probate papers of William Stacy in 1676; Kemp also claimed headright for transporting Richard Stacy from England to Maryland in 1663; and finally, John Stacy appears separately in Calvert County court records of 1682 and 1684/5. There is more than enough evidence to suggest these Calvert Stacys are brothers.

A Jane Stacy, "wife of William Stacy" was buried in Donhead St. Mary April 17, 1673, along with Rebeckah "daughter of William & Jane Stacy" the following year.

A William Stacy was buried January 8, 1694 in Wootton, Wiltshire, England, just outside of Swindon. Witnesses Anne Bowles and Robert Horder. No age or other relationships recorded for this burial. A William Stacy, son of Symon Stacy was christened Nov. 23, 1609 in Broad Blunsdon, Wiltshire, just outside of Swindon. If they are the same man, that would mean he lived 84 years, 1 month and 15 days. The baptism is almost certainly the father of the Swindon Stacys; the death is less certain due to the distance of Donhead St. Mary from Swindon. However, he seems to be the only William Stacy in Wiltshire in this time period, so it seems likely to be him.

NOTE: There is a baptism for a Hannah Stacy in 1671 who also died in 1671, Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire as well as a Jane Stacy in the baptism index born and died in 1673. These are the children of Thomas (d. 1685) & Elinor Stacy.

William married Jane about 1631. Jane was born about 1610 in England, died in April 1673 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England, and was buried on April 17, 1673 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England.

"Jane, wife of William Stacy was buried April 17 [1673]" (Donhead St. Mary with Charlton, St. John the Baptist, Wiltshire, Eng.)

Children from this marriage were:

+ 2 M i. William Stacy was born in March 1632 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on March 3, 1632 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died before June 17, 1676 in Calvert County, Maryland.

+ 3 M ii. John Stacy was born in April 1635 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 5, 1635 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died after February 6, 1684 of Calvert County, Maryland.

+ 4 M iii. Simon Stacy was born in April 1640 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 13, 1640 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on January 23, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

+ 5 F iv. Elizabeth Stacy was born in February 1642 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on February 26, 1642 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, died in August 1689 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England, and was buried on August 15, 1689 in Wootton, Wiltshire, England.

+ 6 M v. Richard Stacy was born in February 1644 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on February 11, 1644 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on April 14, 1674 in Patuxent Manor, Calvert County, Maryland.

+ 7 M vi. Abraham Stacy was born in October 1647 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England and was christened on October 14, 1647 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England.

+ 8 F vii. Rebeckah Stacy was born after 1648 in England, died in March 1674 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England, and was buried on March 12, 1674 in Donhead St. Mary, Wiltshire, England.

Second Generation (Children)

2. William Stacy (William<sup>t</sup>) was born in March 1632 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on March 3, 1632 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died before June 17, 1676 in Calvert County, Maryland.

Christened March 3, 1632 in Christ Church, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, first recorded child of William Stacy.

Marriage: "Will. Stacy of St. Mary's Parish & Elizabeth Patter [Potter?] of this Parish md. June [8?], 1656." (St. Peter & Paul, Marlborough, Wiltshire, England). Not certainly the same William Stacy, but a very strong candidate. Marlborough is just 10 miles south of Swindon.

William Stacy immigrated to Maryland with his first wife ("Enne") in 1661 as indentured servants. They served 1661-1665. "Enne" may be a mis-transcription of "Ehz" which was a common abbreviation of Elizabeth in the 17th century.

May 28, 1662: "William Stacy and his wife... transported in Anno 61" by Edward Keene.. "Know all men by these present that I Edward Keene do assign over all my right and title of these rights due to me for William Stacy and his wife, likewise John Henson, a Servant, bought of William [Bundy?] some 5 months ago unto John Geere as Witness my hand 28th May 1662."

Dec. 13, 1665: "William Stacey demands land for the Freedom Right of himself and Enne his wife, Sworne unto by William Stacie before me_ Thomas Furman. I William Stacie do Assigne over unto John Boage myne and my wife's Rights to Land as witness my hand this Thirteenth of December One Thousand Six Hundred Sixty Five."

January 23, 1666: William patented land called "Chesam Bays" in Calvert County at the head of Hunting Creek, off the east side of the Patuxent River. The property may have extended as far east as the intersection of Wilson Rd. and Dares Beach Rd., and probably did not reach the river, as it was said to border the land of John Abbington to the west. William was described in these records as a planter. Description of his property is as follows:

"Laid out for William Stacey of Calvert County a parcell of land by assignment of one hundred acres from John Knapp and one hundred acres more from James Thompson, the Asignee of Richard Webb, the said land called Chesham Boys lying on the east side of Patuxent River in the woods at the head of a creek called Hunting Creek on the east side of the land of John Abbington and north side of the land of James Wilson, beginning at a marked poplar with a line drawn north by the road line of the said Abbington, for length three hundred and seventy perches on the north with a line drawn east for the length of one hundred perches with a line drawn south to the head of the said Wilson and with the said headline to the first bound tree, Containing and laid out for two hundred acres of land more or less to be holden of the Manner [Manor] of Calvert.”

Dec. 20, 1674: John Mayo suit against William Stacy and Mary Stacy dismissed. Mayo had claimed Richard Stacy promised him 1100 lbs. tobacco on Feb. 15, 1672 and he was owed by his estate. The defendants claimed he was already paid up and the court agreed. (Proceedings of the Provincial Court, 1670/1-1675, Vol. 65, pg. 408. <http://aomol.msa.maryland.gov/000001/000065/html/am65--408.html>)

William Stacy listed as debtor along with Simon Stacy in probate of George Beckwith, October 1676. He and Simon Stacy were both listed as having been paid by the estate July 13, 1677. This is interesting since William was already deceased.

July 21, 1676: William Stacy's estate inventory listed in Prerogative Court, Liber 2, Folio 44, Inventories & Accounts, MD (no county).
<https://msa.maryland.gov/megafile/msa/stagsere/se1/se4/000000/000019/html/o8547.html>

His estate inventory consists of a few modest household items, mostly kitchenware and a bible, suggesting he was a man of modest income. Subsequent court documents in October 1676 and January 1676/7 names his widow "Mary, relict of William Stacy" called in one record "Mary Young" and subsequently married to a Thomas Brown by early 1677.

WILLIAM STACY OF HENRICO CO. VA

A William Stacy lived here in 1686-88 when he “privately departed this county” leaving a bunch of debts. No known relation, but there aren’t many William Stacys in this part of the colonies at the time, so chances are pretty good it is the same William. A William Stacy married a “Mary Lynn” in Henrico County on Sep. 3, 1683 according to “Dodd, Jordan, comp.. Virginia Marriages to 1800. Electronic transcription of marriage records held by the individual counties in Virginia.”

NOTE: WILLIAM CALVERT ESQ (1643-1682) was the son of Leonard Calvert (1610-1647), first governor of Maryland, and nephew of Lord Cecil Calvert (1605-1675), founder and first Lord Proprietor of Maryland. William was a burgess, Principal Secretary of MD, Attorney General of Md, member of the Assembly of MD, and Colonel in the militia. He was both attorney to William Stacy and original owner of land in York County, VA later owned by Simon Stacy. Calvert drowned in rough waters trying to ford the Wicomico River in May 1682.

William married Elizabeth Potter in June 1656 in Marlborough, Wiltshire, England. Elizabeth was born about 1635 in England and died after December 23, 1665 in Calvert County, Maryland.

Elizabeth Potter named in marriage record of William Stacy in Marlborough, Wiltshire, England. May be the “Enne” wife of William Stacy who was transported to Maryland in 1661. She died between Dec. 23, 1665 and April 1674.

William next married Mary Young before 1674. Mary was born before 1653 and died after 1677 of Calvert County, Maryland.

April 14, 1674: Mary Stacey named administratrix of Richard Stacey of Calvert County in his will.

June 17, 1676: Mary Stacey of Calvert County, widow of William Stacey of Calvert County, was granted administration on his estate. Appraisers: Thomas Kemp, Thomas Lawson. William Groome to administer oath. (NOTE: Simon Stacy was ordered guardian of orphans of the above Thomas Kemp in Prerogative Court in 1684).

Sep. 16, 1676: In Maryland Prerogative Court: Mary Young of Calvert County, relict and administratrix of William Stacey, exhibited inventory. Not known if Young was her maiden name, but given that just a few weeks later she is the wife of Thomas Brown, it seems more likely than the odds that she was married to another man just a few weeks. (Abstracts of the Testamentary Proceedings of the Prerogative Court of Maryland).

January 1, 1676/7: Thomas Brown of Calvert County who married Mary, relict of William Stacey of same, petitioned to have Maj. Thomas Trueman of Calvert County release her son, Bazill Stacey. (Maryland Prerogative Court Session of 1676-77)

The child from this marriage was:

+ 9 M i. Bazill Stacy was born after 1665 in Calvert County, Maryland and died after 1677 of Calvert County, Maryland.

3. John Stacy (William<sup>1</sup>) was born in April 1635 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 5, 1635 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died after February 6, 1684 of Calvert County, Maryland.

June 4, 1670: John Stacy named among a group of people who were transported from England by "Henry Hosier of Calvert County" who was awarded 1,050 acres for transporting himself and 20 others.

November 1682: the Maryland legislature awarded John Stacy 110 pounds of tobacco for undisclosed reasons, among a large list of people paid for public debts.

4. Simon Stacy (William<sup>1</sup>) was born in April 1640 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 13, 1640 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on January 23, 1718 in York County, Virginia. SIMON STACY (1640-1718)

Immigrating to Virginia in 1667, he rose from indentured servitude to become a prosperous planter and public servant, serving as constable, grand juror and church vestryman.

See page 66 of this book for full bio, sources and research notes.

Simon married Mary in 1672-1675 in England. Mary was born about 1650 in England and died in 1675-1684 in Calvert County, Maryland.

Simon's wife is named as Mary in his Maryland land patent of 1675.

Since they were already wed when they bought the land and indentured servants cannot marry, they must have been wed in England between the end of Simon's indenture (1672) and the move to Maryland (1675). She is not named among those transported by Robert Beverly/William Elliot with Simon, so they could not have been married in England prior to 1667.

Mary died in Calvert County, Maryland between 1675 and 1684.

Simon next married Elizabeth Kemp, daughter of Thomas Kemp and Margery Dutchess, before June 25, 1684 in Calvert County, Maryland. Elizabeth was born about 1663 in Calvert County, Maryland and died on April 14, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

Her existence is confirmed only through the birth record of her son Joseph in 1690 ("son of Simon by Elizabeth") and her death record, both in Charles Parish, York Co., Virginia. The death entry reads only "Elizabeth Stacy died April 14, 1718."

Elizabeth Stacy was very likely a daughter of Thomas Kemp (1621-1684).

January 27, 1675: Thomas Kemp was awarded land for transporting Richard Stacy from England twelve years earlier.

June 17, 1676: Mary Young Stacey of Calvert County, widow of William Stacey of Calvert County, was granted administration on his estate. Appraisers: Thomas Kemp, Thomas Lawson. William Groome to administer oath.

June 25, 1684: Simon Stacy was named guardian of orphans of the above Thomas Kemp in Prerogative Court in 1684 and administered his estate. English law at that time held that "the right of administration follows the right of property." Whoever was first in line to inherit from the estate was first in line to receive letters of administration. If the deceased left no surviving spouse, administration would go to the next of kin. If a daughter renounced administration, it could be granted to her husband. If no one in the family accepted the position, a significant creditor (someone owed money by the deceased) might be appointed administrator by the court. If no suitable administrator with an interest in the estate could be found, the court would have discretion to appoint a reputable, disinterested person to fill the role. Simon Stacy administering the estate of Kemp, strongly suggests he was likely son-in-law, particularly given his role as guardian of his orphans, the closeness of Kemp to the Stacy family evident in other records, and the fact that no creditors were named in the estate papers.

Another Thomas Kemp, probably a son, is found in Stafford County records in 1691 and 1692 and lived near Simon Stacy on Potomac Creek. This could explain why Simon is found in records in Stafford County court in 1691 and 1692—he may have been living with this likely brother-in-law. <https://www.colonial-settlers-md-va.us/getperson.php?personID=I048578&tree=Tree1>

While it remains possible that Kemp was the father of Simon's first wife Mary, it is less likely. Mary would have likely been born in the early 1650s, while Kemp was still a servant (and forbidden from marrying), and Kemp still had minor children at his death in 1684--none of his children seem to have been old enough to administer his will, strongly indicating they were all still minors born no earlier than 1663.

6. Richard Stacy (William<sup>1</sup>) was born in February 1644 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on February 11, 1644 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on April 14, 1674 in Patuxent Manor, Calvert County, Maryland.

Richard Stacy died unmarried and left all of his estate to Mary Stacy, wife of William, and one horse to William Stacy (will states he was from Patuxent Manor, Calvert County). Relationship to William not named in the will, signed April 14, 1674 and probated May 12. According to the probate records, Richard only lived "eight and forty hours" (eight hours, forty minutes) after publishing his will.

"Patuxent Manor" was an old estate on the east side of the Patuxent River in Calvert County, near what is now Lower Marlboro. The original house was gone and rebuilt by the 18th century. Richard had no estate in his will besides a "blackish mare" he left to William Stacy and some obliquely referenced "chattel" suggesting he may have been a servant to a wealthy landowner. He named no wife or children.

Maryland Prerogative Court Session of 1676:

January 1, 1676/7: Thomas Brown of Calvert County who married Mary, relict of William Stacey of same, petitioned to have Maj. Thomas Trueman of Calvert County release her son, Bazill Stacey.

Joseph Stacy's birth was recorded in Charles Parish Register, York County, Virginia: July 24, 1690, "son of Simon by Elizabeth."

Joseph Stacy witnessed two deeds involving James Bennett in York County court in November 1714.

York County Orders, Wills, #16, page 28

On March 20, 1720, Joseph Stacy was the plaintiff versus Robert Ross, defendant concerning a hunting saddle and furnishings to be sold by the defendant to the plaintiff in which plaintiff stated that if a certain Simon Stacy, who was dangerously sick at the time should die before the defendant departed this colony that the plaintiff would pay the defendant 5 pounds and the defendants did promise the plaintiff that if the said Simon Stacy was living at the time of his departure out of the country that the said saddle and furnishings would be delivered for nothing. Jury found that said Simon Stacy was living when defendant left the colony and that Simon Stacy died before May 28, 1720. Judgement was later in favor of the plaintiff Joseph Stacy, and Robert Ross had to return the items.

York County, VA deeds, Orders, Wills #16, pg. 75

September 21, 1721 we find that Joseph Stacy in another petition along with James Bond against Richard Homes and his wife Jane. "It is ordered that unless the defendants (Richard and James Homes) do give the plaintiffs good security to idemplify them by court from childrens part of the estate of James Bennett, deceased that they surrender to the plaintiffs estate as appraised by the former appraisement.

May 7, 1725: "Deed of Lease: Joseph Stacy of Charles Parish, York Co. planter and Mary his wife for 5 shillings leased unto James Sclater of same place gent all that 130 a. parcel of land which Simon Stacy father of the sd Joseph Stacy purchased of Robert Sheild Senr and Mary his wife in the Oak Swamp in parish formerly called New Poquoson Parish but now Charles Parish bounded by the land of Henry Hayward, land of John Nixon and land of John Eaton, being sold out of the original patent by Robert Calvert being pt/o 375 a. of land granted by patent to the sd Robert Calvert in 1687, 300 a. of the sd land being formerly taken up and patented by Wm Calvert and patented 26 Jan 1663, the other 75 a. taken up by the said Robert Calvert... for the term of one year paying the rent of one ear of Indian corn at the feast of St. Michael the Arch Angel now next ensuing if demanded."

[Note: The Wm. Calvert 300 acre grant was at the "head of New Poquoson River."
--Cavaliers & Pioneers]

Joseph Stacy died with no will, but his estate was appraised on January 12, 1726; the inventory, dated 1728, noted his estate was worth 28 pounds, 18 shillings. His death date was recorded in the Charles Parish register as January 5, 1726 (January 16, 1727 by the Gregorian Calendar).

The birth and death records of his children and many of his grandchildren can be found in Parish Records previously mentioned.

Joseph married Mary Bennett, daughter of James Bennett and Ann, about 1710. Mary was born about 1692 and died on December 20, 1751 in York County, Virginia.

Children from this marriage were:

12 M i. Simon Stacy was born on January 29, 1711 in York County, Virginia and died in 1784 in Sussex County, Virginia.

13 F ii. Elizabeth Stacy was born on January 11, 1713 in York County, Virginia and died on August 31, 1731 in York County, Virginia.

14 F iii. Sarah Stacy was born on February 17, 1716 in York County, Virginia and died on September 24, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

15 F iv. Mary Stacy was born on July 17, 1720 in York County, Virginia.

16 M v. John Stacy was born on December 15, 1722 in York County, Virginia and died in January-March 1770 in York County, Virginia.

17 M vi. Joseph Stacy was born on April 6, 1726 in York County, Virginia and died before 1785.

11. John Stacy (Simon<sup>2</sup>, William<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1692 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after October 11, 1750 of Stafford County, Virginia.

Not much is known about John Stacy Sr. due to the fact that most of the records that would have revealed the events of his life were burned during the Civil War. His existence can only be confirmed by three records, all from Stafford County:

Feb. 23, 1740: "John Stacey" named as witness to the last will and testament of John Warner (c.1680-1742), chief surveyor of Stafford County. Other witnesses were Richard Awbrey and James Phillips. The early date strongly suggests this is John Sr. John Warner was known to Peter Jefferson, father of Thomas, who noted his father described Warner as "an able mathematician." Warner's plantation, Canbury Park, bordered Bailey Washington's land to the west. Warner also surveyed the Manor of Leeds for Lord Fairfax in 1736.
<http://www.patc.us/history/archive/leeds.html>

Oct. 11, 1750: "Baily Washington is appointed Overseer of the Road from Aquia Warehouse to Mr. Ralls post below Aquia Run and is ordered to clear and keep the road in repair and that his Tithables, John Stacy, Simon Stacy, John Stacy Junr. Moses Lunsford, John Green, William Patter, Mason Combs, and Thomas Hurst clear the same and be exempt from other roads."
<http://www.virginiamemory.com/transcribe/scripto/transcribe/1228/3587>

Feb. 5, 1751/2: Overwharton Parish register entry: "Dorothy Stacey, Wife of John, Sr., died February 5, 1751."

He is called "John Stacey Sr." in this parish record, but it is unclear if he is still living, since the words "widow" or "relict" were never used in Overwharton register. However, a careful analysis of the register indicates it would typically say "wife of" if the husband was still living. By the Gregorian calendar this date would be Feb. 16, 1752, so John Stacy may have lived at least to that year. A John Stacy appears in later records of Stafford County through 1755 but it remains unclear if they refer to him or his son of the same name.

John Stacy Sr. is widely presumed to be a son of Simon and Elizabeth Stacy of York County, Virginia, since he named two of his own children Simon and Elizabeth and his presumed father lived in Stafford County in 1687-1692.

He had no birth recorded in Charles Parish, suggesting he may have been born while his parents were in Stafford County in 1691 or 1692. He likely grew up on the Stacy plantation on New Poquoson River in York County. According to the laws of primogeniture then in effect in Virginia, when a father died without a will his land was conveyed automatically to his eldest son. Given that Joseph Stacy inherited and later leased their father's property in York County, John was likely the younger of the two, and had to strike out on his own. At some point he moved to Stafford, possibly to join his Kemp relatives; a James Kemp was listed on the tobacco tenders list in Stafford County, south of Potomac Creek, in 1724. (<https://eservice.pwcgov.org/library/digitallibrary/PDF/1724%20Tobacco%20Tenders%20Lists%20Part1%20&%202.pdf>)

John married Dorothy about 1716. Dorothy died on February 5, 1751 in Stafford County, Virginia.

Overwharton Parish register, Stafford Co., Va.:

This seems to be the only record of her existence. Gregorian calendar date would be Feb. 16, 1752.

Children from this marriage were:

18 M i. Simon Stacy was born about 1718 in Stafford County, Virginia and died before September 8, 1762 in Frederick County, Virginia.

19 M ii. John Stacy Jr. was born about 1720 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after 1795 of Russell County, Virginia.

20 F iii. Catherine Stacy was born about 1725 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after October 12, 1765 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

21 F iv. Sarah Stacy was born about 1728 in Stafford County, Virginia and died after March 30, 1799 of Fauquier County, Virginia.

1. Thomas Kemp was born in 1621 in England and died in April 1684 in Calvert County, Maryland.

THOMAS KEMP (1621-1684)

Thomas Kemp was an Englishman transported to Maryland in 1651, likely as an indentured servant. He was thirty years old. (Liber Q: Folio18. MSA SC 4341)

Thomas may be related to William Kemp, who was transported to Maryland in 1660 and had land surveyed July 10, 1663 in Calvert County; and Robert Kemp, who was assigned a land warrant in 1678.
(<http://earlysettlers.msa.maryland.gov/>)

He seems to have gone back to England following the end of his indenture (c.1655-58), gotten married, and transported both himself and his wife to Maryland. He came back to Maryland with Richard Stacy in 1662 or 1663. Though it is not known if Margery Kemp came over on the same transport, it seems likely.

November 22, 1665: "Thomas Kemp of Patuxent demands land for transporting himself and Richard Lacy (Stacy) into this province. Warrant for one hundred acres dated et supra ret last of May next." (Liber EE: Folio 48. Transcript: 9:49 MSA SC 4341.)

An indentured servant named Thomas Hagleton was indentured to a Margery Dutchess in England and subsequently agreed to serve Thomas Kemp in Maryland for four years in 1671, with the term to expire in 1675. Kemp sold the indenture to Maj. Thomas Trueman who refused to release Hagleton (a black man) upon his release, prompting Hagleton to successfully sue Trueman in May 1676. Trueman punted responsibility back to Kemp, who argued that he cannot be sued as he was worth less than five pounds (1677).

--Archives of Maryland, Vol. 66., Preface 21.

This suggests that "Margery Kemp" may have originally been "Margery Dutchesse," or possibly her daughter. Dutchesse was described as a "Catholic woman in London."

“The second earliest surviving black freedom petition is that of Thomas Hagleton. Of all the seventeenth-century black Maryland freedom petitions, the Hagleton case is the most extensively documented, and, from that standpoint, it is the most important. Hagleton was born free of black parents in Southwark, England, sometime in the mid-seventeenth century. He was baptized an Anglican. By some unexplained train of events, he came into the service of a Catholic woman in London named Margery Dutchesse. He seems not to have been her slave, however. Madam Dutchesse apprenticed Hagleton to William Jordan, an alderman in Durham, England. Under Jordan's tutelage, Hagleton was to learn the "Trade of working Tobacco." Madam Dutchesse had young Hagleton rebaptized a Catholic while he was in Durham. Later, Jordan died and Hagleton returned to his mistress in London. In about 1671, she "consigned" him to a Thomas Kemp "to serve for the terme of foure years and no longer." Kemp brought Hagleton to Maryland and sold his indenture to Major Thomas Trueman. In May 1676, twelve years after the durante vita law of 1664, and one year after his indenture expired.”

Second Generation (Children)

2. Elizabeth Kemp (Thomas<sup>1</sup>) was born about 1663 in Calvert County, Maryland and died on April 14, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

Her existence is confirmed only through the birth record of her son Joseph in 1690 ("son of Simon by Elizabeth") and her death record, both in Charles Parish, York Co., Virginia. The death entry reads only "Elizabeth Stacy died April 14, 1718."

Elizabeth Stacy was very likely a daughter of Thomas Kemp (1621-1684).

January 27, 1675: Thomas Kemp was awarded land for transporting Richard Stacy from England twelve years earlier.

June 17, 1676: Mary Young Stacey of Calvert County, widow of William Stacey of Calvert County, was granted administration on his estate. Appraisers: Thomas Kemp, Thomas Lawson. William Groome to administer oath.

June 25, 1684: Simon Stacy was named guardian of orphans of the above Thomas Kemp in Prerogative Court in 1684 and administered his estate. English law at that time held that "the right of administration follows the right of property." Whoever was first in line to inherit from the estate was first in line to receive letters of administration. If the deceased left no surviving spouse, administration would go to the next of kin. If a daughter renounced administration, it could be granted to her husband. If no one in the family accepted the position, a significant creditor (someone owed money by the deceased) might be appointed administrator by the court. If no suitable administrator with an interest in the estate could be found, the court would have discretion to appoint a reputable, disinterested person to fill the role. Simon Stacy administering the estate of Kemp, strongly suggests he was likely son-in-law, particularly given his role as guardian of his orphans, the closeness of Kemp to the Stacy family evident in other records, and the fact that no creditors were named in the estate papers.

Another Thomas Kemp, probably a son, is found in Stafford County records in 1691 and 1692 and lived near Simon Stacy on Potomac Creek.

<https://www.colonial-settlers-md-va.us/getperson.php?personID=I048578&tree=Tree1>

While it remains possible that Kemp was the father of Simon's first wife Mary, it is less likely. Mary would have likely been born in the early 1650s, while Kemp was still a servant (and forbidden from marrying), and Kemp still had minor children at his death in 1684--none of his children seem to have been old enough to administer his will, strongly indicating they were all still minors born no earlier than 1663.

Elizabeth married Simon Stacy, son of William Stacy and Jane, before June 25, 1684 in Calvert County, Maryland. Simon was born in April 1640 in Swindon, Wiltshire, England, was christened on April 13, 1640 in Christ Church Parish, Swindon, Wiltshire, England, and died on January 23, 1718 in York County, Virginia.

3. Thomas Kemp Jr. (Thomas<sup>t</sup>) was born about 1665 in Calvert County, Maryland and died in April 1695 in Calvert County, Maryland.

Nov. 13, 1691: Will of Henry Thompson of Potomac Creek, Stafford Co., VA, Nov. 13, 1691: "Item I give and bequeath to THOMAS KEMP what Tobacco he is indebted to me & one pott & one fryinge pan."
